"Well Pleased, Keep it Up"

Wrote a Pennsylvania collector, as he sent me his check for $33.85 for stamps kept from one of my new selections valued at $50. When a collector buys nearly 75% of the stamps I send him, the quality and prices must be right.

If you are a general collector, you will find the stamps you are looking for, in my new books.

If you specialize, it will pay you to send me your want list, and let me make you a selection of your favorite country. No order too small, and none too large.

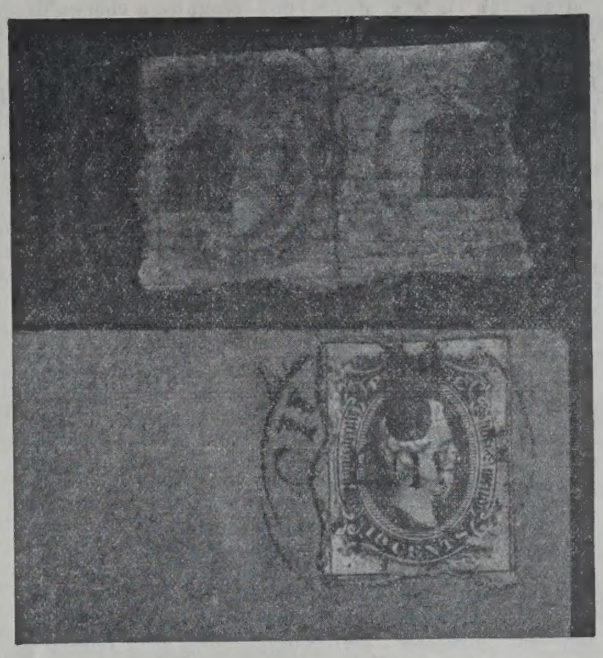
AN INTERESTING CONFEDERATE STATES COVER.



The recent acquisition of a cover, bearing a Confederate States 10c with "Outer" or "Frame Line" (Scott's No. 209) led to an interesting discovery. I noticed that the stamp was unusually thick, and upon moistening it, what was my surprise to find that it folded back, and was the left stamp of a pair, which had been stuck together.

Apparently, this is what had happened: The sender of the letter had carried this pair in his pocket (or possibly in the sweatband of his hat, where soldiers often carried their stamps) folded so that the gummed sides were together, and they had stuck fast so tightly that he couldn't get them apart. He had applied some paste to the face of one of them, and thus pasted them both on the letter, with only one stamp showing.

The top stamp is cancelled: "ORANGE C. H. Va.", and of course, the one pasted on is uncancelled. By good fortune, the unused copy shows the Outer Line practically complete on all four sides and the used one on all four also; it gives me a position in the plating I didn't have before, and it is, indeed, a fine item.

I see, from pencil notations on the face of the cover, that it had been examined by an expert in these stamps, and it must have passed through his hands before it came to me. I once found a 5c Mobile, under a General Issue Confederate stamp, and have heard of instances where stamps have been discovered under other stamps, but this is the first time I have ever seen a pair, "folded" in this manner. I'm lucky.

The two photographs show:

(1) Cover, as it originally was, when purchased.

(2) Cover, after "folding over" the top stamp.

UNITED STATES ISSUES IN BLOCKS OF FOUR

Have you had difficulty in securing certain of the United States 20th Century issues in blocks of four? Many of these are scarce. A recent purchase of a specialized collection of these issues makes it possible for me to supply practically all of the wanted denominations.

Remember, also, even though many of them are extremely scarce, I have a fine lot of blocks of the 19th Century issues.

Condition is up to the usual Colman standard. Prices are right and satisfaction guaranteed. Send your want list.

CHAPTER XIII.

Statistical Notes.

Before closing this monograph on the official government coil stamps, statistical notes gleaned from the reports of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing and the Third Assistant Postmaster General will be of interest. In going over these figures, it must be remembered that when the report shows that certain stamps were issued in a certain year, it does not necessarily follow that the stamps so issued were actually produced during that current year. In fact, the Bureau always issues its oldest stock on hand, and when you read that so many 4c coils were issued in such a year, it does not follow that they must be the stamps then current. It must also be borne in mind, that when the reports specify stamps of a certain issue, they refer to the design only for the Bureau in keeping its records does not recognize a change in perforation or a change in watermark as a new series.

In these notes, two sets of figures are shown for the 1c coils for the years 1912 to 1913. The upper figures refer to the number issued of the 1908 design, while the lower figures are the 1911 design. All of these values since 1913, are of the latter design. During 1912, in addition to those specified, four coils of 500 stamps each of the 1c denomination design of 1912, were turned over to the National Museum for the official collection:—

CHAPTER XIV.

Fakes and Other Oddities.

The fakes that were actually made in imitation of the government coil varieties to deceive the collector have been practically limited to the first issue, that is, the 1902 to 1903 design as well as to the 10c coil of the second issue. There have been numerous bogus copies of the so-called coil of 1908, 3c perforated 12, double line watermark, coiled both sidewise and endwise, but as the government never issued such a variety and as the stamp has been deleted from all responsible lists, we can forget this variety. As for the fakes of the first issue, these have been made by either trimming perforated copies or perforating the unperforated stamps. I have also seen some excellent fakes made from the booklet panes of these issues, for it will be recalled that these booklet panes from certain positions of the sheets had guide lines between the stamps and with the straight edge on one side of a strip the other side could be readily trimmed, and gives us what appears to be a line strip. These can be readily told for the booklet stamps of these issues had a double line watermark sidewise, whereas, the watermarks on the coils are always either straight or inverted. I have never seen a faked strip made from the unperforated stamp that could not be readily told by the peculiarities to be found in the government perforations due to the methods used in perforating sheets. I gave quite a few details regarding the distinguishing of the official work in a previous chapter, and will not go further into it at the present time. As for trimmed copies these are more difficult to distinguish, especially in the case of single copies, and I maintain that no one can definitely tell the good from the bad in single copies, consequently, if the strip does not show a guide line, it is necessary to know its antecedents in order to arrive at the conclusion as to its genuineness. Of course a line strip could not be made by trimming perforated copies, for it is at the guide line that the sheet stamps are cut apart.

Member Am. Stamp Dealers' Assn. 22 SO. 18TH ST., PHILA., PA.

I have seen fake stamps of all the varieties of the first series, the 10c of the 1908 series and the 1c and 2c of the 1910 varieties. There are on the market quite a few of these earlier varieties perforated 11½ and 12½ but these must not be confused with the official varieties which are one and all, in the case of the earlier issues, perforated 12.

Gibbons' Stamp Circular for February, 1918, mentions the 2c design of 1912, perforated 12, but this can be nothing more than a trimmed strip or one made from the unperforated sheet as the machines for perforating coils were changed from 12 to 8½ long before the die for the 1912 issue was even made.

The philatelic papers during the latter part of 1918, mention a pair of the 50c perf. 10 coiled sidewise cancelled St. Paul. I knew before I had the pleasure of inspecting this pair that it could not be a coil variety, for the government has never issued any other varieties than those mentioned in this article. A close inspection of the pair, however, showed that it was a straight edge pair trimmed at the bottom. I simply mention these two varieties in passing, for it is quite possible that they may come to light again at some future date.

Another fake that deserves more than passing mention is the 1c single line watermark, perforated 12, between every other pair. The American Philatelist for April 15, 1916, Vol. XXIX, No. 14, page 162, in speaking of this as a government issue says "Early in 1916, it was discovered that coils of the 1c No. 338b has been issued to a mailing firm in the West in imperforate pairs. About 630 stamps or 315 pairs, representing one and one-fourth coils, were offered to a dealer as the remnant of the lot issued to this mailing firm, the remainder having been used for business purposes. The writer has not been able to ascertain whether they were issued on order or through error in perforating. These imperforates have the usual guide line and joint every twenty stamps."

When this variety was first offered by two well known dealers I obtained a strip and sent it to the Bureau well knowing that such a coil could not have been made through error, and that if it was made by the Bureau, which it certainly did not appear to be, they would, of course, have records of changing the perforating machine. The Bureau stated absolutely, that the variety was not issued by them, and I gave full detail in a short article which appeared in the Philatelic Gazette for May, 1916, Vol. V. No. 81, page 147. Stanley Gibbons, Inc., listed the variety on page 30 of the first edition of their check list of Twentieth Century United States Stamps. I made several efforts to learn the history of this fake without results until one day I ran into two used strips bearing the cancellation of a small Texas town. As these strips came from the correspondence of a philatelist, and as I knew but one dealer in this small town, I assumed that they had been used by him, and consequently wrote to learn as to their history. Fortunately, I found that they had come from him, and he stated that he never supposed they were a government issue. It seems that the variety is made from the unperforated coil, and from what I am informed the work was done in Mexico. I have been told by a third party, whether the fact is true or not, I cannot say, that these were purposely made to sell at a good price to a certain dealer to pay off an old grudge. The variety never had a right to a place as even a private perforated stamp for a vending machine, much less an official government issue.

MRS. MANNING SUCCEEDS J. B. LEAVY.

We are able to announce that on Dec. 16 Mrs. Catherine L. Manning of Washington, was appointed philatelist in the U. S. National Museum to succeed the late Joseph B. Leavy. Mrs. Manning will enter upon the performance of her duties on January 3. The new "philatelist" is not a stranger to the task, for the original Museum work prior to Mr. Leavy's appointment was temporarily in her hands. H. F. Colman, her employer, loaned her services to the National Museum for the work in hand.

A prominent Washington philatelist who has known Mrs. Manning for years, writing us concerning the appointment bestows upon her this unsolicited testimonial:—

"Mrs. Manning has been in Mr. Colman's employ for about fifteen years and for two years preceding she was employed in the Washington establishment of J. M. Bartels. She has admirable qualifications for the work to which she has been called, not only in technical knowledge but unfailing industry and strict integrity. She is an acute observer and an intelligent student of postal issues. The appointment is a worthy one. A position of that kind calls for a person first of all of unusual moral worth—absolute, unflinching and unswerving honesty—and in this Mrs. Manning is entitled to one hundred percent credit."

The philatelists of the country will doubtless be warmly welcomed by Mrs. Manning when on their visits to Washington they make a call upon the Museum collection.

A. S. D. A. AND SHUT-INS.

W. F. Slusser, secretary of the American Stamp Dealers' Association sends out a report in connection with the Christmas gifts of stamps to philatelic shut-ins. We find that no fewer than eleven different people were remembered with substantial gifts, ranging all the way from $7 catalog value. Some 5,764 stamps were distributed, with an approximate catalog value of $317.90. The most sizable gifts came from C. S. Watson Co., $55.00; W. F. Slusser, $34.65; F. W. Reid, $24.00; H. S. Doherty, $20.81; Chas. Murley, $20.08 and Theodore Siddall, $20.00.

Secretary Slusser is grateful for the assistance that has been rendered and announces that numerous letters of grateful acknowledgment will doubtless be received, even as they were last year.

THE BUCK-EYE MATCH STAMPS.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

Barber Match Co.

1c Blue.

This firm was a Buck-Eye State corporation which succeeded to the business previously operated by Barber & Peckham. Mr. O. C. Barber continued to be identified with it, and was still a power in the Diamond Match Co. at the time of his death in 1920. The following clipping is from the New York Sun of February 26, 1920.

"AKRON, OHIO, Feb. 25.—Leaving an estate valued at approximately $4,500,000, Ohio C. Barber, late 'match king' of Barberton, provided for a new institution to be known as the Ohio C. Barber Agricultural and Industrial School in his will, filed to-day."

The stamp used by the Barber Match Co. was the fourth die of the Buck-Eye series and was made from the die of Geo. & O. C. Barber by changing the firm name to that of the new corporation.

The Boston Book gives the following data:—

Die approved, May 7, 1867.
First issued, June 7, 1867.
Last issued, March 27, 1883.
22,709,931 issued on old paper.
66, 848, 874 issued on silk paper.
280,880,696 issued on pink and wmkd. paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

The total issue of this stamp, i. e., 370,839,501, represented a total net tax of three and a half million dollars for about sixteen years, or over $200,000.00 per year.

The first plates were made by Butler & Carpenter and all the stamps on old paper were printed in Philadelphia. Many of the silk stamps were also printed in Philadelphia. The remainder of the printings on silk paper, and all of those on pink paper were made by the National Bank Note Company of New York. Printings on watermarked paper were made by the National Bank Note Company, by the American Bank Note Company and by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing. Altogether there probably were in the neighborhood of 30 or 40 plates used for this stamp, and quite likely some of these plates were made by each of the various organizations who printed the stamps. In most cases it is impossible to identify the printings of many of the stamps on silk and watermarked paper. On rare occasions printings can be identified by imprints and there are no doubt specimens showing guide lines are Bureau printings. The imprint most frequently found is that of the National Bank Note Company of the first type.

At least one of these plates became badly worn before it was discarded, and specimens on which many of the finer lines of the design are very faint, or entirely missing, are occasionally seen. These occur on both silk and watermarked paper. One of the plates which shows the most signs of wear was probably re-entered as there are marked indications of shifting of certain parts of the design. On some of these stamps the shift is most noticeable in the words Middlebury, Summit Co. The colorless letters of these words are thinner on the re-entered designs than on the normal stamps.

There is no great variation in the shade of the Barber Match Co. 1c and most of the variation found is probably due to the condition of the plate and the impression, rather than to marked difference in the color of the ink. There is a lighter impression found on watermarked paper which has a suggestion of ultramarine, but this is certainly not the true ultramarine of 1869, and the writer has not seen a satisfactory copy of true ultramarine on old paper. The fact that the Barber stamp was printed in large quantities in 1869 and 1870 does not necessarily mean that it must have been printed in ultramarine. The ultramarine ink was in use only a very short time on match stamps, perhaps only a week or two, and it could readily happen that no 1c Barber plate was put to press just at that time.

This stamp is rarely found cancelled. The commoner cancellation is

BMCo
Ju 1867

This occurs both normal and inverted and there are several varieties of type, the capital letters of which vary from 1½ to 2 mm. tall. The only other overprint noted is which also is in black and is placed vertically on the stamp. It is much larger than the previous surcharge and the capital letters are 3 mm. high. This overprint has been noted on silk paper, but as the silk paper did not come into use until about September 1, 1871, it probably also exists on old paper and was used for several months without changing the date.

B M Co
April 1, 71

The silk and watermarked Barber Match Co. 1c stamps are very common. The pink paper is scarcer and for many years fine specimens have sold at 25c to 40c each. The old paper is scarcer than the pink and has been quoted at 75c to $1.00 most of the time since 1896. Good copies sell around 50c, and 75c will often buy a fine copy.

The Barber stamp has been listed on watermarked paper rouletted ever since 1888. The price of this variety gradually increased from $5.00 to $25.00, which latter has been the figure since 1902. The writer has yet to see a copy which satisfies him as being perfectly genuine. There are copies in existence which appear to be rouletted—quite a few of them—but most of them are certainly faked from the common perforate stamp, and the others are questionable. Until a pair can be found it would seem better to class this rouletted stamp among the doubtful varieties.

3c Black.

The fifth stamp of the Buck-Eye series is a strip stamp and was made by altering the 3c die of Barber & Peckham. The only changes are in the curved labels at either side of the portrait, which now read "Barber" at left and "Match Co." at right.

The Boston Book gives the following data:—

Die approved, May 7, 1867.
First issued, July 8, 1867.
Last issued, November 24, 1875.
5,956,650 issued on old paper.
9,963,307 issued on silk paper.
44 stamps per sheet (2x22).

The stamp was engraved and printed by the Carpenter firm in Philadelphia, and the total number issued indicates there were six or more plates. Without doubt, those issued after August 31, 1875, were from the supply which Mr. Carpenter turned over to the Government upon the expiration of his contract. This supply amounted to 953,260 stamps and would have been amply sufficient to fill the requirements of the Barber firm after August 31, 1875.

The old paper variety of this stamp has tended to become scarcer and increase in value steadily. This is due partly to the small supply known to exist, and partly to the desire of collectors for more perfect specimens. Only a small proportion of the stamps on old paper are without defects, and as the stamp has been advanced in price only 50c since 1901, the present quotation of $3.00 is moderate. The silk paper is much easier to obtain and when found is often in more satisfactory condition.

For MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

NOTES ON EARLY POSTAL ACTIVITES IN CANADA.

By H. M. MACLEAN.

The Canadian Postal service began in 1750 and at that time was part and parcel of the system that came under control of Benjamin Franklin, then Deputy P. M. General of North America, with a salary of $1500 per annum. In 1774, Franklin was recalled and the stand that he took when the war of Independence broke out eliminated him from our story.

In the eighteenth century, up to the year 1780, there was only one post a month from Quebec to Montreal, but this was changed to a semi-weekly service in 1780.

Mails from Lower Canada to Upper Canada were dispatched from Montreal about once a month to Prescott, situated on the St. Lawrence River. From this place they were relayed to Kingston on Lake Ontario or on to York (now Toronto). The distance from Montreal to Prescott, some 98 miles, was generally covered by stage or courier, but sometimes was sent by ship and canoe, as is evidenced by a cover sent in 1803 to Augusta Post Office stamped SHIP in orange, rate 9 pence.

The first P. M. of Augusta Post Office was John Jones, who received his appointment in the year 1798.

At this time there were Post Offices at the following places, with rates from Prescott, as follows:

East Williamsburg,	4½d
Smiths Falls—30 miles,	4½d
Packenham,	1/0
London, Ont.,	1/2
Port Sarnia,	1/4
Kingston—55 miles,	4½d
Hick's Corners,	4½d
York,	1/1
Kempville,	4½d
Niagara,	1/4
Warrenville,	9d
Ramsey,	7d
Bye Town (Ottawa),	9d

One cover is noted stamped in orange "Sailing Packet" from Bye Town (Ottawa) to Prescott.

Carleton Place,	1/2
Perth,	4½d
Belleville,	4½d
Etc.

The above, of course, are not nearly all the stations that were open, but we quote these to show rates and comparison.

A letter mailed from Halifax to Prescott cost 1/4d in the year 1808, and Quebec to Augusta, 1/2d in 1834.

Various stamps and various colored inks were used, for instance:

Hick's Corners, orange.
(York, or "City of Toronto"), black.
Quebec, orange.
Kempville, orange.
Belleville, black.
London, orange, etc.

Many curious and various stamps were used, as in Warrenville, as late as 1859 (8 years after stamps were issued) a paid stamp was used, showing a plain large letter 3 inside a small circle. Smith Falls in 1852 used a somewhat similar rate stamped envelope with the words "Paid 3d" printed in two lines enclosed in a circle.

We also note one example of a cover posted from the U. S. via Niagara bearing the following: "American Postage Carriage Forwarded."

In 1845 Montreal used a stamp "Montreal, Paid," year, Canada, printed in five lines in orange, also a Government business stamp FREE. Montreal, a little later, changed her stamp to read "PAID 3" in a single line for ordinary letters.

Another curious cover is one from Montreal marked "Special courier" and stamped in large orange lettering: "Money Letter.—1848."

Evidence also goes to show a regular line of packets between York (Toronto) and Prescott, as we have seen covers which passed over this route stamped "Ship"; one was dated 1803 and the rate was 2/4d.

Many and varied are the examples existing and space does not allow of our giving a detailed check list. The difficulties and dangers that were associated with mail carrying in the olden days are hardly comprehensible to the present generation, but it is due partly to this humble start that we have the great system of today, co-operating with all countries.

PRECANCEL PARAGRAPHS.

By FREDERICK ALLEN.

Marshalltown, Iowa, Type 1, appears on the 2c Pilgrim in normal and reading-down positions. It is stated that there were only 40 surcharged in the former position, while there are several thousand of the latter.

A clerk in the post-office at Kansas City, Kans., informed a friend of mine that the 1c Pilgrim had not been precancelled by that office, which is contrary to a recent report.

A rare Victory hails from Kearney, Nebr. Kearney has used two distinct types of this issue. First, a rubber stamp similar to U-8, and secondly, a neat electro. The rubber printed stamps are very rare, as but a few reached the hands of collectors. The electros are somewhat more plentiful, but still retain a degree of exclusiveness. The 1c Pilgrim has been precancelled in the U-8 type, reading up, and if you do not believe these to be few and far between, just try to annex one to your collection of Pilgrims.

The Knoxville precancels spoken of last month are claimed to be O. K. by the Assistant Postmaster.

New Ulm, Minn., appears on the current issue in a rubber-stamped overprint similar to U-1.

Rahway, N. J., has precancelled the Victory and Pilgrim issues with a handstamp similar to U-13. I have seen the Victory with normal and inverted positions, the 1, 2, 5c Pilgrim in the normal, the 1c and 5c inverted, and 2c down. They are purported to be very scarce.

New Pilgrims are Grand Rapids 2c normal, Seattle, Wash., 2c normal, Glens Falls, N. Y., 2c down, Waukesha, Wis., 1, 2, 5c down, and Pawtucket, R. I., 1c double normal.

Lemont, Ill., appears on the 1c in a pretty electro which is a mate to Brooklyn's new type.

Rockland, Mass., and Shelby, Ohio, are new towns using precancels. Rockland is U-11, while Shelby has a type similar to U-16.

Whitman, Mass., 1c comes in red ink.

EDITORIAL.

Point—One of our oldest readers has sent us an interesting letter which contains a sage observation or two. He says that in his estimation there is just one way to spread the gospel of philately, and that is not by lip-service but by taking the time to explain the attractions of collecting and by illustrating the remark by stamps themselves, to persons who are in one's circle of friends and acquaintances. While love's labor will be lost in the majority of cases, he says, yet here and there the arrow will hit the bull'seye. We commend the opinion of our correspondent and say that his words call for action, as it is true that many of us do not properly cultivate the philatelic possibilities near at hand; and we must amend our ways. However, we disagree with the idea that printed publicity is not a valuable adjunct, as we have found that collectors have been made through press notices and descriptive articles. While we believe in the idea of personal contact, we know that other methods have their effectiveness.

Asked—Why are collectors so often told to proclaim the merits of philately broadcast is a question that comes occasionally from those who think that undue insistence is placed upon the necessity for gaining converts. Of course there is a material background for this repetition as the upbuilding of philately is to the advantage of all by stabilizing stamp values and strengthening the pursuit otherwise. Yet we wager that the missionary work is done in great part by those who are above selfish considerations and who have no thought of any personal gain. The answer to the question is that with not a few collectors the satisfaction that they have in collecting is enhanced when they try to share it with others. They are of that proper mould that allows them to find happiness in trying to make others pleased. A firm faith in philately predisposes one to talk convincingly in its favor.

Cover—Elsewhere, we hope to illustrate an interesting doubled ten cent "outer line" Confederate that was discovered by Mr. Edward S. Knapp, who for some time has been studying this ten cent with frame lines in all its suggestions. It is true that Mr. Knapp has gathered together a host of the stamps in question, speaking comparatively, but the scope of his inquiries enlarges in ratio to the quantity of material that he may examine. We shall have occasional notes from Mr. Knapp on Confederates whose historical phases by no means have been exhausted and in this connection we think that it would be fair for us to ask readers who have ten-cent outer lines in particular, to submit them to Mr. Knapp for purposes of completing his record so far as possible. Mr. Knapp certainly will give all such specimens proper treatment. The name is Edward S. Knapp; and the address is 158 East 64th street, New York City.

Fraud—An interesting letter has come from Buenos Ayres telling of a highly disastrous postal fraud that has been perpetrated at the expense of the Argentine authorities. It is said that the five-cent stamp with portrait of General San Martin, is no longer available for postage, because of the Counterfeiting on a large scale of the stamp at the expense of the government. In fact, we read that the stamp has been withdrawn from circulation; and it would seem that the ranks of the stamps that were made for the purpose of defrauding the postal authorities has received an accession.

Worry—It is hoped that the controversies that have been occasioned by the consignment of approval lots to collectors and others in this country by some of the dealers of central Europe are being adjusted. The stamps were sent unsolicited and in some instances were directed to old addresses, thus complicating the transaction. A good many collectors feel strongly on the question of unsolicited approvals and do not abate from their decision not to return them when postage for the purpose is not enclosed. In the lapse of time, it is reasonable to suppose that some of the lots become mislaid and some even lost; and the result is general dissatisfaction, to put it mildly. It would be interesting to measure in dollars and cents the total losses that have been sustained by the venturesome dealers, who, in some instances, acted in good faith. We are tired of receiving intimations that the American collectors have suffered greatly through this fiasco as we know that in some instances our buyers here, in order to keep the slate clean, went to some expense to return unwanted lots. The hap-hazard methods of the senders invited the disaster that resulted and in the aggregate what may be called natural causes are to be blamed for the disappearance of some of the stamps.

Cause—In the Chicago newspapers there appeared recently a news item that caught the eye of collectors in particular. We quote from the Post of that city. Under the head, "Time, Money for Stamps; Neglects Family, Charge," were the lines: "Charging that her husband, an insurance broker, spends her money and his own for additions to his stamp collection, Mrs. Edith R. Eagleston, 1443 East 69th street, filed suit for divorce today. She says her husband devotes his evenings to his stamps, never entertaining his family." Mr. Eagleston is a member of the Chicago Philatelic Society, we may add, and the charges preferred, which his friends hope will be refuted, came as a surprise. We shall not comment upon this case but it should be known that this is not the first time that stamps were blamed for the "breaking up of the home." Once before there was a suit instituted by a wife on the score that the collector-husband wasted his money on stamps but we have forgotten the outcome of it. On the other hand, there are scores of wives who speak of stamps as a contributing cause of happiness in the home. Philately is essentially an in-door recreation and the confirmed collector has little inclination to wander from his own fire-side. Further, the collector is apt to be a human sort of chap who is disposed to treat his partner all the more liberally in every way as a reward of wifely toleration for his pets. One collector says that he matches the amount of money spent for stamps as a gift to his wife. However, the day is gone when the stamp collection is to be regarded only as a liability and the wise husband is he who explains to his wife the value of his stamp possessions and takes steps to prevent their dissipation after death. While we do not advise that stamps should take the place of life insurance by any means, it is possible to conserve the value of the collection by proper provisions for its sale, after death, to the comfort of the widow.

APPREHENSION OF PARKER.

Our news story last week dealing with the arrest of one Burton Parker on account of the alleged use of the mails to defraud contained the name of Elliott Perry. It appears that Parker used the stationery of the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Conn. He addressed his letter to Mr. Perry to Plainfield, N. J., instead of Westfield. The letter was therefore returned to New Haven and the correspondence was placed in the hands of a P. O. Inspector. The arrest of Parker followed, the letter to Perry being used as evidence that the mails were apparently being employed in an attempt to defraud. The alias used was J. D. Anderson.

Remember "The Home of the Postage Stamp" is "all that the name implies." We want YOUR FRIENDSHIP.

A SNAPSHOT OF EDWIN B. HILL.

Without consulting our friend who has contributed frequently to our columns, we take the liberty of having a halftone made from a snapshot enclosed in a recent letter. It may be a stamp book that Mr. Hill is so industriously engaged in perusing. Anyway, he is very much engrossed, as is evident from his studious pose.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Beaver Dam, Wis., post-office, began the use of precancelled stamps Dec. 19. of all denominations from 1c to $1. The cancellation on the 1c stamp shows the name of the city and state on two lines respectively, horizontally, with heavy rules above and below.

—There is a letter at this office for D. L. Hurwitz. Please communicate with us. Our mail list is not arranged alphabetically, hence our inability to locate subscribers' addresses.

—At the recent election of the Electric Club of Philadelphia, held in December, Philip H. Ward, Jr., was elected president.

—Allen Sears, Inc., 507 Kemper Bdg., Kansas City, Mo., has just issued a fine pricelist of stamps, packets, sets, albums and supplies, featuring especially the new album recently placed on the market by this firm. The pricelist is well printed and will be sent free of charge together with a new perforation gauge that the firm is now distributing.

—Edwin P. Seebohm sets a good example to our dealer friends by sending in new subscriptions in a lump form to the value of $5. Is it any wonder that we are willing to quote this paragraph from the letter accompanying the remittance:—

"My auction was held in the Waldorf Restaurant, this building, with J. J. Searle as auctioneer. Big success. 239 mail bidders. 60 on floor. I served coffee, sandwiches, cakes, etc., during an intermission. No objections. The best item sold was a pair of the 5 cents, 1851, big margins but pen-cancelled. It sold for $56.50. A fine copy of the 90c, 1869, with red canc. sold for the unusually high price of $32.10!"

—We have received an announcement giving particulars of the birth of a son, Edward Maurice Loly, to Mr. and Mrs. Victor G. Loly. Congratulations.

—J. Cavalos kindly submits a specimen of a Greek Red Cross stamp, showing a wounded soldier with one arm in a sling against a background of a cross in red. The stamp is printed in four colors, black, orange, red and blue and is a handsome production. The value is 5 lepta and it has no postal standing.

—Our reference to D. O. Tubbs on page 709 calls forth from C. F. Richards the comment that he was reported as "bad" in the Protective Bulletin, July 11.

—We have received a clipping from the Minneapolis Journal which features Victor W. Rotnem, who has done a great deal in creating an interest in the collecting of precancelled stamps. The article pictures Mr. Rotnem as poring over his album of freak stamps and no fewer than twelve freak stamps are illustrated. All in all, the article gives Mr. Rotnem a good deal of favorable publicity.

DEATH OF ROBERT BOWEN.

Herbert Bowen, a well-known Detroit attorney and philatelist, died Dec. 17. His funeral was held on Dec. 20. He had been ill for some years.

The death of Mr. Bowen removes from the city one of its best known philatelists, whose collecting interest goes back many years and during which time he had collected a wonderful lot of stamps, including many choice and unique varieties. As a side-line he specialized in tax paids of all kinds.

Some years ago, when the late Henry B. Smith had a stamp and coin store on Randolph Street, Mr Bowen was a regular visitor and many a collector will testify to his sympathetic interest in the younger collector and his philatelic work.

He was a member of the A.P.S. and served on its official board some years ago. He was one of the organizers of the Detroit Philatelic Society and was a member of the U. S. Revenue Society. Mr. Bowen was seventy-seven years old and for fifty-five years had been a practising attorney, coming to Detroit in 1866, where he became an authority on real estate. He contributed largely to the Public Library and a branch of the same bears his name. He was a member of the Prismatic and Acanthus Clubs. He leaves a widow and four children.

We are indebted to Mr. Boers for the above information and he expresses the great loss that Detroit has experienced in the death of Mr. Bowen, also Mr. Cornell recently noted.

THE ARROW APPROVALS
Neat little books of attractive stamps, arranged alphabetically, and with a wonderful showing of desirable and hard-to-get stamps. All prices are reasonable, and our variety is such as to please you. Stamps from 1c to many dollars each, according to what you require. When sales amount to several dollars on each selection and returns are prompt, we naturally try pretty hard to please, but the smaller buyer gets good attention, just the same. Pikers and the fellow who is petty don't get much show with us, but the real collector who is fair and reasonable is met more than half way and every effort to please is made. Why don't you and we get acquainted?

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith), W.Somerville,44,Mass.

Nippon—("Rice Country")

This very interesting country is strongly represented among the scarce and unusual issues I can supply. Substantial discounts are in effect on good to very fine copies—both used and unused—commencing with Scott No. 1 and covering all issues up to 1914.

Particular attention is called to the fine lot of 1874-75 issues with syllabic characters, which include the rare 20 sen red-violet—(Scott No. 30)—and most of the commoner stamps.

There is a quaintness and charm about the Japanese stamps with which more collectors should be acquainted. True, counterfeits exist in too great abundance, but the stamps I offer are genuine originals and fully guaranteed. Selections submitted on approval to responsible collectors.

A GILT EDGE INVESTMENT

It is my personal opinion that for the man of moderate means there are few better investments today than late United States in fine mint blocks of four. Someone will say immediately that late issues cannot compare with the early ones. I, too, sincerely believe that fine early things will continue to rise, but remember that early issues have had their big jumps and they are in line for gradual increases only. It is not so with blocks from 1880 on. Most of these may still be had with a little expenditure and those that are scarce have only become difficult to obtain within the last few years, as the demand has begun to increase. Early issues are going higher right along, and in a few years a larger number will be forced to collect the later issues, resulting in very substantial jumps. Why one stamp in the previous issue sells in a block at three to four times catalogue or about twenty times face. A great number of other blocks that could be had a few years ago for a dollar or two are now bringing five or ten, and many more are getting into these classes.

The larger part of my stock consists of late mint blocks, and I have spent my money that way for I believe from year to year they will show the greatest returns. If you want to start a block collection or desire to fill in your gaps, I can no doubt supply them. If you have but a dollar a week, put it in blocks, for when you are through you will have something worth while.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—In my Chronicle for last week I described the new 1c plates being turned out by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in accordance with an invention covered by a patent granted to the Chief Engraver, Mr. George U. Rose, Jr. These plates are classified by the Bureau as "ordinary-electro" and it is claimed that impressions from these plates cannot be distinguished from the work from the steel engraved article.

I have before me a copy of the letters patent granted Mr. Rose under date of November 22, 1921, which bears number 1,397,785 and if any of our readers desire copies they may be obtained by sending ten cents in cash to the Commissioner of Patents, Washington, D. C. Remember, however, that the Patent Office will not accept stamps in payment but must have cash or a money order.

The patent is granted under the heading of "Electrotype Material and Method of Forming Same", and we are told that the invention relates generally to electrotype materials and more particularly to materials from which printing plates are made, the inventor's object being the provision of a material which may be electro-deposited and which will compare favorably in strength and durability with the hardened steel plates now being used by the Bureau.

As I have explained in a previous Chronicle printing plates heretofore have been made by what is known as the transfer process, each plate being made from a roller which has previously received its impression from a master die. Each printing plate must be so fashioned from a roller and then hardened before use and the process involving as it does, considerable hand work and skill, is both expensive and time consuming to such an extent that plates at the Bureau cannot, under the former method, be finished in the required number.

The electro-depositing process of forming printing plates is known and according to this process a previously transferred plate is used for electro-deposition of a positive plate by the subsequent use of which any number of negative printing plates may be made.

Heretofore copper generally has been used involving but a single transfer but it is found that plates made in this way have a very limited demand because they are not of sufficient strength to permit of their use for the printing of stamps and the like, where impressions are to be made in considerable number.

Mr. Rose's method aims to produce by electro-deposition a plate that will compare favorably in strength with hardened steel. He finds through observation that the weakness of the electro-deposited copper is due to the greatly increasing crystals formed in the metal as the deposit thickens. He therefore varies the known method to the extent that copper is electro-deposited in separate layers, 10 to the full thickness of the material and in such a manner that each new layer breaks up the growth of these crystals. He also finds that by interposing between these copper layers a different material, such as nickel, that he can add to the tensile strength of the finished product by virtue of the relatively greater strength of nickel.

Twelve claims are allowed Mr. Rose by the Commissioner of Patents, but as these are purely legal it is useless to reproduce them here.

Mention has been made in this column before of the fact that during September, 1921, quite a few plates turned out for producing the 2c off-set or surface printed stamps had been cancelled without going to press. Several of our readers have asked for a list of these plates and consequently the information is herewith given. Plates 13144, 13146 to 13155, as well as 13165 to 13168, were all cancelled on September 16, 1921. On September 19th, eleven more, from 13169 to 13177 in addition to 13179 were cancelled. On the following day 13180 to 13193, with the exception of 13186, were cancelled. Accordingly only twelve plates, between numbers 13144 to 13193, ever went to press, these twelve being 13145, 13156 to 13164 inclusive, 13178 and 13186. Consequently these twelve are the last 2c off-set plates used and plate 13186 is the one that every specialist will want for it is the last plate used by the Bureau made by this method.

The Scott Stamp and Coin Company has shown me a most unusual block, no doubt unique, of the 30c 1869, on double paper. It is a block of eight (4 x 2) from the northwest corner showing margins at top with the imprint of the "National Bank Note Company" and margins at the left. The block which has full gum is without grill and is in a deep color similar to the ungrilled variety of the same stamp, Scott's No. 121a. This will probably rank as a variety of No. 121a and it is possibly one of the earliest experiments of the National Bank Note Company with double paper.

ALBANIA.—The Bulletin Mensuel announces the following stamps of the 1920 issue, with the surcharge "Besa": 2q, 5q, 10q, 25q, 50q and 1f.

AUSTRALIA.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of the appearance of the ½d postage due stamp perforated 14.

BAVARIA.—Mr. E. J. Crawford calls our attention to a pair of 50pf stamps that he has, No. 262, in which one of the copies has acquired a "fox tail" ornament which entirely hides the "5" in "50".

COLOMBIAN REPUBLIC.—Mr. A. H. Shisler writes as follows: "I have just received a new variety of this country. The value is 3c and is rather bright green in color. Republic de Colombia at the top, value in small circles at each side beneath, Correos reading up and L. Nacionales reading down, R. Tres centavos at bottom. The centre is similar to type A93 with six small stars above bird's head. The wording Provisional is in a tablet same as type A120. All figures and numerals are white except Provisional."

DANZIG.—The Bulletin Mensuel chronicles a set of three stamps evidently of a charity nature as they have the words "Tuberkulose Woche" at the base and we are informed sold at double their nominal value. The values are 30p green and orange, 60p carmine and bistre and a 1m20p blue and yellow. The latter value is of the same design but somewhat larger in size.

DENMARK.—The Stamp Inn calls our attention to the 60ö stamp which is now being printed in a greenish blue shade.

DOMINICA.—Mr William M. McFarlan advises that the 1½d stamp mentioned in a recent issue is a regular issue with wording at the base "1½d One Penny Half Penny 1½d". The figures are in each lower corner.

ICELAND.—Mr. W. T. Wilson has shown us the 25a of the Christian IX stamp surcharged "20 aur." in two lines in black. Also the following values of the Christian X type in the new Postal Union Colors: 10a green, 25a red and 40a indigo.

PHILATELIC COMMENT.

By R. ROBERTS.

New Issues.—The New Issues of British Colonials have been more plentiful of late owing to the changes taking place in the papers and watermarks of many K.G. issues which have synchronised with the advent of several new line engraved, pictorial and other new plates which have of necessity been made.

The New Script.—There are a few people who aver that these new issues, pictorial and otherwise, are "made for collectors, unnecessary and so forth," but I would remind these popular plagiarists that everything that is used for any length of time has a tendency to wear out, even dandy rolls, and the old multiple C.A. paper has been in use since 1904—some 17 years' service—and when it is considered that the same dandy roll is used for the watermarks of all the mult. C.A. paper, for all the Crown Colonies. Who can in this respect accuse the authorities of extravagance in ordering a new one.

"Well done, good and faithful Dandy Roll," would be more appropriate, if we did know how many tons of paper had passed over this poor frail frame of wire and received the impress of its forms during this lengthy period.

Perhaps some statistician could add to the laurels of the Dandy Roll by calculating the distance that would be covered by a line formed of the stamps that have been issued multiple C.A., placed end to end vertically.

How many times would this roll variety encompass the earth—(no prize is offered for the solution).

To the old, let us breathe our "Requiescat," and to the new a welcome royal, "Le 'roll' est mort, Vive le roll!"

But the plagiarist says, if a new Dandy roll was necessary why not make one the same as the old. Change, whether for better or worse, is but a step onwards.

It might have been attempted to make a new watermark similar to the old, but the chances are that had this been done some enterprising philatelist would have discovered that the angle of the "A" in the new one differed from that of the old by "n" degrees, which would have caused collectors much strain on the temper and patience and eyesight, there are no varieties more difficult to detect than minute differences in watermark. So really the collector has something to be thankful for in that the new watermark cannot be confused with the old. A really providential fact.

The duty plates of many Colonial stamps are also showing signs of wear, which is really not surprising—some having been in use over thirty years; the Queen Victoria head plate having been substituted in turn by those of King Edward and King George, the same frame plate being used through the three reigns in combination with the three different head plates, e.g., Leeward Is., etc.

Some of the line engraved plates are also rather worn, as the same duty plates are sometimes used with different head plates, e.g., the new Queen Salote Tabou head plate on Tonga has been substituted to the old head of King Geo. II, with the same frame plates in the 2d, 2½d, 5d, 7½d, 10d and 1/- values. Another economy in Department circles which is quite refreshing.

When all of these facts are taken into consideration one rather doubts if the criticisms as to the unnecessary issues of some Colonials are quite justifiable.

Meanwhile the steady stream of new script watermarks and provisional papers continues slowly but surely—it is just as well for our pockets that they do not come all at once—the deliberate movements of the postal authorities have at least one compensating advantage.

New Stamps with old Watermark.—Many new shades of K.G. stamps and Peace Commemoration issues have synchronised with the advent of the new watermarked paper and already have appeared with both watermarks; some of the old watermarked stamps thus appearing and having a very short life, must undoubtedly become scarce. Here again the critic butts in with, "Of course, done on purpose for the benefit of collectors," but meditation refutes this idea; I do not think those responsible for the issue of new stamps have any such tender feelings of consideration for the philatelist, and I would venture to submit that these issues in the two varieties of watermarks are purely circumstantial. There are no doubt small parcels of the old watermark paper to be used up as occasion offers and I doubt whether the custodian of the paper, when counting out the requisite number of reams for a new printing requisition, considers for a moment that there are such people as philatelists; it seems more probable that his attention is focussed upon how he can most easily get rid of the odd remnants of the paper for which he is responsible, so as to conveniently set his stock in order.

Change of Colours.—And then again rises the question of the new Postal Rates and the changing colours according with the Postal Union scheme It seems certain there will be colour changes as important in the King George issues as in those of the issues of King Edward—and there is no reason why some should not appreciate in the same proportion.

New Levants.—Unannounced of the recent new issues is the advent of the new set of Gt. Britain stamps surcharged for use in the Levant. The British Post Offices in Turkey having been closed since the entry of Turkey into the Great War, I am given to understand that all the old stocks of 1913 surcharges were withdrawn and afterwards destroyed, several values have become in consequence very scarce. After the armistice when the British Agencies P.O's were again opened, ordinary unsurcharged British stamps were for some time used.

Evidently some difficulty was experienced in fixing equivalent values in Turkish currency, owing to the fluctuation in the exchange value of the Turkish piastre. The British Post Office, however, apparently came to some decision and surcharged various British stamps on the basis of 360 piastres to the £1 sterling, which worked out at very curious fractional surcharges, the values being worked out at the rate of 1½ piastres to the 1d., i.e., 30 paras on ½d; 1½pt on 1d; 3¾pt on 2½d; 4½pt on 3d; 7½pt on 5d; 15pt on 10d and 18¾ on 1/-.

Why 18¾? But why the ¾ fraction should be tacked on to the 1/- value, it is difficult to fathom. The sum total of the original values of the ½d, 1d, 2½d, 3d, 5d = 1/-, the total of their surcharges ¾, 1½, 3¾, 4½, 7½ = 18; why the extra ¾ is tacked on I cannot guess. Is it an error, or is there an 18¾ special rate? 'Tis passing strange—this rate can also be formed by using together the 15/10 and 3¾/2½.

The higher denominations are quite normal, 45 on 2/6, 90 on 5/-, 180 on 10/-.

By the time the stamps were prepared and put on sale, the Turkish currency had depreciated to nearly 500 piastres to the £1 sterling, thus further complicating matters so that the surcharged stamps could be bought at considerably under the English equivalent

It remains to be seen whether further fluctuations in the exchange will necessitate some adjustment of this surcharge tangle.

Who knows—the 1905 issue without "piastre" surcharge may be repeated, i.e., British stamp with surcharge "Levant" only.

Such contingencies bid fair to create a lively demand for this new issue apart from the general popularity of all the issues of G. B. Levant.

Forthcoming Exhibition.—Some years have elapsed since the last great International Exhibition of Postage Stamps was held in London, under the auspices of the Junior Philatelic Society, in 1912.

Preparations are now well in hand for an even greater effort (if possible) of the J.P.S. In May, 1923, it is proposed to hold an International Exhibition in London, synchronising with the Tenth Philatelic Congress of Great Britain to be held in London and it is probable that the two philatelic functions will be combined. The various classes for Exhibits and awards will, I understand, be shortly announced so as to give collectors ample time to prepare and amplify their exhibits both at home and in the most distant parts of the globe.

Plating 1d Blacks.—A great many people have entered precipitately into this new phase of specialising, without duly considering what they are up against, i.e., a life's work to get anything like complete, and an outlay of thousands of pounds on one stamp.

There are twelve different plates of the 1d black alone, i.e., 2,880 minute differences of the same stamp, and to find these it means minutely examining with magnifying glass hundreds of thousands of stamps, and the chance of getting any quantity unpicked is getting more and more remote, the rare plates for which everyone is seeking become more elusive and more expensive. It is far from my wish to discourage the specialist in this somewhat interesting though rather monotonous pursuit, but to warn the general collector against adopting as a side-line a most tremendous task of "Specialism in extremis."

This is by no means sour grape advice. I have a complete reconstructed sheet which I am breaking up and selling

have the pleasure to announce that they have purchased the entire stock of the old established and well known firm of

Hugo Griebert

This fine and well selected stock comprises 118 LARGE STOCK BOOKS, also 20 VOLUMES OF AN IMPORTANT, WELL KNOWN AND VERY OLD COLLECTION, and A FAMOUS COLLECTION OF MEXICAN STAMPS, formed during the past 30 years, which is, at present, as purchased, in its entirety. There are also a number of books of rare stamps, and balances of various collections.

The WHOLESALE STOCKS are of vast extent—four GOVERNMENT REMAINDERS consisting of many millions of stamps. Three of these have not yet been placed on the market and particulars can be given to those who wish to purchase. In the VAST WHOLESALE STOCKS there are 160 large boxes packed with carefully selected reserves of the Faustino Martins, Loli, Roussin and other well known stocks. Very many of the varieties in this purchase do not exist elsewhere, and the amalgamation of this vast stock with our own is proceeding apace, and stock and approval books are being prepared as quickly as possible. separately, as well as a good number in stock books.

"Specimen" Stamps.—Another phase of Philately which has recently been taken up quite strongly is the collection of stamps surcharged with the word "Specimen."

These are sample specimens which were sent out to the chief Postal Administrators of all countries in the Postal Union, for purposes of reference; when a new design, or change of colour, or surcharge, or any other obvious difference is made in the stamps of any country, if the P.O. deem the difference important.

No notice is taken of a change in wmk., for instance, specimen stamps of a K.E. single wmk. set would be distributed, but if the set was issued mult. C.A. in the same colours, it was not deemed necessary to send out these also with "specimen" surcharges.

Differences of perforation, dies, plates and minutiæ are not taken into consideration in the issues of specimen stamps.

Generally speaking only the first printings are thus surcharged and this is why one sees such remarkably fine shades of colour in specimen stamps, some of which are naturally quite rare in the ordinary issued stamps.

Their Rarity.—It is not generally recognised that "specimen" stamps are in the majority of cases much scarcer than the ordinary stamps in mint condition.

The usual number of sets up to 1/- which are surcharged "specimen" I understand to be about 1200. No single colony, however large or important, receives more than five sets of each.

The higher values are not nearly so numerous. Imagine the rarity of any ordinary issue of 1200 sets, how far would they go round even if all came on to the market. Most of them, however, are retained in official archives for reference purposes, and only those which are superfluous or not likely to be required actually come on to the market. It is probable, therefore, that with very few exceptions these specimen stamps are very, very much rarer than the stamps which are issued to the public. Why then do these specimen stamps fetch so little? Simply because collectors as a whole have not yet realised their true philatelic interest and value. A few pioneer collectors and specialists do and have done so for some years, it is only a question of time when the curious prejudice against them has subsided, that every serious collector will realise that here is a group of very collectible varieties full of philatelic merit, of considerable scarcity, to be had at very moderate cost, and then prices will begin to alter; they are starting points and form a solid basis for the specialist to work upon.

Misplaced Watermarks.—Too much importance seems to be attached nowadays to inverted watermarks, which are now much commoner than they used to be. As can be imagined, it is quite a frequent occurrence for the printer to insert an oblong piece of paper into the press on to an oblong plate upside down—it would fit the plate either upside down or the right way up, and in a dim light the wmk. is not always very distinct—but to get the wmk. sideways is not so easily accomplished even in the dark, an experienced printer could not put an oblong piece crossways on the plate (printers as a race being, I am told, total abstainers).

Sideways watermarks therefore are a much rarer occurrence, and for such an event to happen the stamps must be printed in some unusual manner on sheets of paper of a different shape and size.

Defects of this nature used previously to be rejected by the examining inspectors, but now for the sake of economy they are permitted to pass into use. Consequently inverted wmks. are comparatively quite common, but sideways wmks. are in fact quite scarce.

Pochettes.—"What are these pochettes?" writes a correspondent.

Pochettes are the only real preventative from friction, and take the place of the nuisance and disfigurement of the interleaf of tissue paper in albums.

Although tissue interleaving alleviates the suffering of delicately coloured and chalky surfaced stamps, it does not prevent it, even if stuck on the same side of the page as the stamps.

Japanese tissue paper on the back of the previous page is absolutely useless, it absorbs the colour and chalk worse than ordinary paper if there is the slightest friction in turning the pages over—and there always is.

To prevent this it is necessary to put delicate stamps in a glass case—and this is practically what a pochette is. It is a transparent case made to exactly fit any stamp that exists. It is not made of glass, but of a pliable material something like thin celluloid (but it is not so inflammable)—one can even see the watermark without taking the stamp out of its case—the hinge is stuck on to the back of the pochette instead of the stamp, the stamp remaining absolutely mint and unhinged. A page of unused stamps in pochettes looks even brighter and cleaner than without; they improve rather than detract from the appearance.

When one page rubs against another in turning over it is the pochette which bears the friction, and not the stamp inside, which remains "still" in relativity—see "accessories," page 16.

I am glad to say that their cost has been considerably reduced lately owing to being manufactured in larger quantities because of their growing popularity. It is only a matter of time when pochettes will have replaced tissue interleaves in every collection that is mounted carefully.

In a hundred years every chalky stamp that is not in a pochette will be unrecognisable.

The Ferrari Collection.—No philatelic notes however unassuming could be compiled without some reference to the sale by auction in Paris of the famous collection of this well-known eccentric.

I was present at the sale of the first portion of this huge collection made by the late Baron von Ferrari or Monsieur Phillip La Renotiere, which was the name he assumed when he adopted Paris as his home and French as his nationality—he being an Austrian by birth and descent.

Selections of this vast collection are now being very artfully manipulated by auction, in small but rich doses to Philatelists, and astounding prices out of all reason in many cases were the result of the first dose administered Standard or common Rarities realised at the first session double and three times the ordinary market prices, so great the excitement of the moment—whether the purchasers were equally satisfied with their achievements in the quiet solicitude of after contemplation is a secret for themselves alone—but the bidding was unreasoning and unreasonable, but there, Ferrari collections are not sold every day, so the National excitement of the French people is understandable.

Of course it is difficult to assess the value of gigantic pieces of such rarity as the pair of 2c Guiana, 2c Hawaii and things of this classical nature, of which only one or two are known, but terrific prices were realised at the first sale for such everyday rarities as the 4d Ceylon—which sells at and is worth about £40 to £50 in the London market, in a Ferrari sale fetches the equivalent of £120—things as a whole went at extraordinary prices.

I do not hesitate to assert that the same Ceylon stamp in any other sale at the same period would not have realised half the amount.

It is not surprising then that there was only one English buyer besides myself who secured anything at all, and I bought one stamp only—English people are not quite so excitable.

Practically all the lots of the first sale went to French buyers, and those responsible for the manipulation of the sale are to be congratulated upon the pitch of frenzy to which they worked up their compatriots. The total of the bids resulted in some 1,091,000 odd francs making with the 17½% tax which each purchaser has to pay in addition to his bid, over 1¼ million francs realised.

A fair amount of money to turn over in the course of three hours, equivalent to £27,570 sterling at the rate then prevailing.

In spite of new issues, Ferrari collections, General collections, specialised collections, there is still a steady popular demand for the stamps of G.B., especially really fine used specimens, not only in this country, but also abroad. Several of the items of the collection of reconstructed plates referred to elsewhere in this number, have been despatched some thousands of miles overseas, even as far as N. Zealand, U. S. A., Canada, etc. It is gratifying to know that philatelists abroad, and in the Colonies especially, do not overlook the stamps of the land which first introduced stamps to the world, over four score years ago.

Stop Press News.—Since writing the above, the second section of the Ferrari sale has taken place, the total realising some 2,171,132 francs. The prices remained very steady and fine things realised just as high prices as before. It was only with constant vigilance that one was able to buy a few lots at reasonable prices. Besides a few desirable single rarities I was able to secure th collections of Cape of Good Hope Rec tangulars, 1864-1904, which contain some most interesting pieces, blocks pairs, strips, etc., of the rarer surcharges including many scarce errors and va rieties, the greater part unused.

Also the fine collection of Britis Guiana, middle issues, from 1860 to 191 There are some very rare stamps in th unused stamps of 1860-75, of which thi lot is mainly composed.

Both of these fine lots are priced u for sale separately for collectors t select from.—Roberts' List.

GOOD VALUE IS GOOD BUSINESS.

SPECIAL NEW YEAR'S SALE
AT BARGAIN PRICES

I offer the following lots pursuant to my custom twice a year. Note that I have confined myself chiefly to the XIX CENTURY ISSUES. I believe that these are the best items to buy today. If one tries to collect from 1901 and aims to keep up with the procession, he's beaten before he starts, but if he begins with the end of 1900 and works backwards he is gaining all the time no matter how slow he goes. Think it over. I would like to keep all I get but I have expenses to meet and if I don't sell I can't buy, and I must do business or I can't be happy, so I sell and help the other fellow along. My prices are net, Terms Cash with order, 5% discount on orders of over $50 at one time, 10% on those over $100. On approval to those I know or who may be properly introduced, but cash orders will take precedence every time. A * means unused, an o means used. Scott's numbers are in ( ). The first column is Scott's Price, the last column of figures is my Net price. I say nothing about condition because I will refund the money to anyone who does not think the item worth all I ask for it. Satisfaction or no sale. Of most I have only one of a kind, but you run no risk, as your money goes back if any are sold before I get your order. It is wise to send an order for twice the amount of your check.

If you don't see anything you want, let me know what it is. These are all from a collection I am closing out, and there are thousands of other stamps in it. Make checks and money-orders payable to

Collections by Countries

These are unusually good—much better than you'd expect such lots to be. They may contain either used or unused stamps or both. They are useful to start a new country, to fill up one in which you are weak, to obtain good trading stock, or to lay away for a rainy day. These are but samples taken at random. I can send you a complete list if further interested, or name the country and I'll see what I can send you.

NEW YEAR OFFERINGS--CHOICE NEWFOUNDLAND--SWISS RARITIES--NEW ISSUES--ETC.

We are determined to start the New Year right and accordingly offer MEKEEL'S readers a general line of the finest quality and most popular variety. May we call your especial attention to a wonderful list of Newfoundland itemized here—or if you are a collector far advanced please go through our Swiss rarities and we are sure you will find something of interest. A careful perusal of this page will prove beneficial to us both.

BRITISH NO. AMERICA

A wonderful addition of Newfoundland stamps has given us the nucleus for this unusual heading. We wish to further add that we have this country practically complete, aside from the great rarities, so if your missing ones are not listed here we can supply on request.

We guarantee the beginner no stamps fit only for cheap variety packets will be found in our series. We offer nothing at 50% discount; all our prices are net, thereby allowing us to display items not possible to be handled on a discount basis.

We are preparing a new alphabetical series representing 10,000 varieties that we carry in quantity sufficient for approval trade.

We have completed more than half of this new line, and it will help us if you give a general idea of the countries you are interested in.

For the far advanced collector we are preparing a series of approval books by countries, containing almost all varieties we have to offer. What country are you interested in?

Proper reference must accompany all applications.

"WEKA" CATALOGUE

We have taken the American agency of the Weka Stamp Co., Zurich, Switzerland, in handling this new and best of catalogues. Contains prices on stamps of Europe only, but is the most accurate and up-to-date book we have ever seen for the stamps of New Europe. No other catalogue gives such clear description of these confusing items as does the "Weka". Priced in a stable currency, printed in German and French, this Swiss book should be well received in America. No collector of War issues can afford to be without one. Price, postpaid, $1.60.

SWITZERLAND RARITIES

Here we offer several of the early Swiss Cantonals, etc., all in fine to superb condition. These are purchased direct, and we have paid for quality, so please bear this in mind when price is considered. We have enough to go around, also.

MR. WESTERN COLLECTOR

We feel there are thousands of collectors in the West who do not write us because they fear advertisements reach them too late for ordering. On the contrary, 90% of our goods can be supplied at all times; and many of our best customers live in the extreme West.

C. S. WATSON CO., Inc., East Dedham, Mass.

ADLETS.

Minimum two lines.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

RATE.—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $12.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

YOU CAN'T ALWAYS TELL.

By LOWELL J. RAGATZ.

It was a savage night in late January. Ever since early morning the storm had been raging. Instead of having abated somewhat as time passed, it had increased until, now, in the early evening, scarce a moment passed but that the little station-house, in which we had been gathered for half a day, was rudely shaken by the howling wind bearing from across Lake Superior. One of our number had scraped clear a little space on a velvet-frosted pane, and had told us that high drifts were forming on the lee side of the building.

Within, however, all was bright and warm and cheery. The sputtering bracket wall-lamps struggled valiantly against the double handicap of smoking chimneys and a smoke-laden atmosphere. The large, open-doored St. Paul stove in the center of the room, made leaping shadows on the wall opposite it. The dozen of us, storm-bound travelers, were doing what we could in different parts of the waiting-room to while away the many hours which must necessarily elapse before the next train would arrive and bear us away from this dreary portion of northern Wisconsin.

I had been looking over an ancient copy of the WEEKLY, dug out from among a miscellaneous assortment of reading material, ranging from The Police Gazette to The Atlantic Monthly, left by some who had passed this way before us, and now reposing in an unswept corner. But the semi-darkness of the room made reading well-nigh impossible. Giving up in despair, I fell back upon studying those about me.

There is really nothing quite so interesting as human beings, especially when they do not know that they are being watched. I knew most of those about me in a general way, for traveling men are, after all, but like the members of a large, scattered family. Near at hand was Walters (shoes were his lines), regaling the Pathé Booker and the Washburn-Crosby man with the details of an escapade. Four of our number were playing Five Hundred with a sample-case as a table, three were indulging in the thrills of Put and Take, with pennies in the pot, and several others were sleeping as comfortably and as noisily as they could with grips for pillows and rough station benches for beds.

The man next to me was a stranger, perhaps a new man on his first trip. I had never seen him before. I finished surveying our little group and was debating with myself as to the chances of getting in a nap, when I chanced to glance in the direction of my neighbor, and found him looking at me with a curious expression on his features.

"How do. Collect stamps?", he asked.

"Sure do. Proofs and essays. Ragatz my name. Madison. Stocks and bonds. Business rotten. And you?"

He laughed pleasantly.

"Austin. Schenectady. Sell stamps but collect them too. All kinds. Never out before, but biz is fair."

Thus are acquaintances made on short order among the great orders of The Knights of Philately and The Sons of the Sample-Case. But a stamp salesman, of all things! My face must have betrayed my astonishment, for my companion added, "You see, I got hold of the Neestrom collection a bit ago, and I decided that the best way to break it up would be to call on my customers, and so I'm making the rounds."

The Neestrom collection — Austin — Schenectady. The combination was strangely familiar————. I had it!

"Austin! Why, you must be the Austin of the stamp world, Delbert Austin, himself. Think of that, to meet you in this neck of the woods!"

We were soon in the midst of an animated conversation. My neighbor had his stamp wares with him, yes, some forty albums, but to all purposes they might have been in Schenectady, for they were in the adjoining room, snugly trunked and out of their owner's hands, as high-value express.

So we talked shop—the changes in the market within the few past years, the new interest in cancellations; the aggressive methods of foreign dealers seeking substantial connections in America; the tight holding of early issues; the probability of rarities resulting from the present rapidly shifting postal rates, colour schemes, and watermarks, and the personal call on buyers undertaken by my new acquaintance. The idea had come upon him, and he had acted upon it. Not only would the collection be broken up sooner, but making the rounds would give him the opportunity of meeting those with whom he had had relations for years past.

"You know", he said, "this trip is really proving an eye-opener to me. Any dealer doing a mail-order business forms certain ideas regarding his customers. A fellow writes in on an engraved letterhead, and rates high in D and B's. 'A real collector—one worth cultivating.' The cream goes to him. This one scrawls a few words on the first bit of paper coming his way. 'Probably a student or a petty clerk.' Average stuff for him. Here comes a want-list of cheap stamps. They're around somewhere, but why bother looking them up? 'The fellow's a piker, of course'.

"Now, such conclusions may not be arrived at as such, but they are formed nevertheless, and events seem to bear them out. The 'real collector' buys what is sent him—for a time. So does the 'student or clerk, perhaps'. When they stop doing so, it's because somebody is cutting in on your trade, of course. As for the 'piker', doubtless, he naturally never sends a second list of wants, but then he is only a 'piker'. That's the way the average dealer sizes up his mail buyers and that's the way his dealings with them run. But it's wrong, it's quite wrong, I've found. I know now, you simply can't always tell."

"Mighty Interesting"

A. C. of New York City writes: "Fourth lesson received. It is mighty interesting and touches a topic about which I knew very little until now. It is positively educational."

Mrs. S. of Piedmont, Calif.: "The course is excellent."

J. C., Malta: "To-day's lesson completes the course, which I have followed with intense interest, and it is with real regret I enclose my last exercise. . . . Hoping that others will benefit from your system as I have done."

F. G., Birmingham: "Of course I am rather an old 'junior' and 'pupil', but I wanted to see your method and I must say how pleased with it I was."

When hundreds of testimonials are all equally good, it is difficult to make a selection. They were all sent unsolicited to Mr. FRED. J. MELVILLE, the world famous expert, in thanking him for the personal attention he gives to every student taking his postal course of instruction in Philately.

Are you content to collect in the old jog-trot way? Take a course of Melvillism, and learn to collect on the most approved lines.

A 4c stamp will bring you a novel booklet giving all particulars. Address. [C4

OLAF GRILSTAD, Trondhjem, Norway [tf

And he cited a few instances to prove his contention.

A Pittsburg banker had bought generously, but had suddenly ceased. The call on him showed that he had never owned a stamp in his life; what he had bought were for his nine-year-old niece. But she had soon tired of the fine British colonials sent; she had craved "those pretty new European ones like from the Saare—I'll bet you don't know where that is, uncle, but I do—like everybody else has". She knew of a dealer who sold them, so he was turned to. Of course, if Austin had them, they would be glad to see them, but he'd never sent anything like that———.

A "major" had turned out to be a university cadet corps commander, aged twenty, whose promising purchases had of necessity fallen off since he had blown in the last of his state bonus drawn for three months of service in the real army. He was glad to see stamps, but could not buy now, of course.

A "clerk, probably", who lived in the same town and whose purchases had not been large enough to warrant a call at first thought, had turned out to be a college professor of more than national reputation. He had spent the larger part of a night purchasing classics to round out his own truly wonderful holdings in their thirty odd albums, and had paid his $8,000 bill by check. He had never known that Austin had such items —all that he had ever received were very ordinary, commonplace things. Certainly, he'd be glad to see real things at any time.

A long-looked forward to call upon an advertiser, whose constant offerings of numerous rarities "price upon application" and urgent appeals for high-class stock (and incidentally offering Bonita approvals), had attracted Austin's attention, proved him to be a spare-time dealer with stamp headquarters in the living-room of a shabby suburban bungalow. He was the holder of a mediocre stock kept in writing-desk drawers. The rarities, unfortunately, were "all out". But people said such nice things about Bonita approvals, and he gave a premium with every dollar's worth sold! Yes, he would be glad to buy heavily, but unfortunately his money was tied up in a large collection purchased abroad and due shortly, etc.

A between-train call promising little but taking no extra time and little extra effort had been made upon a rather new entrant into the business. His advertising was clever and snappy, featuring approvals. But few direct offerings were ever made. Doubtless, he was a "fliv". But—pleasant surprise! The clean cut young chap at the head of the business had an airy suite of offices, employed six clerks, and was an eager cash buyer.

It was in this office that my neighbor had met a vaudeville actor, whom he had little difficulty in placing at once as a "piker, doubtless", whose request for certain low-priced stamps, to fill out sets, as it developed, had gone unanswered. This man had thought that he could get things he needed from Austin, but not having heard from him, he was getting them from a Nassau Street dealer and from stamp houses located in cities in which he was doing his turn.

"Of course, these are extreme instances I've been giving you. Many of my customers were just what I pictured them, from the war-fattened saddlery manufacturer who almost invariably took everything I sent him and knew so little about stamps that he had to have a philatelic secretary, to the Swedish butcher of Mabel, Minnesota, whose small but constant purchases through years have resulted in his acquiring a very presentable collection, mounted in such a way as to make his albums truly works of art. My butcher friend knows his stamps, too, and it gave me greater pleasure to sell him the sixty-five dollars' worth, which was all that he could stand at the time, than it did to leave $4,500 worth with Mr. Millionbucks."

A voice near us broke in complainingly. It was Walters'—he of the savory tale.

"Gee, gosh, ain't youse birds ever goin' to shut your hoppers? How d'you expect an honest drummer to go to sleep with all that jabbering going on?"

The wind was still screeching. The fire had died away and the dull ember-glow cast scarce a gleam upon the wall. The lamps, too, were burning low, as if in mute appeal for yet another drink of flame-feeding oil. Quite unnoticed by us, the yarn-spinning and card playing had ceased, and all but ourselves were now sprawled out about the place seeking the repose of the righteous with its ever-present dreams of a warmer, sunnier clime.

"Well", said I, "what do you say to turning in? Guess we can stow away behind the stove. That space just seems to have been reserved for us."

A double thickness of magazines and an overcoat softened the hardness of the floor. Our handbags were at least more adapted to the role of pillows than stones would have been.

"This is roughing it", Austin was chuckling, "I'm learning all kinds of things these days. One thing is sure, I've learned a new rule of business that I'll use to my last day, and that is, not to judge customers by the impressions external factors give. Hereafter it's to be more personal relations for me, even if it means less buyers. It will be better business in the end. Mistakes in sizing up a party mean lost sales, and that's poor business. I'm going to run things differently after this. I'm going to know my buyers. It's the only real way; thinking you know may be alright so far as it goes. The only trouble, and that's a big one, is that you can't always tell."

CHAPTER XII.

Postal Stationery.

The current stamped stationery consists of 1c and 2c wrappers, 1c and 2c post cards, and a 5c registration envelope.

The 2c post card, carmine on buff, measures 140 x 88 mm., and the design of the stamp impressed in the upper right corner, is that of the current postage stamp (D. L. R. 1912) save that the lettering is changed to "Postage Postage". Four lines of printed matter occupy the space at the left of the stamp:—

"UNION POSTALE UNIVERSELLE
BRITISH HONDURAS (HONDURAS BRITANNIQUE)
POST CARD—CARTE POSTALE
The address only to be written on this side."

The 5c registration envelope is furnished in two sizes—"G" (6" x 3¾") and H2 (8⅞" x 4"). The flap which is on the address side of the envelope bears the embossed stamp, which is circular in shape and encloses the head of King George V in a pearled circle. The outer band is lettered "2 Cents Postage (Crown) 3 Cents Registration British Honduras." (The local and Empire registration fee is 3c, while the foreign rate is 5 cents). On the front and back of the envelope are crossed lines, in blue, and the lettering, also in blue, on the face, to the left of the stamp is in four lines:—

"REGISTERED LETTER.—This letted must be given to an Officer of the Post Office—to be Registered, and a Receipt obtained for it.—The Address must be written on this side."

In 1915, along with the moire overprinted 1c, 2c and 5c postage stamps, came the 5c registration envelope in two sizes, with the violet overprint applied to the stamp. The overprint is in the form of a rectangle, with rounded corners, 28½ x 25½ mm., but does not cover the inner circle containing the head. The total quantity sent out was 10,057, and although received about June, 1915, they were not issued until July of the following year. They continued on sale until the opening of 1920, when they exhausted, and were replaced by a fresh printing without the overprint.

CHAPTER XIII.

Communications.

Foreign mails, for the most part, are received and dispatched via the United States, by the steamers of the United Fruit Company, New Orleans division.

Communication between Belize, the capital, and Stann Creek and Punta Gorda, to the south, and Corozal and Orange Walk in the northern districts, is maintained by steamers. On the Belize river, motor boats ply between the capital, which is at its mouth, and El Cayo, 100 miles distant on the Western frontier, where goods are transferred to muleback for the Peten district of Guatemala. Between Belize and all places along the coast, bays and various rivers, communication is by sloops and motor boats.

The inland roads are unsuitable for wheeled traffic except in the immediate vicinity of towns, and between El Cayo and Benque Viejo.

Stann Creek, 80 miles to the south of Belize, is the principal port for shipment of bananas, which are brought down from plantations along the railway. The line, which is 3 ft. gauge, starts from Commerce Bight to the south of Stann Creek, and runs inland for a distance of 25 miles to Middlesex, at the foot of the mountains to the west. The railway was begun in 1907, and the first section was opened on the 17th October of the following year, by Hon. Wilfrid Collet, the Acting Governor.

Corozal in the northern part of the Colony, is the center of the manufacture of sugar and rum, and from its proximity to Payo Obispo, in Yucatan, considerable trade is carried on with that place. Orange Walk, on New River, is also in the north of the Colony, while El Cayo and Benque Viejo are near the western frontier.

Belize and Corozal have local telephone service, and trunk lines connect the capital with Stann Creek, Punta Gorda, El Cayo, Benque Viejo and Orange Walk.

The expenses of the telegraph and telephone system, unfortunately, are in excess of the revenue:—

	Revenue	Expenditure
1913	$10,987	$12,486
1914	10,694	13,066
1915	11,711	11,698
1916	11,962	15,629
1917	9,684	15,190

Foreign telegrams are sent from Corozal by cable laid under the Rio Honda to Payo Obispo in Yucatan, whence they are transmitted over the Mexican line.

A 5 k. w. wireless telegraph station, with a range of 400 miles, which was installed in 1914, affords wireless communication with New Orleans and Jamaica.

On Sept. 11, 1918, the Catholic Bishop of British Honduras left Belize to visit the Stann Creek district, and although his age (74 years) and station brought him comforts of travel which would not ordinarily fall to the lot of the traveler, still his progress was not attended with any particular luxury. The following excerpts are taken from an account of the trip as reported to the Clarion (weekly, Belize), and printed in their issue of Oct. 3, 1918:—

"We left on the 'Honeydew' Wednesday, Sept. 11th; it was a gentle lazy breath of a breeze that moved us on at the rate of 4 miles an hour, giving us plenty of time to write letters. The 'Honeydew' went out of her way to drop us off at Mullins river, where we were met by a dory opposite the church and school, which are located in a little coconut palm grove in the northern part of town. . . . About half past ten the following morning we left in the mail dory for Stann Creek, where we arrived towards the end of the noon recess. . . . The following morning, Friday the 13th., we left for Middlesex on the motor car which Capt. S., Acting Superintendent of the Stann Creek Railway, kindly placed at our disposal. It was an ideal morning, and as we sped up the valley, I noticed as never before, a decided change from the heavier atmosphere of the sea coast to the light and fragrant air of the mountain forest. Towards noon we left Middlesex and soon after were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. N., whose kind and thoughtful hospitality is known to all that have the pleasure of being entertained by them. You really feel there like being at home in an English country manor. The following morning the regular passenger train brought us back to Stann Creek on schedule time.

The following Monday, the 16th, we visited the central coast of the Stann Creek district, including a trip into the interior with a proposed overland route to Regalia. About 11 a. m. we left in a little dory for Newtown, and arrived there just before the beginning of the afternoon session. The following morning, at about 9.30, we left on foot for Commerce Bight, a tiny place. Then in a dory which was placed at our disposal we continued our journey toward a bush village in the interior called Pineridge. I managed to secure there the only horse available in the neighborhood, a 2-year-old colt, against riding which minus the saddle and bridle the good people warned me, being puzzled and amused at my proposal. The animal had not been broken in except for some boy riding him at times around the houses there. But I had to reconnoitre the overland route to Regalia before daring to take my venerable companion that way the following day. So after improvising some substitutes for saddle and bridle, which were not to be had, I started out guided by a footman, if you please, and quite a romantic trip it proved to be. Nice swamps, creeks and bushes to cross, though part of the route was identified as King's High road from Mullins river to All Pines. Well, I got as far as Serpon in two hours and a quarter. I told the people there that we had at first intended to visit them the following day on the way to Regalia, but that this was no trip for my companion, and that they should come to All Pines. I returned to Pine Ridge after dark.

On Wednesday morning we decided to go to All Pines by water route, though this meant a round-about way, apparently a three-quarter circle. We left at 9.20 a. m. First we shot down the rapid and twisting little forest stream. Freshwater Creek, which the day before we had worked up at perhaps three or four times the amount of time it took us now to reach the lagoon. This time we did not go down to Commerce Bight village, but made a short cut by getting out at a place where the Freshwater lagoon is separated from the sea only by a bar about 20 ft. wide, across which we pulled the dory on some rollers found there. Getting in on the sea side was not such an easy matter, and we first walked some distance along shore to some safe place of embarkation. Shortly after getting in the dory we were caught in the tail end of a shower, and we were grateful that it was only that and nothing more. As we had head wind up to False Little Point and could not think of using a sail in a little flat-bottomed dory, we had to paddle all the time until reaching that point, then the sail brought us somewhat quicker to Sittee river bar. We decided to go up the river and let them know of our spending that night at All Pines. We reached the lower end of Freetown about 2.10, and after calling on one of the inhabitants, with the request to inform the others, we turned around and proceeded through the cut off and Betsie Snowdown lagoon to All Pines, which we reached about 4 o'clock. We were glad when after nearly 7 hours crouching in a little dory or sitting on boxes, we could get out again and stretch our legs on terra firma. I handed over one of our fellow-passengers a chicken from Pine Ridge, to Mrs. N., and when I returned from rounding up the people, a fairly well deserved and appreciated dinner was ready. We had intended to visit Regalia, or what was once Regalia, and examine the beautiful little church built in the 80's, but on account of lack of time we had to abandon the idea. Shortly before noon we took the 'M. C.' and arrived at Stann Creek about 3 o'clock. After dinner His Lordship proceeded to Belize, myself remaining behind among my Caribs."

Blocks of 9 5c Red Errors, No. 414

The response to my last ad of the 5c red errors No. 414 was very good considering that the issue in which I offered them came out right at Christmas, but it did not clean me out of them and you now have another chance at them. There will be no more to offer that I know anything about after this lot is gone, so better hurry! Don't neglect to get one of these very interesting errors while you can get it at a reasonable price! Blocks of 9 central stamp 5c red error. Price $4 to $4.50 according to centering. PANAMA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS.

By FREDERICK E. HEYDON.

CHAPTER XIX.

The 1921 Commemorative Issues.

On November 13, 1921, occurred the one hundredth anniversary of the independence of Panama from Spanish misgovernment, and the occasion was fittingly commemorated by the issue of a very beautiful series of stamps executed in the finest style by the American Bank Note Co. The decree authorized their use for postal purpose for two years concurrently with the regular issue. With the exception of the 5 centesimos, which is a horizontal rectangle 33 x 22½ mm., the stamps are all vertical rectangles varying but slightly from 21½ x 26 mm., and all are on white wove paper, perforated 12.

The 5c, which is intended to be the most prominent feature of the set, is unusual in design as well as size in bearing an inscription in a very slightly decorative frame, and perpetuating the words of the immortal Bolivar in which he speaks enthusiastically of the peaceful revolution by which Panama was freed from its foreign tyrants. To fully appreciate Bolivar's thoughts on the occasion it is to be remembered that Panama was the Keystone of Spanish authority in America, that the city had been declining for many years in consequence of mischievous restrictions on trade, and that the revolt was headed by the noblest families in the city. The reader will notice that the word "Procer" occurs before the names of three of the revolutionary leaders whose portraits occur on the stamps, indicating that they belonged to the higher Spanish nobility. It was probably due to such leadership that the revolution was conducted in an orderly manner and with hardly any disturbance in the affairs of the community. The set is as follows:—

235. ½c orange, arms of the old city of Panama as borne in 1521, surmounted by the royal crown. It will be noted that the outer border of the shield consists of the arms of the old kingdoms of Leon and Castille alternating.
236. 1c green, portrait of Procer Jose Vallarino.
237. 2c bright carmine. "Panama, Puerta de Tierra" (land gate of Panama forming a portion of the old city wall).
238. 2½c light red bust of "Libertador Simon Bolivar." (Liberator Simon Bolivar.) The bust is a beautiful piece of engraving.
238a. 2½c brown red. Only one sheet has been reported and evidently an error in color.
239. 3c brown-violet. "Monumento a Miguel de Cervantes Saavedra". (Monument to Miguel de Cervantes Saavedra.) Note below the statue of Cervantes the figure of Don Quixote on horseback.
240. 5c deep blue. Inscription in central frame "El acta de indipendencia de Panama es el monumento mas glorioso que puede ofrecer a la historia ninguna provincia americana, todo esta alli consultado; justicia, generosidad, politica e interes nacional" Bolivar. (The act of independence of Panama is the most glorious monument that could be offered to the history, not alone of an American province, all is there consulted: justice, generosity, policy and national interests.)
241. 8c olive-green portrait of Procer Carlos de Ycaza.
243. 15c light blue. "Monumento a Vasco Nunez de Balboa." (Monument to Vasco Nunez de Balboa.)
244. 20c bistre-brown. "Iglesia de la Villa de Los Santos." (Church of the city of Los Santos.)
245. 24c dark brown. Portrait of Tomas Herrera.
246. 50c black. Portrait of Procer Jose de Fabrega.

The numbers issued were as follows:—

½c,	1,000,000	8c,	100,000
1c,	1,000,000	10c,	100,000
2c,	1,000,000	15c,	100,000
2½c,	25,000	20c,	100,000
3c,	25,000	24c,	100,000
5c,	1,000,000	50c,	100,000

The 2½c and 3c are very rarely used which accounts for the small numbers issued of each. They were all sold by Nov. 21.

The set was completed by a 1c stamped envelope and 2c postal card of the same designs and colors as the adhesives. On November 28, 1921, in commemoration of the centennial of the birthday of Don Manuel Jose Hurtado, a stamp of the denomination of 2c for internal use only, was issued—250,000 of these were printed, valid for thirty days only at the expiration of which period the remainders were to be destroyed.

247. 2c deep green. Portrait of Hurtado in oval. 21½x26 mm., white wove paper, Perforated 12. This is one of the most beautiful commemorative stamps ever issued. In fact, for a parallel it would be necessary to go back to the United States issue of 1869.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—"It may be of interest to the readers of MEKEEL'S that the P. O. D. announces a reduction in the postage rate from five to two cents to the following countries on Jan. 1, 1922: Argentina, Brazil, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Jamaica and Martinique."—WM. M. MCFARLAN.

—A. W. Dunning of Brookline, Mass., is to spend the next three months at Stuart, Florida. He left for the South on January 4. He writes:—"I have rented a house in Stuart and hope to get some outdoor life, fishing and perhaps a little shooting. I shall have with me a stock of stamps and shall be able to fill orders from my recent advs. in the WEEKLY—on rainy days." Only a few weeks ago the Managing Editor called attention to our "fickle" New England climate and there are those who would like to follow Mr. Dunning's example in going to the Southland.

—Wm. T. Kimball of Lawrence, Mass., sends us the Postal Bulletin dated Dec. 24. It contains an important announcement concerning International Reply Coupons. Dec. 31 the sale of 6c reply coupons will be discontinued and new coupons of an 11c denomination provided to meet the increased postage rates of many foreign countries. The use of reply coupons is to be restricted to their exchange for a postage stamp or postage stamps sufficient to prepay postage on a single rate letter addressed to a foreign country. "Reply coupons are not intended as a means of sending remittances nor to prepay postage on merchandise, etc. Postmasters are directed to enforce these regulations". Except under unusual circumstances not more than ten coupons shall be sold to or exchanged by the same person in any one day.

A PHILATELIC "HAPPY NEW YEAR."

By WM. C. STEIGER.

Our hobby, "Collecting," I'm writing this song for,
The joy of dedecting the stamp we most long for,
The pleasure of having completed a set.
Our hunt is unceasing to fill that collection,
Locating the missing with much satisfaction,
Sensations one hardly does ever forget.

We seek them with pleasure, those "hard ones," elusive,
And, finding a treasure, our joy is effusive,
The joy of the hunter in stalking the game.
No matter how wealthy, no matter how needy,
Or sickly, or healthy, or easy, or speedy,
The lure of the stamp-hunt affects us the same.

So:—Long live our hobby, our Post-Stamp Collection.
The ultra-sport, nobby, which has our affection
And is, king of pass-times, to all of us dear.
And may the new year see no Album neglected,
May never a care be where stamps are collected,
To all Philatelists a "Happy New Year"!

EDITORIAL.

Bright—Philately continues to loom larger on the horizon than ever before; and just now so many evidences of recognition publicly of our gentle calling are at hand that we wonder if the day is not coming, sooner than we look for it, when stamp collecting is accepted as a subject for popular display. We know that the happy time will come when the charms of philately will attract general attention but we are under no illusions as to the date. The desirable end in view is that which will establish the stamp collector in his rightful place and not as a curious and exceptional creature following freakish suggestions. The stamp dealer, too, will not be looked upon as trading in mysteries or capitalizing the weaknesses of mentally addled, even if amiable, citizens. When a long prologue is not necessary for introducing philately in ordinary conversation, or explanation is not required to account for an inclination to philately, genuine relief will be felt by those who are in a position where it becomes incumbent upon them to wrestle with the average man's understanding of the aims and objects of the pursuit. The collector of or dealer in old books, prints, pictures, etc., is admitted to be following a defined course, while he who has to do with stamps, either as an amateur or professional, must labor to present himself properly in the estimation of the mass of folks hide-bound by routine diversions.

Lively—At any rate we are getting along. Here in the Saturday Evening Post we run full-faced across a story with the unabashed title, "The Postage Stamp," by Gordon Arthur Smith. There are gobs of philately in the story that depends for its dénouement on an unadulterated stamp climax. The "one-silbergroschen rose stamp, issued by Brunswick in 1852" is the hero of the tale, whose locale is in France. The story starts "on that corner of the Champs-Elysées reserved for lovers, collectors and traders of postage stamps," and the philatelic theme dominates it throughout. The author knows something about stamps or else he is painstaking enough not to make glaring mistakes, such as have spoiled the efforts of some of the fictionists in using philately as a handmaiden. The old Frenchman has a beautiful daughter but lacks the Brunswick, No. 1. The father of the suitor of the French girl owns this stamp and it is the apple of his eye. The girl's father will not give her up to the young lover, unless he receives in exchange the Brunswick stamp. Now an American collector was nosing about and hit upon this censored romance and his young nephew, like the droll young American that he was, espoused the cause of the maiden forlorn, who was a thing of beauty. Now we have the characters and there are thrusts and parries that intrigue the attention of the general reader, and the collector will follow the tale with peculiar interest. We are pleased that the writer turns philately to good account and that the Post saw that philately made a good setting for a story.

Righto—In Life for December 29, 1921, there is a caper that hinges for its snapper on stamp collecting. A half-page picture shows a swaggering hero who bids his guest welcome to the trophy room, with its stuffed heads of fierce "denizens of the jungle" on the walls. He says with fine toleration, "I tell you, my boy, I've had many a hairbreadth escape getting these together." The guest, exuding intellect, according to the popular artistic conception, is not flustered, but politely makes his acknowledgments: "Very interesting. You must come to my place some time and see my stamp collection." Good stuff and nonsense, say we.

Stable—Here it is, just as the letter came: "If I edited the leading stamp paper, I should take occasion to tell of the wonderful record that philately is making. Is there any slump in the stamp market? As you would say, 'I trow not.' What other investment line can hold up its head as high as collecting? We know that instead of declining, good stamps are holding their own or more; and I think that you should have more to say on the subject. I am glad that I put a good part of my money in well-selected stamps; and there are others." The enthusiasm of our correspondent, founded on fact, is irresistible, and his words need little qualification. We want to enlarge the market for stamps in order that the man who wishes to realize on his holdings at any time may know that he has more than paper security. Meanwhile, conditions attending marketability are improving; and more assurance than before may be given to collectors that they are safe in buttressing their other investments with stamps.

Number—We notice the advertisement of an enterprising firm in a stationers' magazine, in which the company calls attention to the display case of stamps and packets that it offers for installation in book and stationery stores. Incidentally, the statement is made that there are a million of collectors of stamps in this country. We are rather pleased to find that the stamp advertiser does not err on the side of conservativeness in estimating the philatelic census. A good many years ago we arrived at the conclusion that 150,000 was a fair guess at the number of collectors, by some method of analysis that we have forgotten, but to apply to the present, these figures would have to be revised upwards, decidedly. The fact that an issue of the WEEKLY was once sent to fully 100,000 names gave us the basis for the calculations. As Dr. Johnson once said, "round numbers always lie," and we are not disposed to believe that philately is yet in the millionaire class in the United States. What we wish to say is that if there are even a quarter-million collectors, they represent an influence wholly disproportionate to that usually carried by so large a number of persons. In effect, they are an unconsidered trifle in the life of the day. Because of their lack of organization, they are practically without force; and we are of the opinion that in no other line in which there are millions of dollars invested is there so inadequate protection by the absence of a unified front, as in our own. So long as the buying of stamps was deemed a thing apart from the routine of the day, it is easy to conceive that material ideas did not enter into the thought of the collectors; but now when stamps are money, it is difficult to understand why the laisser-faire attitude still persists. There will come a change, without doubt, and when once a beginning is made, it will puzzle us to realize why we worried along for years without being aware of our rights.

CONFEDERATE STATES, No. 209.

The 10c with "Outer" or "Frame Line". What Towns Used It?

By EDWARD S. KNAPP.

As an interesting "sideline" to the Plating of the 10c Outer Line, I have also made a careful study of the cancellations, and the following table, compiled from the examination of approximately three hundred copies of this stamp, may be of interest to collectors of Confederate States, indicating, as it does, where the supply of the "Outer Line" was distributed to the various Post Offices. In the absence of all Postal Records, postmarks must, necessarily, be our surest guide.

Of the three hundred copies examined I find that 90 were—

(1) Cancelled illegibly, or with a "Gridiron",
(2) Pencancelled, or
(3) Unused.

Which leaves 210 to "work with".

Adams Run, S. C.	Monterey, Ala.
Athens, Ga.	Montgomery, Ala.
Atlanta, Ga.	Monticello, Fla.
Big Lick, Va.	Mt. Jackson, Va.
Canton, Miss.	Orange C H, Va.
Charlotte, N. C.	Petersburg, Va.
Charlottesville, Va.	Raleigh, N. C.
Chattanooga, Tenn.	Richmond, Va.
Culpeper C H, Va.	Savannah, Ga.
Dalton, Ga.	Selma, Ala.
Dublin, Va.	Shelbyville, Tenn.
Graham, N. C.	Shoobuta, Miss.
Greenville, N. C.	Stateburgh, S. C.
Jackson, Miss.	Sumter, S. C.
Lynchburg, Va.	Tuscaloosa, Ala.
McKinley, Ala.	Winchester, Va.
Milledgeville, Ga.	Wytheville, Va.
Mobile, Ala.

A total of 35 towns. Of these 35 towns, Three stand out noticeably.

Mobile, with 86,
Richmond, with 28, and Milledgeville, with 16.

Total = 130, which is more than one-third of the entire "Apparent Output", and Mobile alone used more than one-fourth of this "Output".

Going further, and dividing by States, we find,

Alabama used 100 (of which 86 are "Mobile").

Virginia used 54 (28 are "Richmond").

Georgia used 31 (16 are "Milledgeville").

South Carolina used 10.

Mississippi used 6 (4 are "Jackson").

North Carolina used 6.

Tennessee used 2 (Chattanooga, Shelbyville).

Florida used 1 ("Monticello").

I have no record of any copies used in Louisiana, Texas or Arkansas.

It seems quite probable, from the small numbers used in Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina and Mississippi, that no supply was ever sent to those states from the main Post Office in Richmond; the copies cancelled there being ones that had been "carried in" by either soldiers or transients: four copies, however, show "Jackson, Miss.", and as that was the Capital, it may have received a supply. So we'll include "Mississippi".

We can, therefore, say, with a very good chance of being correct, that only five of the eleven Confederate States actually had the 10c "Outer Line" for sale at a Post Office; Alabama, Virginia, Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi.

I wish I could persuade the readers of this to give me a helping hand by loaning me any copies of this stamp they may have, for inspection. Undoubtedly, this "List of Towns" can be added to, and my Plating is like a jigsaw puzzle pieces, of various sizes and shapes, just waiting to be "Linked Together" by some items I have not yet seen. All stamps sent me will be treated with the greatest care and returned within a week of receipt. Address: Edward S. Knapp, 158 East 64th Street, New York City.

REDUCED POSTAL RATE.

YOUR HELP WANTED.

We are very desirous of securing the assistance of our subscribers in getting new names for our mailing list. Every one of you knows somebody who is interested in stamp collecting and all you need do is exhibit a copy of the WEEKLY to arouse interest in our publication. This will be especially true in the face of the fact that we offer a desirable premium to introduce our publication to persons who have never taken the paper before.

A list of good premiums is given herewith, and any one of the number will be given either to the new subscriber or to the person sending in the new subscription. The premium may go to one or the other, as preferred. We have some subscription forms convenient for use that we shall be glad to send to those subscribers who would like to have their names appear upon our monthly roll of honor. If you believe in philately and believe in the WEEKLY you should be able to talk it and secure new subscribers for it.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith), W.Somerville,44,Mass.

Nippon—("Rice Country")

This very interesting country is strongly represented among the scarce and unusual issues I can supply. Substantial discounts are in effect on good to very fine copies—both used and unused—commencing with Scott No. 1 and covering all issues up to 1914.

Particular attention is called to the fine lot of 1874-75 issues with syllabic characters, which include the rare 20 sen red-violet—(Scott No. 30)—and most of the commoner stamps.

There is a quaintness and charm about the Japanese stamps with which more collectors should be acquainted. True, counterfeits exist in too great abundance, but the stamps I offer are genuine originals and fully guaranteed. Selections submitted on approval to responsible collectors.

Wanted - Wanted - Wanted

The cash is ready to any reasonable amount for anything really fine in the following lines. If you have a collection or an accumulation or even a single item I am interested, providing IT IS FINE.

UNITED STATES

Early blocks and covers as well as fine single copies, either used or unused, of the imperforate issues. Mint blocks of the middle issues as well as any errors or varieties, such as part-perforates, printed on the back, doubles, etc., of the late issues.

FOREIGN

Fine blocks or unusual covers of the first issue of any country providing it was issued previous to 1860. Anything fine in the imperforate issues of France and Turkey, especially covers and blocks. Everything out of the ordinary in the way of early Canada. Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, British Columbia, as well as the British West Indies.

REMEMBER

That I am also in a position to furnish fine U. S., especially late issues in blocks. When you get tired of hunting for some of those late blocks, send me your want list. At the present time I have in stock a wonderful block of the 5c error imperforate, Scott's No. 394a; a fine copy on part of cover of the rarest coil, 3c Single Line, perf. 12, Scott's No. 340b, as well as the rare 2c rotary coil imperf., No. 370i, in a beautiful mint strip.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—In the American Philatelist for December, 1921, Vol. 35, No. 3, Mr. Stanley B Ashbrook presents in great detail facts which have lead him to conclude that the 24c, 30c and 90c imperforate, issue of 1860, Scott's Nos. 37, 38 and 39, were not regularly issued, and that if these are included in the catalogue the 30c black of the same issue is just as much entitled to recognition. This view has been generally accepted for some time by those advanced specialists who have given the subject any thought and I do not believe that anyone today will seriously dispute his contentions.

If there was any doubt in the past, the publication in October, 1913, of the "Steinmetz Miscellany" convinced the skeptic. In this little gray bound booklet of some fifty odd pages, Mr. Steinmetz brought to light for the first time extensive correspondence between the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General and the engravers, Messrs. Toppan, Carpenter & Co. of Philadelphia, relating to these very issues. Mr. Ashbrook quotes at great length from this correspondence to prove his contentions.

While these three stamps are on the same paper as the regularly issued stamp and while they may or may not have similar gum we know that these varieties are always distinguished even in the case of copies with small margins, by their unusual shades. Perforated copies have never been seen in the distinctive shades of the imperforate.

Mr. Ashbrook mentions that a copy on cover of the 30c was in the Worthington collection and was sold at $1,000. I have been reliably informed that this was returned as not being what it was supposed to be. If my memory serves me rightly this was sold by a Boston firm to Worthington, they having obtained it from the famous Paul collection of Philadelphia, which they purchased at the death of Mr. Paul. Someone has told me in the past, but I cannot recall who at the present time, that this cover was sold to Mr. Paul by the former company of Bogert & Durbin.

In my Chronicle for December 14th, I called attention to the fact that the new Scott catalogue listed for the first time the 3c lake and the 3c scarlet, as "not regularly issued" and went so far as to say that nine other stamps should be so designated. I referred to the three stamps discussed in the previous paragraphs, in addition to the August series of 1861, with the exception of the 10c and 24c values. No one has ever seen covers or satisfactory used copies bearing cancellations of the time of the 1c, 3c, 5c, 12c, 30c, or 90c, which could be accepted without dispute. In a well known Philadelphia collection there is a copy of the 5c cancelled with concentric circles but these cancellers were used many years later. A used 12c with a cork cancellation is in a large Baltimore collection but one of our well known experts questions this. Anyway, two swallows do not make Spring and these two copies prove little or nothing. I have never heard advanced any contention that would prove these varieties to have been actually sold at the post office in the regular course of business.

One other well known "standard rarity" should be added, in my estimation, to the not regularly issued category and that is the 1857 24c in the red lilac shade, Scott's No. 52b. This stamp only exists in unused condition and the few copies which I have seen, which includes a block of nine, have been of a more or less washed out appearance.

Two new provisional envelopes have just been received from Mr. H. Clay Reed which have not been seen heretofore.

AUSTRIA.—Mr. J. L. Riedel and the Economist Stamp Co. have shown us copies of the 7½kr in the type of Scott's A47 the colors being gold and brown. The same correspondents also send the 15h bistre, No. 222, overprinted in blue "Nachmarke 7½K" in two lines.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith sends us a copy of the 10sh stamp of the type of Scott's A6. It was issued on December 10th last and is dark red on green paper, watermarked multiple Crown CA.

DENMARK.—Messrs. Bright & Son report the following recent issues have appeared: 8o grey, 10o green, 30 on 8o grey numeral type, 60o blue green, King's head overprinted "Porto", 10o are what I believe in and deal in. I have the goods that cannot be found on every approval book, the class of stamps that are hard to get. If you have never given my approval selections the once over, get in line now, and see what you have missed.

I believe in holding old customers, and in making new ones. In two years I have made a record in this game, I believe, I have as many approval lots out as many dealers who have been in the business much longer. One thing sure, I have a nice stock of old U. S. post. and rev., B.N.A., Br. Colo., Old European, etc., etc. Only old issues, of hard-to-get sort, no cheap junk or trash on my sheets. I carry a line of slightly damaged scarce stamps, at cut prices, which are proving great sellers.

If you have $10 to $1000 to spend, let me hear from you.

FINLAND.—The Economist Stamp Co. have submitted the 10p stamp in a shade of ultramarine and the 50p in a grey green color.

FRENCH LEVANT.—Messrs. Bright & Son advise that the following additional values have been issued: 15pi on 1fc, 20pi on 2fc and 75pi on 5fc.

GERMANY.—Mr. Henry A. Meyer advises that he has just received a new advertising cancellation on a letter from his country. The wording is "Nimm Ein Postscheck Konto" and means Start Postal Savings Account.

GIBRALTAR.—We are informed by Bright & Son that the 3d blue in script watermark has appeared; 2½d in same color now having been recalled.

GUATEMALA.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the 25c green telegraph stamp of the 1919 issue with the surcharge 1921 CORREOS Doce Y Medio" in red and in four lines.

JAMAICA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have advised us of the appearance of the 1sh commemorative stamp on script watermarked paper.

Fine Stamps of the 19th Century are our specialty. We handle U. S. and Foreign. Many of our clients are willing to pay fancy prices for fancy items. If you have fine duplicates, a bundle of old correspondence, or a specialized collection to sell, you will find us liberal buyers for spot cash. Dealers catering to moderate priced trade will find it advantageous to send us items for which they have no quick demand. [H

J. O. MOORE, Inc., RHEIMS, N. Y.

LITHUANIA.—Mr. George Soulman shows us the stamps referred to in our issue 1614 and also sends in addition a 5 auks stamp that we have not had submitted before. At the left is an airplane flying over a building while on the other side of the stamp are the words "Lietuva" and just below "Oro Pastas" with the value "5 Auks 5" below. The colors are grey green and buff.

Mr. Soulman also submits another set of stamps with the likeness of an angel with arms outstretched on which rests an airplane. In the upper right corner is "1921" and at the base "Lietuva". The value is at the left and above "Oro Pasto", the right side, "Isteigimas". The values and colors are as follows: 20sk terra and blue, 40sk blue and red, 60sk dark blue and green, 80sk gold and green, 1 auk grey green and blue, 2 auk grey and terra and 5 auk grey lilac and blue green.

MALTA.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that he has the 1sh emerald all through, plate 3, on old watermarked paper, multiple CA.

NETHERLANDS.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 1g postage due, vermilion, perf. 12½.

PALESTINE.—In addition to the values mentioned in our last issue the Economist Stamp Co., report the following values bearing the London overprint: 4mm, 1pia, 2pia, 5pia, 9pia, 10pia and 20pia.

RAROTONGA.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us the following information regarding the stamps of this colony: Rarotonga surcharged on the current N. Z. postage stamps Queen Victoria type, 2sh blue, 2sh 6d brown, 5sh green and 10sh maroon. Also the 1 pound rose. All clean cut perforation, 14½ x 14.

RUSSIA.—Mr. Karl Koslowski advises us that he has just received the 3½r stamp as Scott's No. 135 but the lozenges horizontally laid. Mr. Koslowski adds that he has seen only the 1r and 7r chronicled horizontally laid. It is also printed from new plates in sheets of 50, or 5 stamps high and 10 wide.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—W. L. McAtee, U. S. Dept of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., is prepared to donate a small collection of franked or penalty envelopes to some club or society collection. Make your application direct to Mr. McAtee.

—"In The Saturday Evening Post of December 31, there is an interesting story entitled "The Postage Stamp", which deals with a number of well known stamps and different collections. The author surely must be a 'collector' as he seems to understand exactly what he is talking about and I have not as yet noticed where he is mistaken."—GEO. G. HUSH.

—Several correspondents have called our attention to an article in the Saturday Evening Post, a story entitled "The Postage Stamp". Mr. O. W. Crowder comments "I was glad to see that the author could get some actual dope on the stamps he wrote about."

—The veteran envelope dealer, S. Schachne begins this week a series of advertisements. His line of postal cards and foreign letter cards is without doubt unsurpassed in the entire world. We bespeak for him the patronage of our readers.

—F. E. Hook, 4715 Lincoln Av., Detroit, Mich., would like to hear from all parties having claims against David Belmore. Communicate with him at once and give him all the information possible.

—Wm. Lloyd informs us that one Bertrand Katscher, who about a year ago victimized a number of stamp dealers, was arrested about a month ago at Rotterdam on a government charge of using the mails to defraud.

—The Kansas City (Mo.) Stamp Club held its second annual dinner at the Hotel Savoy on Thursday, January 12.

—We have received from the Hiawatha Stamp Shop, Syracuse, N. Y., Pricelist No. 12, showing a fine line of sets, packets, albums and accessories in stock. Address the firm for a sample.

Stanley Gibbons Ltd.

have the pleasure to announce that they have purchased the entire stock of the old established and well known firm of

This fine and well selected stock comprises 118 LARGE STOCK BOOKS, also 20 VOLUMES OF AN IMPORTANT, WELL KNOWN AND VERY OLD COLLECTION, and A FAMOUS COLLECTION OF MEXICAN STAMPS, formed during the past 30 years, which is, at present, as purchased, in its entirety. There are also a number of books of rare stamps, and balances of various collections.

The WHOLESALE STOCKS are of vast extent—four GOVERNMENT REMAINDERS consisting of many millions of stamps. Three of these have not yet been placed on the market and particulars can be given to those who wish to purchase. In the VAST WHOLESALE STOCKS there are 160 large boxes packed with carefully selected reserves of the Faustino Martins, Loli, Roussin and other well known stocks. Very many of the varieties in this purchase do not exist elsewhere, and the amalgamation of this vast stock with our own is proceeding apace, and stock and approval books are being prepared as quickly as possible. Start The New Year Right

Pay closer attention to the 20th century British Colonial portion of your collection. You cannot buy more attractive stamps than these, nor can you invest your money to better advantage.

I wish I could impress every collector with these facts.

One of the best ways to test the desirability of these stamps is to ask dealers for approval selections of them, or to fill your want list.

You will be astonished to find how few desirable stamps they can supply at attractive prices.

Or take your catalogue and compare the prices it quotes on various 20th century British Colonials with the catalogue prices of four or five years ago.

At the present time, these issues are made doubly interesting by the advent of the new Script wmk.

Many of the old watermark stamps will become extremely valuable.

And many of the new watermark will quickly follow suit.

The 2½d, Gibraltar, has been retired after a few months' service and a 3d blue, conforming with the new postal rates, has succeeded it.

This is a sample of what can and will happen without notice.

If you want to build up your Edward and George issues, do it now—at once.

Send me your want list or ask for quotations.

I provide handy blank want lists, a supply of which is yours for the asking.

Approval selections of your wants will be sent as the stamps come into stock. References, of course, are necessary.

Also ask for a sample of my weekly lists.

This advertisement is serious propaganda on my part to interest you in 20th century British Colonial stamps.

It will be to your decided advantage to bolster up your collection of these issues.

DO IT NOW

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1615 to 1618 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

"A REAL DISCOVERY."

By PERCY MCGRAW MANN.

I read with much interest the article describing the discovery of cross-hatching in the lower right corner of a 3c Parcel Post stamp, as set forth on page 719 of the WEEKLY for Dec. 24, 1921, under the caption "A Real Discovery."

The illustration brought to mind a similar block of stamps which I have had on several occasions, and I recalled immediately that the drawing was incorrect and confusing. The artist who made the drawing did not delineate correctly that part of the stamp under discussion. This I will proceed to describe and anyone with a strong glass can verify my description.

The circle, containing the "3", forms a triangle in the corner. In the top angle of the triangle there is a horizontal line about ½mm. below the apex; from this horizontal line a straight vertical line extends upwards and merges into the left curved side of the triangle. Below this horizontal line there are five wavy vertical lines; the two at the right do not touch the horizontal line above them and the three at the left, making the total of five, merge into the left curved side of the triangle. By reference to the drawing above referred to, one can see five vertical lines, all merging into the left curved side of the triangle, therefore quite incorrect. The drawing illustrating the cross-hatching also shows six horizontal lines in the triangle. This is also incorrect because the copy of the stamp before me clearly shows there are only three horizontal lines in the triangle.

If the 3c Parcel Post stamp is examined very carefully, and one can also examine the other values of the same series at the same time, one can see that these triangles in the lower corners, both sides, are supposed to represent the bases of the pillars at the sides of the stamps, the circular tablets containing the numerals being superimposed. Looking at the pillars one can see, if a glass is carefully and accurately used, that fine horizontal lines are covering them. In all early prints of the stamps these fine or faint horizontal lines are also discernible on the bases of the pillars, i. e., two in each triangle in addition to the one strong horizontal line in each triangle, as described above. Therefore, I would go on record as stating that cross-hatching occurs in the triangles of all values of the parcel post series. After a little use the plates became worn and some of the stamps in each sheet would show that these fine horizontal lines had disappeared either partially or entirely. And in other words, I would call those stamps which do not show any horizontal lines in the lower triangles the variety.

However, the stamp described in the article in the WEEKLY is a variety. It is a double transfer, or shifted transfer, and the latter designation may be the more accurate. I had two blocks of these stamps with margin and plate number attached, and one was sold in my auction sale held on June 23 last. The plate number is 6257. A strong glass will disclose the doubling on the design under the top frame line, through the tops of the letters "ARCEL POS" and "NT", and there is a faint horizontal line at the bottom of the white circle containing the "3" at the left, and, also, the double rocking of the transfer at the lower right corner may account for the flattening of the right circle at the bottom and the extra heavy cross-hatching in the triangle at the lower right corner.

WHY DID THEY OVERLOOK POSTAGE STAMPS?

[La Grange (Ill.) Citizen.]

VOL XIII The Filatelic Filibuster No. 26

Our Motto "Fine Filling For Fallible Filatelists".

Upholstered Dungeon.

A communication just received from New York informs us that we are expected to fall in line with recent Gotham practice, and produce our indefensible publication in German. Of a certainty we know that the war is all over—all over the whole world, as usual—but we never knew that German had become the official language of philately until we began to receive a lot of auction catalogues printed in "die schoenste Sprache", said catalogs emanating from New York. You fellows who are trying to intimidate our naturally timorous editor would better buy two pick handles than one: you might bust the first and reserve forces might come in handy! When it comes to slinging that "deutsche allegemeine Unterstuetzungsgesellschaft" stuff, we can put it in the hospital as well as any man! However, in view of the fact that diplomacy is one of our especial hobbies, we believe that a few catalogs printed in French would look better.

We are in receipt of a communication from an eminent cataloguer, who says that he will throw a coupla shots of dyno-toluene into our idiotorial cold-storage plant if we bawl out any mistakes he makes in his catalogs.

Gee! That would suit us exactly. Our printer is as lazy as any of them, and it might wake him up. Again, the plant has been mortgaged twice already to pay for the New Europes we paid for twice to avoid trouble, but which the European dealers claim they have not been paid for yet, and if something happened to our little galley, we could collect the insurance and pay the Swiss cheese wholesalers all over again.

At any rate, any guy who thinks he can scarce this office with dynamite after we have survived four years of war stamps and three years of New Europe, is sticking his hinges on the wrong door—stamp we mean. Since Central Lithuania commenced issuing door checks, nothing makes us sick.

News From the Front.

We are informed that the Duke de Dodder objects to public use of that title, claiming that it is only an incog moniker. Sort of gear-shift, so to speak. His Secretary also informs us that the real title of the gentleman is Prince of Orange, which makes it all perfectly clear to us, as now we understand how he got in Dutch with the Margrave of Manila. Rumor has it that the "special cable" mentioned by the Prince in a recent edition of his "Pink Pimple" is one of the Manila Ropes handed him by the Margrave. We object to any such slander on the fair name of Pittsburgh, the original home of the aforesaid cable-rope boquet de cabaggeo.

We believe that the Prince-Duke has mistaken the initials, and that they are really A. D. S. A., which would mean something like "Another Darned Sad Argument", or "All Dealers Sell Aeroplanes". However, if his Serene Highness will insist on the other arrangement, we will explain to him that it should be construed as "Anzac Soldiers Defeat Austrians", explaining why the Austrian Crown is all shot to pieces. To our mind the best solution of this puzzle, for which we understand the Duke has offered a bottle of orange juice as a prize, is "All Serious Dealers Advertise". Just look at our colyumes, as our old friend Duane would say, and prove it.

Our old friend Seebum advertises that he has a large stock of Philatelic literature, "mostly stamp papers". That's our sentiment, Eddie! We always said stamp papers were philatelic, and now we have the evidence that they are literature, too.

A recent ad says "Something doing in Hayti". This last word must be a misprint for another well-known locality of equally hot climate, as we understand that Ferrary has just met Fournier and has asked about a lot of foney surcharges that Fourny sold him, years ago.

THE PRECANCELLED ALIBI.

By V. W. ROTNEM.

If someone had suggested back in 1908 that in a dozen years there would be five thousand enthusiastic precancel stamp collectors you would have looked at the prophet with wistful eyes and, in tones more or less audible, classified him in your list of semi-maniacs. Yet now that it has happened, today we must seek out the reasons why it has happened, and find out if we can what has caused the popularity of this new branch of philately to grow up since the war, seemingly of its own accord. The Precancel hobby today supports two societies, the International Precancel Club and the Precancel Club of America; there is one monthly magazine devoted exclusively to precancels; periodicals in this country and abroad are mentioning the hobby more and more and publishing precancel notes, comments and articles. The interest has become more than a sporadic boom, it is an established hobby.

You may perhaps smile, as I have smiled at the argument advanced, that in times of depression like this, the stamp hobby is more popular than ever before. However, I have stopped smiling: that statement is true in that more people need and use the hobby in hard times than any other. That they use it in lesser quantity if we measure their use in money units no one will deny. To a dealer who is interested in obtaining the largest possible sales per month, the smaller purchases of his best customers cause him to question the argument. However, there are more customers even tho the amount spent by each is less. That is where the argument bears fruit. There are more people actively collecting in times like the present, but the amount they spend for stamps is less per capita than that spent by the average collector in good times.

But, you say, there is no connection with this proposition and precancels. But there is. It is in a time like the present that the precancel hobby will be the most popular because it permits a man to spend a dollar and get 15 to 30 items for that dollar. It is so attractive from the financial consideration that in times like these it is little to be wondered at that it is so alluring.

And there are intricacies sufficient to please the United States collector who has been so used to watching for secret marks: twenty to thirty varieties of types, the 1890, 1902, 1908 issues, with the later issues in the three perforations; —10, 11 and 12. The commemorative issues, such as the Panama Pacific, the Jamestown, the Lincoln, the Louisiana purchase, the Pilgrim set, with the varied overprints are a possible speciality by themselves. Rarities are not lacking, as anyone who has attempted the completion of the Parcel Post stamps precancelled will verify. Finds occur every month of scarce victory and aeroplane precancels. And so we must concede that besides being economical as a method of satisfying the collective desire, the hobby really has philatelic possibilities of no mean proportions.

But the best point is that finds are possible for any collector of the new hobby. That the garret is fast becoming obsolete, even the most ardent searcher will gladly admit. However, the "precancelist's" garret is everyday's mail. A package from Dakota is as likely as not to be franked with a couple sevens from Williston or Fargo or perhaps Sioux Falls. Twenty cents automatically falls into the collector's fingers. A parcel from Cincinnati will include a ten cent Special Delivery and you have its face value in full precancel worth even after it has been used. To an ordinary collector of United States postage a twenty cent Bethlehem, Penn'a, would have a commercial value of from a penny to two cents; to the precancel enthusiast it jumps in value from ten to fifteen times that.

Thus we see there is that added interest of getting something for nothing. Who likes that better than a stamp collector in these times? Who with all the philatelic normalities does not like to see his collection wax fat with new varieties which have real commercial value and yet which are obtained because he is a precancel enthusiast? He is a step ahead, he has amassed knowledge which he capitalizes.

The universal use of the precancel is what makes much of this "unearned increment" value possible. This collector will be near a certain group of towns using precancels, another will be near a different group, and in exchanging they get a more representative collection. For instance, I used to find that Red Wing, Winona and Mankato, Minnesota precancels, were readily exchangeable in any part of the United States. I could get almost any kind. Napa, Cal., Bilioxi, Miss., Armadilla, Tex., or North Arlington, Mass., would find their way into my collection thru the exchange of the cities that I mentioned above. Every collector then has a little sphere of cities where he can get precancels from very readily an which are scarce when the collectors o the whole country are considered.

And so we see that the hobby is popula because it is financially reasonable, offers plenty of variety and intricacy an it has that added inducement of obtain ing value thru the capitalization o knowledge. It is an ideal pastime.

CHAPTER I.

Introduction.

Belgium, one of the smaller of the European countries, consists of the southern portion of the former kingdom of the Netherlands (as created by the Congress of Vienna), lying between France and Holland, the North Sea and Rhenish Prussia. Its greatest length from northwest to southeast is 173 miles, and its greatest breadth from north to south is 105 miles. Its total area is 11,373 square miles, or about half as large again as New Jersey. The country is divided into nine provinces—Antwerp, West Flanders, East Flanders, Hainault, Liége, Brabant, Limburg, Luxemburg and Namur, of which Luxemburg is the largest and Limburg the smallest. Brussels is the capital and, with its suburbs, the largest city, having a population well in excess of half a million. Antwerp is the chief commercial city of Belgium and has a population of about 300,000, while next in size are Ghent and Liége, each with more than 150,000 inhabitants.

Belgium's total population numbers more than eight millions and it is the most densely peopled country of Europe. The people consist of two races, Flemings and Walloons, with small numbers of Germans, French and Dutch. East and West Flanders, Antwerp and Limburg are almost wholly Flemish; and Brabant mainly so. The line between the Flemish and Walloon districts is sharply defined, the Flemish part being the richest and most cultivated. The French language has gained the ascendancy in educated society and in the offices of government; but the Flemish dialect prevails numerically in the proportion of nine to eight.

The surface of Belgium slopes generally from the southeast to the North Sea, and is drained by the Scheldt and the Meuse (Maas) and their numerous tributaries, of which the most important is the Sambre. The triangular region south of the Sambre-Meuse line consists of a series of plateaus, trenched by ravines and narrow valleys, belonging mostly to the system of the Ardonnes. Where it is not marsh and moor land it is heavily wooded. To the north of the same line the surface is nearly a level plain, which has been made exceptionally fertile by the unremitting labors of generations. Artificial embankments protect the low lying lands and the seaboard from inundations. The country along the north boundary, between the Scheldt and the Meuse, known as the Campine, was a region of barren sand; but here and in other parts the peasantry, by spade labor and heavy fertilizing, have, during the last seventy years, won thousands of acres to effective cultivation. It has been said that the agriculture of Belgium is gardening on a large scale, so carefully and laboriously is every inch of the soil cultivated by the farmers, the vast majority of whom are small holders owning less than one hectare (about 2½ acres) of land. The spade is still the principal implement used.

The greatest wealth of Belgium lies in its deposits of coal and iron. The former stretch along the Sambre and the Meuse all the way from the Franco-Belgium frontier west of Mons as far as Liége, and they have a surface area of no less than 555 square miles.

It has numerous manufactures and in the middle of the 13th century Flanders, with Bruges as its chief seat of manufactures, had surpassed all its neighbours in industry. After the discovery of America Antwerp took the place of Bruges. The unhappy period of Spanish oppression and the war in the Netherlands deeply depressed Flemish commerce. But Belgium has long been again a busy and prosperous country commercially, the separation from Holland having been indirectly favorable to the development of Belgian resources.

Belgium employs the French decimal system of weights, measures and moneys.

Although full liberty of worship is guaranteed to all, and the ministers of each denomination are paid by the State, almost the entire population are Roman Catholics, the number of Protestants being only about 15,000 and of Jews 4,000.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

Owing to a decreased cost in the manufacture of our "Economist Album" we take pleasure in reducing the selling price. The small size (10¼x10¾) will be $11.50, and the large size (13¾x14¾) $14.50.

There is no album on the market that can start to compare with the Economist, even at a higher cost. The principal reason of the reduction is owing to the fact that we have produced them in larger quantities and purchasing the various materials necessary at a lower cost enables us to give the consumer the benefit. "The Economist" album is now being used by the largest collectors throughout the country. If the cost can still further be reduced in the future, it will be duly announced.

and hereditary monarchy. The legislative body consists of two chambers—the Senate, and the Chamber of Representatives, non-resident members of the latter body being paid a small salary when the house is in session. Both bodies are elective.

As a country Belgium has been the shuttlecock of European politics for many centuries and has been the battleground of several great European wars. It was the Gallia Belgica of the Romans and passed from them under the sway of the Franks. Later it formed part of the Duchy of Burgundy and on the death of Charles the Bold, in 1477, it passed by marriage to the House of Hapsburg. As the Spanish Netherlands (unlike the northern provinces which rebelled against Spain and became a Protestant republic in the 16th century), it remained under the Spanish branch of the Hapsburgs until in 1713 they were transferred to Austria. From 1794 Belgium was under French sway, but on the fall of Napoleon was united with the kingdom of the Netherlands.

The partnership did not work well and the history of the modern kingdom of Belgium dates from 1830, when it rebelled from Holland. A provisional government was formed, and was acknowledged by the whole of Belgium. The resolution of the Dutch Parliament that Belgium and the Netherlands should be separately administered, but under the same king came too late to check the revolution. The crown of the new kingdom was offered to Leopold of Saxe-Coburg, husband of the Princess Charlotte of England and Uncle of Queen Victoria, and accepted by him on June 4th, 1831. In the ensuing struggle the Dutch forces defeated the Belgians; but the latter were speedily supported by a French army, and the Dutch ports were blockaded by British and French fleets. King William had, therefore, to recognise the inevitable, and Belgium became definitely a separate kingdom in 1832.

CHAPTER II.

Early Postal History.

According to the late M. Moens, the eminent Belgian philatelist, the postal history of Belgium dates back to 1776, when the Chevalier Paris de l'Epinard, a Frenchman living in Brussels, propounded some very advanced views to the then Governor of that City on the subject of postal reform. His scheme, which only extended to the collection and delivery of letters in and within a radius of six miles of Brussels, embraced several points, upon the importance of which Sir Rowland Hill placed particular emphasis some 63 years later. Among these was a proposition that the public should be invited to prepay their letters by some kind of stamp—"au moyen de marques á ce destinées". He also made a proposal that any number of sheets of paper, which did not together exceed a certain weight, should be considered a single letter—a matter which was so long a stumbling block to English post-office officials when postal reform was being discussed in 1839. Again he urged that circular letters, sent in considerable numbers, should be passed through the post at a low rate of postage. Needless to say the Chevalier was much in advance of his times and the Procureur-General of Brabant, to whom his scheme was submitted, rejected it for several reasons. He said "that a petty post could only thrive in such large centres as London or Paris, and must needs languish in a small city, such as Brussels, in which the notables could send round their correspondence by means of their servants. That therefore an organization of the kind could only lead to the propagation of libels, pasquinades and other ribaldry, which might be circulated without the authors running the risk of being discovered; a state of things which was certainly rather to be discouraged than promoted. And finally, even admitting the necessity of the proposed scheme, its direction should be confided to a man of acknowledged worth, and not to a dratted foreigner". Which only goes to show that though a man may not be a prophet in his own country it does not necessarily follow that he will be looked upon as such in a foreign one.

Apparently the subject of postal reform was shelved until in 1840, Great Britain led the way by introducing penny postage and issuing postage stamps. Such a far reaching reform attracted the attention of foreign governments everywhere and it was not long before Belgium was considering the application of this system to its own postal organization. On the 12th February, 1841, therefore, Mr. L. Bronne, at that time Inspector of the Central Administration of the Belgian Post Office, was sent to London to investigate the English system. Mr. Bronne was strongly impressed with the advantages of Sir Rowland Hill's scheme and recommended his government adopt a similar one and also issue adhesive stamps or stamped envelopes for the prepayment of postal charges. Mr. Bronne, himself, thought more favorably of the envelopes than the stamps and, in fact, designed an envelope for the use of the Belgian Post-office.

Mr. Bronne's report led to the appointment of a special commission by the Minister of Foreign Affairs, who was at that time also Minister of Public Works, on April 10th, 1841, to make a thorough enquiry into the matter. This commission reached no decision and after prolonging matters for some years the merchants of Brussels became impatient and appointed a second commission who were charged to agitate for postal reform based on a uniform rate of 10 centimes.

Even then matters were not unduly hastened for more than two years elapsed before the Postal Reform laws were passed by the Belgian Senate on December 24th, 1847. These laws provided for uniform charges for letters of specified weights sent certain distances and also specified that postage stamps should be issued for franking letters. Although this law was dated December 24th, 1847, it required another enactment, dated the 22nd April, 1849, to bring the system of prepayment into actual use, and the employment of stamps did not commence until the first day of July following.

CHAPTER III.

The First Issue.

The first issue of stamps for the Kingdom of Belgium comprised but two values—10 and 20 centimes—but they were quite sufficient for a postal system into which conventions with foreign countries scarcely entered. The 10 centime stamp paid the postage on a single letter (i. e., one weighing not more than 10 grammes or about ⅓oz.) for distances not exceeding 30 kilometres (about 18¾ miles), while the 20 centimes paid the postage for distances beyond 30 kilometres within the confines of the kingdom. The charges for heavier letters were fixed at 20c for those weighing more than 10 and less than 20 grammes; 40c for those weighing more than 20 and less than 60gr; 60c for those over 60 and less than 100gr, and 20c for every additional 40 grammes or fraction thereof.

The new law came into force on July 1st, 1849, and although stamps were sold at many post-offices for a few days prior to that date they were not good for postage until the day officially decreed.

"MINISTRY OF PUBLIC WORKS.

At the request of our Minister of Public Works, we have decreed and do decree:—

1. That stamps of 10 and 20 centimes be issued to prepay the postage on letters.

2. That the said stamps bear Our portrait; that there be inscribed upon them the word POSTES, together with an indication of their value, which will be repeated in figures.

3. That they be sold by the officials of the Administration of Posts.

Our Minister of Public Works is directed to carry out the orders given by this decree.

Given at Brussels, June 17, 1849
(Signed) LEOPOLD

By the King
The Minister of Public Works,
(Signed) H. ROLIN."

On the day of the publication of this Decree the Minister of Public Works addressed the following circular to the postmasters of the Kingdom:—

"The tax collectors will shortly receive the first supply of postage stamps, the quantity being based upon their presumed requirements for one month, and they will take pains to supply, without delay, the distributors under their orders, so that the sale of these stamps can commence, throughout the kingdom, on the 25th of June.

In order to facilitate this sale there will be sent to the collectors, with the present circular, a considerable number of announcements, which they will be instructed to send out immediately to merchants and other persons who habitually use the postal service. It will, however, be necessary to inform buyers of these stamps that they will not be valid before the 1st of July, the date fixed for the introduction of the new method of prepaying postage on letters. It is also to be understood that every letter forwarded up to midnight of the 30th June will be subject to the tariff fixed by the law of Dec. 29, 1835; and that this rate shall be collected, whatever may be the time of its actual arrival at its destination.

I hope I may count upon the zeal and activity of the postal agents in the execution of the measures which are expected to assure the success of the postal reform; and that they will, above all, take advantage of every opportunity of bringing its advantages to the notice of the public.

I desire also that the agents and officials of every grade be permitted to read these instructions, and that their attention be called particularly to the regulations concerning postage stamps."

Having seen that the Royal decree was properly published, and having issued full instructions to the postmasters, it only remained for Mr. Rolin to instruct the public on the use of the new postage stamps, which he did by means of a Ministerial Notice dated June 18th, 1849, viz.:—

"The Use of Postage Stamps. Prepayment of letters by means of stamps.

In order that the public may not be subjected to the annoyance caused by the present means of prepaying letters, the Administration will cause to be sold, at the rate of 10 and 20 centimes, stamps with which letters may be franked within the interior of the kingdom, without its being necessary to pay the amount of the postage in actual coin at the post offices.

These stamps consist of a small engraving of the King's portrait, together with an indication of value in words and figures: they will be printed on paper of which the back is provided with a light coating of gum.

The value of each stamp may also be known by its color and the color of the printing upon it; brown is used for the 10 centimes stamp, and blue for the 20 centimes.

To frank a letter all that will be necessary is to moisten the gum at the back of a stamp, and then affix it to that part bearing the address. It may then be put into a letter-box without further formalities."

The two stamps forming this issue are among the most artistic of the world's postal issues and are deservedly popular in consequence. The design is simple and shows a three-quarter face bust of King Leopold I in military uniform, reputed to be a very good portrait of the wise old monarch. Above the portrait the word "POSTES" is curved, at the foot is the value in words, and in the upper angles are small circular discs containing numerals of value. The background is formed of lines slanting from right to left and at the right side a scroll pattern is introduced into the shading.

HOUSECLEANING WHO WANTS THESE?
200 covers before stamps, many different town cancellations, five different for a Dollar.
300 covers containing the 3c stamps of 1851, 1856, 1861, five different for a Dollar.
Thousands of old U. S. postage, dues, Revenues, Cut squares, etc., that I would like to clean out. Average copies, no junk. 100 different for a Dollar.
About 20,000 varieties of foreign stamps in stock. If you are a general collector, I can fill many of your empty spaces at attractive prices. Send me a want list and a Dollar.
If any of the above lots do not suit you when you get them, shoot back and I will return your Dollar. But, honestly, I'm going to make each Dollar lot so good that there won't be any chance of your wanting to send it back. I'm going to clean right out of everything except "Earlies" and play with the things that sell from a Dollar up, instead of a Dollar down.

VARIETIES OF THE EARLIER SWEDEN.

With apologies to the Publishers of "Handbok Ofver Sveriges Frankotecken 1855-1920".

By SWEN GORANSON.

The errors and varieties of the early stamps of Sweden have been to me a very interesting source of study, and with the hope of assisting others. I have endeavored with the help of data at hand, to compile this little article.

Let us begin with 3 skilling, No. 1, yellow instead of green. This stamp is, perhaps, the rarest of all the Swedish stamps, only one copy is so far known to exist. This is also the only known error of this variety.

No. 2. 4 skilling has several errors. such as PYRA, FYBA and FIRA instead of FYRA in the lower panel. The error FIRA is the rarest of the three.

No. 3. 6 skilling. No errors known.

No. 4. 8 skilling. This stamp has a double figure 8 in the upper right corner, which appears on all shades.

No. 5. 24 skilling. TJOGU instead of TJUGO in the lower panel, also EYRA instead of FYRA. The latter variety is very rare, only one copy known which reposes in the Postal Museum at Stockholm.

All the stamps of the issue of 1858, except 9 ore, have been found with the error ORF instead of ORE in the lower panel. 5 ore, No. 6, appears also with FFM and FF.M instead of FEM, also with FF.M and ORF appearing on the same stamp. Our Swedish cataloguer warns us that all these typographical errors are often counterfeited by painting over the parts supposed to be missing in the letters, by colors corresponding to the colors of the respective stamps. However this is easily detected by dropping pure alcohol over the suspected place, which, if the error is counterfeited, will quickly restore the stamp to its original form without injury to same.

12 ore, No. 9, printed on both sides, is another of the ultra rare varieties of Sweden. It was circulated from the City of Gothenburg in 1871. So far there are only five copies discovered, three in mint condition and two used, of which one is in the Postal Museum at Stockholm and the remaining four held by private collectors. 50 ore, No. 12, has appeared with FFMTIO instead of FEMTIO in the lower panel, but on examination found to be purely counterfeits.

Of the issue of 1862-66 we find only one error, namely, the 3 ore, No. 13, printed on both sides. This variety is not quite as rare as No. 9, as there are about twenty used copies known, but none in mint condition. A private Swedish collection contains, beside three single copies, each with different town cancellations, a superb pair, which was found as late as 1920, and is considered, next to 3 skilling, No. 1, yellow, the rarest philatelic discovery ever made in Swedish stamps.

In the issue of 1872-77, perf. 14, all denominations, except the 1rd, No. 27, exist with the numerals in the center shaded. The 3, 12 and 30 ore also appear with exceptionally heavy numerals. The 20 ore, No. 23, vermilion with "Double Print", was discovered in 1920 by a then eleven years old Swedish philatelists, William Wennberg, a son of the eminent philatelist, Harry Wennberg. In examining several thousand copies of this stamp the young man discovered some peculiar yellow shadings running along the vermilion lines. Calling his father's attention to the same, and after several inquiries from the post office Department and also from prominent collectors, it was established that the stamp in question was really a genuine double print. It appears that the stamp, was originally printed in a pale orange color and could not readily be distinguished from the current 24 ore orange, hence the calling in of the remainders which were then overprinted in vermilion. So called "Back Prints" are found on all denominations of this issue.

The issue of 1877-79, perf. 13, also appears with the center figures shaded, as in the previous issue, and all denominations printed on both hard and soft paper, except 6 ore and 1 rd., which were printed on hard paper only. The 4, 12, 20 and 30 ore also exist with heavy figures in center. The 20 ore with very uneven numerals, and the 30 ore with the center figures connected. All the denominations, except the 1 rd., are found imperforate. In this issue we find the world renown and celebrated error 30/20 ore which has been described and discussed so many times in the past, that more talk about it seems unnecessary. Suffice it to say that about 800 copies were printed and released, but how many survived is impossible to say.

The 10 ore of 1885 is found imperforate, the only variety known of this stamp.

The inverted surcharges on the 10 on 12 ore and 10 on 24 ore of 1889 are nothing but counterfeits.

The issue of 1886-91, post horn on back, has very few typographical errors. 2 ore, No. 40, seems to have been selected to boast with them all. Here we find the figure 2 with a long narrow tail; period before and after the word FRIMARKE; the two combined on the same stamp; periods before and after FRIMARKE and "dots" before TVA on the same stamp; the E in ORE broken on lower leg; the outer circle over the letters R and I in FRIMARKE missing, and many others too numerous to mention. 6 and 10 ore also 1kr exist imperforate. 20 and 30 ore are found printed on card board paper.

Of the official stamps of 1874-77, I will mention that they all appear imperforate, also all of them printed on cardboard paper.

In the issue of 1881-85 official, perf. 13, we find the 3, 4, 5, 10, 20, 30, 50 ore and 1kr. imperforate, and the 6 and 20 ore on card board paper. 12 ore, No. 417, with heavy figures in the right oval, and 20 ore, No. 418, with the letters in TJUGO partly open or only outlined.

All the stamps of the 1891-93 official issue appear imperforate. The 20 ore, No. 426, with the letter M in the right oval missing.

In the issue of 1889 official, surcharged, are to be found some very interesting errors, such as, the surcharge inverted, on both denominations, and FR:MARKE instead of FRIMARKE on both. Of the latter variety one appears on each sheet. Of the 10 on 12 ore, inverted, 200 copies were printed, and of the 10 on 24 ore inverted, only 100 copies, of which fifty are cancelled LUND 26/12 1889.

Both surcharges have been found on the issue of 1874, perf. 14. Of No. 423 eighteen copies are known to exist, one mint and seventeen cancelled VASTERAS Okt. 1889. Of No. 424 fourteen in mint condition and two used copies are known.

The so-called "Local Stamps for City of Stockholm" have no typographical errors as far as known, but while on this subject it would not be amiss to mention something about the differences between the "Star" and "Town" cancellations on these stamps. In the first place it may be a wrong idea to consider them purely "local" for the City of Stockholm. To quote a writer in Svensk Filatelistisk Tidskrift, who, upon inquiry gives us the following information: "It is a mistake, though perhaps many collectors believe, that the black and brown local stamps were used only in the City of Stockholm. They are also described as local for City of Stockholm in albums and catalogues. In reality the 1 skilling black, issued 1856, was used only in the City of Stockholm until 1862 (or more correctly, November, 1861). But when the 3 ore brown was issued in 1862 it was ruled that the local postage stamps should be used in all cities where local mail had been established. This also is proven by the fact that most of the black stamps are cancelled with the 'Star' cancellation, which was stopped when the new ruling went into effect. Hence the reason why only a few of the brown stamps are found with the 'Star' cancellation."

The errors and varieties herein described I consider major and are very interesting to a collector who wishes to study the details of the stamps of a certain country. There are, of course, countless minor varieties which a specialist is constantly looking for but very seldom finds.

In concluding I hope that this little article will be of some help to collectors who, for their philatelic researches, have chosen Sweden as one of their favorite countries.

PANAMA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS.

By FREDERICK E. HEYDON.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Acknowledgment of Receipt Stamps.

In Chapter XIX I mentioned the different kinds of registration stamps used in Panama and Colon and will not go over the same ground again, but would say that the acknowledgment of receipt stamps used at Colon prior to the general issue in 1904, always read A. R.—COLON. The others while they are here described as Panama issues may have been in general use, but it is more probable that the A. R. stamps issued by the Colombian government were used for this purpose. Indeed this must have been the general practice at Panama.

The first acknowledgment of receipt stamps that can be assigned to Panama appeared in 1902, when the regular adhesives of the 1892-1896 issue were surcharged "A. R." in a flattened circle.

501. 5c blue, surcharged rose.
  a. 5c blue, double surcharge rose.
502. 5c blue, surcharged red.
503. 5c blue, surcharged purple.
504. 5c blue, surcharged magenta.
505. 10c yellow, surcharged rose.
  a. 10c yellow, double surch. rose.
  b. 10c yellow, inverted surch. rose.
506. 10c yellow, surcharged red.
507. 10c yellow, surcharged magenta.

I have not seen covers with the Colombian acknowledgment of receipt stamps used in Panama, but this must have been the case as there was a stock on hand available for surcharging, and we have these provisionals on the 10c blue.

508. 10c blue, bluish paper, imperforate, surcharged REPUBLICA DE — PANAMA in two lines in rose-red (1903).
  a. Double surcharge.
  b. Additional surcharge "5" in rose-red.
  c. Surcharge "5" only in rose-red.
509. 10c blue, bluish paper, surch. "Panama" and bar in rose-red, issued early in 1904.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Colon Acknowledgment of Receipt Stamps.

The Colon post-office as early as 1898 commenced surcharging the ordinary adhesive stamps with a rubber hand stamp, for use as acknowledgment of receipt stamps. This was done with very slight regard to neatness and it appears to have been a matter of but little consequence whether the inscription was in normal position, inverted or diagonal, while double surcharges are not unusual. Even the color seems to have been regarded as a matter of indifference, any available stamping pad in the office apparently being employed. The resulting varieties were evidently unintentional if not particularly interesting.

511. 5c blue, surch. (b) in blue black.

512. 5c blue, surch. (b) black.
513. 5c blue, surch. (b) violet.

Many varieties due to displacement or omission of one of these surcharges are mentioned in Luff's reference list, but as in other cases of misplaced hand-stamp surcharges they are not recommended to collectors. The word COLOMBIA was finally cut out of the hand-stamp but some portions of the letters usually remain. I am unable to say when this change was made, but my impression is that copies will be found with the first COLON surcharge and COLOMBIA complete. As this point is of considerable interest any definite information will be appreciated. In referring to the surcharge A. R.—COLON-COLOMBIA as (b) in later issues the reader will understand that the complete inscription is not to be expected.

f. PANAMA third A raised (3rd printing).

* Undoubtedly existed but not reported as known. Other varieties existing in later printings of the 3rd Panama issue may be looked for and this line of research is suggested as promising considerable new data.

538. 5c blue, surch. (e) carmine, (b) magenta and (f) magenta.

This (f) is another example of the speculative Colon issue previously referred to. The surcharge was absolutely unnecessary, the surcharge (e) being entirely adequate.

539. 10c blue on bluish, surch. (f) magenta.

This latter is not quite as objectionable as the preceding, as the Colombian acknowledgment of receipt stamps undoubtedly needed some sort of a Panama surcharge to validate them. A copy on original cover would possess a certain amount of interest, but unused deserves scant recognition.

BOCAS DEL TORO ISSUE.

Colombian acknowledgment of receipt stamps are only known with the second type of surcharge, the genuineness of which has been treated elsewhere. On original covers they are entitled to recognition, as there were no other stamps of this class available there for postal use. On account of the numerous counterfeits of this type of surcharge the stamps when off covers should be carefully considered. The status of genuine copies was for a long time clouded by the spurious article.

540. 10c blue on bluish, surch. (g) violet.

We are probably safe in fixing February, 1904, as the date of issue of this stamp, as that is when the surcharge appears on the registration stamps. As no acknowledgment of receipt stamps have been reported with the first Bocas del Toro surcharge we must conclude that if such stamps were required at earlier dates (after Nov. 1, 1903), Colombian stamps were used either without surcharge or corrected with a pen. The former alternative was probably resorted to, as unsurcharged Colombian registration stamps have been seen on covers with regular postage prepaid with Colon issues.

HERBERT BOWEN, MEMORIAM.

Adopted by the Detroit Philatelic Soc'y.

The Detroit Philatelic Society is called upon to record with deep sorrow, the death, on December 17, 1921, of its beloved Honorary Life Vice President, Herbert Bowen, one of its charter members, and a past Vice President of the American Philatelic Society, whose very name has for decades commanded the unqualified respect of philatelists throughout the country.

Born in East Aurora, New York, of sound old New England stock, Mr. Bowen's entire professional career began as a student in the office of Judge B. F. Graves, and all but the first twenty-one of his nearly seventy-five years of life were spent in Detroit, where, until the infirmities of age gradually forced his retirement, he occupied an increasingly honored and trusted place, not merely at the very forefront of his chosen profession of the law, but as well in activities in many and diverse lines which make for cultured, fine-grained, helpful citizenship. Naturally of a studious, historical turn of mind, he long ago attained a position of authority among those appreciative of such characteristics, which was clouded only by his unusual modesty, and his constant tendency to "hide his light under a bushel". His interest in literary matters found a congenial setting in his service as Public Library Commissioner, and the City's appreciation of his services, and of his valuable contributions to the Library's treasured holdings, is permanently expressed by the naming of one of the Branch Libraries after him.

None but his God knows more than the merest fraction of the unobtrusive, genuinely helpful efforts on behalf of the poor and the unfortunate, which have characterized the almost daily life of Mr. Bowen and his devoted wife, for many, many years. Perhaps it is well that this is so, for not only would publicity as to this, have robbed his quiet, retiring personality of much of the satisfaction which the mere doing of such good works gave him, but when now this one, and now that one, happened to learn of individual cases of this kind, invariably in a most roundabout way, the very suddenness and unusual character of the discovery could not but leave a most profound and often personally inspiring influence upon the hearer.

Naturally, we of the Detroit Philatelic Society have known Mr. Bowen most intimately along the lines of our hobby, and we leave it to his associates, in his other activities, to tell of the intimacies which bound him to them, along these lines.

His interest in philately dates back to the years when our hobby was generally regarded more as a boy's pastime, than as a fit subject for the serious attention of mature, cultured men. Collecting stamps, because he loved them as such, rather than because of the mere commercial value of this, that, or the other specimen, he long ago attained a position of authority, both local and national, that was exceeded only by the personal regard in which he was everywhere held. While he was what might be termed a "universal specialist", in that the stamps of all countries had a fascination for him, which he gratified generously, it was the stamps of our own country which really occupied first place in his affections, particularly the revenue stamps, both general issues and private proprietaries, as to which he was a country-wide authority, and his collection of which ranked among the foremost in the country, until, calmly accepting his physician's warning that his days were numbered, he undertook the distribution of his philatelic treasures among his family and friends. And it is gratifying to know that Mr. Bowen, after years of patient, uncomplaining bearing of the standard of good old substantial issues of all countries, lived to see and appreciate, with the arrival of every stamp publication, whose perusal served to while away the hours in his retirement, the gratifying way in which these untainted classics have at last forged into their deserved position of leadership.

Although Mr. Bowen's health had prevented his attendance at our meetings for some years, scarcely a meeting passed without his name being mentioned or his opinion quoted as controlling authority on what was under discussion. And it is worthy of note, that those fortunate enough to be able to quote him, had always had to ask for his opinion; he was far too modest to offer it unsolicited. He indeed will be missed, but his quiet, consistent support of everything honorable, upright, and discriminating, cannot but profoundly influence all whom he honored with his friendship, throughout the years to come.

THE HOSPITALERS.

By EDWIN B. HILL, Ysleta, Texas.

It has been said, not wholly without truth, that the sign of approaching age is disclosed principally in living in the past,—discussing it,—advocating it,—making part and parcel of the life today. Perhaps this is true. I shall not contradict, for am I not one who daily grows older? But, before I enter wholly into the life of yester-year, let me recall, for the delectation of the present generation, a few facts concerning the old collector,—the man who loved the bits of paper beyond words,—the dear old chap who now looks back on the dead days with secret affection and more secret misgivings.

Those were the good old days, gone beyond recall. Then it was not accounted almost criminal to possess a poor copy of a desired stamp. If one used the old International—and nearly every one utilized it then, a perfection stamp hob-nobbed with a torn or otherwise damaged bit of paper, and none was there to criticise or to cavil.

I have been assured that my indorsement of the damaged stamp is not making for philately. Perhaps not,—but I am firm in my own faith. Those who do not choose to be with me may fight my theories and my practises, but they do not convince me that I am wholly wrong. The inevitable question arises. Who has made us into an army of one thought? Who is responsible for the specializing, and the dicta that have come to us who love the bits of paper for the sake of the stamp and the mark of the cancel? Why should the real stamp-lover turn aside? Is it the fear of being abnormal that appalls? Then let me be the fighter, solitary and sole who makes a last stand for individuality,—for personal freedom. Let me be the one lover of stamps who would plead with my fellow collectors to enlist under the mis-prized banner. And that, as one who is mentor declares, is the true collector. Faith, hope and love for our stampic treasures,—all these point to the same end.

The past several months have meant much to me, here in the open. I have learned to visualize more and more. Whimsically, I have formed a club of one, and I think added unto it a second believer. The title is as whimsical as the idea which formulated it. I love the discards of life as well as the discards of philately. Books that are battered and tattered,—ancient albums that bear the marks of loving hands, denuded though they be of stamps that made glad some denizen of the Silent Land,—these, and many things besides.—old houses and old friends as well,—interest me mightily. And so, one day, I formed in mind only, a little club of collectors. There were to be no dues,—no sales,—but of exchanges as we may, with material in hand. It was all a vision,—a day dream, perhaps; but on this first day of the new year I would spread the good news

The Hospitalers. This is my club. It has no officers. Friendship and gentleness and peace and all the joys of collecting shall be ours. The name does not mean that the membership shall consist of those who are candidates for, or denizens of a hospital: but the stamps we collect are certainly in that category. The little club offers nothing further. It would band together the young and the old,—the real collectors,—

"The poor of purse, the poor of wit,"—if the designation is correct which certain of the purists are certain to attach to us. But, then, what does it matter? "What does anything matter?" questions a philosopher. And, knowing, we of The Hospitalers shall not question.

The Hospitalers do not seek a large membership. In fact, it does not solicit members at all. But those who feel with us,—those collectors who do not discard the torn and the heavily canceled and the damaged stamp,—those who are not affiliated wholly with the purists,—are welcome to add their names to our roster. The sole and solitary essential for membership is that love beyond words,—that reverence we all should feel for the ill-used and the mistreated, in stamps or in society. Who, then, shall be of The Hospitalers?

This is the New Year message I would send forth, through the medium of the WEEKLY to all its readers,—a good word for the lover of the bits of paper,—to those who feel and to those who think,—to those who do both: be gentle to our foibles, for have not we, too, been perfectionists in our youth? Were not these stamps we now collect and treasure once perfect of their kind? Though fallen on evil days, let us rescue them,—let us cling to them and love them. Therein is peace and joy and that contentment unknown to him who searches and finds not,—to him who belittles the stamp-lover who loves but cannot afford perhaps to enrich his album with perfection treasures. For of such is the little kingdom comprised wherein The Hospitalers throw wide the doors of welcome.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—A. M. Heikel, Crockett, Cal., writing to C. A. Pitkin for an approval selection gives the WEEKLY as reference. This action was taken without our knowledge or consent, and we desire to state publicly that dealers should in all cases communicate with us in matters of this kind.

—The C. S. Watson Co., East Dedham, Mass., is sending out the Weka Catalog at the reduced price of $1 plus postage. The catalog has sold for more and the firm is desirous of making refunds to those of their patrons who have paid a higher price.

—A subscriber in Eagle, Idaho, wishes us to advise our readers not to use nonpeelable hinges. He writes a strong letter on the subject and encloses a sample of a hinge that should be banned. He writes:—"After a young collector has made up his mind to change his stamps into a different album he will find it impossible to remove them except with the greatest difficulty. If a hinge like the enclosed is used on a mint stamp it would be impossible to detach the stamp without great injury. I bought these hinges from a man who has done a big business with beginners, and I hope that he has come to see the error of his ways."

—We have received further information in regard to D. O. Tubbs, mention of whom was made a few weeks ago. An Ohio subscriber informs us that Tubbs has figured in other discreditable transactions and that dealers should not send him any approval selections.

—The Galveston Philatelic Society has just issued a pretty prospectus for 1922. It gives the details of the twelve exhibits and entertainments offered for the meetings of the coming year.

—Ted J. Tyrrell sends us a copy of a stamp album sold by the Woolworth chain stores during the holiday season. It is some album for the price indicated, and without doubt has greatly aided in popularizing stamp collecting with the boys and girls.

—Several subscribers have sent us copies of the clipping from the Washington Star dealing with philately in Washington. The first was received from C. J. West, and we thank all of our readers who thus favored us.

—A subscriber wishes us to insert a notice to the effect that a certain party in Auburn, N. Y., has neglected to return an approval selection. It is not our practise to insert a notice of this kind Put any claim in the hands of an attorney and we shall be willing to take action on the report submitted to us. If we were to publish all the names sent to us as being connected with dishonest transactions we might soon find ourselves in trouble.

—A. H. Pike of Buffalo, N. Y., acknowledges the receipt of a back number of the WEEKLY needed to complete his file, secured through the courtesy of a subscriber. Mr. Pike now has a complete file of our publication and declares that it would be a difficult task for anyone to try and separate him from it.

—W. J. Zink writes us as follows:—"It may interest you to know that one Ryfkogel, with address Box 1422, Cristobal, C. Z., has been arrested by the postal authorities there and charged with violation of the U. S. postal laws. This party secured stamps under the name of H. Bregdoll, Box 656, Cristobal."

—I. O. Wiley, old-time collector of Modesto, Cal., died suddenly on January 1st, at St. Francis Hospital, San Francisco. He arrived on New Year's eve on a visit to S. F. and was taken ill suddenly with heart failure.—EDWIN P. SEEBOHM.

—Regarding the Scout Post stamps of Czechoslovakia submitted by Mr. Edward Thomson, I have had the 20h red used on cover for about a year. The cover, which bears all appearances of having seen service, is addressed to "P. T. Narodni Vybor, Praha". It bears a stamped memo "Dopis od skauts——prevzal:——" with a scrawled word which seems to be "Strettihs" filling in the first blank. On the back is stamped imprint in a double circle, "Cesky Yacht-Klub—V. Praze". I had always judged the Narodni Vybor to be a newspaper in Prague; until on closer examination I find that the stamp is cancelled with the initials N. V. in a circle, possibly handstamped. Edouard Locher of Zurich lists these two stamps under the date of 1918, and prices the pair at 10Fr. Swiss. I have not access to Senf or Michel at present, but have an idea that they also list the stamps.—HENRY A. MEYER.

BRITISH COLONIALS

My latest list of British Colonial issues is just off the press, and prices some 1500 varieties at from 1c to $3.00 each. While all stamps are priced at reasonable net figures, I allow an additional 10% discount on all orders of $5.00 or over. If you collect these popular issues, this list will prove of interest to you. And it's free for the asking. [24

EDITORIAL.

Call—Mr Henry A. Meyer, Evansville, Indiana, writes: "I feel compelled to express myself on the article in the WEEKLY of November 5, 'Condition as Affecting Value', by Tracy W. Simpson. The first page articles in the WEEKLY as a rule are of one type, but this one was different. It ought to call out a great many comments. I have not the opportunity of collectors in large philatelic centers to mingle with other and more advanced collectors; neither do I have the long perspective of philatelic experience to give me the balanced viewpoint possessed by our older collectors. But as I see it, this plan, if followed up and worked out in practice, can be made to rank along with the arrangement made by the A. P. S. for assisting in disposing of deceased members' collections, as one of the most important pieces of constructive work for the good of our hobby in many years. In my work as teacher, as well as in stamp collecting, I have a great many side lines, and one of the most profitable is statistical methods. I am constantly using them in my school work, and I have often pondered over the possibility of using them in stamp work. Here is the plan propounded. All that is still necessary, is to make a few refinements, and put it into use. The decimal system is sound, statistically; so is the basis on which the whole idea rests. Last year I personally conducted a survey of all the school buildings of this city, and the plan of scoring was almost identical with Mr. Simpson's plan. Certain stated amounts were either added or substracted for each good feature or lack thereof, and the amount of credit or deduction was graded according to the degree of the good or bad feature, just as it is worked out in this plan. All statistical procedure has this characteristic, that even if any details should be in need of improving, as long as the basis on which it rests is theoretically and mathematically sound, the plan is usable. Let us not permit this proposition to die a natural death. It is too valuable to let it be lost. Cannot some of our societies, especially the A. P. S., take it up and formally adopt it? Nothing that I can recall has ever had the possibility in it of exerting such a stabilizing influence on the commercial side of philately, except possibly the adoption of the priced standard catalogue idea. By all means let us get together and set the good work going." The following observations are made by Mr. Meyer:

First—"Is it generally known that Anglo No. 151, the Republica surcharge on the 20r orange of the Postage Due set of Portugal, exists with the surcharge in two distinct spacings? There is almost as much difference as in the recent Newfoundland provisionals. The one variety has the clear vertical space between Republica and Acores measuring 8¼ mm., while the other has the same space measuring 9¾ mm. 8 mm and 10 mm would express the spacings accurately enough, and would be easier to grasp. Otherwise the type seems to be identical. I have not enough of the other values of the set to form an opinion which is the normal variety. These two stamps were given to me several years ago by a friend who was compelled to give up collecting, with the commission to bring them before the body of collectors."

Second—"I wonder how many collectors of New Europe have noticed an anomalous situation in the stamps of Eastern Silesia, and if any one knows the reason for it. All are familiar with the fact that Poland in 1919 issued two permanent sets of stamps in parallel values: in fennig and marks, and in heller and kronen. The common explanation is that the fennig and marks stamps were for the portions of Poland where the German currency was still prevalent, and the heller and kronen values were for the districts where the Austrian currency was still in use. Now when it came to surcharging them for Eastern Silesia, they used the fennig and kronen values. This produces the spectacle of a set of stamps, of which the lower values are in one currency, and the upper values are in a different currency. Moreover, the difference is actually one of value, not merely a difference in name, as franc, lire and drachma. I cannot imagine how the accounts and postage rates were kept accurately, unless the fennig stamps were sold for heller values, for the Austrian currency seems to be the one used on all the other provisionals of Eastern Silesia."

Third—"In the article in the WEEKLY of July 23, the '5' Mss. Hawaii by Bruce Cartwright, the author deviates from the subject of the provisional surcharge and raises a question about the use of 13 cent stamps of Hawaii in place of 12 cent stamps of U. S., to indicate the prepayment of ship postage and U. S. Postage. The question which the author brings up is, whether the postmaster at Honolulu held the letter until a supply of 12 cent U. S. stamps arrived, and placed one near or over the Hawaiian stamp, or whether he forwarded it to San Francisco under some sort of agreement with the postmaster at that city. If I have interpreted the situation correctly, the question is answered in the WEEKLY of August 6, in the advertisement of Burger & Co. They offer on page 454 a Hawaiian cover, with an 1853, 13 cent and 1855, 5 cent used together, with U. S., 1857, 12 cents, pasted over the 13 cent Hawaiian stamp. This cover does not prove that this was the procedure invariably followed, but it certainly does indicate that this was the procedure followed this time. Are any covers known in which a different course of action seems to have been followed?"

Bustle—Here is an account of "Mail Day in Antigua, B. W. I., Eighty Years Ago," transcribed by Lowell J. Ragatz, from Mrs. Flannigan's "Antigua and the Antiguans" (2 vols., London, 1844), II, pp. 216, 217: "The packet from England is signalized, and away scampers everyone to the post-office, almost before the mails are landed, to the utter consternation of the poor post-master, and, with anxious eyes and clamorous tongues, crowd the office door. At length, two or three burly sailors, followed by the commander of the packet, a lieutenant in the navy, are seen approaching the spot, bearing upon their broad-built shoulders the long-looked-for mailbags well secured in their leather envelopes. The pushing and jostling increases, as gig after gig dashes up and sets down its several passengers. Horsemen curvet about, at which lank and miserable looking dogs bark, servant-boys grin and chatter, and a group of little children, just dismissed from one of the free schools, stand gazing thereon, and wondering 'war make dem buckra care so much 'bout letter?'

Oh, what a hurly burly it is! what a noise and discord! what a pushing, and scrambling, and puffing, and panting! At length, the door is opened, and the postmaster announces in not very dulcent tones, 'The letters will not be out for two hours,' and closes the portal again. A look of dismay and vexation overspreads the countenances of all. The first turns to his neighbor, and he, in his turn, looks to the one behind him; one murmurs 'How provoking!', and another says 'I hate to be served so!', while one of the applicants, a melancholy-looking man, observes in an important voice, 'The letters must be sorted, you know.' As no good can be effected by waiting, they finally disperse, and endeavor to while away the time until, the two hours having elapsed, they again besiege the office.

A well-applied rap summons the postmaster. 'Are the letters out?' 'No, they will not be out for another hour!' Time, however, brings many things to pass, and the letters are at length sorted. Happy now does that individual feel himself whose name begins with an 'A' for they always conduct this business alphabetically. A silence ensues, the letters are distributed, and, too anxious to know their contents, their several receivers open them on the spot.

Various is the intelligence received, as seal after seal is broken—manifold the subjects discussed. Some talk of failure of mercantile houses, others of legacies received or in prospect; some descant upon politics, and others upon the price of sugars; while another group peruse the London newspapers, inspect carefully the list of births, deaths and marriages and bankruptcies, look to see what the Queen and the court are doing, and then go forth to publish the 'varied accounts by flood and

PHILATELY IN WASHINGTON.

The magazine section of the Sunday Star of Washington, D. C., Jan. 1, carried a very fine article "Stamp Collection a Favorite Pastime in Legislative and Diplomatic Circles". It occupies two-thirds of a page, and is illustrated with a fine half-tone of Senator Frelinghuysen and his three children, all busily engaged over their stamp albums, of which there are no fewer than seven shown. This article is without doubt the finest tribute to philately ever published in the American press. It is written by one who understands his business and the way in which it links up well-known people to philately will give a tremendous impetus to stamp collecting as a pastime.

Among those who are mentioned as actively engaged in stamp collecting are Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen; Lady Geddes, wife of Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador; Representative Ernest R. Ackerman of New Jersey; Major General H. H. Bandholtz; Mrs. Warren I. Glover, wife of the Third Assistant Postmaster General, with a collection of 18,000; Nelson B. Gaskill, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission; Senator Henry F. Ashurst of Arizona; Representatives Clifton N McArthur of Oregon, John D. Cremer of Michigan, F. W. Dallinger of Massachusetts, L. C. Crampton of Michigan; Col. Spencer Cosby of the 5th Engineers; and Charles Lathrop Pack, who maintains offices in Washington as president of the American Forestry Association.

This list of Washingtonians, who are interested in philately, will come as a great surprise to a great many readers of the WEEKLY, who while familiar with some of the names had little idea of the extent of the hobby in the diplomatic and legislative life of Washington. We shall reprint the article from the Star (at least in part), if we can secure permission so to do.

COMPETITION

A customer whose collection numbers over 25,000 varieties and contains many stamps worth $25 to several hundred dollars each, and who has received stamps on approval from many other dealers, tells me the selections he receives from the Westfield Philatelic Peach Orchard contain the finest specimens that come to him.

I don't expect to undersell everybody else—or anybody else—that isn't what I'm in business for. I'm merely supplying choice singles, pairs, strips, blocks and covers to those who appreciate fine copies of desirable stamps and are willing to pay what high-grade service is worth.

Few dealers can compete with me in stamps worth from one dollar each upward. If you aren't sure of this, try my service.

WANT - WANT - WANT

As a rule my entire philatelic activities are devoted to the stamps of the United States and of course I am always interested in purchasing anything really fine in the way of choice pieces or an entire property of these issues.

Here of late, however, several of my valued clients have approached me and asked that I look out for their foreign requirements. I have made such a success in digging out from their hiding places fine U. S. that they had had on other want lists for years and they now feel that I can do the same for them in foreign.

What is my secret in locating these items? Simply this, I carry my stamp business as a side issue, I have no overhead, my own time is charged to pleasure and consequently I can pay good prices and thus satisfy the seller and at the same time add a small profit and thus satisfy the buyer. At present I want mint copies of the first issue (remember, not the second or third) of every country providing they were issued previous to 1860, and also any fine covers or blocks, used or unused, of the same. In addition I desire anything fine in any of the early imperf. issues of British North America, British West Indies, France and Turkey, especially covers.

Thousands of dollars are waiting for you. Do you want the check drawn to your order?

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Our readers have probably noticed that the 2c engraved stamps now being sold at the different post offices throughout the country are in a much deeper shade than those issued previous to the time of the 2c surface prints. In fact ever since the surfaced printed stamp came to an end last September I have seen nothing else other than those of the dark color. In comparing them with those issued previously I find that we have never had this stamp so dark before. Although I have about a dozen different shades in blocks in my collection, picked up at different times, none of them compare with the present. The ink is possibly different or else they are sticking closer to their formula, for the deep shade is pretty constant.

It seems somewhat odd that in the case of the current perforated 11, unwatermarked series that the shades of the lower values are more or less constant while several of the higher values vary so greatly that we almost have a different variety. The $1 denomination, for instance, comes in a brownish shade vastly different from the others, the 50c comes in a red violet and in a lilac, the color showing as much difference as the 50c and the 3c. The 30c has also been found in a light yellowish orange strongly resembling the light shade of the 50c, 1894.

The one dollar is really an important variety, worthy of catalogue rank and while the stamp is somewhat plentiful used it is really scarce in unused condition. There must have been but one printing and this very small.

Mr. L. A. Boone writes to inform us that the pink back special deliveries have been found in a small post office outside of Asheville. I imagine that these must be from the first lot found in Philadelphia, for it seems that the entire second supply which I have been informed amounted to 200,000 copies was sold exclusively in Washington.

Rev. E. M. Gearhart has shown me a very unusual block of fifteen (3x5) of the $1 green, documentary stamp, overprinted "Stock Transfer" showing five stamps without surcharge. This was caused by a corner of the sheet being folded at the time it was overprinted. The piece is probably unique and is a great addition to any revenue collection. The same gentleman shows me copies of the 2c, 4c and 10c of the same series with a shifted or double overprint and the 2c and 20c with the same itself double, the surcharge being normal. Mr. G. P. Smith has also been fortunate in locating a pair of the 10c documentary, double impression, without surcharge.

Two new provisional envelopes reach me this week from Mr. E. C. Brown, which have not been chronicled heretofore.

CENTRAL LITHUANIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have sent for chronicle a copy of a new 150m stamp of a new type. The centre shows a portrait of what appears to be a military officer with some words on each side of the circle that enclose the picture, but the printing is indistinct and it is very difficult to read. At the top is the usual name of the country and at the base "Poczta" and value. The colors are pale green and red brown.

CONGO.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise that the 3frs and the 5frs of the 1910 issue have been surcharged "1921" in black.

COSTA RICA.—The Economist Stamp Co. inform us of the 15c purple of a new type, the stamp showing the likeness of Bolivar in the centre with the figure of value at each side and the words "Quince Centimos" at the base. At the top is the name of the country with "Correos" just below and at each side "U P U 1921."

DENMARK.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us a copy of the 30 grey, No. 87, surcharged "8" over the former figure of value in black. Also the same correspondent submits a copy of an 80 value in the type of Scott's A10, the color being grey.

LIBIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 15c slate of the type of Scott's A48 surcharged "Libia" in black.

LUXEMBURG.—Mr. Henry Hooreman and the Economist Stamp Co. have submitted to us copies of the 2c stamp of the 1906-8 issue, No. 76, with the surcharge "6" in red between the two figures of value in the lower corners. Two horizontal bars obliterate the former figures.

MALTA.—Mr. Louis Carabott advises that the 1d current type stamp has appeared on the script watermarked paper and is printed from plate 3.

NEW HEBRIDES.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise that the 1d, 2d and 6d stamps of the 1911 issue are appearing on the script watermarked paper.

NIGER TERRITORY.—Mr. Henry Hooreman has shown us the 1914 and 1917 issues of Upper Senegal and Niger surcharged "Territoire Du Niger" in two lines in black. The 1914 issue of postage due stamps have been overprinted with the same words but of smaller letters. The color of the surcharge is the same as the regular issue and is in two lines.

PALESTINE.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit for chronicle the 4m, 1pia, 2pia and 5pia with the new London surcharge. They also add that the 9, 1 and 20pia have also been issued with the same overprint.

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise us of the appearance of 20c, perforated 11, no watermark and the 30c, perf. 11 with watermark.

SWITZERLAND.—Mr. Frank Koche calls our attention to a letter just received cancelled by a cancelling machine and notes that no value of postage is mentioned by the new method. The letter was posted in St. Gall.

YOUR HELP WANTED.

We are very desirous of securing the assistance of our subscribers in getting new names for our mailing list. Every one of you knows somebody who is interested in stamp collecting and all you need do is exhibit a copy of the WEEKLY to arouse interest in our publication. This will be especially true in the face of the fact that we offer a desirable premium to introduce our publication to persons who have never taken the paper before.

A list of good premiums is given herewith, and any one of the number will be given either to the new subscriber or to the person sending in the new subscription. The premium may go to one or the other, as preferred. We have some subscription forms convenient for use that we shall be glad to send to those subscribers who would like to have their names appear upon our monthly roll of honor. If you believe in philately and believe in the WEEKLY you should be able to talk it and secure new subscribers for it.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

MY CITY OF DEAD STAMPS.

BY LOWELL J. RAGATZ.

It was by mere accident that I discovered my city of dead stamps. It is in the document room of a famous library which has, so my friends jestingly declare, become my second home, and many the times I had found traces of it before, by chance, I happened upon the city itself.

I call it "mine" because I am its discoverer, and am the only one who has yet seen it through philatelic eyes. I call the stamps themselves "dead" because they can play as little a part in the collecting world as can the plaster casts of the ash-buried folk of the museums of Pompeii in affairs of to-day.

This city of dead stamps has its streets—long aisles of metal cases; it has its many storied houses—shelved steel cabinets, securely locked. During the course of several years my research work on frontier society had taken me from what I now call one "street" to another, from what I choose to term this "house" to that, but these scratches in the surface soil covering the city, as it were, had not revealed the latter to me.

To be sure, a lone document now and then drew my attention because of some embossed colonial revenue it bore, but these aroused no particular interest, and like the plowboy working near Vesuvius, stumbling off and on upon some carved stone brought to the surface by his tool, I went about my prosaic task unheeding and regardless. Then on one long-to-be-remembered day came the great discovery.

It was the morning of a winter Saturday; the whole unbroken day lay before me when I began looking over the papers in the first of a number of bundles of correspondence addressed to a mid-west real estate dealer from the late 40's on. Almost the first one gave me a thrill, for on the address side of the letter sheet was as beautiful a pair of 1847 5c as I had ever seen! I picked up the next—it bore another pair; the third a nice 10c, the fourth—!

All thought of careful study that day vanished as in thin air. The envelope rather than the letter sides took up my interest. Over half of the papers in that first bundle bearing 1847's! There they were, in singles and numerous pairs with an occasional strip, mostly in superb condition, as the addressee had filed the letters in his records with care.

The first bundle was but a foretaste. Other lots of documents revealed an increasing number of stamped letters, and "Paid" ones became less numerous. The 51's were amply represented in all values. There were enough of the 12c to stock up Nassau Street's largest dealer; the 5c was there in a score of singles and several pairs. As for the 1857 1c to 24c, their number seemed legion. And scattered here and there, as if for the sake of greater variety, were European number ones in large rate postage combinations.

Hundreds of letters up to the 60's, almost each one bearing something of philatelic interest. From the West was a series of them from a prospector who spoke of luck being "agin" him, and who used pairs of imperforate 12c from various points in California, marking all his letters "By Overland at Panama"; from the East, notes of inquiry from doctors, lawyers and merchants, regarding the cost of quarter-sections, franked with stamps of various denominations and making up strange rates. From England there were big blocks of penny blacks with red Maltese cross cancellations on crested sheets from an English lord who wished to know whether the Indians were thick, and whether or not it was true that there were no bath-tubs to be had in the lakes region, in which event he would of course have to bring his tub with him when he made his trip.

There, too, was correspondence from a widow in Tuscumbia, Alabama, regarding the sale of some "lots" in a mythical city, which her husband had been beguiled into buying, which brought back pleasant memories of that sleepy little Southern town famous philatelically for its Confederate States local, a copy of which a fellow-collector was so fortunate as to discover while I was wintering in that neighborhood some years ago.

Few of the letters after 1860 bore stamps, for envelopes had then come into general use and these had not, of course, been saved. To little loss, doubtless, for the day of American classics was then for the most part over.

Time passed all too quickly, what with my gazing at these treasures, and pausing now and then to read a snatch of what was written. The closing gong and an attendant's "Sorry, but we'll have to lock the papers up now" brought back to mind all that I had intended to accomplish, yet there was no feeling of regret.

My work suffered somewhat after that, I must confess, for the temptation to look chiefly at the address sides of sheets was well-nigh irresistible. What wonder, since the stamps were so often there? A fortune for some dealer, you say? Yes, they would be, but these beauties will never grace the pages of an album; never will they leave my "city." For these are "dead" stamps; they are public property, attached to documents whose authenticity they aid in attesting, and they can never be legally removed.

I have about finished my work of excavation and exploration, as I term it. I know where to lay hands upon the choicest pieces, and seldom a day passes but what I take a peep. Entering the room and passing between its rows of locker-cases brings memories of Pompeii and its Casa di Marco Olconio; the stopping at a case and opening it to glance over its contents recalls pausing at the window of a ruin-home and looking in at the floor mosaics and faded frescoes. There always, but for the most part unseen; there for all who will to look at but never own, these gems of classic issue times in my city of dead stamps.

METERED MAIL CANCELLATIONS.

Jos. A. Steinmetz calls our attention to what he considers an interesting sideline, viz.:—the collecting of metered mail cancellations. We heartily endorse the sentiments expressed by Mr. Steinmetz in his letter and quote as follows:—

"We now have the opportunity of collecting a very interesting side-line in the specimens of metered mail cancellations, with their serial numbers, etc. I am enclosing a few from my daily mail showing how a collection can be formed. I cut out the stamped portion, which includes the regulation postmark, the serial number, and the metered rate of postage. I paste this upon a piece of the envelope showing the users name and at the side I make a memorandum of the size of the envelope."

The specimens submitted by Mr. Steinmetz consisted of New York metered numbers 1007, 1009, 1013, 1017 and Philadelphia No. 1014. The WEEKLY cannot undertake to chronicle all the variety of these markings as they appear from time to time, but an article dealing with this side-line in which the issued may be summarized will be received with interest.

Sacrifice Sale

This is inventory time. In going along, I find many discontinued and overstocked items. These are being offered in my weekly bargain lists at ridiculously low prices to clear—in some cases as low as half my original cost price.

Items left over will eventually be offered in this column.

But in the meantime—subscribers to my weekly lists will have skimmed off the cream.

MORAL — Send 50c for 50 consecutive numbers of my weekly bargain lists, just the price of postage. You will save that amount many times over, in novelties, the newest of new Issues, and the many "Snaps" my foreign agents pick up for me and enable me to pass on to my customers.

DEATH OF W. A. SISSON.

It is with great regret that we are called upon to record the death of Wm. A. Sisson, a former resident of Webster Groves, Mo. (recently of Chicago), which occurred Jan. 6, following a second stroke of paralysis. He was seventy years old. Only a few days ago he changed his address in a letter to the WEEKLY and stated that he would soon leave for California. This however was not to be. Funeral services were held Jan. 8 at Webster Groves.

We are unable to do full justice to Mr. Sisson's philatelic career. He has long been interested in philately and is reputed to have possessed a very fine collection. He had served as president of the St. Louis Stamp Collectors' Society and in recent years has dealt in stamps quite extensively. He was a member of the A. P. S.

He retired as chief clerk of the R. G Dunn & Co. in July, 1920, after twenty-one years of service, at which time he left Webster Groves and took up his residence in Chicago. He is survived by a widow, two sons and a daughter.

SPECIAL OFFERS OF J. M. BARTELS CO.

Address Replies to "Foreign Department," 116 Nassau St., New York

1. *U. S. A. A very fine collection all unused, Issues 1847-1914 practically complete, mostly fine margins and well centered, many copies perfectly centered, partly o. g. and in mint state, among the lot about 2 or 3 used copies, mounted very neatly on gray cardboard pages, each stamp surrounded by black line, therefore excellent appearance, catalogue value over $740.00, only $315.00
2. U. S. A. Fine collection of used stamps, on 16 cardboard pages, mostly in fine or good condition, containing a few shades, from 1847-1914, with a few Department stamps. Includes: 1851, 5c, a perfect copy; 1861, 5c buff; 1869, 90c fine; etc., as a whole a good average collection, catalogue value about $350.00, only 180.00
3. EUROPE. Large collection in 3 volumes, containing many good and rare stamps, but no great rarities, very suitable for building up and completing collection, catalogue value about $4500.00, only 1,050.00
4. BAVARIA. The good collection practically complete with several rarities, incl. 1kr black; 12kr lilac perf., etc., in all fine, mounted in approval book, catalogue value $190.00, of which $25.00 are war stamps, only 86.00
5. *BADEN 1868, 7kr sky-blue, entire unused sheet of 100 copies, full o. g., very fine, catalogue value $40.00, only 16.00
6. TOGO, a wonderfully fine collection of British and French Occupation Issues, formed in Togo, with many good and rare stamps, post cards and covers Very interesting collection for connoisseurs of these rarities greatly in demand, catalogue value $250.00, only 120.00
7. ECUADOR, a very fine collection of official stamps used in regular correspondence from Ecuadorian Government Officials and the Consulate General in Berlin, consequently much more valuable than the catalogue price of about $13.00, which refers chiefly to stamps canceled to order. Includes some very rare uncatalogued surcharges, only 8.00

The following lots are from correspondence of the Consulates General of Nicaragua and Honduras, to Berlin and contain, especially among the official stamps, many genuine used Seebeck issues, which are usually found only cancelled to order, nearly all on parts of covers, in pairs, strips, blocks, etc.:

8. NICARAGUA 1882-1912, large approval book, about 400 stamps, similar to last, a very valuable lot, catalogues about $50.00, only 25.00
9. Do., quite a similar collection, only somewhat less voluminous, catalogued about $36.00, only.... 18.00
10. Do., a similar lot, catalogue value $46.00, only 23 00
11. HONDURAS 1898-1907, about 350 copies, especially strong in Official stamps, catalogue value about $31.00, only 10.00
12. Do., quite a similar lot, catalogue value about $30.00, only 10.00
13. Do., quite a similar lot, catalogue value about $23.00, only 7.50

In connection with this exceptional offer of scarce Official stamps, particularly in strips and blocks of Nicaragua and Honduras, we beg to state that any dealer, having the right kind of patrons, could easily triple his investment.

14. GUATEMALA, a wonderful range of various issues from 1894-1900, consequently interesting combinations on entires, used in regular correspondence, an interesting lot for specialists, catalogued about $20.00, only 10.00
15. Do., quite a similar lot, catalogue value $9.50, only 4.75
16. WAR STAMPS, only provisional issues of European Cities, containing stamps of Bialystock, Meran (first issue, on wrapper, thus exceedingly rare), Valenciennes on Cover, Dorpat, Zawierce, Sosnowice and Warsaw, consequently genuine rarities not to be compared with the many doubtful issues of some Polish cities. A very valuable lot, only 50.00
17. WAR STAMPS, socalled NEUROPE, artistically arranged on large dark-gray cardboard leaves, with many rarities of increasing value, Scott catalogue 1922 value about $220.00, only 60.00

WORTHINGTON CASE SETTLED.

Justice Sears yesterday (Dec. 31), handed down a decision in the lawsuit of Frank A. Halladay, executor of the last will and testament of Alice F. Halladay, against Harrison B. McGraw, an assignee, for the benefit of creditors of George F. Worthington, one of the most complicated cases that has come before the courts in several years. The decision practically divides about $101,000, which sum was the bone of contention between plaintiff and defendant.

The case attracted considerable attention, because a stamp collection, valued at about $1,000,000 and known internationally, figured in it. The stamp collection was owned by Worthington, a Cleveland man. On May 7, 1912, Worthington executed and delivered to Mrs. Halladay a promissory note wherein, on or about two years from date, for value received, he promised to pay plaintiff $337,500. At the same time he executed and delivered to the plaintiff a chattel mortgage covering a stamp collection as collateral security to the payment of said note.

In January, 1916, the plaintiff instituted an action in the supreme court of Erie county against Worthington and McGraw, who has been named assignee for the benefit of creditors under an assignment executed on September 28, 1915, wherein she sought to have determined the amount due to her on the said note; that she be declared to have a first lien on the stamp collection and that she had a right to sell the collection, according to law, to satisfy the lien, costs of action and expense of sale. On February 16, 1917, judgment was entered determining the validity of the note and the chattel mortgage and giving the right to sell the stamps.

Mrs. Halladay employed an expert, Warren H. Colson, to sell the stamps, and he went all over the world, selling some and placing others in the hands of dealers. McGraw, as assignee of Worthington, who had been declared bankrupt, went to Mrs. Halladay with the money. Worthington owed and demanded the stamps. Mrs. Halladay gave him what stamps she had left and managed to recover some others.

For the rest of the amount and for other financial details of the case, Mrs Halladay placed about $101,000 in t in the name of Wallace Thayer, counsel, and Daniel J. Kenefick, cou for McGraw. She consented to the posit of about $55,000 of this amo says Justice Sears, to assure herself full payment when Colson returned her the stamps and she in turn livered them to their owner, McGr while the defendant consented to deposit of this sum to insure the re of all unsold stamps, together with fair market value of all stamps otherwise accounted for which M Halladay might not be able to retur

The case went before several co including the court of appeals. Jus Sears decided that the defendant was titled to $54,292.91 and the plaintif $47,017.50.—Buffalo Express.

GINN & CO. LEAVES BISHOPSGATE.

Geo. C. Ginn & Co., after having been located for years at 66 Bishopsgate, has through a business change been compelled to remove to 115 Moorgate. The old building in which the firm has catered for philatelic trade is to be demolished very shortly, the whole block having been taken over by the Hudson Bay Co., which intends to erect a set of palatial offices. We call attention to the advertisement of this firm with change of address elsewhere in this issue.

DECEMBER SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The last four weeks have witnessed a marked impetus in the activities of those who are aiding us in securing new subscriptions. A perusal of the standing will indicate that a splendid spirit of co-operation is prevailing. The Fennell Stamp Co., with a total of 117, leads the list, and also takes first honors for December, with 28 to their credit. Allen Sears Inc., with 20 for December, is making a strong bid for first place. We are glad to have our old friend, the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. in the list again, and their 20 subscriptions for the last month indicate that this firm will be heard from. The Leader Stamp Co., with 21 to its credit for December, now has a total of 40 and takes fourth place honors. We wish to note the 9 new subscriptions received from Mr. Seebohm of San Francisco and Eugene Klein of Philadelphia. These subscriptions taken over the counter mean a great deal to us, for the dealers are few in number who are able to make it convenient to use office time to promote our subscription list. The Tacoma Philatelic Society, with a total of 7 subscriptions thus far entered, is a shining example to other stamp clubs of the country. Possibly the greatest surprise of the month is the lot of 10 subscriptions from the Baltimore firm of O. W. Crowder & Co. The firm looks like a real contender for honors towards the top of the list.

Would you like your name on our honor roll? Two new subscriptions will place it there. Write this office for a supply of our 25c subscription forms and you will hear from us by return mail. The dealers for December are as follows:—

FENNELL STAMP CO.	28
LEADER STAMP CO.	21
ALLEN SEARS, INC.	20

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

ADVERTISING CANCELLATIONS.

By A. H. PIKE, Buffalo, N. Y.

Here is something of more than passing interest to philatelists as well as the postmark collector and it is a regrettable fact that so little has appeared on the subject in the hobby press.

Canada as well as the United States, has taken full advantage of this means of advertising. They usually mark important events of a national character, although Canada has featured more or less local events on some of these cancellations. Regardless of this fact, each and every one is of sufficient interest and importance to make them worthy of a place in the collections of all stamp men.

As a rule they are only current for a short time, although there are exceptions. It is important that collectors watch for the "new issues" as early dates are considered and varieties are shown in the spacing of the letters. Something may happen to a die so that it is necessary to order a new one. All dies are hand cut and the engravers are supposed to follow a definite design, but many times they fail to do it.

This is a field for the specialist for many minor varieties can be found, but even the regular varieties offer a strong incentive to the man with the collecting instinct. There are several manufacturers of cancelling machines and the collectors should be able to recognize the impression of each. Although similar in some ways, there is sufficient difference to make them readily distinguished.

Canada offers a very fertile field for the collector of advertising cancellations and it is hoped that all readers who have not as yet started a collection, will take immediate steps to do so. Many of the varieties are now rare and demand a good price, but there are hundreds that can readily be obtained at little or no cost.

Since the International Postmark Society was formed in 1912, the hobby has been placed on a sound working basis. It was agreed from the start to cut all marks exactly 2 x 4, and to file them in trays like a card index instead of mounting in books. The size makes it convenient to thumb them over and also is sufficient to include the complete design of postmark and cancellation as well as the stamp.

At least a thousand collectors that I know of are enthusiastic devotees of the postmark hobby, and I am sure that they get as much pleasure from their collection as the philatelist of unlimited means who devotes his time and money to rarities. Stamp collecting has grown from a hobby of juveniles to a full grown man's job, and besides the men who are keeping up with the game have to have a fat income. There are many of us who can't keep up the pace, but there is no use of getting discouraged and giving up collecting, for there are many side lines that can supply all the thrills and pleasures if we look around for them.

In the collecting of postal markings there are unlimited possibilities and the specialist can find various methods to gratify his desires. Quite a large collection can be formed at little or no expense, as sufficient collectors can be found who are glad to exchange. When it is necessary to buy, the price is reasonable. It is a real hobby for the man of small means, and the man with plenty of money can go in as deep as he wants to by specializing.

A check list of the advertising marks of Canada and the United States is in preparation, and it is hoped that before the year is over it will be published and available to those interested. It is planned to illustrate the main varieties of design and in this way it will be a great help in completing collections and affording collectors an intelligent description of all varieties.—Canadian Stamp Collector.

WASHINGTON PHILATELY.

(In the Washington Sunday Star of January 1, appeared a very fine special feature entitled "Stamp Collecting is a Favorite Pastime in Legislative and Diplomatic Circles". It was written by Will P. Kennedy of the Star staff and shows an expert knowledge of philately as well as a keen newspaper instinct. It was illustrated by the picture of Senator Frelinghuysen and his family shown above, and made possible through the courtesy of the management of the Star. We thank this publication for its kindness not only in permitting the reprinting of the article, but in supplying us with the Frelinghuysen family photograph, which was taken by Pridgeon, their staff artist. Curiously enough, when we wrote the editor of the Star we received a letter from Mr. Kennedy in which he said:—"You probably do not remember me, but I lived in Beverly from 1900 to 1906. The reason why this article was used in the Star unsigned was because I had another article in the editorial section." We congratulate Mr. Kennedy and philately as well upon this splendid piece of publicity. We are using only a portion of the article this week and the balance may appear in a later number.—W. O. W.)

In Congress and the official and diplomatic circles of the capital are gathered some of the world's most enthusiastic and best-informed stamp collectors. Here are the names of some of them:

Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, whose three children have joined him in the alluring quest; Lady Geddes, wife of Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, who has an unusually good collection; Representative Ernest R. Ackerman of New Jersey, who has traveled in more than 100 countries, making more than forty trips across the ocean, and who has collected stamps of rare historic value everywhere throughout the world; Maj. Gen. H. H. Bandholtz, provost marshal general of the American expeditionary forces, who had charge of the troops in Hungary and during the outlawry in Mingo, W. Va. Mrs. Warren I. Glover, wife of the third assistant postmaster general, has a collection of 18,000 varieties; Nelson B.

to our U. S. Library and this little brown fellow deals with the Departments, Dues, Newspapers, etc. It goes at length into the "specimen" stamps and gives the full history of them. Do you know that of some of these less than 100 exist and of one or two less than 5 exist? Supposing you had one of these and for lack of knowledge sold it for nothing—then where does your saving of 50c come in? Echo answers where?

TESTIMONIALS UNSOLICITED

New Order enclosed. I "cleaned up" on last packet I received from you (1000 variety) already realizing more than I paid after securing 400 varieties for myself.—B. Buchanan, Liverpool, Ohio.

Well satisfied with 2000 packet. Secured 900 stamps for my collection, selling the rest to my friends. Have already cleared over $5.00.—A. Wahlberg, Oakland, Calif.

Very much pleased with 1000 packet. Order enclosed for a 2000. I was greatly surprised at the quality of the stamps in the packet.—F. C. Elmes, Berwick, Pa.

Use bonds sent as payment for 10,000 variety packet. The packet proved highly satisfactory as a basis for a general collection.—F. M. Bigelow, Chicago, Ill.

Received 1000 packet some days ago and have had a fine time looking them over. Secured 250 new stamps for my collection of 3700, traded 43 for other new varieties and replaced 100 that were better specimens than mine. I never saw any stamps in such good condition, not a poor one in the lot. Order for 2000 packet enclosed.—T. Herrick, City Treasurer, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Don't Hesitate—Your opportunity is now. Remember the packet must satisfy or we refund your money plus your postage in returning same. Could we be more convincing of these packets' sterling qualities? Try one today—acts like a good tonic.

H. F. COLMAN

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Gaskill, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission; Senator Henry F. Ashurst of Arizona, Representatives Clifton N. McArthur of Oregon, Louis C. Crampton of Michigan, and Frederick W. Dallinger of Massachusetts; Col. Spencer Cosby of the 5th Engineers, formerly in charge of public buildings and grounds in the capital, and Charles Lathrop Pack of Lakewood, N. J., who maintains offices here as president of the American Forestry Association.

Stamp collecting as pursued today has become something more than an amusement for children. It affords instruction and mental relaxation to mature men as well as opening up the world to youth.

As the years roll by and life becomes more and more strenuous some restful and interesting and diverting occupation is found necessary. Illustrating this, Representative Ackerman tells a little state secret of the court of St. James that he heard on his recent trip through the war fields. Always browsing philatelically, Representative Ackerman was in conference with a man, who for years has supplied King George of England with stamps—philatelic adviser to the king. He told Representative Ackerman that one day he was called up by the king, who said: "I've got a big job of running this war on my hands. I've got to stop recreation with stamps, so don't send me any more until I call for them."

This situation lasted for six months, when one day the stamp expert was surprised to be again called up by the king, who said: "This war is wearing on me. I must have relaxation. I'm going to start stamp collecting again. So send me some more stamps and books, but be prepared to be cut off at any time." The king, during the greatest crisis of his reign, derived great benefit and strengthened his nerves and calmed his mind for carrying the war to a successful conclusion by stamp relaxation.

* * * *

These men, addicted to philately, call it a science. They point out that it is one of the greatest educational forces, opening up a wide field of research, in which many curious, interesting and instructive facts are exposed and fastened on the memory. It trains powers of observation, enlarges perception. broadens one's views and adds considerably to their knowledge of history, the progress of science and art, language, geography, botany, allegory, mythology and many kindred branches of learning.

The root appeal in stamp collecting, or philately, is the instinct of the chase which has driven men since the stone age. The postage stamp is a tiny thing, but it holds in its pictured space thoughts that embrace the beginning and end of things. They are landmarks in geography and milestones in history.

For example, it is impossible to collect stamps without at the same time learning something of history, both ancient and modern, Senator Frelinghuysen explains. The varying issues of stamps tell of changes of government—of empires becoming republics, of individual states becoming federations or commonwealths — while the portraits which they bear form a gallery of famous men of all times. In the turn of a page in the Frelinghuysen collections one may range from King Darius on his throne to the newest king or president. Or we may turn another page and find ourselves among the gods and goddesses of ancient Ida.

There are fortunes stored up in stamp collections, as well as invaluable historic record, as witness: Senator Frelinghuysen and Representative Ackerman, with other members of Congress, have been much interested in the monster collection of Ferrari de la Renotiere, an Austrian who was living in Paris when the world war came on. His collection was seized by the French government, just as the custodian of alien property seized the property of German and Austrian nationals in this country. The Ferrary collection is being sold in fifteen or more sections every two or three months. The first section, sold in June, brought 1,300,000 francs, and another section, sold in October, brought 2,525,000 francs, although these sales are being made at auction.

Uncle Sam has just officially recognized the historic value of stamp collections. Postmaster General Hays has established a philatelic stamp agency in the Post Office Department for the purpose of supplying United States postage stamps and other stamped paper to collectors and dealers. The primary object of the agency is to secure specimens from post offices and stocks of obsolete issues of postage stamps which are no longer issued by the department. It frequently happens after a commemorative issue of postage stamps has been discontinued many inquiries are received in the Post Office Department from those interested in philatelic work as to where such stamps may be obtained. It is the purpose of this stamp agency to keep on hand specimens of all stamps that are available for collections.

In replying to an inquiry as to how a thoroughly red-blooded, outdoor, athletic man like himself had become so thoroughly devoted to stamp collecting that he had assembled about 30,000 varieties during the last year, Senator Frelinghuysen explains the grip that the science of philately takes on men who are doing big things in national and international life when they take it up as a relaxation from their affairs of state.

* * * *

"Because I have a young son and recognize how great is the educational and character-building value of stamp collecting, is the reason I have taken up this science again", said Senator Frelinghuysen. "Thirty-five years ago I began collecting stamps and pursued it for three or four years with a great deal of interest. But, boylike, I disposed of my collection. It is the same old story, over and over again, told by collectors who began again after abandoning their collections as boys. How I wish I had kept my collection!

"I can recollect the fascination of the quest for stamps that gripped me even then. I remember that I wanted a Fiji Island stamp, believing it to be rare and valuable. My sister was then engaged to her present husband, and I held him up for a Fiji stamp. It was a species of blackmail, but nevertheless he came across and I got the Fiji stamp. I wish I had it now!

"I began a year ago to collect stamps in order to interest my boy, knowing that it would help him in his studies—in concentration and in a wider knowledge of the history of reconstructed boundaries of countries, as caused by the war. My two daughters also began to take an interest, but, owing to their studies, they have not been able to give it as much attention as I have, because I have used it as a means of relaxation. Each of the children has several thousand stamps, mostly of the newer varieties.

"I have exhausted every channel for obtaining stamps and have now between 25,000 and 30,000 stamps. I have been collecting for a year and still am adding to my collection and trying to inform myself on the science of philately. I very much regret that I have wasted so much time and have not, as Representative Ackerman has done, collected from boyhood rather than abandoned my earlier collection.

"This work gives me such pleasure and has such a fascination that I shall probably collect stamps until I die, and then I hope to pass my collection on to my boy."

THE KANSAS CITY STAMP CLUB.

(We have received from C. S. Davis a menu of the second annual banquet of the Kansas City Stamp Club, held at the Hotel Savoy, Kansas City, Mo., January 12. We do not take the space to print the menu, but are very glad to use the following historical sketch of the Society which formed a very strong part of the handsome souvenir. The cover photo to which reference is made is not quite clear enough in detail for us to reproduce in the WEEKLY. We extend our congratulations to this most promising stamp club of twenty-one members.—W. O. W.)

It is regretted very much that we are unable to show a picture of all the members of the Kansas City Stamp Club. Those shown on the cover photo are:—standing, Chas. F. Corbin, Arthur L. Nelson, Elmo A. Barry, J. A. Goldsmith, O. Paul Luther, Wm. Jerrems, Jr., Wilson D. Wood, H. C. Warren. Sitting, Allen Logan, Allen Sears, Robt. W. Waddell, W. G. Noel, W. C. Michaels.

A brief outline of the formation of the club will make an addition to every collector's archives well worth retaining. Early in the fall of 1920 a few of Kansas City's philatelic enthusiasts combined their efforts to reassemble the local collectors in an organization for the further development of a real live pursuit of the hobby.

On October 29, 1920, a well attended meeting was held at the Hotel Baltimore. Mr. W. C. Michaels called the meeting to order and gave an outline of the intended policy. Mr. Wilson D. Wood was elected temporary chairman, Mr. H. C. Warren, temporary secretary and treasurer, this action being confirmed at a later meeting and the officers made permanent for the year. Mr. W. C. Michaels was elected 1st Vice President and Mr. Allen Logan, 2nd Vice President.

Committees were appointed to select a home for the club and for the drafting of a set of by-laws.

The present name of the club was offered, voted upon and unanimously accepted at the first meeting.

The following men signified their desire to be members of the club at the opening meeting and are charter members: Wilson D. Wood, W. C. Michaels, Wm. Jerrems, Jr., W. G. Noel, E. A. Barry, H. C. Warren, Simpson Yeomans, O. P. Luther, Allen Logan, S. H. Barnes, Ora E. Stark, H. E. Noble, H. H. Dunham, Jas. A. Goldsmith, C. F. Corbin, Dr. W. F. Kingman, Allen Rexroff, Arthur L. Nelson, John Heffer.

On the 3rd regular meeting, Dec. 10, 1920, the by-laws were presented, read, discussed and accepted.

Meetings are held regularly on the second Friday evening of each month, tho some members take the pleasant advantage of a social meeting every Friday evening. The enthusiasm of local collectors is very evident in the fact that some one is always present during the day.

On July 8th, 1921, Mr. H. C. Warren resigned as secretary-treasurer and Mr. Allen Sears was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Sears has incorporated a stamp company, known as Allen Sears, Inc. The business is conducted in the adjoining club rooms, thereby having them open at all times, and assuring every visitor a welcome.

Many very profitable auctions have been held for the members, most of the proceeds being applied to a library of philatelic literature, which with donations from members gives a reference to be envied by many larger and older societies.

In anticipation of a regular good time at our Second Annual Banquet, Jan. 12, 1922, which will far surpass the first one held on Jan. 26, 1921, we set this little booklet before you—trusting you will preserve it as a memento of the livest, most up-to-date stamp club in the U. S.

Officers for 1921-22: Ora E. Stark, Pres.; Robt. W. Waddell, 1st Vice-Pres.; W. G. Noel, 2nd Vice-Pres. and Allen Sears, Sec.-Treas. Room 507-508 Kemper Bldg., 720 Delaware, Kansas City, Mo.

BOOK REVIEW.

Stanley Gibbons Ltd., 391 Strand, London, England, has just issued a book "Stamp Issuing Countries and their Currencies," by Norman Thornton, with foreword by Rev. H. A. James, D. D., to which is added a glossary of philatelic terms compiled by a committee appointed by the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain, consisting of Messrs. Bacon, Beckton, Bellamy, Bishop, Evans, Fulcher, Melville and Phillips. The price of the book is 70c. The book gives in compact form a large amount of information. Each country, district, town or other stamp-issuing unit is treated separately, with much information, dealing with settlement, area, population, capital city, date of issue of first stamps, and currency. The glossary of philatelic terms comprises some 28 pages and the book is freely illustrated and well worth the price asked.

PANAMA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS.

By FREDERICK E. HEYDON.

CHAPTER XXV.

General Issues of Acknowledgment of Receipt Stamps.

The first specially designed stamp of this class issued by Panama appeared in August, 1904, and is a beautiful example of steel engraving, the lathe work surrounding the letters A. R. being particularly effective. This stamp is not well pictured in most catalogs, but a good illustration is shown herewith.

541. 5c blue, white wove paper, perf. 12.
a. dark blue.

JAN. 1, 1917 ISSUE.

These stamps, like the corresponding issue of registration stamps, were prepared by surcharging those of the general issue, this time the 2½ orange of the 1909 issue with the letters :—

A. R.

The errors are not numerous and were corrected at once when noted. Of the original supply of 50,000 stamps 20,000 were bought by collectors on the Isthmus. The following check list is supposed to be complete :—

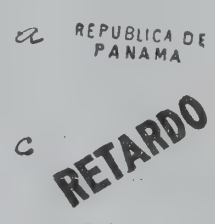
542. 2½c orange, surch. violet.
a. R. A. regularly spaced for A. R. (No. 76 in about 75 sheets).
b. A only. Left vertical row in one sheet.
c. R. A. widely spaced. The remaining 90 stamps from the same sheet.
d. A with two periods and R with none.
d. A..R Two periods after A and none after R. No. 57 in about sixty sheets.
e. A. R. inverted with dropped V for A. No. 16 in about 40 sheets.
f. Double surch. One sheet known.
g. Inverted surch. One sheet known.
h. Top horizontal row without surcharge. Three sheets known and a possible thirty vertical pairs, one of each pair without surcharge.

The sheets on f and g were broken up before errors were noted as used copies of both exist.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Retardo or Too Late Stamps.

I use the words "Too Late" because this barbarous mis-translation has been so much used and will very probably be retained with a good many other things that are hardly defensible. The inscription on these stamps "Retardo" means literally "Retarded" or if you prefer "delayed". It would hardly be polite in a Spanish speaking country where "manana" (tomorrow) is always the answer on the lips of dilatory officials, to insinuate that anything could ever be too late. Resource is therefore had to "retardo"; that is, the government says apologetically, "Of course you are not to blame in forgetting to mail your letter on time, but as we are put to some inconvenience by it we shall add just barely enough to your postage to cover the extra service".



Prior to the separation of Panama from Colombia the Colombian Retardo stamps were in use and in November, 1903, appeared with a surcharge (a).

601. 5c purple on rose paper, imperf., Surch. (a) rose red.
a. Vertical surcharge.
b. Pair, one without surcharge.
602. 5c purple on rose paper, Surch. (a) blue black.
a. Inverted surcharge.
b. Pair, one without surcharge.

AUGUST 1904 ISSUE.

603. 2½c carmine lake, white wove paper, perf. 12.

This issue consists of one stamp, which like its companion the 5c acknowledgment of receipt is a fine example of steel engraving. It is particularly effective in the rich color in which it is printed. The stamp was engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Co., N. Y. C.

AUGUST 1910 ISSUE.

The supply of the engraved stamps must have run out very unexpectedly as on August 12 and 13, 1910, while a handstamp was being prepared, a sufficient supply for the emergency was obtained by overprinting the regular adhesives by means of a typewriter. These stamps are rare, but the catalog prices are excessive and specimens on the original cover may be obtained reasonably.

604. 2½c orange red, surch. (b) in violet.

Also from a rubber hand-stamp there immediately afterwards appeared :—

605. 2½c red orange, surch. (c) in violet.

JANUARY 1, 1917 ISSUE.

In 1917 the additional charge for the "too late" service was reduced to the nominal amount of ½c, necessitating a new issue, which presents a number of interesting varieties. 100,000 stamps were issued, about 30,000 being purchased by collectors on the Isthmus.

606. 1c on ½c orange 1911 issue, surch. (d) dark green.
a. CBN for CEN. No. 20 in about 60 sheets.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Postage Due Stamps.

It was not until 1915, that Panama adopted the use of adhesive stamps to indicate insufficiently paid postage, and so far only four stamps of this character have been issued. They are all engraved and printed by the American Banknote Co., and as usual are perforated 12. Stamp catalogs list these values as 1c, 2c, 4c and 10c but while this is true it is not exactly accurate as the values are not expressed in centesimos but in decimals of a balboa. I will catalog the values as they read on the stamps with the equivalent in centesimos bracketed. The words "Correspondencia a Debe" are equivalent to "Postage Due" though not an exact translation:—

651. B/0.01 (1c) olive brown oblong, 30x20 mm. "Castillo de San Lorenzo, Chagres" (Castle of San Lorenzo, Chagres).
652. B/0.02 (2c) olive brown vert. rect., 20x30 mm. Statue of Christobal Colon (Columbus) with an Indian boy standing by.
653. B/0.04 (4c) olive brown oblong, 30x20 mm. "Palacio Nacional de Gobiano" (National Palace of the Government).
654. B/0.10 (10c) olive brown vert. rect., 20x30 mm. Portrait of Pedro J. Sosa.

30c 1869 ON DOUBLE PAPER.

By PERCY MCG. MANN.

I note on page 10 of the issue of January 7, in the Chronicle of New Issues, a block of 30c '69 stamps is mentioned as a possible new discovery, which will rank as a variety of Scott's No. 121a, according to the Chronicler. This is not new and was evidently known by the expert of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. many years ago, because we find it mentioned in the book on United States stamps which Mr. Luff himself wrote.

Quoting the "Postage Stamps of the United States" by John N. Luff, page 114:

"There is in the collection of Mr. H. G. Mandel a block of 3c stamps of this issue (1869) on double paper. The upper paper, which received the impression, is quite thin and is embossed over the entire surface. The under paper is thicker and serves merely as a backing for the other. The 30c is also known on double paper, without any grill. It is printed in colors slightly darker than those of the ungrilled stamp on ordinary paper. These varieties are fully finished, gummed and perforated."

The italics are mine, calling attention to the fact that these 30s are the same as the 30s chronicled as something new.

MICH. STAMP CLUB HAS A BOY'S NIGHT.

By HERMAN W. BOERS.

Saturday evening, January 7, the Michigan Stamp Club of Detroit had a real philatelic night. The club invited boys interested in stamp collecting to attend the meeting and they came twenty-seven strong to learn about stamps. It was a new experience for them; they saw stamps and heard stamps talked as they had never heard them before.

After a short business session Dr. P. Hoskins, president, invited everybody to the dining-room where a big spread was in waiting, and it was certainly enjoyed by all present. After the lunch Dr. W. L. Babcock, Z. Dworkowski, Karl Koslowski, Charles Kellar, William F. Fratcher and Dr. P. Hoskins spoke to the boys with words of encouragement for their collecting interest.

Music was furnished. Before the boys went home each was presented with a packet of stamps. There was also an auction sale. The boys enjoyed it and will be glad to have another invitation. An original poem was written for the occasion by C. H. Holden and was well received.

As a stamp collecting center Detroit ranks very high, but it has never had a good stamp shop downtown. Recently William F. Fratcher, the well-known Philatelist-dealer opened up a stamp shop at 922 Michigan Ave. under the name of the Michigan Stamp & Coin Co. Karl Koslowski and F. Myers, both stamp experts, are helping Mr. Fratcher out.

EDITORIAL.

Awaken—Down the corridors of time swings the pendulum and now the issues of the United States from 1870 to 1880 are being elevated high in popular favor. It is suspected that the difficulty attending the pursuit of superb or distinctive specimens of the issues antedating 1870 is responsible for this trend, although the solid merits of the stamps of the decade have much to do with this development. It is recognized by many that the stamps in question are of splendid quality and it is the testimony of not a few of the foreign collectors that the stamps are of matchless collecting qualifications. The stamps themselves are the thing but there is an interesting aside to them that is not without appeal to a good many collectors. Many of the present day collectors were boys when the stamps were in use and we know how close the postage stamp comes to the actual postal users of them, once upon a time. Too, the decade, 1870 to 1880, in the United States, was a period of strange mixtures. There were the memories of the Civil War; the panic of '73; Grant and Greeley; the Centennial; Ben Butler and Bill Nye; political frenzy; Patti and Langtry; and what not. With a little imagination, the postage stamps of those days crystallize memories; and to the American philatelist they are thrown in for good measure.

Advice—While it is proper that the collector should have a preference for the issues of his own country, yet it is not advisable for one to ignore impulses to study the issues of other countries and we are glad to see that collectors here and there are intent upon the stamps of other countries, preferring not to be jostled by the crowd that is rushing for U. S. It is a good thing that fashion is not blindly followed by all collectors and we are glad that the old assertion remains good; and that is that in the aggregate, the stamps of all countries have their partizans. All stamps are in demand and the muddied waters caused by the shifting bottoms of the Neurope inundation in this country are clearing. As the stamp sense of collectors develops, there is a disposition to work out one's conclusions for one's self and the collectors who think independently are apt to be right oftener than wrong.

Aright—It is sometimes considered the height of hilarity to single out the seal on the five cent Newfoundland, 1866 to 1880, as an example of artistic misconception. The ignorance, as it is alleged to be, of the designer is based on the claim that the seal has "paws like a dog" or something grotesque when compared with the proper appendages. Now, this seal is beloved by all of the older collectors who as boys thought that this "amphibious animal" was one of the most fascinating of the philatelic fauna, of which the representatives, while striking, such as the swan, beaver, etc., were comparatively few. While we did not like the imputation that the seal was a misfit anatomically, yet we did not have the enterprise to refute the libel, as it now seems to be. In the Australian Stamp Journal, Dr. F. Lucas Benham writes: "The stamp is beautifully drawn and engraved and is in my opinion, after comparing it with descriptions and illustrations in works on natural history, a true delineation of the harp seal —the commoner sort of seal that is met with on the coast of Newfoundland and Labrador. In both respects I consider the stamp of 1866 far superior to that which superseded it in 1880. The extremity of the fore limb in the seal (Phoca) is a paw, not a flipper, and in the harp seal this is particularly doglike and is, in addition, furnished with five very noticeable claws. . . . .The flexible wrist in the Phocidae allows the fore limb to bear the weight of the body in the palmar surface of the manus."

Agreed—We profess to see a vindication of the artist who drew the seal on the early Newfoundland stamp, as our contemporary says: "In those days photography of animal life was scarcely practiced at all. It might have been taken from life, from a picture, or perhaps from a museum specimen. It hardly could have been made out of the artist's own head." Speculation is indulged in by our friend concerning the artist and while we have no particulars on this score, we have a bit of unrecorded data that is not without interest. The following autograph letter is before us: "General Post Office, 26 February, 1866. Dear Sir: I beg to enclose for your acceptance six specimens of our new postage stamp. Yours truly, John Deluny." The addressee was "R. Carter, R. N." We may not have the signature exactly right but evidently, Mr. D. was an officer in the postal service at St. John's. The specimens are card board proofs of the 1866 set and show forth beautifully as they were examples of careful production by the American Bank Note Company.

Apropos—Having seen references to early publications in this country in our columns recently, Mr. N. E. Carter of Elkhorn, Wisconsin, has sent us a copy of the third edition of the Postage Stamp Album, published by J. W. Scott in 1870. We notice that this work which bears the imprimatur of Pardon and Son, Printers, Paternoster-Row, London, is a catalogue and album combined. Many of the U. S. in particular are pictured in colors and needless to say that some of the notations sound quaintly to the ears of this day. The prices of many of the stamps are such as to make one ponder on the changes that have taken place in the last fifty years. More of the stamps are priced in cents that are listed in the dollar column now than we have space to allot to them. Among our stamps that are priced at one cent are the 12c, 1861: 12c, 1869 and 12c, 1870. Some of the standard rarities of to-day barely aspired to dollar rank then; and the thought persists that philatelic history will repeat itself in the next half-century.

Advice—Several letters have been received from close observers of philatelic progress, as a consequence of remarks that have been made on the subject of the unusual publicity that stamps are receiving. It must be admitted that while our correspondents are concerned that full advantage is not being taken of this gratifying condition, no practical suggestion for doing so has been submitted. One of our readers says, however, that in New York City, there are several forces that are working in a centralized way as yet to devise and adopt means to turn the advertising to account; and he is hopeful that sufficient support will be forthcoming to spread the movement when it is properly shaped, to all sections. We invite communications on this question which is one of much importance as it is nothing short of folly to allow these golden days to pass unheeded.

COMPLAINTS AGAINST BELMORE.

A. C. Roessler informs us that Inspector Brennan of Columbus, O., is eager to obtain information from dealers who have been victimized by David W. Belmore, to whom we have made frequent reference in recent weeks. The inspector is very desirous of having prompt co-operation and we earnestly urge interested parties to take the matter up with him immediately.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

These stamps, as well as the other line-engraved stamps of Belgium, have always been popular and at one time and another have formed the theme of articles by such philatelic giants as the late Mr. Overy Taylor, Mr. M. P. Castle and Mr. W. A. S. Westoby, while M. Moens, the veteran Belgian philatelist, has left us a valuable monograph on the stamps of his native country. Exhaustive articles have appeared in the defunct American Journal of Philately from the pen of Mr. Jules Bouvézand in the equally defunct Gibbons' Stamp Weekly from the pen of Mr. Ch. de Bont, and to these we are particularly indebted for much useful information in the form of official decrees, etc. Finally Mr. J. B. Leavy, the Government philatelist, has given us a number of valuable philatelic studies covering the interesting re-entries and re-touches found in these stamps.

Leopold George Christian Frederick, first king of the Belgians, whose portrait appears on these stamps, was born on December 16th, 1790. He was the son of Francis, Duke of Saxe-Gotha and his sister Juliana having married the Russian Grand Duke Constantine he was attracted towards Russia and entered its army in 1808. Although only eighteen years of age he was made a general and in 1813 he fought against Napoleon at Lützen, Bautzen and Leipzig and entered Paris with the allied sovereigns.

He visited London in company with the Emperor Alexander in 1815 and in the following year married the Princess Charlotte, the only child of George IV. He was naturalised by Act of Parliament, created Duke of Kendal with an annual pension of £50,000, and was made a general in the British Army. His connubial happiness was destined to be brief for a year and a half later the Princess died.

After this sad event Prince Leopold spent many years in retirement, partly in London, partly in Claremont. In May, 1830, he was offered, but declined, the crown of Greece. However he had not long to wait for a crown for in the same year Belgium revolted from the Netherlands and on July 31st, 1831, Leopold became king.

In August, 1832, he married Princess Louise, eldest daughter of Louis Philippe, king of France, by whom he had three children.

The long experience of Leopold in political affairs, his acquaintance with the events of his own times, and his family connections, resulted in his officiating on many occasions in international disputes. In fact, by reason of his frequent good offices as umpire he was known as "Juge de Paix de l'Europe".

Although the designs of the two stamps forming this issue are almost exactly alike, yet there are small differences which prove conclusively that two separate dies were engraved. The position of the small labels of value and the arabesque ornamentation on the background present the most patent differences.

Who engraved the dies for these two stamps? Mr. W. A. S. Westoby says, "The engraving of the dies was entrusted to M. Jacques Wiener, a Belgian engraver, who submitted proofs of more than one design". Mr. Jules Bouvez and Mr. Ch. de Bont unhesitatingly assert that the dies were the work of Wiener, a statement in which M. Moens concurs and which we believe has never been seriously questioned. Mr. Leavy goes a little farther and tells us:—

"On August 7th, 1848, a contract was made by the Belgian Government, with Jacques and Leopold Wiener, to furnish dies and all necessary machinery for the printing of postage stamps; Jacques Wiener, who at that time was the leading engraver and medallist of the world, had just returned from a trip to England, made especially to study the process of stamp-making as carried on at that time. On October 28, 1848, the proof of the first Belgian stamp, that of the ten centimes, was approved and accepted by the Government, and on November 17, 1848, the design for the twenty centimes was submitted and approved."

Mr. Derek Ingram, writing on this subject in the Philatelic Gazette also agrees that the engraver of the dies was Wiener but, in dealing with the die proofs of the 40c of the second issue, also supposedly the work of Wiener. he refers to an interesting proof as follows:—

"Before leaving the subject of proofs, reference should be made to the 'blank' die proof signed across the lower right corner 'H. Robinson, Sc', with an added note below to the effect that the proof shows the size of the steel block upon which the postage stamps are engraved. This die proof was described and illustrated in the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, November, 1914, and up to the present no explanation is forthcoming as to its status. Investigation into such a philatelic mystery is naturally a matter of extreme difficulty under existing circumstances, especially as the descendant of Jacques Wiener, who is probably the only person who might be able to elucidate this mystery, is now in Bulgaria. The question as asked by the owner of this curious proof is, 'who was this Mr. H. Robinson? Did he really engrave the die and was he in the service of Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., or De La Rue and Co., and did either of these firms produce this die for Wiener and not the latter himself'?"

The above raises a most interesting point, the more so as it concerns a stamp issued almost immediately after the first two values were in circulation and intended as complementary to them and always presumed to be the handiwork of one and the same engraver. Fortunately we have been able to trace a small paragraph, not absolutely conclusive perhaps, but one which seems to

Removal Notice

By the time this adv. reaches you we will be located in our new offices in the just completed Hartford-Connecticut Trust Bldg. 750 Main St., probably the finest office building in New England. Customers passing our way are invited to drop in and get ac quainted. We will be located on the 13th floor with a fine view up and down the beautiful Connecticut River valley.

We group on this sheet a lot of the rarer and higher priced items for the collector who has about all the commoner varieties. Many of these items are scattered throug our other lists, but also many others are not offered by us elsewhere. We refer to Champion's Yvert & Tellier, French catalog, where catalog value is given. This catalog i taken as the guide to values in Europe and to a more or less extent the World over. We consider it, especially on the newer issues, the standard. For conversion to dollar and cents, the franc is figured at 10c. Thus a stamp listed at 500frs, would be $50, etc. In most cases around half cat. is wholesale in Europe, so that our prices on many o the items will be seen to be very reasonable indeed. We are forced to ignore the valuation placed on many of the rarer stamps by the American catalog, as they are not con sistent with their rarity, cost, etc., for guaranteed goods, and supplies are not obtainable to sell at the values given. Naturally we have the less expensive values and as w could use many pages and perhaps not offer the items you want, please send us a list of the stamps you need and will buy at a fair price.

Many of the stamps offered on this page will be the rarities of the future, and as the limited quantities will and are being rapidly absorbed, they are as cheap as the ever will be. Already we find it very difficult to secure supplies for our trade. The 19th collector will also find some desirable items offered.

We want your want list of 19th or 20th. During the past few months we have bought a number of collections listing from a few thousand up to eight thousand each, sa nothing to hundreds of smaller lots, so that we are better fixed than ever before to supply your wants. Our stock is especially strong in medium priced stamps, listing $ or less.

THE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

oint strongly to the fact that the dies r the first two stamps were the work an Englishman, the Mr. Robinson rerred to above in connection with the c. The small and unassuming paraaph in question appeared in the Stamp ollector's Magazine for October 1st, 68, under the pen name of "Theta"—a equent and well-informed contributor that fine old journal. Here it is in e writer's own words:—

nedited proofs, &c.

I had lately the pleasure of inspecting, the collection of a friend, a pair of oofs, presented to him by Mr. Robinn, who engraved them in 1849, for the elgian Government.

One is a proof of his design for the c, of the type, which was ultimately opted for both values of the 1849 ise. The other, namely, the original dem for the ten centime stamp, is not, I lieve, as yet known to collectors.

On the proof in question, the portrait the king has a much younger look, d is a more decided three-quarter pro- e than that on the accepted design; e arrangement of the epaulettes, too, d of the breast ornaments, is quite ique. Both are printed in black ink cartridge paper about four inches uare; and they were, I am given to derstand, the artist's own proofs of e designs, each bearing his initials, in s own handwriting, on the lower right nd corner."

It would appear, therefore, that cques Wiener, clever and accomplished ist and medallist that he was, thought best to entrust the actual engraving the dies to those pioneers in postage stamp manufacture, Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., and that the Mr. Robinson referred to above was an employé of this firm and was commissioned to produce the required dies.

The original dies were engraved on steel in recess and the plates were made and the stamps printed in the usual manner for line-engraved work. From the dies transfer rolls were made upon which the designs appeared in relief but whether there were more than one impression of each design on the transfer rolls we cannot say. These transfer roll impressions were then applied to the plate under heavy pressure so that the design once more appears in recess, as on the original die itself.

Each of the plates consisted of 200 subjects arranged in two panes of 100 each (ten rows of ten), placed side by side. Mr. Leavy says the plates were made of copper—a statement we are inclined to doubt in view of the fact that specimens are rarely found showing appreciable wear of the plate considering the comparatively large numbers printed. It seems more probable that as the English system was so carefully studied and copied that the plates were of steel.

The paper used for the stamps of this issue was, like that of the early British stamps, hand-made. It was manufactured by Olin Bros., of Brussels, and like all hand-made paper varied considerably in thickness. This paper was watermarked with a device consisting of two letters "L" interlaced; one, of course, being in reverse in relation to the other. These letters were enclosed in a single-line rectangular frame and the devices were so adjusted that one full design was apportioned to each of the two hundred stamps on a sheet. These little devices were made by hand by twisting wire into the desired shapes, consequently no two are exactly alike and some of the variations are quite striking. The designs were sewn on the special screen used in making the sheets of paper and as the wet pulp was spread on the screen the devices were pressed into it and formed the watermarks we see in the finished stamps. Each sheet of paper was also watermarked in the margins with an inscription in double-lined capital letters, about 7 mm. high, reading as follows:—"MINISTERE DES TRAVAUX PUBLICS" across the top of the sheet and in reverse at the bottom, and "BRUXELLES BELGIQUE POSTES" at each side reading upwards at left and downwards at right. This inscription means "Ministry of Public Works, Brussels, Belgium, Posts", and as these inscriptions were only 2½ mm. distant from the outer edges of the watermarked devices it frequently happens that stamps from the outer rows of the sheet show small portions of the letters.

The interlaced L's were placed sideways in the rectangles and Mr. Leavy has made the interesting discovery that those in the left pane have the heads of the letters to the right, while those in the right hand pane have the heads of the letters pointing to the left. This arrangement was quite ingenious for, as Mr. Leavy points out, in printing "the paper could be placed upon the plate in any of four ways, normal, reversed, inverted or inverted and reversed, without affecting the relative position of the watermark, which would always have the heads of the L's to the left in the left pane and to the right in the right pane. In examining stamps for the watermark we look at them from the back so that the watermark appears reversed, and when the interlaced L's show the heads to the right it indicates a stamp from the left pane, while the heads to the left indicate a stamp from the right pane."

The stamps were printed at the Stamp Works in Brussels, situated at that time in the basement of a modest house in the Rue Lateral, under the personal supervision of Jacques Wiener. Both Mr. Bouvez and Mr. de Bont agree that there were three separate printings, made in May and September, 1849, and April, 1850, and while both agree as to the numbers in the last printing their totals for the other two are at variance, though presumably they were obtained from official sources. The reader may, therefore, take his choice, for we give the quantities according to both writers:—

1st printing	10c,	1,600,000	1,450,000
"	20c,	1,500,000	1,150,000
2nd printing	10c,	3,000,000	3,000,000
"	20c,	2,800,000	3,600,000
3rd printing	10c,	800,000	800,000
"	20c,	500,000	500,000

Both these writers also assert that the first printing was on thick paper, the second on wove (though as all this paper was wove we do not see how this can differ from any of the other) and the third on fairly thin paper. We hardly think that either author can have had any real grounds for making these positive distinctions, for anyone in the least familiar with the process of paper manufacture knows that in the hand-made variety the paper is made sheet by sheet and the very nature of the process makes it a matter of impossibility to obtain uniform thickness. The texture of the paper, therefore, is no guide at all in distinguishing printings.

Both values provide an extensive range of shades of which brown, grey-brown, and reddish brown may be said to be the predominant colors of the 10 centimes, and deep blue, blue and milky blue of the 20 centimes, with all sorts of intermediate tints. That any special shades can be definitely assigned to any one of the three printings is, in our humble opinion, still a case of "not proven". Mr. Leavy gives an interesting synopsis of the various causes which tend to make shade variations, viz.:—

"First chemical action; engraved plates are cleansed of ink by being washed with a weak solution of potash, and there were no doubt many times when the solution was stronger than necessary, which would chemically affect the color of the ink when the plates were re-inked, imparting a grayish tone to the browns and a greenish tone to the blues. Second: uneven dampening of the paper when placed upon the plate, causing decided variations in the depth of tone of the color and sometimes a spreading of the ink giving a tinted appearance to the paper. Third: chemical action due to the substance of the gum used on the finished stamps, which was of two marked qualities, one a heavy white gum which turns opaque and milky under the action of water, the other a thick yellow gum almost insoluble in water. Fourth: atmospheric influence, varying degrees of oxidisation."

All students of line-engraved stamps are acquainted with the fact that in rocking the transfer roll on the plates mistakes were sometimes made. An impression would be misplaced, erased, and another impression made in the correct position. In erasing the wrong impression—which we imagine frequently meant merely impressing another over it in the correct position—traces were often left which show in the printed stamps, these varieties being generally known as "shifts" or "shifted transfers", though a more correct description is re-entries. Until comparatively recent times these interesting varieties were entirely unknown though they may be found in connection with almost any line engraved stamps—even in those printed in the most modern printing establishments.

A number of interesting varieties of this character occur in connection with both the 10 and 20 centimes of this first issue of Belgium. Some of those found on the 10c are of a particularly striking character and can easily be seen without the aid of a magnifying glass. In some cases the numerals are plainly doubled, others show some of the letters of the inscriptions doubled and others again have doubled frame lines or portions of the shading of the coat across the upper or lower inscriptions. Others, again, show combinations of the above; numerals and inscriptions doubled, and so on. Mr. Leavy described eleven well marked varieties and two similar ones for the 20c. It is, however, hardly within the scope of an article of this general character to describe all these in detail. Specialists and students desiring to pursue the matter further are referred to the careful and accurate descriptions with their accompanying fine illustrations in Mr. Leavy's article in the Philatelic Gazette.

In addition to these varieties of re-entry Mr. Leavy points out that a number of stamps on the plates of both denominations show the frame lines re-cut, this work evidently being done before the plates were used to strengthen lines which had not been impressed deeply enough in "laying down" the designs.

Other varieties of interest to the specialist are found on the 20c in the form of distinct fine lines running through various parts of the design. These "hair-lines" were probably due to some accidental scratching of the plate and are, of course, not of the same degree of philatelic importance as the re-entries and re-cuts.

Both stamps are extremely rare in perfect mint condition and if we are to judge from a statement made by Mr. Overy Taylor as long ago as 1870 that "unused specimens are almost unattainable" it would appear that they have always been scarce. Unused stamps with a red ink line through them are specimens, the line answering exactly the same purpose as the word "Specimen" so frequently overprinted on stamps of this class. As this red line has frequently been removed with the greatest skill, unused specimens should be purchased with caution.

Used copies are for the most part very heavily obliterated, the cancellation in use at this period consisting of a number of substantial bars rather close together with numerals in the centre. The stamps were, of course, imperforate, as the perforation machine had not then been invented, though about this time Henry Archer was experimenting with a machine for the British post-office.

CHAPTER IV.

The Second Issue.

Although the two denominations comprising the first issue were considered sufficient for the then existing postal system, while they were still in the process of being made a treaty was signed with France regulating the postage between the two countries on the basis of a forty-centime rate for single letters. This treaty was concluded at Brussels on April 27th, 1849, the two most interesting provisions being the following:—

"Art. 2. Letters from France and Algiers intended for Belgium and, reciprocally, letters from Belgium to France and Algiers, shall in future bear a uniform tax of 40 centimes for the single letter of which 17 centimes shall be credited to Belgium and 23 to France. Nevertheless, the postage on letters addressed from one of these countries to the other shall be reduced to 20 centimes for a single letter whenever the distance, in a straight line, between the office of origin and that of destination shall not exceed 30 kilometres.

Art. 6. Registered letters shall bear double the postage of ordinary letters and must be prepaid. Letters sent from Belgium may, at the option of the sender, be prepaid in currency or by means of postage stamps. Should, however the stamps placed upon the letter be insufficient to pay the entire charge prop for such letter, the stamps shall be fo feited by the sender and the letter co sidered as not prepaid."

Whether the treaty came into effect once or later is not quite clear. Bo Mr. Leavy and Mr. Bouvez infer th it did and that it was in consequence the increasing use of 20 centimes stam that a new 40c value was issued. M M. P. Castle and Mr. Westoby agree th the convention did not come into for until October 1st, 1849, basing the statements on M. Moens "Les Timbr de Belgique". M. Moens goes furth and states that the official circular a nouncing the new rates was not pu lished until Oct. 9th—or nine days aft they had become effective—while t new 40c stamp was actually placed circulation on October 17th. It may remarked here that the French stamp the same value was not issued un nearly four months later.

A U. S. MAP MADE OF POSTAGE STAMP

Leon L. Beideman, one of Wilmington's enthusiastic philatelists, and a member of the Delaware Stamp Club, is exhibiting in the store windows of Samso Stern, 417 Market street, a large ma of the United States and a portion Canada, executed entirely with posta stamps.

Stamps of different denomination distinctive colors and in perfect ou line, are used to distinguish each of t 48 states of the Union. The low portion of Canada, Mr. Beidman d signed of Canadian postage stamp For the Great Lakes, the two oceans a the Gulf of Mexico, blue stamps we used.

DOUBLETS.

"On looking over the current two ce stamp I find that the engraver ran pairs about a score of times," said t observing stamp salesman at New Yor unpopular post office, which is frown upon by both the Woolworth Tower a the Municipal Building, not to menti most of the rest of lower Manhattan.

And taking a stamp in hand he pr ceeded to point them out:

Two numerals "2."

Two words, "Postage" and "Cents."

Two abbreviations, "U." for Unit and "S." for States.

Two periods, one after each abbrevi tion.

Two branches of leaves.

Two scrolls of ribbon, one above ea numeral.

Two printed letters "E" two of " and two of "T."

Two thin letters "S" formed by t white line at either end of the right ha scroll of ribbon.

Two reverse letters "S" formed in t same way on the left hand scroll.

Two buds, or berries, at the base each group of leaves on each branc eight pairs in all.

Two chins on the profile of Geor Washington, count 'em, a score of pa in all, and with a magnifying gla you're sure to find some more.—N York Sun.

McVITTLES SELLS A SLEEPER.

By COTTON C. DOYLE.

"Well", remarked Casey, knocking the ashes out of his pipe and noticing the old battered spittoon on the floor in front of the counter in McVittle's philatelic emporium had disappeared and a bright new shiny brass one was occupying the place where it formerly rested, "Where did you get the new gahboon, and is the stamp business so good you're throwin' your money away on this an' that instead of buyin' the missus a new $700 fur coat rayduced to $298, or is it the income tax you're tryin' to dodge? And whatever it is, don't be sittin' there cryin' out of one side of y'r face and laughin' out of the other, but answer me, yes or no, or which."

McVittles eyed his friend steadily, his countenance gradually assuming its normal solemn aspect, but answered never a word until just as Casey opened his mouth to repeat the demand for a reply. Then McVittles spoke.

"Business is just the same as yesterday, last week and year after next—good, bad, and a mixture of both. The gahboon cost me not a cent—if it had you'd be missin' it and tryin' to hit the old one this very minute. But if it didn't cost me a red cent, it set me back many a dollar of profit that I could have had and didn't get, and the difference between makin' two dollars and losin' two dollars is now and always will be just four hundred cents.

"However, the thing itself is not to blame and I've had many a good laugh out of it, so if you're in a listenin' mood—and I never saw you when you weren't—just fill up y'r old incinerator with whatever brand of fine cut little Miss Red Cheeks down at the corner sold you to keep your tongue from bitin' y'r false teeth when you stopped in to buy a box of disarmament matches as you came along, and I'll tell you why I'm stickin' to this business when I ought to be doin' somethin' in which the work would be leaner and the pay fatter.

"The how of it was this:—Out in a two by three town in O'Hyer I have a customer who thinks that stamp collectin' consists in cornerin' every pretty copy of a certain ten cent Confedrit stamp that can be found anywhere. As stamps go, it is a peculiar sticker, and its peculiarity is different from the peculiarities of nearly every other stamp that I can think of right now. The plate of this stamp was ruled off in horizontal and vertical lines, each one just far enough apart from the next so that when the stamps were made every one of the 200 of them on the sheet sets in a little square box—not exactly square either, but not far from it— and as there was only one line to the box all around the stamp any two of them must share the line between them.

"Now sometimes one of them stamps shows the line on one side, or maybe on two sides, or even three sides, and if it so happened that the stars in the heavens above were in just the right position when it was cut off the sheet one stamp may have the line all around it, just like it was meant for a frame. And whenever one of these stamps shows one of these frame lines, the stamp next to it had to go without a frame since only one line there was for and between any two of them. What the sharp-eyed lads look for is the stamp that has the most frame, and a real hunt it is too, for these are not common chippy sparrows, but related to the dodo they are, and the relation is gettin' closer every time the sun comes up or goes down. The lad in O'Hyer just sits and waits f'r one of these birds to fly up out of the long grass and then he knocks it over and files it away in his card file for his executors to fight about sometime in the future."

"But", broke in Casey, "why do the other lads let him get them all? Why don't they mix in now and again and keep the flies from bitin' him?"

"They do", replied McVittles, "and that's what I'm comin' to. Especially I have in mind another lad right over here in Southwark, within gunshot of my voice, who takes many a crack at these very same stamps, and now and again he lands one and that makes the other lad displeased with the world and the sun doesn't shine so brightly in O'Hyer that day, and it's much the same when the case is ipse dixit, for when the O'Hyer lad picks off one that the local sharpshooter thought was all ticketed to stay right here in town, that day it rains or blows or does something with no cheer in it and Southwark is fit only to be headquarters for a suicide club. The two lads will soon get to the point where everything they do is deadly serious and nothing is sensible, and the next station after that for stamp collectors is the place where every other guest thinks he is Marshal Foch and the rest of them think they are Bill Hart, and the keepers divide their time between the battle of the Marne and watchin' rehearsals f'r the movies.

"I tell you Casey, sometimes I wish stamp collectin' was as frivolous as most every outsider thinks it is. The worst trouble with this gr-rand indoor sport is that it's too serious. You take a tired business man who has spent a long hard day at the office kiddin' his stenographer, with only two hours out f'r lunch, and when he goes home to the wife and kids at night he's as empty of good cheer as the toy balloon that leans up against the business end of a Pittsburgh stogy, and instead of worryin' his tired brain tryin' to find out what the difference between a dozen one cent blues, that look like the description of type Ia and also seem to fit the description of type IIb, and are probably somethin' else entirely, he ought to be playin' puss-in-the-corner with a handful of pink tigers from French Congo or chasin' a pack of bicolored Nyassa giraffes from the bottom row of his album page to the top row and back again. Stamp collectin' may be a science, but I hope it's many a long day before most collectors find it out. When that day ever comes—and may it never get here—then the kids who know nothin' of science, and are glad of it, will have all the fun.

"But to resume what I was sayin' before I interrupted myself,—one day a little while back, in walks the lad from Southwark, gives the old gahboon a kick to show his feelins are kindly, and hands me over an unlimited bid on one of them ten cent Jeff Davis stickers that was comin' up in an auction a few days later. Lookin' at him coldly out of one eye and with a merry twinkle in the other, I handed him back his bid and says, 'nothin' doin'.'

"'What's disturbin' your digestion', says he, 'isn't my money any good any more?'

"'Sure an' it's good', says I, 'but today it doesn't happen to be good enough, for this very mornin' I have received a telegram from beyond the other side of Pennsylvania and it was short and all to the point. It instructed me to buy that very same stamp no matter what damage was done to anyone's pocketbook, and you very well know I cannot accept two unlimited bids on one stamp, especially when each of them comes from a friend.'

"He did not take the news kindly at first, but after he had favored the old gahboon with two more not overly gentle caresses with the toe of his boot, the sun began to shine through the clouds and he says, says he to me,—

"'Well, I suppose it's best to make the best of it, and so here's what I'll do: I'll not bid at all. You buy the thing if you can be lucky enough and as long as I intended to put in an unlimited bid and am now withdrawing my bid entirely, I'm willin' to match your other friend to see which one of us gets it, at whatever price you have to pay, provided no dark horse takes it away from both of us. That's a fair offer', says he, 'and your friend will be well to accept it.'

"'Yes' says I, 'that's as fair an offer as any horse can make when he's tryin' to beat out the one that's next to the post, and if the lad who got started first wants to accept your offer and take a fifty-fifty chance on losin' his advantage it's no affair of mine, but I'll not accept it for him. I'll tell him what you're willin' to do, but I won't recommend him to do it.'

"'Suit yourself' says he, 'knowin' me well enough to know, that's just what I was bound to do anyhow.

"Later that same afternoon I have the pleasure of entertainin' two bright an shinin' lights of the local Fox Club—charter members they are, who'll carry a life sentence to their graves unless they reform and give up stamp collectin' altogether—and so I mention the ruckus over the ten cent Confedrit stamp to them and one of them speaks up and says, says he, 'why Raskin, over on Fitzwater Street, has one of them he tried to sell me, but it had an invisible flyspeck on the margin in one corner, and as Past Supreme Exalted President of the Fox Club, I couldn't conscientiously buy it, for it would spoil the rest of my collection', he says.

"'Of course not', joins in the other, 'though you are wrong about the flyspeck. I myself would have bought it when he offered it to me only the price was too high. Why', says he, 'Raskin wanted nearly 50% of what it would bring at auction, and no stamp is worth as much as that. Besides', says he, 'there was more than one invisible flyspeck on it. There were two, one on top of the other.'

"Believe me or not, Casey, but they argued it back and forth and so I put on my hat and walked over to Raskin's and left them goin' it for all they were worth. And Raskin loaned me the stamp, and after studyin' it for a couple of hours, I found the place where the flyspeck was supposed to be and could almost see it, but I couldn't tell whether there would have been one flyspeck or two if it or they had really been there. Not to save me.

"The auction came and went and my luck was in, and I sent both of the stamps out to O'Hyer, tellin' the lad there that he could keep either or both. While they were gone the Southwark lad comes in and I tell him about Raskin's copy, and he says, if it comes back he'll take if, f'r half a pretzel is better than no cheese at all. The O'Hyer lad writes me he's keepin' the auction copy and hasn't decided about the one I got from Raskin, but he wants to take a photygraph of it to keep in his Rogue's Gallery, so I knew he was suspectin' it had one or two invisible flyspecks. It's number 37 in the left pane, he says, and he already has eighteen copies of number 37, and one more would be nineteen, which is too much, he says.

"A day or two later back comes the Raskin copy without causin' me any surprise, and as the postman was goin' out the door in comes the Southwark lad, and I hand him the stamp and he writes me a check and now I know there are no stamp collectors in the bankin' business, because the check had a tear in it, but the bank honored it just as if it was a perfect specimen, and all a check should be. After lunch I bought two cigars instead of one for I had pleased two customers instead of one and I was feelin' as fine as any stamp dealer ever does.

"And the next day the gr-rand an' glorious feelin' hadn't worn off hardly at all, when in walks the Southwark lad and the minute I laid eyes on him knew he'd put something over on som body, and I guessed I was it. Ar that was a good hunch as ever I'll ge What d'ye think's the answer?"

Casey looked at McVittles and the at the floor and then back to McVittl again before speaking.

"You've said hardly a word about gal boons since you started to talk, ar what they've got to do with ten ce

ADLETS.

Minimum two lines.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

RATE.—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $2.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

Confedrits is beyond me. Go on, I give up."

"You might as well", continued McVittles, "for I myself never suspected the truth. The Southwark lad took an old envelope out of his pocket and laid it on the counter, right in front of where you're sittin'. I recognized it immediately. It was the cover I got from Raskin—the very same. But in the corner where one ten cent Jeff Davis stamp should have been, with or without flyspecks, there were two stamps, and they were a pair. One of them was the very same copy the lad in O'Hyer had examined and plated and photygraphed, and wept and cried over, too, I dare say, and the other half of the pair of them wasn't cancelled at all.

"It seems that the Southwark lad thought he could make the stamp lie flatter and sweeter on the cover than it was when he got it from me, and so he soaked one stamp and when it came off it was two. Never a doubt the two had been folded together back to back and carried in somebody's pocket, while that somebody was gatherin' fame and perspiration, chasin' Yankees away from Richmond sixty years ago, and the stamps had stuck so tight that when the feller tried to use them all he could do was toss up to see which side he preferred to have on top. And he put a gob of flour paste on the other side and hit the thing with his fist in the good old way, and the letter went all right and the stamp went with it.

"That's just the way that envelope was all the time Raskin had it, and all the time I had it, and all the time the O'Hyer lad had it, and every minute of the time those two High Kickalorums of the Fox Club were putting it through the third degree. Not one of us ever so much as dreamed there was more than one stamp on the cover. We had eyes for nothin' but invisible flyspecks and couldn't see the difference between a single rare stamp and a pair of them worth as much as four or five singles. A rare joke on all of us it was, except the lad from Southwark, and he is well entitled to laugh out of the front of his face. As for me Casey, I have to cry at missin' what I missed and laugh at the way I missed it.

"But what about the gahboon, McVittles? Where did that come in? Did the Fox Club make you a present of it?"

"Not exactly, Casey, that is, not entirely of their own free will. It took persuasion, and more than a little of it. I just told those two fellers they'd lose their membership in the club if the story ever got out, and if they wanted to keep it from gettin' out through me they'd do well to make a donation to the place they use for a club room, and I gave the old gahboon a kick and looked at it pretty hard for a minute or two, and I guess that gave them an idea. Anyhow, not long afterwards, one day I was givin' my old briar its semi-annual clean out and when I reached f'r the old gahboon it wasn't there, and this new one was. I like it better, Casey, it's bigger."

"Who were those two sharp-eyed lads that you've been tellin' about?" asked Casey, "Do I know them?"

"It's a safe bet you do, Casey, but I'll mention no names. If you're so very anxious to find out I think you'll not have much trouble. Just speak to any lad that you see huntin' through my stock f'r invisible flyspecks and ask him if he'd like to buy a pair of pantaloons that were worn by Jefferson Davis. If he looks at you a long time before he answers you've made a good start."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We desire a half dozen copies of the issue of the WEEKLY for Dec. 10. We will send a foreign exchange in return for every copy received. Must be returned in original fold only.

—S. Haas submits a letter received from Mrs. Clara M. Tubbs, mother of D. O. Tubbs, in which she states that her son is serving a prison sentence. She has a number of approval selections concerning which she writes, "I don't know them apart. If you will send the amount of your claim and the kind of stamps you sent I will help him return them to their owners when he gets home. I do not know when this will be." Others who have claims against D. O. Tubbs, Quincy, O., will do well to place them in the hands of Mrs. Tubbs.

—W. H. Schrimpf, Kansas City, Kans., sends us a packet of 1,500 stamps designed for shut-ins. We have sent the same on to Mr. Slusser for disposition as he sees fit. This is a commendable act upon the part of Mr. Schrimpf and he clinches his courtesy by enclosing 10c postage for forwarding purposes.

—The Burt McCann Co., Minneapolis, Minn., submits a block of four of the 2c Pilgrim stamps in which there is a variety in the inscription "Landing of the Pilgrims". In the letter T the vertical line is missing, on the two upper stamps of the block.

—"Mr. Sisson was a true friend of mine. We had spent many pleasant hours together over our stamps. He was an upright man and a true friend to every stamp collector. While he preferred the old issues, he was up to the minute on U. S. and had the finest collection of U. S. imperfs. in the city, if not in the United States."—H. B. COMFORT.

NOTE THE ANGOLA OFFER!

We are very desirous of securing the assistance of our subscribers in getting new names for our mailing list. Every one of you knows somebody who is interested in stamp collecting and all you need do is exhibit a copy of the WEEKLY to arouse interest in our publication. This will be especially true in the face of the fact that we offer a desirable premium to introduce our publication to persons who have never taken the paper before.

A list of good premiums is given herewith, and any one of the number will be given either to the new subscriber or to the person sending in the new subscription. The premium may go to one or the other, as preferred. We have some subscription forms convenient for use that we shall be glad to send to those subscribers who would like to have their names appear upon our monthly roll of honor. If you believe in philately and believe in the WEEKLY you should be able to talk it and secure new subscribers for it.

CONTENT WITH MY STAMPS.

By BLAINE C. BIGLER.

I don't care if the rain is falling;
I don't care if the skies are gray;
I don't mind the wild wind's calling
For I can drive my cares away.

I get my stamps and forget my worry,
Gone are the rain and the leaden skies—
Vanished the wind with all its fury;
My stamps bring a new world to my eyes.

Here in the blue I see the ocean;
The yellow a promise of summer ways;
The green are the leaves in constant motion;
The red are a dream of autumn days.

THE PRECANCEL.

By FREDERICK W. ALLEN

It is evident by the increased interest in precancels taken during the past few years, that these stamps are rapidly becoming more and more prized by the majority of U. S. collectors. There is a fascination about precancels which, when caught, leads one to consider the majority of foreign stamps drab and uninteresting. In my case, precancels enslaved me utterly for several years after I was bitten by the "bug." Disposing of my collections of foreign and U. S., I began my quest for the cancelled bits, with all bridges burned behind. At the present writing, I still value a precancel as nothing else, but I have resurrected my regard for British Colonies, of which I once more have a fine display.

A difficult problem for the beginner is to choose just what precancels to collect and how to arrange his collections in the most satisfactory manner. There are not too many to collect "en masse," but the interest will be keener if only certain lines are considered.

The 1898 and 1902 issues should be sought after, perhaps above all. These early specimens are replete with striking types of all sorts, hailing from hamlets to great cities, and possess a rising value second to none. Then there are the Commemoratives, Parcel Posts, Special Deliveries, Aeroplanes and the recent Documentaries, that no collector should ignore. Postage Dues, Coils and Surface Prints offer still other fields. The regular issues from 1908 to the present will arrange themselves in better form if perforations are ignored, for sets will be easier to complete, and will look a good deal prettier than if they were divided up by varieties in perforation. Again, only 7c, 9c, 11c, 12c, 13c, 30c, 50c and the dollar values may be mounted.

Arrangement may be made to fit the fancy of the individual. Collecting by states and towns is the general way, but very neat displays may be made according to types, denominations and other methods suggested by the imagination and viewed from the artistic standpoint.

In closing, let me state that a precancel collection to look its best should be mounted in an attractive blank album. Two very good ones are the "Permanent" and the "Practical," both well adapted in every way to house what many consider the best investment in Philately today.—Precancel Gazette.

STAMPS OF THE UNION OF SO. AFRICA.

By STEPHEN G. RICH.

(We are pleased to present our readers with this interesting study of the stamps of the Union of South Africa. When the serial has been completed in the WEEKLY it will be reprinted in booklet form. We have had cuts made showing the varieties that are described in the article, but their use will be delayed until the article is reprinted, as they are double column width and would require considerable space. Mr. Rich has a very interesting and valuable diagram showing the genealogy of the Union of South Africa postal service and stamps, with the dates of the first and last issues of stamps and of mergings of services.—W. O. W.)

CHAPTER I.

Introduction.

The understanding of the stamps of the newest of the Dominions will be easier if their historical antecedents be understood. After the Anglo-Boer War of 1899 to 1902, the ambitions of the South African Republic to control the whole sub-continent of South Africa were for a time dead: on the other hand, the ambitions of the Cape Colony towards this end seemed about to be attained, as all the sub-continent was now either autonomous British Colonies or Crown Colonies. In 1906 the Orange River Colony and the Transvaal became autonomous, exactly as the Cape Colony and Natal had for years been, and with this, two former leaders of the South African Republic, who had taken the oath of allegiance, became heads of the Transvaal government. Under the skilful guidance of these men, Generals Louis Botha and Jan C. Smuts, the Transvaal, aided by its great material prosperity during this period, again aspired to dominate the sub-continent.

Accordingly, in 1908 and 1909 conferences of the accredited delegates of the four colonies were held, and schemes of federation discussed. Despite the desire of Natal for a federation like that of the United States or Canada, the Cape and Transvaal delegations secured the adoption of a scheme of highly centralized union, leaving only such matters as schools and roads in provincial hands. In 1909 the British Parliament passed the South Africa Act, which established the Union of South Africa in accordance with the adopted scheme, to commence its existence as a nation on June 1, 1910. This Act, which is the South African constitution, is unique in the constitutions of British Dominions, in that it provided that after June 1, 1920, the Union of South Africa had the power in certain respects to amend its own constitution without the interference of the British Parliament; and also in that, altho the capital of the country was established at Pretoria, the seat of Parliament was located at Cape Town and the Supreme Court at Bloemfontein. The postal services of the four colonies were merely consolidated to form the new national postal service.

The four constituent provinces included the greater part of the small countries and colonies in South Africa, which have from time to time issued stamps. The Cape Province comprised the Cape Colony as it existed in 1909, including Griqualand West (annexed 1884), British Bechuanaland, which had been the Republic of Stellaland previous to 1886, and which was annexed to the Cape in 1898, and Griqualand East, Natal Province included Natal as it was in 1909, including Zululand, annexed to Natal in 1898, and the New Republic,

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS

New Order enclosed. I "cleaned up" on last packet I received from you (1000 variety) already realizing more than I paid after securing 400 varieties for myself.—B. Buchanan, Liverpool, Ohio.

Well satisfied with 2000 packet. Secured 900 stamps for my collection, selling the rest to my friends. Have already cleared over $5.00.—A. Wahlberg, Oakland, Calif.

Very much pleased with 1000 packet. Order enclosed for a 2000. I was greatly surprised at the quality of the stamps in the packet.—F. C. Elmes, Berwick, Pa.

Use bonds sent as payment for 10,000 variety packet. The packet proved highly satisfactory as a basis for a general collection.—F. M. Bigelow, Chicago, Ill.

Received 1000 packet some days ago and have had a fine time looking them over. Secured 250 new stamps for my collection of 3700, traded 43 for other new varieties and replaced 100 that were better specimens than mine. I never saw any stamps in such good condition, not a poor one in the lot. Order for 2000 packet enclosed.—T. Herrick, City Treasurer, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Don't Hesitate—Your opportunity is now. Remember the packet must satisfy or we refund your money plus your postage in returning same. Could we be more convincing of these packets' sterling qualities? Try one today—acts like a good tonic.

H. F. COLMAN

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING WASHINGTON, D. C.

which formed part of the Transvaal from 1889 to 1902, and was then annexed to Natal. The Orange River Colony became the Orange Free State Province, thus regaining its old name. The Transvaal Province included Swaziland, which had been a protectorate of the South African Republic, but had been incorporated into the Transvaal Colony in part.

In 1915 the South African army conquered the German colony of German Southwest Africa, and this has since that time been administered as part of the Union of South Africa, to which it was assigned by mandate under the Treaty of Versailles.

CHAPTER II.

"Interprovincials."

The philatelic history of the Union of South Africa begins with the interprovincial use of the old Colonial stamps of the constituent provinces, during the first three years of the national existence. In this we shall see the dominance of the two large provinces, exactly as American history shows the dominance of the then three largest states of Virginia, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts after 1783. The stamps of the four colonies were used interchangeably throughout the country for three years, exactly as were the stamps of the constituent states of the Australian Commonwealth after 1900.

It must be noted that except where records of purchases of stamps were kept, or where the cancellations show place and date clearly, the interprovincials cannot be identified. The stamps in question are the regular issues of the four colonies as in use in 1910; all "King Edward head" series, and printed on paper watermarked anchor for the Cape stamps and multiple crown and C. A. for the other provinces.

I have seen the following:

Cape Stamps. In my collection:—Used in Cape Province, ½d, postmarked Capetown, Oct. 17, 1911; 1d, postmarked Rondebosch, July 25, 1911; ½d wrapper, postmarked Capetown, April 1, 1912. Used in Natal Province, ½d, postmarked Durban, 1911; 1d, postmarked Durban, March 5, 1911. Used in Transvaal, 1s, Postmarked Johannesburg, Feb., 1911; 1d envelope, postmarked Jeppestown, May 17, 1911; ½d wrapper, postmarked Johannesburg, Aug. 8, 1912. Elsewhere: Used in Cape Province, 1d, postmarked Port Alfred, June 28, 1919; several 1d and ½d postmarked Capetown, various dates in 1911.

Natal Stamps: In my collection:—Used in Cape Province, 10s, postmarked Oudtshoorn, Sept. 8, 1911. Used in Natal Province, 1d, postmarked Durban, June 16, 1911; 1d envelope, postmarked Melmoth, Zululand, Feb. 27, 1911. Used in Transvaal, Province, 2s 6d, postmarked East Rand, July 23, 1912; 10s, postmarked Pietersburg, July 6, 1911; ½d envelope, postmarked Johannesburg, Sept. 2, 1911. None seen elsewhere.

Orange River Colony Stamps: In my collection:—Used in Cape Province, 2½d, postmarked Uitenhage, May 14, 1912; 4d, postmarked Kimberley, 1911; 4d, postmark not wholly legible but shows clearly C. G. H. (Cape of Good Hope). Used in Transvaal Province, 2 envelopes, ½d, postmarked Johannesburg, Feb., 1911. None seen elsewhere.

Transvaal Stamps: In my collection: Used in Cape Province, ½d, postmarked Capetown, Aug. 8, 1913. 1d, postmarked Wynberg Cape, 1913; 4d, postmarked Capetown, date illegible; 6d, ditto; 1d wrapper, postmarked Kimberley, July 11, 1913. Used in Natal Province: ½d, postmark shows "Natal" Dec. 21, 1911; 1d, postmarked Adams Mission Station, May 28, 1911; 1d, postmarked Durban, Sept. 10, 1912; 1s, postmarked Melmoth, Zululand, April 27, 1912; 10s, postmarked Durban, Sept. 19, 1913; 2s 6d, postmarked Durban, April, 1913; 1s postage due, postmarked Pietermaritzburg, June 5, 1911; 2d postage due, postmarked Mapumulo, Natal, Sept. 10, 1914. Used in Orange Free State Province: ½d, postmarked Kroonstad, May 30, 1913; 1d, postmarked Harrismith, Nov. 23, 1911. Used in Transvaal Province: ½d, postmarked Johannesburg, May 2, 1912; 2d, postmarked Pretoria, 1912; 1d envelope, postmarked Germiston, Jan. 12, 1911. Elsewhere:—Used in Cape; 1d, postmarked East London, Feb., 1912. Used in Natal: ½d, postmarked Durban, 1912; 1d, postmarked Charlestown, 1913; 1d, postmarked Pietermaritzburg, date not visible; 1d postage due, postmark shows "Natal", 1915; 2d postage due, Durban triangular postmark, Oct. 14, 1914.

After the issue of both postage stamps and postage due stamps, and in fact after the issue of post cards and envelopes, the remainders of the old stamps on hand were used up gradually. In particular, I have the Transvaal postage due ½d, used in Durban, Natal, in 1917, and again in May, 1920, and have seen the 3d of the same cancelled in Durban as late as 1919. The 1d postal card of the Transvaal I have purchased and used at Durban and at Adams Mission Station, Natal, in 1916. I have one of these, bearing the postmark Adams Mission Station, May 15, 1916.

The Colonial stamps were surcharged "Customs Duty" in black or red, and used for revenue purposes on imports by parcel post, after Union. I have the Transvaal 3d, surcharged in red, postmarked Pietermaritzburg, Natal, May 28, 1914, and the 3d Orange River Colony, surcharged in black, cancelled East London, Cape Province, date not visible.

It will be noticed from the above account that the Cape stamps would appear to have been discontinued first, about 1911, that the Natal and Orange River Colony stamps were continued slightly longer, and that in the period immediately preceding the issue of Union stamps, practically all the stamps in use throughout the Union were Transvaal stamps. It will also be noticed that the intercharge of Natal and Transvaal stamps for use in these two provinces seems to have been a consistent practice. This will be the more readily understood when it is recalled that the Union Government had at its head—and still has—the same group that controlled the Transvaal government after 1906.

It will be in place at this point to mention that all stamps that were valid for postage in the various colonies before Union, are still valid in the whole of the Union. This will include therefore all stamps of the Cape of Good Hope and of Natal; all stamps of the Orange River Colony, from those of 1900, surcharged V. R. I., inclusive, onwards, Transvaal King's Head stamps; all stamps of British Bechuanaland. The disparity in date of earliest issue available will be understood readily when it is recalled that stamps issued prior to British occupation in the Transvaal and Orange Free State were demonetized when these were occupied in the Anglo-Boer War; and the Transvaal stamps, surcharged V. R. I. and E. R. I., were demonetized December 31, 1908, owing to the large number of fraudulent surcharges made in Holland. I have in my collection a cover postmarked at Pretoria in May, 1918, on which, in addition to the stamp of the Union 1d stamped envelope are two Orange Free State 1d, surcharged V. R. I. and two Orange River Colony surcharge on 2½d blue Cape (Scott Nos. 45, 55). I have used in 1918 and 1919 a fair number of these older issues, for postage, as they could even then be obtained at almost face. In fact, owing to the ignorance of postal officials, I have even used Transvaals with the V. R. I. surcharge for postage during 1919; these were then to be had at less than face.

CHAPTER III.

2½d Commemorative of 1910.

No sooner had the Union of South Africa come into existence as a government, than it was decided to issue a stamp for the rate of foreign postage, 2½d, to be issued on the date of opening of the Union Parliament. It is reported, generally in South Africa, that the intention was originally to have the stamp out for the date of establishment of Union, but that the death of King Edward VII, shortly before this, prevented such issue. On Nov. 4, 1910, the date upon which the Union Parliament met for the first time, there was placed on sale in the larger cities a stamp of 2½d blue, measuring 28x34 mm. over all, and of a highly elaborate symbolic design. This stamp was kept on sale approximately six months, as the supply lasted that long. It is still valid for postage.

The stamp is line-engraved, by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon and Co., Ltd., of London, and is printed upon a medium-soft paper, watermarked multiple flowers, perf. 14. It is found in all shades of blue from deep blue to almost a dark ultramarine; but it is probable that several of these are merely "fades", due to water-action. Three undoubted shades exist: deep blue, dull blue, and dark grayish blue.

The symbolism of the stamp is probably not exceeded by that of any other stamp ever issued, and merits a description. At top, in the center, is the British Imperial crown, to symbolize that the Union of South Africa is one of the nations of which George V is the king. The portrait of King George, nearly full-face, fills the medallion in the centre. In the left-hand top corner is the coat-of-arms of the Cape of Good Hope; in the right-hand upper corner that of Natal; in the lower left-hand corner that of the Orange Free State; and in the lower right-hand corner that of the Transvaal. Thus is symbolized the make-up of the Union. It will be noted by the curious that the Orange Free State and Transvaal have here the same coat-of-arms as were in use in the two republics previous to the Anglo-Boer War. The range of animals and trees in these coats of arms is considerable, as it includes three lions, two antelopes, two elands, an eagle, oxen and an orange tree; also there are two anchors, two trek-wagons, and the flag of the old South African Republic. The mottoes on the arms are interesting, but space precludes their discussion.

Surrounding the King's head, in blue letters on white, is the name of the country in both official languages. This is our first acquaintance with bilingualism: it is provided in the constitution of the Union of South Africa that both Dutch and English are to be official languages and that all government printed matter must be in both languages. This is further carried out in the words "Postage" over the left numeral of value and "Postzegel" over the right. Immediately above the numerals of value on each side is the protea, the national flower of the Cape, and intended to be the national flower of South Africa. However, subsequent usage has replaced it by the mimosa as the nationally accepted national flower.

Beneath the medallion is the date of the formation of Union, surrounded by four stars. These stars not only symbolize the four constituent colonies, but also form a conventionalized representation of the Southern Cross, indicating thus where the country is situated. The rectangular outline of the stamp is filled out with well-designed scroll work.

I have no figures as to the number issued.

ALLEN SEARS INC SUITE 508 KEMPER BLDG. KANSAS CITY, MO.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

Instead of continuing the series with the handsome design chosen for the 10c and 20c an entirely new one was decided on for the new denomination.

The same portrait of the King was used and this was set upon an upright oval medallion with a groundwork of horizontal and vertical lines — cross-hatched, as it is technically termed. This resulted in the removal of the epaulettes and there are slight differences in the shading of the hair and the lines of the coat and the stars to the right of the cravat are more distinct, but undoubtedly the portrait on both designs owed its inspiration to the same source. The portrait oval is enclosed within a rectangular frame containing "POSTES" in open capital letters at top and "QUARANTE CENTS" in solid letters below. In the upper angles are small circles containing the numerals of value, while all these details rest on a groundwork of foliate ornamentation which also fills the borders. In the small spaces between the ornamentation and the outline of the oval and outer frame are horizontal lines.

The engraving of the die is generally attributed to Jacques Wiener but while Wiener was evidently entrusted with the entire work of production there are strong grounds for the belief that the die itself was actually engraved in England by H. Robinson as explained at some length in the last chapter.

The plate was of steel and also consisted of 200 impressions in two panes of 100 each placed side by side as in the case of the first issue.

The first printing of this new value took place in September, 1849, at the same time as the second printing of the 10c and 20c so the same handmade paper was used—i. e., that watermarked interlaced "L L" within a frame. According to Mr. Bouvez this printing consisted of 160,000 stamps while Mr. de Bont gives the number as 144,000.

On November 27th, 1849, a postal agreement was concluded between the British and Belgian governments upon practically the same lines as that between Belgium and France. This agreement became effective on February 15th, 1850, and so increased the demand for 40c stamps that a second printing was made in May, 1850, at the same time as the third printing of the 10c and 20c. This was evidently a small printing but again our authorities differ as to the actual numbers printed for Mr. Bouvez says 72,000, Mr. de Bont says 84,000, while Mr. Leavy says 50,000. It almost looks like a guessing competition! All three writers agree that the first and second printings differ but as one says thick paper, another ribbed paper, and the third a lighter shade, where the actual difference lies is certainly obscured. We have already shown that differences in the texture of the paper cannot be admitted as a test in distinguishing printings and we doubt if the shade differences are constant enough to be a sure and certain guide.

Other postal agreements made by Belgium with Luxemburg (April, 1850) and Switzerland (July, 1850) so increased the postal business of the kingdom that it was deemed wise to have all three of the denominations then in use of the same design. Accordingly on August 10th, 1850, the Minister of Public Works sent a notice to this effect to the Director of Posts couched in the following words:—

"I have the honor to inform you that in the future the postage stamps of 10 and 20 centimes shall be of the same design as the postage stamps of 40 centimes (a portrait of the King in medallion and bearing in letters the word POSTES and the indication of value, which latter will also be reproduced in numerals in the upper corners of the stamps).

This modification will give the stamps a perfect uniformity, so that they may be produced from the same original die, and so that there can be no difference, except in the indication of value, which may be added to the dies for each denomination.

The colors—brown, blue and carmine—will remain unaltered. You are requested to convey this information to the employes under your direction, requesting them to dispose of the stamps of the old type before the new stamps, which may be sent to them, are placed in circulation."

From the above it is apparent that the original die engraved for this issue had the small circles in the upper angles blank and no value below the portrait medallion. From this secondary dies were struck and the necessary details

U. S. REVENUES
Ask for anything in these stamps catalog $ to $25 and I can probably furnish your wants, as I have a very good stock of 1st issue perf. and imperf. 2nd and 3rd issues and Proprietary stamps of Civil War period. Also many of Spanish Am. War issues and quite a number of recent issues. State if fine copies or ordinary or trifle damaged are desired; select copies are scarce, I have them but they cost a lot more money than 2nd or 3rd grade ones. Address [22 added to these so that plates of any desired denomination could be constructed.

By the time the above notice was published the dies and plates had been made and a supply of the new 10c and 20c stamps printed, but apparently they were not issued until just after the publication of the notice. In printing these values the last supplies of the paper with framed "L L" watermark were used up. Mr. Leavy and Mr. de Bont say the printing was a small one and while Mr. Bouvez agrees it was small, insofar as the old paper was concerned, he says a large quantity of both denominations was printed at the same time on the new watermarked paper without frame. The point is perhaps of small consequence but when it comes to the actual numbers our authorities all agree to differ. This printing also included a third lot of the 40 centimes and the figures as given by the three writers referred to are as follows:—

	Mr. Leavy.	Mr. de Bont.	Mr. Bouvez
10 centimes,	500,000	498,000	475,000
20 "	395,000	376,000	370,000
40 "	22,000	54,000	13,000

But which, if any, of these are the correct figures it is apparent that all three stamps of this design on the frame-lined watermarked paper are scarce. Consequently they do not offer much variation in tint, light and deep shades being about all that can be obtained. These stamps are all of considerable rarity unused, as can well be imagined from the small numbers printed, and really fine used copies are difficult to find.

The plates were apparently made with more care than those of the first issue, or probably the workmen had with practice become more expert, for none of the striking re-entries are shown. The same plates were used for the stamps of the following issue and in connection with that issue many stamps have been listed with re-cut frame lines, etc. Whether these re-cut lines were added before the plates were used or were needed later owing to wear is a disputed point. Mr. Leavy seems to hold the latter view and if, as he infers, these varieties are only found in connection with unframed watermarked stamps then his point would appear to be proved. But owing to the comparative rarity of the stamps of this issue there is room for considerable study before the matter can be definitely settled.

KANSAS CITY BANQUET.

We have received from Allen Sears an account of the second annual banquet of the Kansas City Stamp Club, held at the Hotel Savoy on Jan. 12. It was a most enjoyable occasion, with Allen Logan acting as toastmaster in his usual easy and hospitable manner. The evening's success was assured from the beginning.

After the opening address by the toastmaster, which was full of enthusiasm for a bigger and better club, the first president, Wilson D. Wood, forecasted the future of Kansas City philately. A general round-table discussion followed.

The hit of the evening was the auction. The principal items were donated by members of the club for the benefit of the club library and general club advertising. Nearly $100 was raised.

We have already given our readers an excellent idea of the activities of this club by reprinting the account which appeared on the menu folder, which was used in connection with this happy event.

BARTELS TAKES 5000 LINES.

The large space taken by the J. M. Bartels Co., Jan. 21, is an indication of what the firm proposes to do this year in the way of going out after business. The large advertisement referred to was a very attractive one and bore testimony to the large stock this firm carries. 5,000 lines have been contracted for, and we congratulate the firm upon its aggressiveness in going after business.

EDITORIAL.

Offered—We understand that Congressman Ackerman has introduced a bill in the House providing for the illustrating of postage stamps; but in the absence of direct information on the subject we forbear to make any comments. We are hopeful that we shall have particulars that will allow us to submit to readers an intelligent account of this important procedure in an early issue.

Discount—In his work, The Five Latin-American Republics, published in 1918, Mr. Dana G. Munro tells of the use of postage stamps as currency in Guatemala because of the shortage in the metal coinage and apropos of this, Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz, writes: "I am reminded of what a friend who was in Guatemala in 1918 told me. He stopped at a post office and asked for several hundred sets of stamps which could be had for wall-paper prices because of the unusually low value of the peso. The stamp clerk expressed some surprise at the request. Had he understood senor correctly? Yes, he was a stamp collector. Ah, a stamp collector? Would he please come into the office? When my friend accepted the invitation, the wily Guatemalan handed from a covered basket several piles of sheets of stamps of various denominations. These he offered at a substantial discount from those on sale at the stamp window. It developed that he had just received several months' back pay in postage stamps. 'It is take them or nothing, senor.' When this had happened before, he had spent many hours vending them below face to banks, merchants and fruit corporation representatives. But if senor was a stamp collector, perhaps he could use some? The upshot was that my friend secured some thousands of sets at 20% discount below the ridiculously low post office price. He took them to New York with him where they were turned at a neat profit."

Ironic—A learned professsor indites playfully a criticism on the steed and its master as represented on the new twenty mark of Germany. He showers classical allusions in a way to make us blanch at the thought of our ignorance mythologically. However, he ends his analysis with the warning that the man shows what happens to those who "follow the ponies".

Sisson—The death of Wesley A. Sisson of St. Louis, who, before his fatal illness was living temporarily in Chicago removes a pillar of philately, as Mr. Sisson was one of those lovable and substantial philatelists who combined the older traditions of collecting with the progressive measures of the advanced school. Latterly, Mr. Sisson, while somewhat along in years, has been attending the annual conventions of the national philatelic societies and he often voiced the satisfaction that he had in mingling with his fellow collectors on these occasions; and we may add that Mrs. Sisson, too, was much interested in stamps and accompanied her husband on his philatelic jaunts. Mr. Sisson devoted much attention to the private perforations of the later U. S. stamps and was regarded as an authority on them. Just a short time before his death, Mr. Sisson at a meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society exhibited a number of old U. S. and he said that he was making some investigations regarding the shading under the left "X" on the ten cent of 1847. Mr. Sisson was always ready to extend a helping hand to philately in his own city of St. Louis, where he had lived for so many years; and his death is a loss that is not easily sustained. All too soon do we have to place a wreath in memory of life member No. 16 of the American Philatelic Society.

Letter—A letter from Mr. Wm. A. Grant of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Peking, China, though received by a friend so long ago as May, 1918, is not without interest. Mr. Grant, referring to the current junk, etc., types, says: "All of the stamps in use at the present time were entirely engraved by me. It may interest you to see one of the originals to compare with one that I sent to Waterlow, London, to copy; the second shows the Waterlow work and the third is the one that I copied from Waterlow. As the stamps were in circulation, I had to copy them as closely as possible. The reason for sending the stamps to Waterlow was due to the outbreak of the revolution in China. The original dies were ready for the making of the plates when the trouble broke out and the post office was in a great hurry to get the stamps in circulation." On a card sent by Mr. Grant are three specimens of the three c, green, junk type. The first appears to be a proof engraved by Mr. Grant; the second is the Waterlow copy and the third is one that Mr. Grant copied from the Waterlow stamp, the three stamps making a graphic record of the progress of the issue. As the catalogue says, the slight differences in the London and the Peking printing do not loan themselves readily to description.

Steamer—Recently, we sent to Mr. Edward S. Knapp, New York, a steamboat cancellation on an envelope that bore no stamp but instead the postmark form, "Paid. F. A. Dentzel, Agt. P. O., N. O." in red. Mr. Knapp is much interested in steamboat letters and he sent for inspection two envelopes with similar markings, concerning which he says: "One shows another type of 'Dentzel' and the lettersheet is dated, 1850, and the notation inside makes me think that it came by boat (the 'F. M. Streck'); and the other cover shows the cancellation 'N. O. U. S. City Post,' addressed to New Orleans and sent from Eutaw, Ala. Dentzel may well have been an employe of this city post and his duties probably were to get mail from boats and trains for the post office. Perhaps he only served the boat mail." Mr. Knapp adds that he came across a bill-of-fare, dated 1859, of one of the old steamboats, "which was mighty interesting with its hand-drawn picture of fish, etc."

Remiss—It is certainly incumbent upon us to say something here about the recent article in the Scientific American, headed "Stamp Frauds and Their Detection", which has attracted no little attention. As the article, which is illustrated with the reproductions of about seventy-five stamps, was written by one whose philatelic knowledge is embracive, it is readable, indeed. The whole article is admirably worked up, and with the pictures, shows clever presentation. The text is well calculated to make an impression on the general reader of inquiring mind and its information is to be accepted without the traditional grain of salt. More power to the philatelic member of the staff of the Scientific American and eke, to Mr. Percy G. Doane, through whose courtesy the stamps were pictured. We hope that some collectors have scrap-books large enough to accommodate the stamp articles that are appearing in the general press.

Written for MEKEEL'S

BOURCHIER COMMEMORATIVES.

I. I. MATINCHEFF.

On December 30th, 1921, a new commemorative set of 9 stamps was issued in Bulgaria in honor of the memory of James David Bourchier, who was the distinguished Balkan correspondent of the London Times. The issue comprises the following values: 10, 20, 30, 50 stotinki, 1 1½, 2, 3 and 5 leva. "Five of the series are portraits, three reproducing, no doubt, faithfully enough an early photograph, but they are hardly reminiscent of the kindly and vivacious personality which was the charm to all who knew him. The two depicting "J. D. B." in the costume of a Bulgarian peasant, have had to sacrifice likeness for general effect. The other four stamps show Rilo Monastery, "Bourchier's Resting Place". "The issue constitutes a unique tribute on the part of a country to a foreigner", says the Near East. No doubt the issue constitutes a unique tribute on the part of a country to a foreigner. But who was James D. Bourchier? What had he done? And wherefore such honour to him? are probably some of the questions which will be asked.

Every nation has its own great men. But there are great men who do not belong to any one nation. James D. Bourchier is one of them. We Bulgarians who have had the fortune to have him for more than twenty years in our midst, and to know more closely his rare character, warm heart, his views with regard to general humanitarian questions, and his never ceasing efforts to bring about a peaceful and impartial solution of the world's problems in general and the Balkans in particular—have long ago ceased to see in his person merely a correspondent of The Times. Especially during the last eight years his attention was fully directed toward little Bulgaria, whose people were doomed to pass through the most critical period of their new political life, at the time when he played a grand rôle in Paris, being the contemporary authority to whose opinion the most weight could be given, and commentator of events in the Near East. His articles were published not only by the London Times, the world's most brilliant newspaper, but also in many other standard English papers and periodicals.

Being a true interpreter of the situation in the Near East, and well versed in the Balkan question with a sincere wish to see peace and friendly relations established among the people of the Balkans, Bourchier could not but become a defender of the Greek in their heroic struggle for liberty, especially during the Cretan revolution, and later take part in stirring up the sympathy of the peoples in Europe in favor of the Serbians in their liberation from the Turks and then later still in their struggle against the Austrians. Up to ten years ago he was known throughout the world as a friend of the Greeks and until his death he was an intimate friend of Mr. Venizelos, in co-operation with whom he contributed so much toward the creation of the Balkan Union in 1912.

It is not by mere chance that Bourchier made Sofia his permanent residence in the Balkans. The Britons rarely make mistakes. The reliable paper which he was faithfully serving could not fail to understand that it was Bulgaria which was destined to play the principal part in the Balkan Peninsula. Consequently this great Briton, doubtless the greatest press correspondent of modern times, chose Sofia for his permanent residence—Sofia, the centre of all Balkan events and movements for time immemorial, and the focus of all diplomatic, political and economic aspirations of the Great Powers in our century.

And if later he grew fond of the Bulgarian people that should not surprise any one who has had like him an opportunity to know the Bulgarians close at hand. Like many other connoisseurs of the Balkan people he did not pretend not to see the defects and rough characteristics of the Bulgarian race, but he knew that all peoples have faults and weaknesses. On the other hand he was fully and deeply convinced of the sincerity, sobriety and their love of physical and mental labor of the Bulgarian people and also generally speaking in the righteousness of the Bulgarian cause in the struggle for national unification. His opinion was that in Southeastern Europe there will be peace only according to the principles of self-determination and when every nation felt itself master of its own destiny. That was the purpose of the ill-fated Balkan Union of 1912, to which he gave the first impulse and for which he continued to work ceaselessly in Paris and London during the Great War, even at the risk of his own life.

"I shall never cease to work for justice in the Balkans and for Macedonian liberty", said he to his many friends in 1915, when leaving Bulgaria. And he kept his word. His personality, honor and name were so unsullied that he was the only one to whom the French and English authorities did not dare to deny the right to visit the Peace Conference at Paris. In spite of constant warnings, criticism and protests against the wrong solutions, which were being adopted at the Peace Conference with regard to the Near Eastern questions, he always remained undaunted by the numerous intrigues, which were being aimed against him. He never ceased to point out the mistakes of the Peace Conference and warn of the fatal consequences for the peace of the Balkans and of Europe, which gained for him the hatred of the official circles, which threatened him more than once. Greeks and Serbians who have been oppressed until now at once became oppressors and were especially hurt by this prophet of human righteousness doing everything possible to compromise him.

During his stay in Paris a plot was organized against him: he was attacked from ambush while walking in the streets of Paris, which nearly cost him his life. But Bourchier was afraid of nothing. In his opinion to bring out the truth with regard to the Balkans, was in the interests of England and of Europe and consequently brought relief to his soul. The defence of Bulgaria for him was in the first place the defence of the principle: "you are not injuring

A customer whose collection numbers over 25,000 varieties and contains many stamps worth $25 to several hundred dollars each, and who has received stamps on approval from many other dealers, tells me the selections he receives from the Westfield Philatelic Peach Orchard contain the finest specimens that come to him.

I don't expect to undersell everybody else—or anybody else—that isn't what I'm in business for. I'm merely supplying choice singles, pairs, strips, blocks and covers to those who appreciate fine copies of desirable stamps and are willing to pay what high-grade service is worth.

Few dealers can compete with me in stamps worth from one dollar each upward. If you aren't sure of this, try my service.

United States Provisional Envelopes

Of all of the main types of provisional 2c on 3c envelopes issued the variety overprinted in Daytona is positively the scarcest. If you collect envelopes you should have this for it is not a minor variety and is one that will increase as years go on. This is Scott's No. 2708 originally priced at $4.50, which price was raised to $7 in the errata of the 1922 catalogue. It is much scarcer than No. 2704, which lists at $8.50.

Just around a hundred in all were ever saved and this covered the several sizes. I personally obtained about 80 and most of them are gone. When the few left are sold it will be a $10-15 variety, for there are less of them than the black error No. 2667a or the red error on blue No. 2678 which list at $20.

The cut square collector must have this and there will be a place for it in the album. While ten copies last you may have one entire so that you can cut it to suit yourself at $5.00.

I can also furnish all of the other provisional envelopes. What do you require? (Please remember, however, that I do not deal in any of the envelopes except the provisionals.)

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—In this column, a few weeks back, mention was made of the fact that United States specialists generally were agreed that the imperforate 24c, 30c and 90c issue of 1860, Scott's numbers 37, 38 and 39 were not regularly issued, that is sold to the public in the usual way. Mr. Elliott Perry in Scott's Journal for January presents additional facts on the same subject and arrives at practically the same conclusions. He goes further and concludes that the 30c black is better entitled to recognition, if any of them are to be given catalogue rank, than those now listed. I certainly agree with him on this point for as the correspondence shows, the department was badly in need of 30c stamps at a time when the black stamp was on hand and why should they not have used the black stamp until the others arrived? They had been using a black 12c denomination and if they had not used some of the 30c how did they arrive at the conclusions so promptly that the variety did not show up the cancellation properly?

Mr. Sherman Follansbee, noticing my recent remarks, kindly sent for inspection a small part of cover showing a 5c, 10c and 30c without perforations cancelled with a seven bar black grid cancellation. There is not the slightest doubt that these stamps were without perforations when they were placed on the cover, but in the olden days clerks used to cutting stamps apart continued to do this after the perforating had started. The 5c on this part cover was type II and of course this plate was made after the department had discontinued issuing stamps in imperforate sheets. The 10c and 30c were cut into the design. Mr. Follansbee has no doubt had this piece a long time and feels positive it is the correct thing but anyone making a study of the subject would know that these are only trimmed copies.

In spite of the fact that the postal regulations are most clear as to how stamps shall be cancelled many a cover comes through with a colored postmark and the like. Mr. F. R. V. Williams has just called to my attention a registered letter from Elkhart, Indiana, having pen cancelled stamps with an additional rubber stamp date in purple. I mention this, for here of late my attention has been called to many such irregularities, as for instance, revenues used for postage, stamps cut in half and used, etc.

Mention was made quite recently of a 2c on 3c Provisional envelope, Kansas City overprint, Size 10, Die H, Wmk. 19, on extra quality paper. Close inspection has since shown this to be a Minneapolis overprint, and we will ask our readers to kindly change their records accordingly.

We wish to thank Messrs. Homer Terry, E. M. Sperling, C. J. Breder and Mrs. J. H. Beck for notes of interest.

ABYSSINIA.—Mr. W. W. Lythe advises that he has just received from this country the following surcharged stamps on the 1919 issue: ¼g on 1g, 2g on 4g and $4 on 2g.

ARGENTINE.—Mr. Arthur Carthew advises that the wording at the bottom of the 5c red Postal Congress stamp of this country has been changed from "Buenos Aires—Augusto de 1921" to "Republica Argentina".

BAVARIA.—We are advised by Mr. Chas. Metz that he has just received a copy of No. 260, imperforate, of which he informs us there were only 200 stamps sold. Also a copy of the 35pf orange, type A10, no surcharge, imperforate.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman advises that the following Parcel Post stamps will shortly be withdrawn; 1.10, 1.20, 1.40, 1.60frs and frs. 0.05, 1.05 and 2.40 issued.

BRITISH COLONIALS.—Mr. Fred A. Jekel advises that with the arrival of the 3d blue, of Gibraltar, the 2½d value will be withdrawn and that the latest printings of this value are being carefully sought for as it is believed that they will have an early appreciation in values among philatelists.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—Mr. Frank Pollard Brown has shown us a 4c grey stamp of the type of the 2c, No. 89. The watermark is script CA. The Economist Stamp Co. sends us for chronicle a copy of the current 1c stamp on script watermarked paper.

BULGARIA.—We have received from Ivan Matincheff samples of the 10, 20, 50, 75st and the 1 lev. red and 1 lev. blue of the so-called London set recently issued. The 1 lev. red is sold out and will be scarce. It is succeeded by the 1 lev. blue.

CONGO.—Mr. Henry Hooreman writes us under date of Dec. 31st last that the Belgian Congo and the B. Occupation in Africa sets have been withdrawn from sale. The "1921" set is on sale, also the Airmail set, but it is doubtful whether the 1915 set, now temporarily withdrawn during the stocktaking period, will be sold again.

CYPRUS.—The 30 paras and 2pia stamps are now printed on script watermarked paper, according to advices we have received from Mr. R. Roberts.

ADLETS.

Minimum two lines.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

RATE.—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $2.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—H. C. Buchholz of Norwood, O., submits a letter from Welch, W. Va., written in the same form as other letters from this vicinity, soliciting approval selections. This letter is from Frank M. Mason with typewritten signature. The danger signal is raised, and dealers are warned not to do any approval business with parties residing in Welch, W. Va., unless they know with whom they are dealing.

—Bridger & Kay, the well known London firm, inform the philatelic public through our columns, this week, that they have secured the premises at 170 Strand, formerly occupied by Hugo Griebert. The firm of Bridger & Kay is one of London's oldest and best established stamp concerns, and it will work additional profit to their interests to be able to do business at the stand where Mr. Griebert has been for so many years.

—The Stamp Shoppe, Washington, D. C., has issued a 1922 pricelist of stamps, packets, sets, albums and supplies which will be sent on request. This firm is handling a good sized auction sale and Mr. Mason, the president, is exhibiting the collection in Philadelphia and New York.

—A. Leon Adutt, Margate, England, sends us a set of stamp labels designed to raise a fund for the benefit of the Margate Cottage Hospital. Over $4,000 has already been obtained by selling the stamps and $5,000 more is required to carry out the work in hand. The labels are printed in sheets of sixteen stamps, each stamp presenting a different subject. They were engraved and printed by Perkins, Bacon & Co., printers of the original British penny black, issued in 1840. Shilling sheets of sixteen views are printed in eight different colors. The 2sh 6d sheets are printed in brown on buff paper. The 10sh sheets are printed in four different colors to each sheet. Parties desiring to aid this worthy charity may write Mr. Adutt and payment may be made in U. S. stamps.

—W. A. W. Brownell will be favored with a copy of the Precancel Gazette if he will kindly send his city and street address to that publication.

—Byron Center, Mich., boasts of the only stamp club in any high school of the state. It was recently organized by H. F. Porter, superintendent. Herman W. Boers suggests that some of our readers could do some good missionary work by sending Mr. Porter some duplicate stamps for distribution amongst the boys of the school.

—In the Alps there is a letter box 10,000 feet above sea level, from which a daily collection is made.

—We have received a clipping from H. R. Jansen in which we find an interesting story. It is taken from the Daily State Journal of Topeka and gives the gist of an interview with E. A. Smith, who has established "Ye Pilgrim Stamp Shoppe" at 828 Fillmore St. The reporter treats of philately from the financial standpoint and writes a very interesting story based upon the information gleaned from Mr. Smith. Mr. Jansen wants to know when Chris. West is going to complete his work on U. S. Revenues. We will put the question up to Chris. himself.

"WEKA" CATALOGUE

We have taken the American agency of the Weka Stamp Co., Zurich, Switzerland, in handling this new and best of catalogues. Contains prices on stamps of Europe only, but is the most accurate and up-to-date book we have ever seen for the stamps of New Europe. No other catalogue gives such clear description of these confusing items as does the "Weka." Priced in a stable currency, printed in German and French, this Swiss book should be well received in America. No collector of War issues can afford to be without one.

Price, $1.60, postage extra.

PRECANCEL NOTES.

By F. E. RALSTON.

The 13c apple green, always a desirable item, comes to me lately from two Kansas towns, Herrington and Fort Scott. Got yours yet?

I have not noticed the 3c Victory listed from Columbia, Mo., or Fort Scott, Kans., by any collector. They're not to be sneezed at, and are evidently scarce items.

Another item the catalogues do not list is the 15c Napa Calif., double, perf. 11. I've had mine for a year. Napas are not plentiful, especially doubles.

Lately comes a block of 3c dues from Carthage, Mo., in a rubber roller type which is the "real stuff." Have had the 1c regular issue for some time. Who has other values from Carthage?

From a Texas correspondent comes to me new items for my collection—the 5c perf. 11 Dallas, Tex., U-14 type, both regular and invert on the same stamp; also the same value, regular and double invert. They are desirable for "any-man's" album

I often wonder how large a collection of precancels my correspondents have accumulated, and the method they have used in procuring their stamps. Like the Salvation Army converts, I am going to give some of my experiences. My collection now numbers 11,600 varieties, containing no straight edge, perforated initials or otherwise damaged specimens. Practically all of my stamps have been acquired through exchanges with other collectors. While I have collected U. S. for the past twenty-five years, practically all of my time has gone to precancels during the past three years. Let's hear about some of the really large collections.—Precancel Gazette.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1619 to 1622 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

CONFESSIONS OF A STAMP COLLECTOR.

By CONGRESSMAN GUY U. HARDY.

(The Third Congressional District of Colorado is represented by Hon. Guy U. Hardy, who is not only a member of the House of Representatives but the proprietor of the Canyon City (Colo.) "Record." In a recent number of his paper appeared an article entitled "Confession of a Stamp Collector," and we think it interesting enough to reprint in the WEEKLY. Mr. Hardy in a letter to the editor informs us that he was a reader of our publication a quarter of a century ago.—W. O. W.)

"Postmaster General Hays has established a philatelic agency for the sale of postage stamps in demand among collectors industry rare and obsolete issues."

This little item in the news columns of the daily press means nothing to most readers. To a bunch of stamp fans, so to speak, over the country, it means that they can now order through the Post Office Department any quantity of stamps they want for their collections and that they will get perfect specimens selected for collectors.

Only the commonest denominations are carried by most post offices and collectors have had to buy from dealers and speculators.

The government can well afford to encourage the sale of stamps to collectors as from $30,000 to $50,000 worth of stamps, perhaps more, are absorbed by collectors each year. As these cost the government only a trifle for printing and no service is rendered, except the sale, practically the whole income from such sales is profit.

So the new service established by Postmaster General Hays is a good business proposition, as well as serving a class of trade to excellent advantages.

* * * *

The little news item referred to may not have caught your eye. But it was observed by every man and boy who was ever a stamp collector.

When I was a kid, I was a stamp collector. I never built up a large and valuable collection, but did gather together several thousand varieties with a specially good set of U. S. Revenues for a country town. At 16 I was an embryo dealer, with printed letter heads, approval sheets, running little ads in philatelic journals and having quite a little correspondence. Of course this was all amateur business and didn't amount to very much as dealers talk these days. But it was my first business venture and out of it I got some good experience. I got a taste for business and a desire to write, and advertise and publish. I never actually developed it, but at 17 I had plans already to start a little amateur stamp journal of my own. That year I was going to a normal school and the next year I went out in the country to teach school, which new occupation put a close, more or less, to my stamp collecting and exploitation.

However, I have never forgotten much that I learned in the business and I remember well the enthusiasm with which a boy pursues the game. How we ransacked the town for old correspondence; how we dug into bunches of old papers; how we pestered our friends to let us have their old letters; how we traded one with another for stamps that each of us did not have. I wrote letters to people all over the world, it

ALBUM WAR

The Oriel album, made by Rapkin in London for Stanley Gibbons for 30 years or so is also made by him and supplied to dealers in this coun ry under such names as "Nassau", "Capitol", etc. The leaves being backed by soft Japanese rice tissue are far superior to the glassine flap interleaf. We see competitors have been cutting our price of $15.00 to $13.50 and then again to $11.50 so, as this little pastime seems popular, we want to be up-to-date in the game and quote seemed to me then, asking for stamps. I remember one chap, a friend of a friend of mine, who ran a coffee plantation out miles from anywhere in Guatamala, who used to write me nice letters and send liberal bunches of those picturesque and highly-colored Central American stamps.

Headquarters for stamps of U. S. and Its Colonies.

H. F. COLMAN

And I recall as I write, an incident I had not thought of for many years—it being merely a pleasant little correspondence with a bright young lady, at Portsmouth, N. H., which grew out of a sale of a few cents' worth of stamps. It reached the stage where photos and Christmas presents were exchanged and then languished, as such little affairs so often do. And as I write, I wonder what has become of the fair collector of thirty years ago, whose name I have quite forgotten—whether she has grown old in maidenhood or has big boys, or perchance even young grandchildren, who are collecting stamps.

I recall that in those early boyhood days, the first enthusiastic days of collecting stamps, that my dreams were mostly along that line. The happy dream would be of digging through old trunks and secretaries and finding big bunches of old envelopes with stamps on, of dates preceding the Civil War.

I haven't done much with the collection in 25 years but I still have the instinct. I never throw away a foreign stamp nor a U. S. issue above the smaller denominations. I like to give them to boys who are interested. And even down here, in busy Washington, last summer I found a couple of windows wherein rare stamps were exposed for sale and I have often walked around that way on my way to the capitol, just as a woman window-shopper goes to look at fine things she never expects to buy.

* * * *

These are confessions I never expected to make, publicly. I never told anybody in Canon City that I collected stamps. I suppose long ago I feared that it would have been considered kiddish, trivial, or silly, by grownup men. And in my early years in Canon City, I was endeavoring to assume the airs of grownup men.

Two things have made me bold and interested. First, the official recognition General Hays has given to the game of stamp collecting; and, second, the fact that I am finding some of the largest collectors of stamps in the country are members of Congress.

Representative Ernest R. Ackerman of New Jersey, is a much traveled man, one of the most traveled in Congress, and he has one of the finest stamp collections in this country, and it must have cost a lot of money.

Senator Frelinghuysen also of New Jersey, is an enthusiastic collector and has recently taken it up again in connection with his son and is getting a lot of pleasure out of it.

Several other senators and representatives are said to have excellent collections. Lady Geddes, the wife of the British ambassador, is an active collector, as are also a number of other people prominent in big affairs, I have heard of, down here.

The King of England has one of the finest collections in the world. Of course with him, money is little object and he can afford to buy any specimen he desires. But it is said that he takes great pleasure and gets much recreation in the building up of his collection. At the outbreak of the war, he ceased to be interested but as the strain of war developed. he turned to his old hobby for relaxation and recreation and did considerable business with stamp dealers.

So now, I am not ashamed of having once been half nutty on the stamp collection game.

* * * *

Is stamp collecting worth while?

Well, from the standpoint of the grownup, I have no advice to give. If one can afford the price it costs—and it does cost a lot of money to make a good collection—it is an interesting game, and one can get a lot of fun out of it. If one is looking for an indoor hobby, it is a good one.

For boys and girls it is the finest thing in the world. It offers innocent amusement and good training in many ways. It teaches geography and history. It develops the eyes, the hand and the mind. It teaches thrift, tact, and the commercial instinct in trading and buying and often leads to business correspondence that is valuable in later years.

If your boy or girl is interested in stamps, don't laugh at him but encourage him all you can.

STAMPS OF THE UNION OF SO. AFRICA.

By STEPHEN G. RICH.

CHAPTER IV.

Issue of 1913.

This issue, now current, and replacing all other issues, is surface-printed from steel engraved plates, by Messrs. Thomas de la Rue and Co., Ltd., of London. The stamps are, as is usual with the issues of countries using sterling coinage, printed in sheets each of which consists of four panes of 60 stamps each. The plate numbers are in large white figures in coloured circles with borders, one on each pane, on the short side and on the edge opposite the second stamp from the corner of the sheet. The watermark is a springbok's head, one to each stamp. The paper varies somewhat, but is medium soft, and the gum is slightly yellowish. The perforation is 14, clean cut.

In bringing out this issue the colour-scheme of the U. P. U. was adhered to; but the colour-scheme of the Crown Agents for the Colonies, to which the last Natal issue and a few of the Transvaal higher values conformed, was entirely set aside.

The stamps are of the same size as those of Great Britain and the United States. They bear the Imperial crown at the top, and the profile of King George V, facing to the left, in the medallion. The value is in figures only, followed by the abbreviations "s." and "d.", for shillings and pence respectively. The name of the country is inscribed around the upper two-thirds of the medallion in the two official languages. The words "Postage" and "Postzegel", on the same side as the corresponding language for the name of the country, complete the inscription around the medallion. In the ½d and 1d stamps, beneath these two words are the words "Revenue" and "Imkomst", since these two stamps do double duty. It may be here added that the 2d and 3d are sometimes used for revenues also.

The series as originally issued consisted of the following values, with the following normal tints of color:—

1d scarlet.
2d dull violet.
2½d deep ultramarine.
3d brownish orange and black.
4d olive green and orange.
6d bright purple and black.
1s dull orange.
2s 6d green and claret.
5s Prussian blue and claret.
10s light olive green and dark blue.

A large number of shades exist of each, and they will be discussed in connection with other varieties below.

The following types of variety are known within this issue: it will be seen that quite a number of them are due to the disturbed industrial condition of the world during and just after the World War, resulting in difficulty in obtaining inks or papers of uniform quality.

1. Defective plates.
2. Defective watermark and inverted watermark.
3. Varieties of paper.
4. Light and heavy printing.
5. Shades.
6. Plate numbers.

1. Die or plate varieties. These are confined to the ½d, 1d, 3d and 4d.

In the ½d there were found as early as 1916, a number of specimens in which the dash between "Postage" and "Postzegel", beneath the medallion, had been continued to the right, though broken, so as to run into the letter P of "Postzegel", thus making it read as almost "Rostzegel". I have a specimen of this, cancelled at Adams Mission Station, Natal, July 8, 1916. Mr. W. R. Long, of Durban, Natal, informs me that he has found sixteen or seventeen such in looking over five thousand specimens from that year to 1919. I have also a curious specimen in which the dash is not thus connected to the letter P, but in which a thin white dash stands between the dash and the letter. This is a part-perforate coil specimen, bought by me in Durban in 1920. There are also four curious variations or defects in the beard of King George, which I discovered in 1920. In one, the front line of the beard is broken midway; in the second there is a square patch of solid color on the middle of the front of the beard; in the third the front line of the beard has a notch midway up it; and in the last there is a ring around the tip of the beard. These are all 1919 or 1920 varieties. I have also a specimen used at Durban in October, 1920, with a white spot about 1 mm. each way, on the neck, below the corner of the jaw. Mr. W. R. Long informs me, and the journal Stamp Collecting announced in May, 1920, that this stamp is found with the O of "Postzegel" entirely missing.

In the 1d the variety with broken front line of beard exists, probably of 1919; and I have a specimen cancelled at Pietermaritzburg, Natal, in 1920, in which the letter T of "Postzegel" is entirely missing. Here, as probably in the "Pstzegel" ½d, the missing letter is replaced by solid color. I have furthermore a specimen cancelled at Pauwpan, Cape Province, in 1921, in which the upright stroke of the P is broken and the S has a tail, in "Postzegel". It is probable that the variety with loop on beard exists in this value also, but I have not yet seen it.

In the 3d I have discovered a variety, issued in 1919, in which the dashes on the ribbons beneath "Postage" and "Postzegel" are not of uniform thickness, as is normal, but are thin except for the right-hand one of each group of four or five.

In the 4d the journal Stamp Collecting announced in June, 1920, a variety with the inscription "Union OI South AIRICA". The letter I where wrongly present for F is an italic. I have not seen this variety. It was reported from Port Elizabeth, Cape Province.

2. Varieties of Watermark. The printers of this issue have been careful in avoiding inverted watermarks and misplaced sheets, until within recent years; but inverted watermark is now known for the following values: ½d, 1d, 2d, 3d, 6d, 1s, 10s. Of these I have seen all, and have all but the 10s. It is probable that the 4d occurs thus also, but I have no record of it. The ½d, 1d, 3d and 1s are known as early as 1917, and the remainder are from 1918 and 1919. The ½d with inverted watermark I have seen with plate number 5 only.

I have a vertical pair of ½d bought in 1918 at Edendale, Natal, in which one stamp has the normal watermark, but the other has the left horn of the springbok broken.

I have also the 1d, from 1920 and from 1917, printed so that the watermark is partly upon one stamp and partly upon that above or below. This is known as the "multiple" watermark, though that term is a misnomer. The variety is, of course, only a papermaker's error in cutting the sheet. I have the 3d similarly "multiple", cancelled at Pietermaritzburg, Natal, July, 1921.

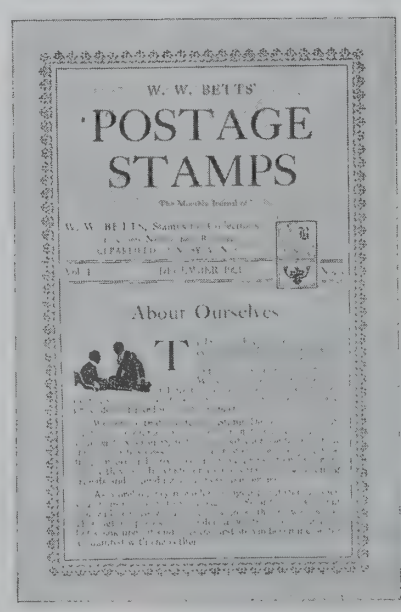
3. Varieties of paper. The paper on which this issue is printed is distinctly thinner than that in use for our American stamps, and is not unlike that of the "hard paper" U. S. stamps of 1870 and 1873 in its texture, though softer. It is found unchanged until late in 1920, when a number of values were issued on a paper distinctly thinner and more easily torn. With the new paper, the watermark is often a series of actual pinholes, and under a good lens the holes can be seen. The following denominations, in my collection on this paper, are all thus far found upon it:—½d, 1d, 2d (1921), 2½d, 4d (1921), 6d (1921), 1s (1921). It is probable that the whole set will ultimately appear on it.

I have also the 2½d from Pretoria, Transvaal, April, 1921, on a paper with small thin circular spots in it.

4. Varieties of printing. It is possible to distinguish in these stamps light and heavy printing, as well as shades of color due to actual variations in the ink. Since 1920 the heavy printing has become more common, and the bulk of stamps now used are heavily printed. I have the ½d, blue-green shade, in this printing; the 1d in very light and normal printing as well as this, and including a heavy printing of a light, almost pink, shade: the 2½%.

5. Varieties of color. With this phase of the discussion we enter on the vexed question of "shades" and their proper recognition; and also that of "fades". The shades here given do not include any that are obviously caused by solution of the ink in removing stamps from the covers: in fact I have been careful not to wet certain values at all and odd shades of any value, in collecting them. In the 2d and 6d, in particular, one can manufacture surprising shades by leaving the stamps in water for a while; it is possible to get the 6d with

Our Own Stamp Paper to Make Your Collection More Interesting



FEBRUARY brings the fifth issue of our own new house organ "Postage Stamps." Collectors everywhere are enthusiastic about its individuality, but this number will be still more attractive and will carry important philatelic information besides our newest and best offers. One article was written especially for "Postage Stamps" by Adolph Fennel, Editor American Philatelist. Don't miss this.

Each issue is handsomely printed like rotogravure. Pages are 5½x8½ inches, a convenient size for your bookcase—really a piece of printing art.

It is FREE!

We want every active collector to receive this paper each month. A subscription will be entered in your name free if you reply to this advertisement asking for it.

actually a magenta border by this process!

The following list indicates the genuine varieties known: all mentioned are in my collection.

1d pink (1919), rose in several tints, (1918 to 1920), scarlet (1913 to 1919), deep carmine (1920), carmine lake (1917), lake (1918, 1919). At present mostly printed in carmine.

2d, pale dull violet or even lilac (1919 and 1921), thru dull violet (1913 to 1918) into purple-brown (1918, 1920). Now printed mainly in light dull violet.

2½d, ultramarine (1913 to 1919), thru dark ultramarine (1921) and sapphire (1918), to light blue (1917). The recent dark ultramarine is always heavy print and coarse-looking.

4d, border light olive-green (1918), olive-green (1913 to 1918), dull green (1920), dark olive-green (1918). Medallion deep orange before 1918, pale orange since then.

6d, border bright purple (1913 to 1918), since then dull purple or deep mauve in various tints. Medallion black (1913 to 1918), since then black and gray-black.

1s, dull orange, rather pale in hue (1913 to 1918), dull yellow-orange (1918), and original color since then.

2s 6d, green and claret (1913 to 1920), dark bluish green and claret (1921).

No variations known for the higher values.

6. Plate numbers. The following incomplete list gives all those of which I have any record.

½d, Nos. 1, 2, (in use in 1916), 5 (in use 1919). The ½d invert-watermark is from plate 5.

1d, Nos. 1, 2.

2s 6d, No. 1 (in use 1921.)

I shall be pleased to receive further information on this phase of the subject.

Varieties in perforation will be dealt with in the next two sections, in which they all come.

ARTHUR BARGER IN MONTREAL.

Arthur Barger, a former advertiser in the WEEKLY from Framingham, Mass., and more recently with the Marks Stamp Co., has engaged in the stamp business in Montreal, under the name of the Northern Stamp Co. He is located in Room 14, Guy Block, 747 St. Catherine St., W. On his visit to Massachusetts a few weeks ago he called at the office of the WEEKLY in Beverly and exhibited a line of stamps that fully justifies the fine quarter page advertisement that he has elsewhere in this issue.

There is a singular scarcity of stamp dealers in Montreal and the new company will no doubt meet with a hearty reception from the stamp collectors of the entire Province of Quebec.

TACOMA'S STAMP EXHIBITION.

Cecil F. Blogg, secretary of the Tacoma Branch of the Washington State Philatelic Society, sends us a report of the stamp exhibition held recently at the Tacoma Public Library. Mr. Blogg writes that it was a great success in attracting attention, and many new stamp collectors were discovered. The City Librarian, John B. Kaiser, expressed his keen appreciation of the merit of the display and his regular perusal of our publication in the future must serve to increase his interest in philately.

The following description of the exhibition appeared in the Tacoma News-Tribune of Jan. 21:—

Samples of A. A. Johnson's collection of 17,000 pre-cancelled postage stamps, said to be the second largest in the country, are among other unique stamp exhibits on display in the reading room of the public library under the auspices of the Tacoma Philatelic Society.

C. F. Blogg, secretary, has on display his rare collection of Siamese and European post war stamps; J. G. Scott, vice president, an interesting group of Argentine Republic and Netherlands stamps; Clyde Brill, a collection of British penny blacks, and R. R. Thiele, president, philatelic literature, including literature contributed by other members. A virtually complete collection of U. S. centenary anniversary stamps, and the new aeroplane stamps, are included in the exhibit.

EDITORIAL.

Bill—We now have before us a copy of the bill, introduced November 14, 1921, into the House of Representatives by Congressman Ackerman. "A Bill Amending an act to codify, revise and amend the penal laws of the United States. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that sections 161, 172, and 220 of the Act entitled 'An Act to codify, revise and amend the penal law of the United States approved March 4, 1909, are hereby amended by adding the following: Provided that nothing in said section shall be construed to forbid or prevent the printing or publishing of illustrations of postage or revenue stamps from plates so defaced as to indicate that the illustrations are not adapted or intended for use as stamps, or to prevent or forbid the making of necessary plates therefor for use in philatelic or historical articles, books, journals, or albums, or the circulars of legitimate publishers or dealers in such stamps, books, journal or albums. And provided further That no such illustrations shall be in colors and that no such illustrations or plates shall be of a stamp of the United States." This bill was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary on November 14, 1921, and ordered to be printed. While we have some recollection that the Act approved March 4, 1909, if interpreted literally would debar the use of illustrations of foreign stamps to some extent, yet the purport of the Act was precautionary, we understood, and its penalties would not be invoked when fraud was not manifest or intended. The bill that has just been introduced appears to give no more than we already have, and we cannot say that it paves the way for action of the kind so heartily desired for years past, in the shape of permission to use cuts of U. S. stamps for philatelic or historical purposes. The fact is that the words, "no such illustrations or plate shall be of a stamp of the United States," have an ominous sound. We hope that we shall have word soon that will clear the atmosphere as it is inconceivable that the plan to work in the interests of illustrations of United States has been relinquished. We regret that one of our Washington correspondents on whom we have come to depend for news of this nature has been away from Washington for some months. Much valuable matter on United States stamps is being withheld in the hope that its text could be fortified by illustrations of our stamps.

Void—In the issue of January 7th, we told of the newspaper report of the institution of divorce proceedings against Mr. F. L. Eagleston, a member of the Chicago Philatelic Society, on the charge that he "devoted his evenings to his stamps, never entertaining his family." That the confidence of the philatelic friends of Mr. Eagleston has been well bestowed is shown by the withdrawal of the bill. It seems that the lady has become reconciled to the idea that stamps are not the worst thing in the world to occupy a husband's idle moments or evenings. As we have said before, the collector is apt to be a home-body; and as such should be in demand. We celebrate the vindication of philately and its ardent devotee.

Slip—Several weeks ago, a paragraph was printed regarding the different spacings to be found on No. 151 of Azores, the Republica surcharge on the 20r orange of the postage due set of Portugal, between the words, "Republica" and "Acores." By reason of a typographical distortion the subject was not presented plainly. This Azores provisional was printed in two operations and in consequence there is every chance for variations in spacing; and these differences, while of some specialistic interest, have no significance.

Fair—From Mr. Henry A. Meyer we have received the following sage observation; and while he does not pose as a proponent of the stamps under notice, he thinks that the continued chorus of catcalls at their expense is piling it on a bit. "New Europe, like all other afflictions, has its uses. Every time a lecture is delivered or an essay is written on the benefits to be derived from stamp collecting, it is emphasized that the collector gains a knowledge of geography and history far beyond that possessed by the student who learns these subjects in the orthodox way only. If this value of collecting exists, and I am fully convinced that it does, then the European issues of the last three years can amply justify their existence. It cannot be denied that a collection of New Europe contains infinitely more geography and history than a collection of Bristish colonies or perhaps any other of the popular groups, to say nothing of reconstructed plates of U. S. 1851 or cancellations on three-cent greens. I do not say anything derogatory to these forms of collecting; I indulge in several of them mildly, myself. I am not arguing the values of sound investment or of scientific specialization. I am only seeking to fix for New Europe that value which is claimed for collecting as a whole which has probably done more to convert parents and teachers to a tolerant, if not cooperative attitude, than any other phase of the hobby."

Home—Upon arriving home from a European trip, a correspondent says that about the first "duty" that he performed was to read the accumulated WEEKLIES. He says that the news of the death of Charles Haviland Mekeel was a shock to him and, quoting from his letter, "your sketch of him in the paper of October 29, 1921, was a fine example of biographical detail. Your description of different of his qualities was excellent. I wish greatly to know how old Mr. Mekeel was and where he was born, particulars to that effect having been overlooked, evidently." Mr. Mekeel has said that he was born on December 1, 1861, on a farm in Westchester County, New York, "which had been the family homestead for a period dating back to 1653." In Ricker's "History of Harlem," there is an account of some of his ancestors who were among the earliest settlers of New York State.

Stir—Comments on the article, "Stamp Frauds and Their Detection," are still coming in from readers who refer to it most flatteringly. We learn that the writer of the article is Mr. George F Newton, Jr., the "philatelic" member o the staff of the Scientific American; an we congratulate him upon his effectiv work. In our opinion, the opening para graph is a singularly clear and concis statement that is almost worth memoriz ing: "The bulk of the stamps which th non-colletor sees have no intrinsic valu They retail for a cent or two apie but this merely covers the cost handling them. There are perha 25,000 varieties from all over the wor that have a true market value, based rarity and demand. Those costing le than a dollar are apt to be selected trash; and as we approach the hundr dollar class the market is of cours limited. Nevertheless the real rarities, which the known copies are numbere come as high as five and ten thousa dollars, with plenty of buyers to abso the limited offerings." We ask that t several readers who wrote about the a leged worthlessness of stamps costi less than one dollar, not to take this o servation literally; it just happens th the division line is made at that figure Mr. Newton.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Occasionally a correspondent asks us why we do not inaugurate a "Questions and Answers" department. The reason is because there are not sufficient inquiries to require the service. The trouble has been in the past that the editor of the department has frequently been compelled to ask the questions that he answered in order to fill the space. We are very glad to be of service at any time in imparting information.

—B. Mex Mehl is sending out an announcement to the effect that he will soon auction the wonderful collection of coins and medals formed by James Ten Eyck of Albany, N. Y. This collection contains some of the greatest numismatic rarities. We cannot take the space to enumerate all the good things, which include the so-called Brasher Doubloon, the 1804 dollar called the King of American coins, and other exceedingly rare things. An idea of the extent of the collection may be obtained from the fact that it will be listed in six parts, gold coinage of the U. S., silver coinage of the U. S., American colonial coinage, copper coinage of the U. S., foreign gold coins and foreign silver coins.

—We have just received the Year Book of the Junior American Philatelic Society containing membership list, constitution and reports for 1921. It is compiled by C. H. Hollister, the retiring secretary. The new secretary is Tom E. Foote of Grand Rapids, Mich., who will be glad to give any of our readers full information concerning this promising society.

—L. H. Brigham writes us a very fine letter endorsing one of our Massachusetts advertisers for his promptness in filling a want-list. We quote from his letter:—"My want-list was received on Tuesday morning. It was completely filled, neatly mounted on cards alphabetically, priced and mailed special delivery late that afternoon and was in my hands the following morning, less than twenty-four hours after my want-list had been received. This is a record to be proud of, and one hard to beat." Mr. Brigham's word of commendation comes unsolicited and we appreciate his expression of gratitude at the prompt treatment he received.

—The annual banquet of the Syracuse Stamp Club will be held Friday evening, February 20. Collectors who happen to be in this town on above date will be welcome. The Club is holding its yearly exhibition at the Carnegie Library. The exhibits are changed weekly and attract considerable attention.

—I think there should be a distinction and a difference drawn between persons who collect stamps for the sheer joy of the hunt, and because of liking stamps for their beauty alone; and the collectors who collect only because they can make money out of collecting. To me a common Columbian 1893 U. S. stamp is still as pretty as any I own. I collected stamps for years without knowing or realizing that they had any market value to stamp collectors; so it seems deplorable to me that many collectors care only for the money side of the game.—H. S. Dickey, in the West.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The Zumstein Briefmarken Katalog, fifth edition, 1922, devoted to the stamps of Europe, is a remarkable work. There is no necessity to say that the issues of that continent afford material for a book of ample size; there are nearly five hundred pages required for the identification of the stamps, with the manifold issues of recent years, because of the war. The Zumstein catalogue has its text in both German and French but we need not remark that the pictures speak in a universal language. It is of the illustrations that we would tell in particular. Though they are in a reduced size, they are clear; and now we come to an excellent distinction in this catalogue; it is in the unusual number of small cuts picturing type and other minor differences. As a book of reference, this new catalogue, published again after a lapse of seven years is one of the best that we can recommend. The prices are in Swiss francs and we may believe that the experienced cataloguers have given their best knowledge of values in the quotations. We bespeak a large circulation for this bi-lingual book whose typography is admirable; and we consider the cover which has a most faithful representation of the Basle dove Cantonal, in color, the most artistic that we have ever seen on a catalogue. Price, 4.50 francs, (Swiss): Zumstein & Co., Bern, Switzerland.

BETI'S HOUSE ORGAN.

Elsewhere in this issue is a fine announcement of W. W. Betts' house organ.

It is becoming more and more the practise of firms to issue their own stamp papers as a medium of communication between themselves and their clients. We commend the plan as being publicity of the right sort. The collector will be drawn to a price-list more strongly if there be matter published in it that takes on the chatty or conversational manner. Mr. Betts calls his house organ "Postage Stamps" and he offers his paper free to all asking for it. We are glad to supplement Mr. Betts' publicity with this complimentary word on his venture.

INDEX FOR 1921.

We are glad to state that A. H. Pike of Buffalo, N. Y., has just completed an index of the WEEKLY for 1921. We shall publish it in an early number of the WEEKLY and reprints will be furnished to any of our readers who may desire the same. We have five 1921 complete volumes that will be sold with index at $1.25 each. This will be a good opportunity for interested parties to secure a nice clean volume of the WEEKLY at a bargain price.

COMPETITION

A customer whose collection numbers over 25,000 varieties and contains many stamps worth $25 to several hundred dollars each, and who has received stamps on approval from many other dealers, tells me the selections he receives from the Westfield Philatelic Peach Orchard contain the finest specimens that come to him.

I don't expect to undersell everybody else—or anybody else—that isn't what I'm in business for. I'm merely supplying choice singles, pairs, strips, blocks and covers to those who appreciate fine copies of desirable stamps and are willing to pay what high-grade service is worth.

Few dealers can compete with me in stamps worth from one dollar each upward. If you aren't sure of this, try my service.

United States Provisional Envelopes

Of all of the main types of provisional 2c on 3c envelopes issued the variety overprinted in Daytona is positively the scarcest. If you collect envelopes you should have this for it is not a minor variety and is one that will increase as years go on. This is Scott's No. 2708 originally priced at $4.50, which price was raised to $7 in the errata of the 1922 catalogue. It is much scarcer than No. 2704, which lists at $8.50.

Just around a hundred in all were ever saved and this covered the several sizes. I personally obtained about 80 and most of them are gone. When the few left are sold it will be a $10-15 variety, for there are less of them than the black error No. 2667a or the red error on blue No. 2678 which list at $20.

The cut square collector must have this and there will be a place for it in the album. While ten copies last you may have one entire so that you can cut it to suit yourself at $5.00.

I can also furnish all of the other provisional envelopes. What do you require? (Please remember, however, that I do not deal in any of the envelopes except the provisionals.)

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—In a recent Chronicle I spoke about certain used copies of the August issue of 1861 which were known to philately. I specifically mentioned a copy of the 5c with a five concentric ring black cancellation. Mr. Eugene Klein supplements these remarks by informing me that he has seen two copies of the 1c and has learned on good authority that a copy of the 3c also exists with the same cancellation. This has led him to conclude that a certain number of these stamps, possibly two sets, were cancelled with this experimental cancellation. He has studied a large number of other stamps of the period, but has never found this cancellation on any variety except the August issue, hence the conclusion that this cancellation was not applied to stamps actually passing through the mail.

Mr. F. R. Demmerly advises that the Postage Meter Company informs him that under date of December 22, 1921 the Post Office Department approved a new type of marking for metered mail. This consists of a circular postmark with the name of the city and state and within the larger circle a smaller one with date. The stamp portion is elliptical in shape reading "U. S. POSTAGE—2—TWO CENTS PAID—2—" with the permit and meter number. The Meter Company informs me that they expect to put this new marking into operation without delay and that it will supersede the previous type. The usual seven wavy lines are also to be noted in the new type.

Mr. LeRoy Pratt adds another new variety to our list of provisional envelopes, although he does not send a copy for inspection. It is a die H on blue, and next to the H on buff is the scarcest of the 3c type. This variety has only been reported from one or two cities, and we are pleased to learn that it exists with the Seattle overprint.

1920 to 1921, 2c on 3c Provisional Envelopes.

Seattle Overprint.
Die H, blue, size 7, wmk. 19, H. B.

We also desire to thank Messrs. Byron Elliott, S. G. Rich, C. W. Gustafson and Harry Lacks for notes of interest.

BRUNEI.—Whitfield King's Bulletin notes "There is an interesting variety in the 1908 issue, 2c chocolate and black, printed from plate 2, the 34th stamp on the sheet shows the clouds having been filled in at the top left corner of the vignette."

CONGO.—Mr. Henry Hooreman writing to us under date of 12th ult., advises that the new Belgian Congo surcharges are expected to be literally in the air almost immediately. They will comprise:—75c blue, 1fr red and 2fr violet. Transverse oblong in format, these three stamps will be in a uniform design, strikingly effective, of which the central motif is an aeroplane in flight over the town of Casablanca. The stamps are now being engraved by the heliogravure (taille douce) process, and their appearance may persuade the French postal authorities to issue aerial mail adhesives for France itself. A new series of ordinary stamps is also in active preparation for the French Protectorate of Morocco. —Stamp Collecting.

NICARAGUA.—Mr. William McFarland informs us that he has just received a letter from this country franked with two new provisionals. One is the 5c gray overprinted "Vale Medio Centavos" in two lines in red and the other is the 2c green surcharged in red "R de C. Vale C0.01".

PALESTINE.—Mr. Sherman Henri advises that he has received an interesting pair of the E. E. F. stamps surcharged "Palestine" on a piece of cover. One stamp is the 2m green, No. 116, while the other is No. 106, surcharged like the recent set, but the English word Palestine is spelled "Palestinr". The "r" appears a trifle smaller than the other letters.

SENEGAL.—Writing from Sassandra, in this French Colony, a correspondent says that no authority was given for the use of the bisected 50c as 25c ones, referred to in our August 13th issue, and that it was only due to the ignorance of the native employees that a few of these "splits" passed through the post.—Stamp Collecting.

SYRIA.—We learn that all the stamps of the older types, in use until lately in and around Damascus, have been withdrawn and replaced by those current in Beyrout and vicinity. No preliminary warning was given, and it is stated that all the withdrawn stamps are to be, or have been, burned.—Stamp Collecting.

CHAPTER XII.

Miscellaneous Notes.

Industries.

Mahogany cutting is the chief industry, and large quantities of logwood and hardwoods of various kinds are also shipped. Sapodilla gum, or chicle, used in making chewing gum, is exported in large quantities to the United States. In the Stann Creek district, bananas are cultivated with success.

In 1919 the imports were valued at $4,695,416, and the exports at $4,448,809, the United States supplying about 70% of the former, and taking 90% of the latter. Nearly all the foodstuffs as well as a large percentage of clothing and other material came from the United States. The mahogany and cedar exported to the United States was valued at $580,786. Shipments of coconuts, mahogany and chicle were higher in value than in previous years, while the shipments of bananas were lower. The direction of trade in 1919 is shown by the following figures:—

	Imports.	Exports.
United Kingdom,	$ 405,017	$ 667,880
United States of America,	2,945,964	3,456,954
Mexico,	574,763	279,287

Revenue and Expenditure.

The revenue of the Colony is derived principally from customs, internal taxation, light and wharf dues, railway, and the Postoffice. The figures for recent years are given below:—

	Revenue.	Expenditure
1916	$ 640,462	$613,788
1917	676,227	675,235
1918	721,233	670,737
1919	1,065,622	981,816

The principal increase in revenue in 1919 was occasioned by customs and internal taxation, these being $254,834, and $25,467, respectively, in excess of the figures for 1918. The Post Office and Railway were operated at a loss of $1078. and $2173. respectively.

Expenditures in 1919 was increased by the grant of $10,000. to the Returned Volunteers Committee, and $181,454. in quelling the labor riots in Belize in July of that year, which were not brought to an end until a man-of-war from Jamaica arrived.

The excess of assets over liabilities, April 1st, 1920, was $329,163. There is a public debt of $874,800, with a sinking fund of $153,528, leaving the net liability of the Colony, $721,272.

Currency.

The standard of currency is the gold dollar of the U. S. A., the gold coins of that country being legally current at their respective values. The British sovereign and half-sovereign were legal tender for $4.86, and $2.43 respectively, until the recent deflation. The subsidiary silver currency is coined specially for the Colony, also a bronze 1c and a nickel bronze 5c piece.

Under Ordinance 32, 1894, currency notes were issued for the sums of $1, $2, $5, $10, $50 and $100—those in the two latter amounts have since been withdrawn from circulation.

On March 31st, 1920, the currency in circulation was $613,669, of which $444.859 was in currency notes, and $177,927.75 in silver and bronze. There is also a considerable quantity of American notes in circulation.

Government Savings Bank.

There are six savings banks conducted by the Government, one in the chief town in each district. The rate of interest allowed is 3% per annum.

The total number of depositors, December 31st, 1919, was 1050: deposits amounted to $109,875; withdrawals $68.097, with $157,780 remaining to the credit of depositors.

THE LIVE STAMP PEOPLE IN THE LIVE CITY announce the opening of an up-to-date office where collectors will at all time be welcome. We especially desire every collector in Montreal and vicinity to come in and get acquainted with us. A fine 25,000 var. collection is ready for inspection. It will pay every collector to be on our mailing list.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1619 to 1622 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

PRECANCEL CLUB OF AMERICA.

By V. W. ROTNEM.

We have purposely neglected any mention in any "news" manner of the P. C. A. Too often new "would be" organizations bother philatelic publications with publicity only to see them falling by the wayside and then your good work comes to naught.

Therefore before we presented this news to the philatelic press of America, we wanted really to have accomplished a real foundation for the club. Now we have done this. We are glad to announce that the P. C. A. in three months has 75 members. At our present rate of increase we shall have 200 members by the end of our first fiscal year.

The Precancel Club of America can partly lay its success to the energies of its officers, but partly to the fact that the present time has been an ideal one for the establishment of our hobby, in that it permits the maximum amount of philatelic enjoyment for a minimum amount. Our official board is as follows:—President—V. W. Rotnem, St. Anthony Falls Station, Minneapolis, Minn.; Vice-Pres.—J. Harvey Westren, 12 Lynwood Ave., Toronto, Ont., Can.; Sec.-Treas.—R. C. Frank, 1110-5th St., S. E., Minneapolis, Minn.; Sales Manager—C. W. Haynes, Marion, Ky.; Directors—John L. Parker, Fred Allen, Fred Fisher; Official Organ—The Precancel Gazette.

Among the benefits of the club may be mentioned:—

(I) You are placed on a more fraternal basis with the best group of precancel collectors in the United States and Canada.

(II) You have full privilege to use the departments of the society. The Sales Department permits you to use its services as a buyer or as a seller. A nominal commission is charged by the Sales Manager for the circulation of your stamps; there are no charges if you are a buyer. C. W. Haynes, Marion, Ky., is Sales Manager. The Exchange Department permits you to exchange your duplicates for copies you do not have, on the old basis of barter. You enter your stamps with the Exchange Manager, who allows you an advance credit on which you select stamps from other members' book.

(III) You receive the official organ, a full-fledged precancel magazine, free of charge. The Precancel Gazette is now the official organ.

(IV) The Year Book of the society, issued once a year, with full detailed reports, and with a complete roster of members, showing their specialties, comes to you free.

(V) The society will sponsor the yearly issuance of a correct catalog of the precancelled issues. The Board of Directors will authorize a private issue and will back it if the members of the club so desire at the yearly election.

MEKEEL IS SPELLED RIGHT.

Charles E. Severn of Chicago, editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, a stamp collectors' journal, who attended the funeral of Mrs. Abner Deysher, Reading, paid a flying visit to relatives in this city, before returning home. He is the son of the late William Severn, and grandson of Isaac Severn, a former well known contractor, who lived corner of Sixth and Mahantongo Sts., the house now owned and occupied by C. R. Hoffman and which Isaac Severn built. His maternal grandfather was Daniel L. Esterly.

Mr. Severn has a warm side for Pottsville but thinks Chicago is destined to become the greatest city in the world.—Pottsville, Pa., Republican.

NOTES ON NEW ISSUES.

By A. KOECHLIN.

The latest novelty from Switzerla consists of the 5c orange Tell boy a 10c green Tell se tenant. They are d signed for the new booklet issue and t arrangement of the sheet is somewh different from the former issues of t 10c and 15c Tell. The new arrangeme shows the 10c in the center of a Gre cross with a normal 5c at the left, t and bottom, and a 5c se tenant at t right. The Swiss 1921 Pro Juventu have a franking value to the U. S.

Liechtenstein finished the old year wi a 35r value.

Austria is starting the new year w one of her well-known monster sets, i cluding newspaper, special delivery a postage dues in addition to the us twenty values of postal adhesives.

PARIS POSTAL CANCELLATIONS.

A lesson in efficiency which the Unit States postal authorities may learn fr the French is suggested in a recent iss of the Wall Street Journal, New Yo which says:

"Shackled with red tape and eaten with bureaucracy the French postal s tem may be, but it utilizes one as which our own system gives away, u ally as patronage. Where our P Office uses its canceling stamp to vertise veterans' encampments or G ernment bond issues, the French pos department rents this advertising sp to commercial concerns. French lett recently received show a canceling sta consisting of the name of a Paris partment store, and the legend, 'Ask the opening of a charge account'."

ADLETS.

Minimum two lines.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

RATE.—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $12.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

DOPE FOR DRUGGISTS.

The Pharmaceutical Era is a trade paper that is published by Mr. A. H. Harvey, Interlaken, N. J., and some months ago, the following article appeared in it, headed "Fortunes May Be Found in Stamps". It is readily seen how an account of the profit possibilities carried by the old medicine, perfumery and playing card stamps is particularly appropriate for a druggists' paper. Mr. Harvey says: "To one statement in the article I think we might take exception to, viz.: 'The common every-day postage stamps that we find on letters will never be worth anything in our time'." Here is the article in part:—

Up to a few years ago the rarest postage stamp known to exist and the most vaulable was issued at Baltimore in 1845, and bears the signature of James M. Buchanan. It is of the denomination five cents and found in two colors, black, worth $800, and blue, worth $750, or more. Recently others have been found which have commanded a higher price. The stamp issued at Brattleboro, Vt., in 1846, buff in color and also of the five cent variety, is catalogued at $1,200. In 1874 another stamp came out at the post office of Millbury, Mass., which is worth today $1,750. It is bluish in color and cost five cents the day it was used.

Charleston, S. C., issued a stamp in 1849 that is now so valuable that its price is not quoted. If it should be found among the old papers, deeds, wills, etc., of some southern druggist he would be able to clean up enough from his find to stock a new store, or buy a mighty nice car.

Fortunately some very valuable issues were used as revenue stamps for proprietary medicines. A careful inventory of some of the druggist's oldest shelf warmers will reward the pains of his search by disclosing old stamps which will bring mighty attractive prices at the large stamp auctions that are frequently held.

From 1862 to '83 patent medicine manufacturers used stamps to distinguish their preparations. Some of the largest medicine makers do this yet and even the stamps to be found on their products every day in use have a certain small value. Some of the oldest firms to so distinguish their products were the Anglo-American Drug Co., J. C. Ayer and Co., whose one cent stamp of the old date is catalogued and valued at $300. There is no doubt that some of these stamps still exist on bottles of the preparations, or boxes of pills in some of the old drug store stocks.

A mighty fine find and worth the hunt would be those of Demas Barnes and Co., Barry's who made and still makes Tricopherous, D. M. Bennett, W. T. Blow, Brandreth, John Bull, J. S. Burdall and Co., A. W. Chace and Co., Dalley's, Perry Davis and Son, B. A. Fahnestock, Hall and Ruckel, Hostetters, Herricks, D. Jayne and Son, Dr. Kennedy, Kendal, Lee and Osgood, D. Ransom and Co., Seabury and Johnson, Jas. Swaim, J. L. Thompson, U. S. Proprietary Medicine Co., Wells & Richardson Co., and many more firms who were in active business at the civil war date. These little stamp labels are all worth large sums, not all as much as the one cent issue of the Ayer Co., but they command good prices according to the number of them that have been found.

It is interesting to know about these old time relics but who will buy them? is the natural question which comes to the druggist's mind. In answer a few facts must not be overlooked. Stamp collecting is not a fad unless you call collecting old art masters the same. It is the pastime of the most cultured and refined persons in every country. There are as many magazines published for stamp collectors and nearly as many societies interested in its progress as we find in the profession of pharmacy.

Druggists who have found old stamps on letters, telegrams, wills, deeds, medicine bottles and boxes, playing cards, perfumery bottles and cosmetic cases, should communicate with one of the nationally known stamp dealers.

The large firms hold at frequent intervals stamp auctions. The stamps discovered by several persons who want to sell are catalogued and this list is sent around to the various dealers and collectors. They make their bids oftentimes by mail and the highest bidder gets the goods. Returns are made promptly to the stamp owners after the sale, a small commission only being withheld. According to this if the druggist should find several stamps of an old variety he could offer them one or two at a time and at different sales thereby getting the highest cash price his stamps would bring. Ardent collectors in addition to dealers watch these sales and if the stamp is rare the bids are high.

Issues of postage stamps become valuable when all but a few of a variety have been destroyed through the activities of our civilization. The common everyday postage stamps that we find on letters will never be worth anything in our time. It will be hundreds of years before they, if cancelled, will be worth any more than such a bit of paper. If uncancelled, unused they are always worth their face value and it is usually figured that they advance in value at the rate of savings bank interest on the amount of money they represent.

In addition to the revenue stamps to be found on old bottles of perfumery, such as the issues of 1864-81, there are also valuable private trade mark stamps similar to the ones which the proprietary manufacturers got out. E. W. Hoyt and Co., Lanman and Kemp, Tetlow's, C. B. Woodworth and Sons and other old timers used these stamps. These issues now sell anywhere from twenty-five cents to $5. Look the old bottles over before they go into junk.

Playing card stamp issues, because they are so rare, are extremely valuable. You will recollect that all decks of playing cards to-day have a revenue stamp on the end. Professional gamblers look for these seals and will not buy the pack if this seal is broken. In 1862-71 they were using these stamps. Washington's head was the picture and the denomination was one cent, which represented the amount of tax paid. It seems that through all administrations playing cards have been taxed. These early issues were red in color and if in good condition bring $15. The three cent denomination is green and is worth $50.

In the good old days of the tallow dip and lamp lighter back in '64, matches were considered a luxury and the stamp which was used to collect the match tax is worth $125.00.

The stamps used on ready printed envelopes are worth more if the whole envelope with its address and all is preserved. Post cards the same. Collectors seem to be finicky about having them mutilated in any way. Watch out for old telegraph stamps, registration stamps, postage due stamps and special deliveries, all have a value. They are usually unearthed among old papers and in grandfather's trunks. Perhaps on ancient love epistles.

OLDEST U. S. POST OFFICE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA., Jan. 19.—St. Augustine is believed to possess the oldest post office building in the country. Postmaster Charles F. Hopkins, after a research extending over a period of two years, has received copies of official records in the "Archives of the Indies" at Seville, Spain, showing that the structure he now occupies was erected sometime between 1568 and 1603 by one Gonzalo Mendez. The King of Spain purchased the building in 1604 as a residence for the Spanish Governors of Florida and it served as such until Florida was transferred to the United States in 1821.

In the archives at Seville were found official "letters and dispatches of the Governors of Florida seen in council from the years 1568 to 1610", and one referring to the purchase of a home for the Governor in St. Augustine, indicated that the housing situation in America more than 500 years ago was little better than it has been the last few years. It read:

"To His Majesty From the Governor Pedro De Ydarra on the 8th day of January, 1604:

"In this city they have never had a house for the Governor and when I arrived they lodged me in a house which was built over the seas, and it was so cold and damp that two Governors died here. These Governors were Guitierrez de Miranda and Domingo Martinez de Avendano. Even the owner himself has never been well in it, nor have I been so since my arrival.

"For this reason, there being no house to live in here, Gonzalo Mendez decided to build one and this he did in a good location.

"It is proposed by the officials of Your Majesty here that Your Majesty purchase said house of Gonzalo Mendez as a dwelling for the Governors. They have these dwellings everywhere but here."

The records show the petition was approved and the building was appraised at $10,500 by officials named for that purpose. After some bargaining, however, Mendez agreed to take $10,000 cash for the structure and it was purchased for that price.

LONDON AND BERLIN STAMP MARKETS.

IMPRESSIONS OF AN AMERICAN VISITOR.

By A. N. RIDGELY.

Of conditions in England I can tell you little that is not already known; of Germany I can tell you much, perhaps more of political and general conditions than of stamps. But this article is about stamps primarily, and there is something to say, not without interest, of stamp conditions in both countries. Buying and selling postage stamps for collectors seemed to me to be about the only active business in London, relatively, during my sojourn there last October and November.

London is, of course, the world's market for stamps, the "bid and asked" being closer together there than anywhere else—particularly on large lots which would be unsalable in this country. The business in stamps had been rather dull through the summer, but at the auction rooms there were always bids within striking distance of vaue. Towards the end of September the auctions began to fill up, business boomed, and practically everything offered brought the reserve prices.

As the leading firm of auctioneers holds from three to six sales per week, with 500 to 600 lots in each sale, and there are many other auctioneers as well, the magnitude of the business in London can readily be seen. As to the prices realized when I was there, good retail stock in general was bringing much less than it would in this country, while wholesale lots found a better market than they would here if put up at auction, the explanation of which latter is that English dealers invest more capital and carry larger stocks of "remainders," etc., than American dealers.

The best bargains to be found over there are in old U. S. stamps, that is considering the high prices prevailing here for fine copies. A similar craze prevails there for all possible varieties of English stamps, which sell distinctly higher than here. You may buy stamps cheap at the London auctions, but you certainly will not get anything for nothing, as many amateurs imagine. The rooms are full of sharpshooters who very seldom let anything get by that is not protected with a reserve and goes for less than value.

Perhaps the most extraordinary thing about these auction rooms is the utter abandon with which valuable stamps in profusion lay around the tables for hours between sales, for anybody to look over—and help themselves, if dishonestly inclined.

Nothing very new or novel is told above. Of more interest are the ever-changing conditions in Germany, where the mark, once worth 24 cents, now goes 200 to the dollar. A massive Schaubek album, that would be worth about $10 in England or America, can be bought in Berlin for a dollar. But stamps have not fallen in the same proportion. The first thing that strikes a stranger forcibly is a big "briefmarken" sign, the width of the store, in almost every block through the business sections.

Dealing in stamps in Berlin seems to be a recognized industry, even more so than in London. We hear a lot of talk that the American market is going to be flooded with stamps from Germany, at your own price, but I very much doubt it. As a matter of fact Germany is comparatively bare of stamps, except war issues and trash, the same as she is bare of gold and diamonds. True, many valuable collections have been bought by the wealthy from impoverished persons and hidden away, in the same manner as diamonds, because these forms of property can elude the tax-gatherer. But stamps thus hidden away are likely to stay hidden, except a few of the highest class, like old U. S., which are easily exported and find a ready market here at high prices.

A year or so ago, when the mark first dropped to near a cent, was the time to have picked up real bargains in stamps as in jewelry. During my recent two months' stay in Berlin I was looking for bargains myself, and did succeed in picking up a moderate line of salable stuff, but the best was gone. When there previously I saw the finest collection probably that was ever gotten together of old U. S. stamps, being gathered up from all quarters for the didn't someone long ago write a series of books on U. S. stamps? The answer is, John Luff wrote a wonderful book—full of every possible piece of information, but it cost $7.50 we believe. Then a new school of collectors arose who raised a lot of—dust—about cancellations, retouches, etc., etc. So we got Mr. Power to take his years of knowledge and experience in U. S. stamps and put it down in black and white. The result is our

NEW ISSUE NEWS

AUSTRIA It is becoming difficult to keep up with the new issues from this country. Since the 7½k yellow and brown, we have had a number of novelties:—first, the old 2h Express (No. 355) was surcharged 50h. The issue was limited and these stamps are now selling for 100 times face in Vienna. Our price is 2 cents each. Then we have the beginning of an entirely new set, inscribed "Oesterreich" instead of "Deutschoesterreich" doubtless to conform with the ideas of the Allied Powers. The designs consist of curiously conventionalized foliage, etc. So far we have seen the following values.—7½k, 10k and 12½k postage; 50h Express; 45h, 2¼k and 7½k Newspaper.

Price:—8 cents for the seven stamps.

The next values to arrive will be:—5k and 25k postage; and 1k, 7½k, 10k and 20k Postage due.

GERMANY We are surprised to learn that a new watermark is to be put into use, consisting of crossed wavy lines, instead of the old lozenges. Meanwhile we have just received the following novelties on the old wmkd. paper:—100pf in the mining scene, and 2m, 3m and 4m in a new conventional design, featuring a small post horn. Price—10 cents for the four. These should prove good as the printing on the old paper is small. We learn that the large 5, 10 and 20m stamps are to be replaced by smaller sized designs.

BULGARIA The Bourchier Memorial Set, although announced last summer, was not put on sale until Dec. 31st. Our price is 30 cents. It is the same set advertised previously at a much greater price. The 25s of the "London" set (cat. No. 160) has not yet been on sale in Bulgaria.

PLEASE remember to add 2c for postage to all orders under $1.00, always.

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Bartels sale in New York. And before that, so I was informed, a French syndicate had an agent scour Germany for stamps, and took away two million francs worth of stuff. Everything is cheap in Germany, but stamps and diamonds have fallen less than anything else.

A word or two on the German people themselves, that you do not see in the newspapers, is not amiss. Mixing with the "man on the street" and with all classes of citizens, you get to know far more of real sentiment than is picked up in the lobbies of the Adlon and Bristol. I gathered that the majority of Berliners would be glad if England and France took the despised ex-kaiser and the whole murderous crew of military assassins and hung them. Why don't the Germans themselves do it? Why, because any such attempt would result in civil war. A third of the German people still are would-be tyrants, and they have more wealth, power and influence than the other two-thirds, the exploited "common people," combined.

While I was in Berlin a member of the Reichstag proposed a bill to confiscate the ill-gotten gains of war profiteers and others of the murder-bund. He was assassinated within twenty-four hours by "parties unknown," as an example for others. That is the punishment promptly meted out for free speech by public men in Germany. The people at large would welcome a protectorate by England, but are in deadly fear of their erstwhile victims, France and Poland.

BOOK REVIEW.

By S. G. RICH.

The International Junior Postage Stamp Album—Scott Stamp and Coin Co., New York. (New revised edition, December, 1921.)

This well-known and favorably-received album for the general collector who is just beyond the beginner-stage, has just reappeared in an edition brought up-to-date. The arrangement, binding, etc., are so familiar that we do not need to mention them here, except to remark that the paper is of somewhat better quality than in the last edition. This improvement will certainly be appreciated by those using the album. The addition of spaces for the various new countries that have issued stamps within the last two years, and the spaces for the post-war issues of the other countries, appear to be as well arranged as the older parts of the book, and, like them, provide for those varieties that the general collector is most likely to get.

We could wish for a few details that have not been attended to; principal of these is the numbering of the pages. We note also that certain countries are not arranged consistently with the scheme adopted with others. For example, the former "British South Africa Company" is properly not given separate place, but is included under the issues of Rhodesia; but Stellaland, which became British Bechuanaland, is not given any space at all. At least one of its stamps is sufficiently cheap to be within the reach of a collector using this album; a space for it should be given, not as Stellaland, but under British Bechuanaland. We note also that British Bechuanaland and Bechuanaland Protectorate are lumped together under the latter title; this is directly in opposition to the facts of the countries in question.

In the matter of the statistics given, we must remark that we are sorry not to see the established Czechoslovak Republic and a number of other new countries given such statistics as are to be had. Certainly the money, area and population of Allenstein could have been given; the first of these is a bit of information of great use to the collector, and should never be omitted. The statistics for South African countries are ten years out of date. We note a singular inconsistency also in the matter of giving the supersession of stamps. Bergedorf has "Stamps superseded in 1868 by those of Germany," but Bremen is left without the corresponding information, and so is Bavaria. Nothing is given under British Central Africa to show that the stamps were succeeded by those of Nyasaland in 1908; in fact, the B. C. A. issues should properly have been put under Nyasaland. Nor do we find that the supersession of the stamps of the various Australian colonies by those of the Australian Commonwealth and those of the Cape of Good Hope, Orange Free State, Natal and Transvaal by those of the Union of South Africa are mentioned.

We must also remark that the erroneous term "British Colony" is used in describing the self-governing dominions which share equally with Great Britain in sovereignty under King George V. The five "Dominions" are no more colonies than Maine is a colony of Massachusetts.

But these are after all only minor defects. The album in its revised form continues worthily to meet the needs of a certain group of collectors. There is no album published abroad in its class as to price and size that comes so near meeting all their needs; I doubt if there is any rival among American albums in this class.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Wm. Lloyd reports the find in an old collection of a 4 penny red Cape error. He instances it as evidence of the fact that it is a sample of the finds that are possible in philately. The catalog value of this stamp is $750.

—Some new advertising cancellations are appearing on Canadian mail. Here are two late ones:—"Buy Build and Work to Reduce Unemployment" and "Work and Provide Work to Reduce Unemployment."

—A. J. Bickel, Goshen, Ind., craves the indulgence of his patrons in connection with any delay that has taken place in attending to details of correspondence.

—We are pleased to clear the name of A. M. Heikel, Crockett, Cal., of any reflection that may have been cast upon it in connection with our recent news item. PANAMA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS.

By FREDERICK E. HEYDON.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Stamped Envelopes and Wrappers.

The designs and colors of the beautiful stamped envelopes of Panama are finely selected and the technical work is of a high order, all of the details being very clearly embossed. They are probably as nearly perfect as can be produced by this process. I list the following:—

701. 1c (1811). Bust of Balboa to left in oval. PANAMA at top, UN CENTESIMO at bottom. 1 at each side, stamp oval, 24x28 mm., apple green, envelope 170x95 mm., oriental buff.

703. 5c (1911). Portrait of Justo Arosemena, ¾ view to left in oval. PANAMA at top, CINCO CENTESIMOS at bottom, 5 at each side, stamp oval, 24x28 mm., dark blue, envelope 240x105 mm., pale blue.

704. 1c ( ). American Bank Note Co. I presume that this has been issued in same general design as Nos. 705 and 706.

705. 2c ( ). Portrait of Fernandez de Cordoba, ¾ view to left in oval, stamp rectangle, 22x28 mm., vermilion, envelope 163x93 mm., white.

706. 5c ( ). Portrait of Justo Arosemena, ¾ view to left in oval, stamp rectangle, 22x28 mm., dark blue, envelope 163 x 93 mm., white.

707. 1c (1921). Portrait of Jose Vallarino. ¾ view to left in oval, stamp rectangle, 22x28 mm., green, envelope 163x93 mm., white.

The stamped wrappers are printed from the same dies as the stamped envelopes and the paper is of excellent quality, particularly the 2½c., for which an unusually high grade manila is used.

751. 1c (1911). Apple green on thin manila wrapper 140x265 mm.

752. 2½c (1911). Bright carmine on thick manila wrapper. 204x304 mm.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Registration Envelopes.

These extremely interesting stamps should have been popular, but while only 35,000 of each size were issued in 1918 they have been so far as I am aware no reorders. Probably their use has been confined to those who habitually use this form of remitting. The envelopes are printed on heavy manila paper reinforced with threads on the inside. On the flap is a rectangular typographed stamped 25 x 34mm., the border consisting of three lines, the inner one straight and the outer ones fancy. At top is RECOMENDADO in straight line and below it REPUBLICA DE PANAMA in curved line, at bottom CINCO CENTESIMOS in curved line, and 5 at each side; all of this being in black. In center is a large R. in red. At fold is a broad red band and below it "Para retirar el contenido córtese la cubierta sobre la linea roja." (To remove the contents cut the envelope on the red line). To the left of the special registration stamp is a rectangle 19 x 35mm. inscribed "Espacio para franque ordinario." (Space for ordinary stamp). This is partly on the flap and partly on the envelope so that the stamp will be broken in opening envelope at this point. In upper right hand corner of envelope is a large red R in oval 19 x 25mm. with other inscriptions relative to its use, space for registration number and space for address. On the other side of envelope are full directions as to its use in black except the three lower lines which are in red. Both sides of the envelopes are divided into quarters by intersecting red lines.

771. 5c black and red, manila envelope, 165 x 95 mm.

772. 5c black and red, manila envelope, 240 x 100 mm.

dealer) straightens out the little tangle. We can only re-iterate what we have stated previously, that collectors must not use our publication as a reference, unless authorized so to do.

—A. R. Bardsley, Altoona, Pa., ran an adlet, Jan. 28, of 500 different stamps post free, omitting the price $1, which should have been inserted. In justice to our printers we wish to say that the price was omitted from the original copy.

—We have a letter in this office for D. L. Hurwitz. Will someone kindly favor us with his address?

—The writer recently came into possession of a cover that might be classed as a curiosity. It is a piece of burlap, apparently having been used as a cover to a small wooden box sent from a city in Guatemala containing commercial papers en route to New York. This cover contains two blocks of fifty stamps each of the one peso value and two blocks of fifty stamps each of the two peso value, and eight ten centavo stamps. In other words there are over 300 pesos. I do not know the present rate of exchange, but it is apparent that the peso is not worth very many cents under existing conditions. The really remarkable thing about this cover is that out of all the 208 stamps only two or three are torn at all, and about half a dozen only that are chafed so as to be unsuitable for a collection. Considering how such covers generally get abused, this piece of burlap is in fine condition, and I expect to have it framed, as it is an absolutely genuine cover used for legitimate postal purposes, with no thought that it would fall into the hands of a collector.—LEWIS A. MCARTHUR.

—The St. Louis Stamp Collectors Society had their annual election of officers in January and W. D. Helman was elected President, C. N. Smith Vice-President and C. W. Swatek was re-elected Secretary and Treasurer. The Society is in a flourishing condition and is taking on new members right along,, at present numbering about fifty. Its annual banquet is to be held in February.

PANAMA INFORMATION WANTED

F. E. Heydon, 5418 9th St., N. W., Washington, D. C., would like information concerning the stamped envelopes of Panama. His chapter on stamped envelopes in this issue shows the information that he is able to furnish. He would like to know when Nos. 705 and 706 were issued. It is possible that there are varieties not recorded in his Chronicle.

CHAPTER V.

Stamp Booklets.

The stamps of the issue of 1913 are furnished, in booklets, each containing one dozen ½d stamps and two dozen 1d stamps, making up a value of 2s 6d. The book is sold for this price. There is not any evidence in the booklets or the stamps in them that special printings were made: the stamps in the booklet are from sheets, with perforations all around; the booklet-sheets, of six stamps each, in two horizontal strips of three have at one edge the sheet-margin used for binding them into the book. As the panes are six stamps wide for this issue, the sheets lend themselves to this manner of division for making booklets. The fact that the stamps are sometimes facing one end and sometimes the other of the booklet, and occasionally inserted upside down, confirms this. Between each booklet-sheet is a sheet of waxed paper, and the booklets are stabbed together.

From 1913 to April, 1920, a dark-red cover with an inscription giving the inland and oversea rates of postage was used. In that month a change was made to a pink cover with altered description. The details of the cover need not here be discussed.

The sheets, in making the booklets, are occasionally so cut that the perforations are removed in part from one side of the stamp, or two adjacent sides. All varieties of stamps thus part-perforated are merely damaged in booklet-making. Moreover, in such booklets, the whole of the perforation along one edge and also a piece of the next stamp, are sometimes left at one edge of the booklet-sheet.

The booklets are made in South Africa, I am informed.

CHAPTER VI.

Coil Stamps.

Only the ½d and 1d stamps of the 1913 issue are issued in coils. The 1½d of 1920 is just reported as so issued, but I have not yet seen it. The coil stamps are printed on the regular plates, and are perforated horizontally in the usual way, but are slit into strips instead of being perforated vertically. The strips are joined together to make the coils. I have a specimen of the ½d showing the joint. Thus there exist only the "vertical coils", to borrow the terminology of the specialists in U. S. Coils. The coils are of 480 stamps for the ½d and 240 stamps for the 1d, making a coil worth one pound sterling.

I have not been able to find any varieties of these stamps save some of the shades, as they are printed in the same run as the ordinary varieties. I have the ½d in green, yellow green and blue green, and the 1d in scarlet, rose and pink, of the same dates as the similar ordinary issue. The ½d with dot between dash and "Postzegel" in my collection is a coil specimen.

I have a pair of ½d damaged in the coil vending-machine, so that between the top quarter of a stamp and the bottom three quarters of another is a complete stamp.

The coils are sold through automatic vending machines, which cut off and extrude thru a slot one 1d or two ½d stamp on insertion of a penny. The coils are also sold as wholes.

CHAPTER VII.

Issue of 1916.

Late in 1915 it was announced that a stamp of the denomination of £1 (one pound sterling) would shortly be issued; but it was not placed on sale until August, 1916. The stamp is of the same design as the issue of 1913, but has £1 in each lower corner. Its colors are scarlet and green. In paper, perforation, etc., it conforms in every way to the series. I am not aware of any varieties. It is generally said in South Africa that the occasion for issuing the stamp was the need of it for the post-office telegraph service, and perhaps for large bank packages.

CHAPTER VIII.

Issue of 1920.

On April 15, 1921, the rate for domestic and Imperial postage was raised from a minimun of 1d to a minimun of 1½d, in South Africa. Immediately after this, some persons used the unofficial "splits" of 1d stamps, mentioned below, when making up the necessary amount to put on letters. On August 24, 1921, there was put on sale at Durban and elsewhere a stamp of 1½d denomination. This stamp is in every way similar to the issue of 1913, and is printed in a dark orange-brown.

Light and heavy printings, thick and thin paper, and plate numbers 1 and 2, are all found, and were all known within a month of the date of first issue. A dark brown-orange shade appeared within this time, and also a very pale shade. A red-brown shade comes from Zwaartberg, Cape Province, in January, 1921; from Warrenton, Cape Province, comes a specimen with a square blotch about 8mm. long and ½mm. wide in the middle of the front line of the King's beard, in April, 1921; and from Adams Mission Station, Natal, a specimen with a "blotch watermark" in which the springbok's head has been replaced by an irregular thin spot, with only the horns showing, in the early part of 1921. I have specimens of all of these in my collection. Inverted watermark is not yet reported, but is liable to be discovered at any time. This stamp is also reported in strips perforated horizontally only, about the middle of 1921, but I have not yet seen it.

At the same time as the raising of postage rates, the postoffice telegraphs raised their minimum charge from 1s to 1s 3d. On October 15, 1921, a stamp of this denomination was issued, and found use for parcel post also. Like its precursors of this year, the stamp is in every way similar to the issue of 1913. The value is inscribed thus in the corners: ⅓, without the abbreviations s and d. The color is violet; the stamp is known to me only on thick or ordinary paper. I have two shades also, which are pale violet and dark lilac.

CHAPTER IX.

Unofficial "Splits" of 1920.

After the increase in postage rates in 1920, there were persons who divided the requisite additional ½d postage. This was never authorized by the Post Office officials, but in many cases the stamps thus divided went thru the mail. I have seven covers showing this: all save one went thru without charge of postage due. These covers show the 1d cut diagonally both to left and to right and both upper and lower half used as ½d; also the stamp cut across horizontally and each half used; and the strip 1d, perf. horizontally, cut in half diagonally and so used.

CURRENT 2c U. S. COUNTERFEIT!

By EDWARD STERN.
(Economist Stamp Co., N. Y. City)

On February 1st, a collector stepped into my office with a block of current 2c stamps which he thought I would like to see due to its being of a peculiar shade. I inquired if he could secure any more, he said he would try. I took no chances and persuaded him to favor me with a block of four, so that I could have an example in my possession.

"I really did not care if any more were available as the block answered my purpose. I then suggested to the collector to go back immediately and get all the balance available. He brought several hundred to me, all of which were in blocks of ten; and after having them in my possession I informed him of the fact that they were counterfeits. Upon close inspection I discovered that they were printed in sheets of ten (10).

This was proven by the fact that each of the ten stamps showed minor differences and were repeated on each sheet in the same position.

I at once notified the U. S. Secret Service Agents and sent a sheet to the Bureau of Printing and Engraving at Washington, and since that time notices have appeared in all the daily newspapers.

The stamps are engraved and printed from a steel plate, and it is an imitation made to resemble the photo-process printing. Close inspection shows that the portrait of Washington and the flow of hair differ materially on each stamp—the best one is number six on the sheet. The horizontal back-ground lines on all are very irregular and the so-called button on collar is about twice the size of the one on the genuine. The perforation is 11½, and they were printed both on thin and thick paper.

I fully believe that the object in working them in sheets of ten was to pass them off on mail-order houses, thus causing less suspicion than if offered in full sheets.

This is the first counterfeit placed on the market since 1894.

Fine Early BRAZILS at One Half Catalog

I have left from my purchases in Europe last summer the following fine and desirable Brazilian stamps which I am anxious to close out, as they represent only a "flyer" outside of my regular line of Canadians. To dispose of them at once I have put the price at 50% of Scott's prices for 1922. This low price does not mean low quality, for the stamps are all very fine unless otherwise described, and are offered under my usual guarantee of satisfaction.

No. 1.—Five fine copies various shades and cancellations at $7.50 each, and one nice looking copy, but torn and repaired, at $1.75.

No. 2.—One fine unused copy, deep black, fine margins but no gum, at $10.00; and seven fine used copies, various shades, at $5.00 each.

No. 3.—One fine used copy, at $20.00.

Nos. 7, 8, 9, 10, 21, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27.—Two or Three fine used copies of each at half catalogue.

No. 39.—One unused copy, cut to line at one corner, clean and fresh but no gum, at $4.50; and two very fine used copies at $3.75 each.

No. 40.—One very fine unused copy, but no gum, at $7.50; and one fine used copy, a little close on one side, at $6.25.

Nos. 74, 76, 77 (the latter unused and used).—At half catalogue.

No. 177.—Imperforate single, showing part of next stamp at left, o. g., at $2.50.

I shall be glad to have want lists from collectors of Canadians, as I have an excellent stock of these stamps both used and unused.

EDITORIAL.

Rumble—We did not find it necessary to have our ear on the ground to hear the rasp of voices discussing the bill presented at Washington, on the subject of stamp illustration. We have been made aware that disappointment is felt keenly that United States stamps which were supposed to have been the sole object of solicitude have been turned out into the storm and the door bolted behind them. The general feeling is that a fuller understanding of the plans of the sponsors of the bill will show that the sentence of our stamps to oblivion pictorially is not what it seems. We hope that all will end well and that what was a disadvantage on the face of it will prove to be a blessing. The Lookout Committee of the American Philatelic Society is on the job and we anticipate some news that will either cheer or crimp our ambitions for the liberation of pictures of United States for scientific purposes from the thrall of "officialdom."

Spread—From Mr. O. J. Olson and from Mr. Raymond S. Williams, we have received copies of newspapers containing the column and one-half article, "Not Selling Rare Stamps," that was sent out by the Western Newspaper Union to the host of papers using the plate matter of Western Newspaper Union. The drift of the article is shown in the following sub-heads, "Stamp Enthusiasts Do Not Understand New Venture of Post Office Department. Handles Only Recent Issues Victory Stamps, Pilgrim Tercentenary Issues and Airplane Stamps Among Varieties That Are for Sale." That this article will have a big circulation may be known from the fact that in Minnesota alone, the list is 224 newspapers. It has become almost impossible to mention specifically the many cases of publicity for philately that are at every hand and we rejoice that the philatelic theme is being emphasized as we have for so many years harped on the necessity for bringing our pursuit to the attention of the outside world. For a long time the philatelic article was the exception but now it is almost the rule. We must press on and not relax our efforts to gain intelligent advertising for our philately.

Closed—There are a few collectors who are especially interested in U. S. covers that bear cancellations on their stamps or elsewhere of United States post offices that long since, as a rule, have been discontinued. Some of the early postmarks are significant, indeed; and they epitomize times that will never be known again. Certain of the covers used in the west tell indirectly of the bonanza days when mining towns sprung up over night and were deserted almost as quickly when expectations did not pan out. California, we imagine, can produce many testimonials to the shifting postal fortunes of the earlier days as we have encountered postmarks of many towns now non-existent that had their fling in the rough and ready days, only to subside soon after. We notice "Yankee Jim's" postmark on a ten cent of 1851; and this marking conjures up scenes of activity in California akin to those depicted by Bret Harte or Mark Twain. However, it must not be thought that the discontinued post office belongs to days gone by, as such is not the case. In nearly every number of the Postal Bulletin there is notice of the closing of one or two offices, with the consequence that their mail service henceforth will be through another post office.

Thanks—From Mr. Walter N. Emerson, business manager of the Mailbag, a journal of direct mail advertising, we have received several articles from his publication that are pertinent to an item recently that we published telling of the receipt by a Chicago bank of a stampless envelope on which the sender had written, "Notify addressee and postage will be paid." We learn from the articles in question that "Return Postage Collect" is a privilege that mail-order men favor decidedly, but it is shown that Washington postal officers frustrate the success of any movement therefor by objections, plausible or otherwise, according to the view-point of the individual. We learn, too, that a plan is being worked upon by the department whereby the plan of postage payment on delivery may be given a trial. Under its provisions, the addressee would pay the postage at the regular rates upon the receipt of the mail. Of course, there would be restrictions that would relieve the authorities from loss by "bad collections."

Bother—While on the subject of improvements in the postal service, we may say that we are certain that the department feels that its method of collecting postage due is not in line with the efficiency of the day, generally. It is understood that postage due is collected from some establishments that have large payments to make on this account, tender check or cash and that others pay upon the vouchers covered with due stamps. When a mail-order house has to pay as much as $700 in one day for goods returned to it, there is no doubt but that the need for postage due stamps of high denomination is strikingly apparent to those who have the task of affixing the stamps to large sheets of paper. The stamps are precanceled in sheets, it is true, but the affixing them to large sheets of paper is manual labor. The trouble is that in recent times some businesses have grown to proportions that cause us to marvel and which makes it almost impossible to strike an average that will be satisfactory all around. Why have quantities of the twenty-five cent parcel post dues come on the market recently? Because of the wish of the offices to work off these stamps to rate up large amounts of postage due. Returns to a mail-order house calling for the collecting of five hundred dollars would require the use of two thousand of the 25c stamps.

Bidder—Some months ago, we received a letter from a Southern city, in which the writer asked if the Confederate essay, showing the flag of the South, could not be regarded as something more than "a sample" as it was engraved by Hoyer & Ludwig, of Richmond, Virginia. We attached no significance to the inquiry when it was received, as the signature was written so that it was indecipherable. By chance, we have learned of a letter that exists that was sent to the postmaster general of the Confederacy by Hoyer & Ludwig, in which the firm said that it enclosed samples of "postal stamps," including a ten cent that represented the Confederate flag. There was no little competition excited by the call for bids for making Confederate postage stamps and a half-dozen northern firms entered bids. Hoyer & Ludwig hoped that they would be given "Preference to Northern Houses." We wish that our correspondent would give us his reason for having known that the flag print was the work of Hoyer & Ludwig.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Notices sent out by the Third Assistant Postmaster General under date of January 27, 1922, call the attention of the several postmasters throughout the country to the fact that the 10c stamp is now available in sidewise coils of 500 stamps each. Coils of 1,000 stamps are not to be had, nor has the endwise coil been issued. This variety comes as quite a surprise for we have been following the plates most carefully and our recent lists show no rotary plate of this denomination. We expect, however, to be able to give our readers full information as to this stamp in our next issue. We have to thank Mr. A. E. Owen and a couple of the local postal employees for this news.

The daily papers for the last few weeks have had considerable to say about the soldier's bonus bill and it looks as if this Congress will give it favorable consideration. In discussing the details with a committee of Congress the Secretary of the Treasury mentions an increase in first and second class postage as well as a stamp tax on bank checks as ways in which a part of this expense may be met. He, however, mentions that he certainly does not recommend these taxes but simply gives them, as a means to an end. Should this detail be passed upon we will again find some minor changes in our postal issues to take care of the increased postage.

The Associated Press carries a notice of a counterfeit of the current 2c stamp. This of course is made to defraud the government and will rank with the famous counterfeit of 1895. The details given in the clipping are quite meager but we understand that they are printed in sheets of ten and are an imitation of the surface printed variety.

In our chronicle of last week, mention was made of the new type of impression approved by the Post Office Department for use in the case of metered mail. Mr. Raymond S. Williams sends the first seen of this variety, same having been used in Hartford, Conn., under date of January 27, 1922—7 P. M. Mr. Williams advises that quite an occasion was made of this first use of this meter and that the Postmaster David A. Wilson and his assistant, Mr. E. J. Dillon, were present when the machine was placed into operation. The variety carries "Permit # 1, Meter 1078". There seems to be quite a little interest taken by our readers in these metered permit stamps if we may designate them as such, and we would therefore thank our readers for any early information possible on the subject.

During the last few weeks we have had an opportunity of checking over the several larger collections in the country of the 2c on 3c provisional envelopes and find that by the time the fun is all over we will have between 1,600-1,700 varieties in all. This included all sizes, papers, dies and watermarks and will only apply to those collecting entires. Those collecting cut squares only will have less than a hundred if you go in for main overprints only and omit the dies, sizes and watermarks.

We wish to thank Messrs. Julius Kurtz, F. C. Ryan, F. C. Reynolds, Byron Elliott and Charles W. Gustafson for notes of interest.

AUSTRIA.—Mr. Maxwell Krause submits to us for chronicle a 10k stamp of a new type. At the top is the word, "Osterreich" and in each lower corner figures of value with "Kronen" between. In the centre is a new design and at the top of it as Mr. Krause notes "gas pliers." The color is red lilac.

BULGARIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the set of nine stamps issued in commemoration of J. D. Bourchier. The stamps are printed by Messrs. Bradbury Wilkinson & Co., Ltd., of London, in sheets of 100, perf. 12, no watermark. The first two values are 10 stot orange red and 20 stot orange and show J. D. Bourchier in Bulgarian peasant costume. The 30stot dark blue, 50 stot dk. blue and 1 leva, violet, have the portrait of Mr. Bourchier while the 1½l green, 2l blue green and 5l red brown picture Rilo Monastery with the inscription "Bourchier's Resting Place." We understand that two million of each of the first five values were printed, 1,500,000 of the 1½ levas, and one million of each of the others.

A 3l has just come to hand in a blue green shade; same type as the 2l.

CURACAO.—The Economist Stamp Co., have shown us a copy of the ½c lilac, No. 63, perf. 11.

EGYPT.—Mr. Maxwell Krause reports the 10m, carmine, postage due stamp, triple crescent and star watermark, replacing the recently issued 10m, blue.

ITALY.—The Economist Stamp Co., advise that the 50c, special delivery stamp of the 1903 type has been overprinted "Cent. 60," in black.

JAPAN.—R. Yokohori submits specimens of some new stamps just issued. There are three denominations, 4 sen green, 8 sen rose and 20 sen blue. The design is very striking with a fine view of Mt. Fuji and at the right is a scene showing deer on the hill of Kasuga. Pine trees and some of the famous cherry blossoms with the imperial crest go to make up the rest of the design. The hill Kasuga is in Nara, which is noted for its age and also for its beautiful cherry blossoms. The paper is very thin in texture and is watermarked in wavy lines. Mr. Yokohori states that beginning Jan. 1, the postal rate to foreign countries has been doubled. A single rate letter is now 20 sen and the registration charge has also been raised to 20 sen.

MALTA.—Mr. Louis Carabott has sent to us the following values of the current King George set surcharged "Self Government": ¼d, ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 6d, 1sh, 2sh, 2sh 6d, 5sh, 10sh.

COMPETITION

A customer whose collection numbers over 25,000 varieties and contains many stamps worth $25 to several hundred dollars each, and who has received stamps on approval from many other dealers, tells me the selections he receives from the Westfield Philatelic Peach Orchard contain the finest specimens that come to him.

I don't expect to undersell everybody else—or anybody else—that isn't what I'm in business for. I'm merely supplying choice singles, pairs, strips, blocks and covers to those who appreciate fine copies of desirable stamps and are willing to pay what high-grade service is worth.

Few dealers can compete with me in stamps worth from one dollar each upward. If you aren't sure of this, try my service.

These stamps are the old watermarked CA paper with the exception of the ¼d, 1d, and 2d which are the new script watermarked variety. The overprint is surcharged diagonally across the stamp from the lower left corner and the color is black with the exception of the 2sh and 10sh values which are red.

MEMEL.—The Economist Stamp Co., report the 50c stamp of France surcharged "Memel 1 Mark" with the added overprint "1.25" in large blue figures 10mm high.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Mr. R. Roberts informs us that a 12c, blue, on script watermarked paper has been issued.

TUNIS.—The Economist Stamp Co., send us for chronicle a copy of a 60c stamp in the type of Scott's A6. The colors are olive and violet.

TURKEY.—Mr. D. C. Alexander sends us the following list of uncatalogued varieties which we note herewith:—

Nos. 289, 305, 308, 332, 539, 567, 928, 1185 invert surch.; No. 289 lemon yellow; "Bull-head" sch. inverted on No. 97 (R); "Bull-head" sch. on No. 252, black sch; No. 541 date omitted; No. 547 fig. of value omitted, upper left and No. 1227 imperforate.

TURKEY, SURCHARGED ADANA.—The Nassau Stamp Co., have shown us a set of eight Turkish stamps are overprinted in native characters the meaning of which is "Adana December 1, 1921." These stamps were issued in the city bearing the name for one day only, in commemoration of the signing of the French Treaty by Franklin Bouillon. The stamps thus surcharged are the 10 paras, No. 424; 20 paras No. 425; 3 pia, No. 594; 5 pia, No. 547; 5 pia, 548; 10 pia, No. 596; 25 pia, No. 434 and 35 pia, blue.

"TUDOR HALL, VA."

Establishing a Confederate States Cancellation

By E. S. KNAPP.

In collecting Confederate States, I have always tried to find out all I can about each separate item. Postmarks on covers are especially interesting, as they each "tell a story," and the "Tudor Hall, Va.," postmark is as fine an example of this as I can cite.

My attention was first drawn to "Tudor Hall" when I examined several Confederate collections and was struck with the fact that quite a few covers and stamps bore this cancellation and that it never showed up on a late issue stamp—it was invariably on a 5c green (200) or a 10c blue of the Hoyer & Ludwig Printing, (201).

Then a little "Lot" of the 5c Green was offered to me, and they were all "Tudor Halls." "It must be a big town", I thought, so I got out a map of Virginia, to locate the "big town," and to my surprise, it wasn't even on the map. That settled it; I was interested in earnest, and when I consulted a Rand & McNally Guide and the name didn't appear I knew I had a problem to solve.

Finally, in an old Railway Guide, I came across this entry: TUDOR HALL —mail—MANASSAS. and I knew I was on the right track.

In answer to my request for imformation, I received the following from the Post Office Department at Washington:

"You are informed that according to the records of the Department there was a post office of the name of Tudor Hall in Prince William County, Virginia, the name of which was changed to MANASSAS, its present name, April 11, 1862.

First Assistant Postmaster General."

I next wrote the postmaster at Manassas, from whom, after a considerable delay, I received the following:

"I am in receipt of yours, and have delayed answering same in hopes that I might gain definite information regarding "Tudor Hall". My mother informs me that "Manassas" has never been changed in name, not even during the war. There was, however, an old Virginia homestead named "Tudor Hall," built in the 1700's, I believe, by an old English admiral or commodore, but whether the old mansion was standing during the war my mother is not sure. It is a fact, however, that the hill upon which the mansion stood was called "Tudor Hall Hill," and the place bears that name to this day. This hill is located just outside the present corporate limits of Manassas.

Very truly yours,
_____"

I had now found out

(1) That there was a place named "Tudor Hall."

(2) Why it was called "Tudor Hall."

(3) That it was on the outskirts of Manassas.

But—I hadn't found out what I wanted to, and that was why were so many letters cancelled "Tudor Hall" in 1861 and early 1862, when it was apparently such a very small place? There must have been a lot of people there, to write so many letters. Why were they there? I must acknowledge, it took me quite a while to "figure it out," but I finally did, and sent a letter to my friend the postmaster at Manassas, from which the following is an extract:

"I am enclosing an envelope, bearing a Confederate States postage stamp cancelled "Tudor Hall" and I believe, if you'll show this to some of the old residents of your district, they may recollect something concerning this Post Office. I have reason to believe that there may have been an Army Camp at Tudor Hall in 1861, and if you can think of anyone who might know about this, just ask him if there wasn't a camp there, and, if possible, find out what the name of the camp was."

I soon had an answer, reading substantially as follows:

"Mr. N——, an old Confederate soldier, now living in Manassas, informs me that he was here in 1862 and that there was a Confederate Camp at Tudor Hall, also a Post Office, and that he is sure the envelope you sent me was cancelled there. Mr. N—— is a very reliable man and one can vouch for any information he might give; he cannot remember the name of the Camp."

I never expected to find out the name of the camp, but last year I came across it. A Cover with a 5c Green had this inscription printed in the upper left corner:

"OFFICIAL— Quartermaster's Office,
CAMP PICKENS (Manassas)"

History tells us that Manassas was evacuated by the Confederates and occupied by the Union forces early in March, 1862. This would account for the fact that only early Confederate stamps were used at Tudor Hall, and, of course, after the evacuation of Manassas, Camp Pickens ceased to exist.

I believe all my points are proven clearly. It sounds easy to work out a thing of this kind, but it has taken me about four years to collect these facts. If any reader of this has seen the name of a Confederate Camp specified in a postmark, or anything pertaining to Southern Army Camps, I'd very much like to hear about it—address me at 158 East 64th Street, New York City.

AS BLACK AS PAINTED.

By FRED C. ZEISBERG.

Some time ago the writer purchased a twenty-five pound lot of unsorted, used stamps, and in going over them made an unusual discovery. This was a one cent, black stamp of the United States, apparently of the 1917-19 issue, as it was perforated 11 and unwatermarked. It had become detached from its cover and was so lightly cancelled that it was impossible to tell where it had been mailed.

It was first thought that a big find had been made, and that there was an error in a seven cent sheet, similar to the well known five cent carmine error. This might have happened through the use of a one cent die in the building up of the seven cent plate!

The shade of the stamp was not quite that of the seven cent denomination, however, and examination under a strong glass showed some of the hair in Washington's head to have just a perceptible bluish tinge. This made it seem that the stamp was a changeling from an ordinary one cent green stamp.

A few experiments were carried out on additional copies of the ordinary stamp (No. 409). It was found that weak or strong alkali solution changed the stamp slightly toward an olive green. Photographic developer (a weak reducing agent) had less effect than the alkali, though the tendency was the same as with the alkali. Hydrochorlic acid solution had no effect; nitric acid solution produced a beautiful peacock blue; hydrogen peroxide did nothing.

But sodium sulfide solution turned the stamp black in less than a minute; a brilliant, clear black. The "find" had evidently come in contact with sulfide before reaching me.

Further experiments showed that this same one cent green stamp when kept in an atmosphere of hydrogen sulfide over night developed the same intense black color, and in this case there was no effect on the paper. The sodium sulfide treatment seemed to roughen the paper somewhat.

The ink in use on the current one cent stamp is not subject to this change in an atmosphere of hydrogen sulfide, though its color is modified to a grayish olive green. The two cent carmine stamp is absolutely unaffected by hydrogen sulfide.

JANUARY SUBSCRIPTIONS.

We are very much gratified with the showing made in January subscriptions. A splendid spirit of co-operation upon the part of many dealers has been shown, and we take pleasure in publicly recognizing the aid extended. Three firms, the Fennell Stamp Co., Allen Sears, Inc., and the Leader Stamp Co., are deserving of special mention because of their respective records of 53, 45 and 37 new subscriptions. The showing made by C. T. Egner and the Stamp Shoppe of 15 and 13 represents the best work that they have yet done in this direction. The Fennell total since Oct. 1 is 170, while Allen Sears, Inc., has 100 and is closely followed by L. B. Dover with 83 and the Leader Stamp Co., with 77. The standing of the leaders for January is as follows:—

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

"J. A. BARKER" IN CINCINNATI.

A man purporting to be J. A. Barker has recently succeeded in victimizing several dealers in Cincinnati by paying for stamps with worthless checks. He is described as a man about forty years of age, five feet ten inches high, and weighing about 175 pounds. He has a round face, florid complexion and long curly brown hair. A. S. Matter reports this to us and states that the man recommended himself as well acquainted with Detroit collectors of national reputation. He was very much interested in U. S. minor varieties, shades and cancellations. This warning is sounded for the benefit of the trade.

write down the numbers you lack to fill in your album in anything you are interested in, in U. S. postage, departments, newspaper stamps, due stamps, revenues, cut square envelope stamps, or even match and medicine—I have a tremendous stock in all these lines; then state whether you are particular about condition, and inform me about what you could invest if I please you, and don't forget the little reference, as I am not taking any chances on stamps that cost me real money. I have a host of customers, so why not get in line and fill in some of those vacant spaces? If you like British North America stamps, I have them also, and solicit a want list in these as well.
If you are a general collector, advise which countries you like best, I carry quite a line of early stamps of all countries.

COUNTERFEIT 2c U. S. STAMPS.

First Forgery of Its Kind for a Good Many Years.

An excellent counterfeit of the current two-cents United States postage stamp has just appeared in New York City. A stamp dealer who is quick at detecting peculiarities in postage stamps discovered the forgery. He has several hundred of the counterfeits in his possession awaiting inspection by a Post-office Department official.

Edward Stern of the Economist Stamp Company, 87 Nassau Street, is probably the first man to detect the difference between the two-cent forgeries and the genuine issue. Mr. Stern said a man interested in stamps came to his office with a few sheets of ten United States two-cent stamps, all properly gummed but a shade lighter in color than the customary deep red. Closer inspection disclosed the fact that the "U" in the word "United" on the stamp at the upper left-hand corner of the sheet of ten was imperfect at the curve. There were several other minor defects. The perforation number is twelve instead of eleven.

Mr. Stern offered to buy the stamps at their face value and when told that others might be had, asked for more.

"As a result, I got several sheets of ten, numbering several hundred stamps," said Mr. Stern. "The defective 'U' was clearly apparent on every sheet, showing conclusively that the stamps were printed in sheets of ten. The man who sold them to me did not know that the stamps were counterfeits, saying that the person from whom he obtained them had purchased them from a lot of unused stock from a big mail order house.

"I got the big batch of forgeries on Wednesday and immediately sent a sheet with an explanation to the United States Bureau of Printing and Engraving at Washington. I have not noticed any counterfeits on letters, nor have I heard that any collectors or dealers have found any copies, which they would doubtless detect from the lighter shade."

The counterfeits in Mr. Stern's office are very cleverly done, being executed in the surface printing style adopted by the Government several years ago. They look somewhat like lithographed stamps. Mr. Stern believes the stamps have been counterfeited in sheets of ten because they would be easier to sell in small quantities in that form to merchants, as remnants purchased from large concerns. Moreover, counterfeiting is easier in small units.

This is the first time, explained Mr. Stern, that a counterfeit United States stamp has appeared since 1894, when similar forgeries were discovered in Kansas City. Postoffice inspectors traced them to Chicago. Mr. Stern has one of the 1894 counterfeits.

Inquiry at the Postoffice here disclosed the fact that none of the officials knew of the new counterfeit.—N. Y. Times.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE BAHAMAS.

By DOUGLAS B. ARMSTRONG.

CHAPTER I.

British Packet Agency, Nassau.

In the middle of the nineteenth century postal arrangements in the Bahamas, and throughout the British West Indies, were under control of H. M. Postmaster General, represented by a Packet Agent at Nassau, through whose hands passed all sea-borne correspondence to and from the islands. For franking letters entrusted to him for transmission H. B. M. Packet Agent at Nassau was supplied with a small stock of contemporary postage stamps of Great Britain. According to Messrs. Nissen and Bernstein's standard works on British Stamps Used Abroad the following varieties are known to have been used in the Bahamas:

1d rose-red (1857), wmk. large crown, perf. 14.
2d blue (1858), large crown wmk. plates 7 and 8.
4d red (1857), no letters.
6d lilac (1856), no letters.
1s green (1856), no letters.

These were cancelled with a duplex postmark, one section of which contained the serial number "A5" within an ellipse of horizontal bars, this providing the only clue to the office of origin. There was no local post in operation at this period, all letters, etc., being handed in at or collected from the British postal agency.

CHAPTER II.

The Inter-Insular Stamp.

As a first step towards taking over control of their own post office, the Colonial administration of the Bahamas decided to inaugurate in 1859, a local postal service, connecting the several islands of the group to operate independently from the British Packet service, the rate of postage to be levied upon inter-insular letters being fixed at 1d per half ounce. An order was accordingly placed with Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., stamp printers to H. M. Government, through the Colonial representative in London, for the supply of a distinctive postage stamp for use in this service. The first consignment was actually despatched from London to the Islands on May 3rd, 1859, and placed on sale at Nassau on June 10th of that year.

The design, incorporating the beautiful "Chalon" head of Queen Victoria, was prepared by Edward Henry Corbould, R. I., and the matrix die is believed to have been engraved by Charles Henry Jeens. On either side of the portrait appeared in oval tablets, attributes of the Bahamas, viz., a pineapple and a helmet shell, extensively exported at that period for conversion into cameos. These insignia have been retained upon the majority of the Colony's postal issues. The specific purpose for which the stamp was originally introduced is denoted by the inscription, "Inter-Insular Postage" upon a scroll above the medallion containing the Queen's head. Proof impressions exist in black.

The plate contained sixty reproductions of the stamp, ranged in six rows of ten, and the first printing was made in lake coloured ink upon thick paper without watermark. In the second printing upon thin paper, the colour is more nearly a deep rose red. Both of these printings were supplied without the convenience of perforation. On May 1st, 1860, the Colonial authorities assumed complete control of the Bahamas Post Office, and the 1d stamp, hitherto restricted to inter-inland letters, became available for overseas postage also, in substitution for the British stamps, which were no longer permitted to be used.

Perforating.—The printers having acquired, in 1860, a single line, or guillotine perforating machine, with a gauge of 14 to 16, constructed by Mr. James Griffiths of Clerkenwell. A consignment has much advantage over the dealer in general lines, principally in being able to keep a much larger and more complete stock.

During the years I have handled United States only, I have attempted to conduct my business with an ample stock and upon real business methods.

I employ a sufficient capital in my business to warrant the keeping of one of the best stocks in the country.

In business methods, I attempt to be courteous, strictly honest and above all, prompt. It is my policy and with rare exceptions my rule to take care of all orders and correspondence the day of receipt. Is that worth anything?

I invite correspondence and suggest that you send your want-list. If you are not a regular customer, please send reference (two stamp dealers).

of 1d stamps delivered to the post office of the Bahamas in October of that year, was perforated upon it. Subsequently this machine became defective through constant use, and the holes in the bed plate clogged with paper, with the result that in the next supply of Inter-Insular stamps issued in June, 1861, the perforations were very rough instead of being clean cut as when first applied. Specimens may be found with an intermediate state of perforation, neither very clean cut nor very rough. This stamp is also known (in unused condition only) perforated 11 to 12. Since this is a De La Rue gauge it seems probable that some imperforate sheets of stamps may have been handed over to the latter firm in 1862, when the plates were delivered to the Crown Agents for the Colonies on the expiry of the Perkins-Bacon contract.

New Values.—Two supplementary values for franking overseas correspondence were issued by the Bahamas post office in December, 1861. The design, though similar to that of the first 1d stamp, omits the inscription "Inter-Insular Postage", and also the local insignia. It is evidently modelled on that of the contemporary issues of Natal, Grenada, etc., and the Queen's head is from a new die, probably engraved by William Humphrys. Both stamps had the rough perforation gauging 14, 16 that is found on the printing of the 1d value issued in the previous year. A variety of the 4d exists imperf. between. Proof impressions were taken in black.

CHAPTER III.

De La Rue Printings.

The steel plates used for printing the three Bahamas postage stamps were handed over to the Crown Agents by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., on January 28th, 1862. During the same year new printings of all values were made from them by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., the new contractors, upon thick unwatermarked paper. The first supplies were perforated upon a single line machine, gauging 11½ to 12, but later printings, towards the end of the same year, were perforated 13 upon a different machine. Two shades of the 1d value are found in both of these printings, viz., carmine-lake, and brown-lake.

1862. 1d carmine-lake, thick paper, no wmk., perf. 11½, 12.
(a) brown-lake.
1d carmine-lake, thick paper, no wmk., perf. 13.

1862. 6d lilac, thick paper, no wmk., perf. 11½ and 12.
1862. 6d lilac, thick paper, no wmk., perf. 13.

Surface Printed Shilling.—The rate of postage upon letters to England having been raised to one shilling per half ounce, a surface printed stamp of that value, green in colour, was provided by De La Rue & Co., in the year 1863. The design, engraved en epargne by M. Ferdinand Joubert, shews a conventional diademed head of Queen Victoria to the left in an oval frame, with the Pineapple and Conch shell emblems on either side at the foot, the name BAHAMAS upon a curved tablet in uncoloured capitals at the top, and the value in words, in one straight line across the foot, the spandrels being filled with foliate ornamentations.

This stamp was printed upon the new stamp paper watermarked with the device of a Crown surmounting the letters C C (Crown Colonies) once to each stamp, which had been brought into use in that year. The perforation gauging 14 was applied by means of comb machines at Somerset House.

A scarce variety of this stamp exists perforated 12½ on the single line machine used by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., for the line engraved stamps. Only a few sheets appear to have been treated thus, presumably in error, somewhere about the years 1875-76.

1863. 1s green, wmk. Crown C C, perf. 14.
1875? 1s green, wmk. Crown C C, perf. 12½.

CHAPTER IV.

Wmk. Crown C C.

During the course of the following year 1864, further printings of the line-engraved Bahamas stamps were made also upon the new Crown C C watermarked paper, and perforated 12½ by the contractors themselves. Shades are found in all three values, and the 6d violet may be found imperforate.

A new single line perforating machine with a gauge of 14 was substituted for that perforating 12 in 1875, and was used concurrently with the Somerset House comb machines of the same gauge. Supplies of the 1d and 4d stamps only, with perforation 14, were despatched to the Bahamas in that year; but it remains for some ardent specialist to discover which, if either, exists with the comb as well as the single line perforation.

A rare aniline shade of the 1d carmine lake was included amongst the stamps perforated 14.

1864. 1d brown lake, wmk. C C, perf. 12½.

4d dull rose, wmk. C C, perf. 14.
4d rose lake, wmk. C C, perf. 14.

CHAPTER V.

Wmk. Crown C A.

In March, 1882, the same two stamps made their appearance with the last type of watermark, viz., Crown C A (Crown Agents), instead of C C and perforated 11½, 12 on the machine first used for these stamps twenty years previously. Later printings of these stamps, together with the surface printed 1s were perforated 14 upon a comb machine belonging to the printers.

mainder stock of this value was reduced to the value of 4d, by means of a hand-stamp bearing the words FOURPENCE in a single line of small Roman capitals. This surcharge is found diagonally and in varying positions on the stamp, as well as in its normal place, and with the surcharge inverted is decidedly rare.

May, 1883. FOURPENCE on 6d pale violet, wmk. C C, perf. 12½.
(a) Surcharge inverted.

CHAPTER VII.

Series 1884-98.

Surface printed stamps in a modified version of the design of the 1d were substituted for the beautiful line-engraved 1d and 4d values in August, 1884, when high value stamps of 5sh and £1 were also provided in the same type for use in the Colony. To this stereotyped series was added in May, 1888, a 2½d denomination, printed in blue to meet the new Postal Union rate for ½oz. letters. A 6d mauve in October, 1890, and finally a new printing of the 1s from the original plate, in blue-green in October, 1898. All were printed by De La Rue & Co. on Crown C A watermarked paper and perforated 14 on comb machines.

August, 1884. 1d pale rose, wmk. C A, perf. 14.

May, 1888. 2½d blue, wmk. C A, perf. 14.
(a) dull blue.
(b) ultramarine.

August, 1884. 4d deep yellow, wmk. C A, perf. 14.

October, 1890. 6d mauve, wmk. C A, perf. 14.

October, 1898. 1s blue-green, wmk. C A, perf. 14.

August, 1884. 5s sage green, wmk. C A, perf. 14.

August, 1884. £1 Venetian red, wmk. C A, perf. 14.

CHAPTER VIII.

The "Queen's Staircase" Issue.

At the commencement of the new century there was introduced for the 1d postage stamp of the Bahamas, what is today one of the most familiar stamp designs of the British Empire. The subject of this vignette is thus described by a local correspondent.

"The central picture represents a very beautiful and somewhat mysterious curiosity in the vicinity of Nassau, the capital of New Providence, the chief of the Bahama Islands. It is a great passage way cut through the solid coral rock. The cut is about one eighth of a mile long, 40 feet wide, and about 70 ft. in depth; at the end is what is called the Queen's Staircase (cut in the rock), which leads to Fort Fincastle, built about 150 years ago (1750) on high land just above the stairway. The exact object of this cutting is not known, but it is presumed it was to allow soldiers to and from the harbour and fort without observation." The design is said to have been copied from a local picture-postcard.

This stamp, destined for use in connection with the Imperial Penny Postage agreement, was first brought into use at Nassau on September 23rd, 1901, the initial printing upon Crown C C watermarked paper comprising 246,900 copies. It was recess printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., in sheets of 60 (five rows of 12) with the Plate Number "1" in the lower left hand corner of the sheet, once in black for the vignette plate, and once in red for the border plate.

The same design was used for three new postal duties introduced on January 27th, 1903, viz., 5d, 2s and 3s, of which 29,820 of the 5d, 11,460 of the 2s and 12,120 of the 3s were printed on Crown C C paper.

1901. Sept. 23rd. 1d carmine and black, wmk. Crown C C, perf. 14.

1903. Jan. 27th. 5d orange and black, wmk. Crown C C, perf. 14.

1903. Jan. 27th. 3s green and black, wmk. Crown C C, perf. 14.

Vignette Plates.—According to an article by Mr. E. W. Mann, published in the London Philatelist for December, 1919, four separate plates have been used for printing the central vignettes on these stamps, and two for the frame design of the 1d value only. He states: "All four Vignette plates have been used in turn for the 1d value, and I have been able to obtain full sheets of this value showing Vignette Plates 2, 3 and 4. I have, however, not been able to secure a sheet showing Plate I of the Vignette, and therefore the identifications of stamps printed from this plate have been made largely by negative methods, and I am diffident as to making absolute statements with reference to this plate, pending positive proofs from the study of a complete sheet, which should not be hard to obtain.

* * * * * * * * *

"The plate numbers of the Vignette plate appear on the sheet in the case of Plates 1 and 2, on the bottom left-hand corner margin. The plate numbers 3 and 4, however, appear on the left margin in the centre. Usually the margin is cut too short for them to be seen. Plate 3 shows a great number of scratches and seems to have been discarded after very little use. The stamps printed from Plate 4 can be distinguished from those printed from Plate 3 by the much paler appearance of the Vignette.

* * * * * * * * *

"It is probable that future printings of the 5d, 2s and 3s will be printed from Vignette Plate 4, unless a further plate comes into use."

The plates used for the stamps of this issue on Crown C C paper were as follows:—

1d Crown C C, thick paper, Frame Pl. 1, Vignette Pl. 1.
1d Crown C C, thin paper, Frame Pl. 1, Vignette Pl. 2.
5d C C, red-orange and black, Frame Pl. 1, Vignette Pl. 1.
5d C C, bright orange and black, Frame Pl. 1, Vignette Pl. 1.
5d C C, orange and grey, thin p., Frame Pl. 1, Vignette Pl. 2.
2s C C, deep blue and black, Frame Pl. 1, Vignette Pl. 1.
2s C C, pale blue and grey-black, thinner paper, Frame Pl. 1, Vignette Pl. 2.
3s C C, green and deep black, Frame Pl. 1, Vignette Pl. 1.
3s C C, deep green and black, Frame Pl. 1, Vignette Pl. 1.
3s C C, green and grey-black, thinner paper, Frame Pl. 1, Vignette Pl. 2.

WANT LISTS

We make a specialty of want lists. Owing to the large number of varieties now out, few dealers welcome want lists, but our stock is so large it's a pretty tough list we cannot do something with. We shall be pleased to see your lists and we fill thousands of lists yearly for all grades and classes of collectors. Prices about half list except on certain better grade lines, every case a "fair price to you and to us".

We also make a specialty of approvals and if you really want to buy stamps, whether it's $2 worth or a thousand times that amount, few dealers can show you any better variety or quality than we can. Prices as reasonable as any. Lists of books, etc., on request.

Special price lists of British Colonials, French Colonials, Portuguese Colonials, Europe, etc., on request. We are told by many collectors our stock of French and Portuguese is the finest in America.

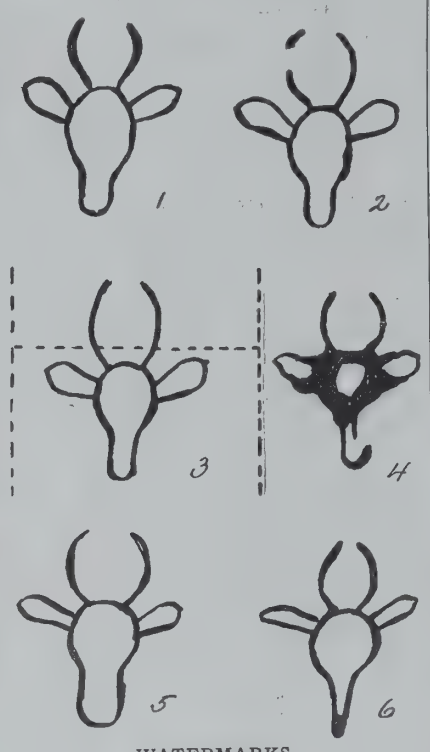
STAMPS OF THE UNION OF SO. AFRICA.

By STEPHEN G. RICH.

CHAPTER X.

Sizes of Watermark.

When I resided in South Africa, I heard much talk among collectors there of two sizes of watermark on the 1913 and subsequent issues. I have measured as to length and breadth several hundred specimens of the values up to 3d, and am not able to find a difference of more than ½mm. in either of these dimensions. The "small watermark," however, is really the effect produced when one looks at a slightly damaged watermark, in the case in which the wire pattern has become somewhat crushed together at the nose of the springbok, or the horns have been pushed closer together at the tips.



WATERMARKS.

No. 1—Normal.
No. 2—Broken.
No. 3—Multiple, showing perforations.
No. 4—Blotch 1½d, 1920.
No. 5—Large.
No. 6—Small.

CHAPTER XI.

Revenue use of Stamps.

The ½d and 1d of the 1913 issue are revenue stamps as well as postage stamps. Their use as revenues may be recognized, as a rule, by the presence of a written cancellation or one with an oval or rectangular outline. The 1½d, 2d and 3d are known, also used thus, although inscribed for postage only. But see the next section on the matter of cancellations.

I have the ½d, 1d, 2d, and 4d, surcharged in black "Customs Duty." These are used in the payment of customs on importations by parcel post, and thus are strictly revenue stamps. They bear postal cancellations, as do our U. S. revenues of the Tenth Issue, and for the same reason; the tax in question is collected at the post-office.

CHAPTER XII.

Cancellations.

As a general thing, the rule mentioned above as to only round cancellations being postal, holds for Union of South Africa stamps. There are certain exceptions to be noted.

A number of the postoffices in the Cape Province have registration postmarks which are oval. These are usually used with black ink, while the private cancelling handstamps used on revenue stamps are usually used with a commercial violet, blue or red stamp-pad. Moreover, the private cancellations have almost always a thick, double, or fancy border, whereas the registration cancellations have a thin single-line border. Mr. W. R. Long, of Durban, has shown me parcel-post cancellations from Pretoria, and from Cradock, Cape Province, which are of the same form and color as revenue cancellations; but these are rare. I have in my collection the ½d cancelled postally in Natal in 1920, by several strokes with a blue pencil.

There is also a small triangular cancellation used in Durban, at various times, but bearing no name of place. This is used on circulars. There are many types of postmark in use, some dating back to pre-Union times, some bearing the inscription "South Africa" on them, and some advertising government securities. The machine-cancellation is used only in a few larger cities, and was, in 1919, the advertising cancellation just mentioned.

CHAPTER XIII.

Postage Due Stamps.

Up to the latter part of 1915 the Transvaal postage due stamps were used throughout the Union, as there had been no postage dues issued by the other colonies. At the very end of that year and partly early in 1916, a set of postage due stamps was issued, on the same watermarked paper, with the same perforation as the 1913 regular issue, and of the same size. These

It will, however, be recalled from the latter part of my discussion of the "interprovincials" that the Transvaal postage dues were not all used up as recently as 1920. Both Transvaal and Union due stamps were in that year in use in Durban.

There are no varieties of paper, die, etc., known to me in these stamps. However, I have the 3d in deep blue, and the 2d in a series of three colors, to dull purple, all from 1918.

CHAPTER XIV.
Official Seals.

No permanent issue of official seals was ever made by the Union of South Africa, but type-set official seals have been printed on at least two occasions. The form and wording is alike, the paper an ordinary unwatermarked book-paper, and only 8,000 are known to have been printed in all.

The design is a type-set oblong 54x21 to 23 mm., divided in half crosswise, and bearing in the left-hand end the inscriptions "Found open and officially closed in the Post Office by . . . . . ", interlined with the same in Dutch. Above the right half are the words "Date Stamp". Above the right upper corner the index-figures, "P. 438". The border is made of leads extending crossed beyond the corners of the rectangle and beyond the rectangle at the middle, about 2 mm. Beneath the rectangle is printed the memoranda of printer, order number and amount.

The two varieties are as follows:

January, 1917, 5,000 printed by "S. A. Electric" (South African Electric Press, Ltd., of Johannesburg). Perf. 12. Dimensions over all, 69x36 mm. One edge imperf. in my copy.

January, 1919. 3,000 printed by same concern. Coarse perf. 15. Dimension over all, 66x38 mm. My copy perf. all around. My specimens are both used in Natal offices.

Presumably the large seals used for the Censors' Office during the Great War should be here included, but they are hardly within philatelic scope.

CHAPTER XV.
Southwest Protectorate Stamps.

No special stamps of any sort were issued when the South African Army captured the German colony of German Southwest Africa in 1915. As the South Africans took possession, they simply installed the South African postal system, stamps and all. As a result we have only the regular 1913 and later issues with special cancellations.

Previous to the Treaty of Versailles, this region was under military rule; since then, as the "Southwest Protectorate", it has been administered as part of the Union.

I have the Union 1s of 1913, with the postmark "Windhuk", Oct. 16, 1917. Except for securing earlier dates of postmark, there is nothing philatelic in connection with this district.

CHAPTER XVI.
Official Mail.

No official stamps have been issued, since all official mail, both provincial and national, goes in penalty-envelopes after the same manner as in the U. S. The envelopes bear the inscription "On His Majesty's Service—In Zijn Majesteits Dienst", or just "O. H. M. S."

UNUSED CANADIAN STAMPS.

Maxwell Krause calls our attention to a new ruling made by the Canadian postal authorities that may have an important bearing upon the trade conditions existing between the U. S. and Canada. According to the new ruling it will be unlawful in the future to import unused Canadian stamps into Canada. The effect of this is far-reaching, in that our dealers will be unable to accept remittances made in Canadian stamps. It is suggested that the ruling will carry with it the prohibiting of approval selections of unused Canadian stamps to customers across the border. It has been the practice of the WEEKLY to receive Canadian stamps in payment for subscriptions and periodicals and our advertisers have been accommodating in the same direction. This repudiation by the Canadian postal authorities of its own stamps will not be relished by the great mass of Canadians. Canada is certainly pursuing a short-sighted policy if it thinks it can lift itself out of the slough of commercial despondency by building a barrier around the confines of its Dominion so high as to prohibit trade intercourse with the United States. Trade with the United States should be cultivated and not condemned and the sooner Canada realizes the poverty of its course of action the better it will be for the Dominion. No more Canadian stamps can be accepted by us.

COUNTERFIT STAMPS MADE.

Five men were arrested recently in West Allenhurst, New Jersey, after secret-service agents had raided a bungalow there and seized a vast quantity of counterfeit postage stamps of every denomination. Close watch kept by secret-service men on the movements of Giles M. Ranney, alias "Davidson," led to the raiding of the bungalow and the arrest of Ranney and four alleged confederates.

Several weeks before, according to government agents, one of the five men went to a drug store in New York and asked for a certain kind of acid. The druggist told him he had none in stock, and as soon as his customer left he communicated with detectives, being of opinion that the acid for which the man asked is the sort that is used by counterfeiters.

The police turned the case over to the secret service, and the man who sought to purchase the acid was arrested but released. The government agents did not lose track of him, however. One of the men assigned to watch him followed him to West Allenhurst, and it was then that the authorities became aware of the extent of the counterfeiter's operations.

Huge quantities of bogus stamps had been turned out at the West Allenhurst plant, it was said, and the distribution of them was to begin immediately. All stamps manufactured were seized by the raiders, who also took charge of a complete set of counterfeiting machinery.

The counterfeiters, it was said, had also planned to manufacture some of their bogus stamps in New York, and had made elaborate arrangements for the distribution of their product there.—Press Clipping.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER V.
The Third Issue.

This issue differs from the preceding one only as regards the watermark which now has the frame lines removed from around the interlaced L's. This paper was hand-made, as before, and also varies in texture, ranging from quite thin to fairly thick. All three values are also found on a distinctly ribbed paper and though these are quite collectible varieties the ribbing would appear to have been quite unintentional. Mr. de Bont says the stamps on ribbed paper formed a special printing made in 1854 which consisted of only 100,000 copies of the 10c, 60,000 of the 20c, and 45,000 of the 40c. We fear not much reliance can be placed on this statement for the ribbed paper varieties are by no means uncommon; it was certainly not a specially manufactured kind of paper but was probably caused by lack of care in finishing some of the sheets.

Mr. de Bont says there were nine distinct printings of these stamps while Mr. Bouvez is more modest and is satisfied with five. Again we have considerable discrepancies as to actual quantities printed, viz.:—

	Mr. Bouvez	Mr. de Bont
10 centimes	81,525,000	75,144,200
20 centimes	59,645,000	54,479,600
40 centimes	8,909,000	8,869,400

These stamps are generally presumed to have been issued in the early months of 1851 but if, as Mr. Bouvez states, the first supply was printed at the same time as the last lot on the frame watermarked paper in August, 1850, it is more than probable that they were in use before January 1st, 1851. This is a point that can eventually be definitely settled by means of dated copies.

The same plates were used as for the preceding issue so that the many interesting re-cut and re-touched varieties found in connection with these stamps should also, apparently, exist on the corresponding denominations of the earlier issue.

The only re-entry known is one found on the 10c by Mr. Leavy, this showing the numerals "10" and first two and last letters of POSTES doubled. The same writer, in describing the plate for this denomination, says "On nearly all of the impressions an inner frame line was drawn at both the left and right side, which in at least one instance extended beyond the bottom inner line at left. In many cases, too, the outer frame lines were re-cut in part or entirely. Sometimes these lines are extended too far and we thus have projecting lines at one or other of the four corners. But the most interesting re-cuts or re-touches are those affecting the foliate ornamentation. On some stamps these affect but a few of the leaves while on others the whole outline down one side appears to have been redrawn."

With regard to the 20c plate Mr. Leavy writes:—"The 20 centimes plate was poorly entered, a number of the impressions failing to take properly, quite a few were exquisitely retouched by Mr. Wiener himself, and a number, where the outlines had impressed clearly, were left without the fine lines of shading showing in the leaves or the tongues of flame. Again, as in the 10 centimes, a great number of the impressions had an inner frame line drawn at both the left and right sides, and several had the top or bottom inner line re-touched. Several impressions also had the outer frame lines re-drawn."

Here again, the most interesting varieties are those having the foliate ornamentation re-drawn. Some of them are very striking and the re-drawing entirely alters the appearance of the leaves.

On the 40c similar varieties are known but they are by no means common leading one to infer that this, the first of the three plates to be made, was the most carefully constructed.

The one point to be decided regarding the majority of these varieties is whether they were made before the plates were used at all or became necessary after a time owing to wear of the plates. Mr. Leavy apparently infers the latter was the case so far as many of them are concerned but our own modest investigations lead us to believe that all this re-cutting or retouching was done before the plates were put to press. For one thing stamps showing decided traces of wear are decidedly uncommon in our experience and when "wear" is present it invariably affects the cross-hatching at right of the face adversely and yet no re-touches have ever been reported in connection with any part of the portrait medallion. Then again, though of considerable philatelic interest none of these re-touches are of vital importance: they point rather to a nicety of finish desired in the plates before being hardened and put to press than to alterations or renovations made necessary on account of defective impressions in the later life of the plates.

Varieties in the size of these stamps are known and at one time caused considerable wonderment. It was frequently asserted that more than one die must have been used but it is now agreed that these varieties were merely caused by uneven shrinkage of the paper. In printing from line-engraved plates the paper is always dampened and it can easily be understood that the sheets were not always wetted to exactly the same degree, especially in the case of paper varying in thickness. Consequently some sheets would shrink a little more than others when drying and this, naturally, affected the measurements of the stamps.

The 10c and 20c stamps of this series do not vary much in shade but the 40c provides well marked tints.

CHAPTER VI.
The Unwatermarked Stamps.

The next change was also one affecting the paper only, and not the designs of the stamps, the watermark being entirely dispensed with. A 1 centime value was added to the series by a decree dated March 23rd, 1861, to which we shall refer later, and in the previous month a circular was issued indicating a change in the size of the sheets of the values then current, viz.:—

"From March 1st next the postage stamps will be printed from plates containing three hundred stamps, instead of two hundred as at present.

In consequence, in all shipments that may be made after April 1st next, the prices of the sheets will be as follows:—
30 francs for each sheet of stamps of 10 centimes.
60 francs for each sheet of stamps of 20 centimes.
120 francs for each sheet of stamps of 40 centimes.

For the Director-General,
(Signed) TASSIANA
Acting Director."

Apparently on the basis that the change in the size of the sheets and the almost concurrent appearance of the new 1 centime stamps coincided with the issue of the new paper it seems to be generally inferred that the unwatermarked stamps were not issued until 1861. Mr. Westoby writes:—"No other change was made till the year 1861, when a machine-made paper, without any watermark, was substituted for that made by hand. At the same time also the size of the sheet was altered, and it was made to consist of 300 stamps in a single pane."

TO ALL DEALERS AND COLLECTORS
Please ignore all previous notices, concerning the loss and recovery of the stamp advertised by Messrs. Frank Godden, Ltd London, Mr. Henry C. Needham, New York, and myself. The loss of stamps was properly and correctly listed and advertised, but recovery was only a forged statement, by means of which I recovered stamps listed by Mr. Godden. This was forced upon me, conditionally to issuing statement acknowledging the recovery of all stamps, thus giving the unscrupulous party a right to dispose of the rest of the stamps.
I hereby revoke that statement, and will prosecute any party or parties holding the rest of the stamps, and will pay a reward of $1000.00 for information leading to the recovery of the stamps and arrest of the party holding same. I will prosecute any one who will try to dispose of my stamps and will go to extreme with the original crook, who terms himself as a "friend."
The following is the list of more important items which have not been recovered, and which could be easily identified. All used, except where otherwise specified:—

The Economist

BLANK LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

We have tried for a number of years to perfect an album to supply the ıried needs of collectors, and we have at last succeeded in producing the ıest loose leaf album on the market. NO NAME OR ADVERTISING ON HIS BOOK.

It is finely half bound in morocco leather and comes in three colors, d, dark green or dark blue. It is neatly decorated with gold, which makes a fine and rich appearing album. The pages contained therein are of the st quality of linen paper, with quadrilled lined background. They have e finest gold edge and will not tarnish. Each page is linen hinged and hen open the leaves lie flat. The binder is patent peg style, which is a st improvement over the spring back. Each page is interleaved with a ossy tissue sheet for the protection of the stamps. There is a front and ck fly leaf for the protection of the pages. A felt lined box to match the lor of the binder is furnished with each album.

This album is made in two sizes.

Binder size 10¼x10¾ inches contains 50 leaves size 8½x10¼ inches. The adrill lined background for mounting is 7x8½ inches. The price of this ze album as above described is $11.50 postage or express extra, additional aves are 12c each. Binder alone $5.50 with box.

Binder size 13¾x14¾ inches contains 40 pages size 12x14 inches. This ok is especially adapted for mounting complete sheets, blocks, covers, c. The quadrille lined background for mounting is 10½x12½ inches. This e 20c each. Binder alone $6.50 with box.

bum exactly as above is priced at $14.50 expressage extra, additional leaves ote—Each Binder will accommodate 5 to 10 more leaves than noted above.

ALBUM WAR!

We do not and never did market the so-called Oriel Album.

During the war, foreign shipping was stopped; therefore no English albums could be landed here. It struck us that what could be made in England could be duplicated in the United States of America. We got busy and produced what we are calling "The Economist Album," 100% improvement over any other.

Our "Economist Albums" were used exclusively by several firms for a period of three years when no others could be imported. Their firm names were stamped on the back to their order.

Glassine Loose-Leaf Tissue

This method of ours has saved tens of thousands of dollars' worth of stamps for collectors.

Open a book with the tissue pasted on the back and you will find that the stamps on the opposite page are all rubbed. This cannot occur with our "glassine loose-leaf tissue," which protects them.

WHY USE A BOOK WHICH IS INJURIOUS TO YOUR STAMPS?

FIGURES TALK

Our album is now being used by the largest collectors in the United States, and the list of them would be astounding. Our sales run into the thousands, whereas those of the imported book are limited to possibly a hundred or so.

USE AN AMERICAN PRODUCT!

The "Economist Album" is not an IMITATION but an IMPROVEMENT over any other album on the market.

"The Album War Wont Last Long"

87 Nassau St., New York City

Mr. Bouvez writes: "A rather rearkable peculiarity, and one which it well to note here, is that the change the size of the plates necessitated the ıployment of a new paper, which relted in the selection of a white wove .per without watermark."

Mr. J. B. Moens, both in his book ı the Belgian stamps and in his catogue, gives April 1st, 1861, as the ıte of the issue of the stamps without atermark, though there is nothing in ıy of the official decrees relating to the nd of paper used. Mr. M. P. Castle ade some pertinent observations on is point in the London Philatelist for ctober, 1900, which we cannot do betr than quote:—

"These stamps (i. e., those with "LL" atermark) in this case should be comoner than the succeeding ones without atermark, which were in turn superded in April, 1863, by the perforated ries, thus assigning nearly ten years f existence to the former and but two ars to the latter. I am inclined to beeve that this issue, with unframed atermark, was superseded four or five ars earlier—in 1856 or 1857. This ıpposition is partly borne out by a paer by M. Célestin Gronendaels, a Belian philatelist, who has examined large umbers of stamps on original covers, nd found that in all cases the stamps ated after August, 1858, bore no waterark. The issue of the no watermark eries is thus antedated nearly three ears, and I incline to believe is of still rlier origin."

All the stamps without watermark are ommoner than those with unframed LL" watermark, and according to the fficial statistics of the stamps sold year y year, quoted by Mr. Bouvez, there as only a slight increase in the quanties sold in 1861, 1862 and 1863, as ompared with previous years. It seems easonable, therefore, to presume that he 1861 date so long associated with ese unwatermarked stamps should be ntedated, as regards the 10, 20 and 40 centimes, by some years.

We suggest that the very large printing made in 1853—sufficient to supply all the postal needs of the kingdom for some years—consisted of stamps on unwatermarked as well as watermarked paper. If the figures quoted by Mr. Bouvez—350,000 sheets of the 10c, 250,000 sheets of the 20c and 40,000 sheets of the 40c—are only approximately correct, it would make the large total of 640,000 sheets of the hand-made watermarked paper. And as the process of making paper in this manner is necessarily slow and there was, presumably, but the one watermarked screen in use, it would have been hardly possible for such a large supply of this paper to have been made between the two months that elapsed between this printing and the previous one.

It would therefore seem, according to the foregoing remarks, that the date of issue of the 10, 20 and 40c values on this unwatermarked paper should be assigned to a period preceding August, 1858, and that these values were printed from the 200 plates as well as the new 300 ones made in 1861.

The new 1 centime stamp is exactly the same in design as the others and was made from the same original die. The secondary die had the numerals "1" inserted in the small circles in the upper angles and "UN CENTIME" was added below the portrait. This value was intended to frank newspapers and printed matter, the decree authorizing it being as follows:—

"LEOPOLD I, KING OF THE BELGIANS.

To all whom it may concern, greeting. We have decreed and do decree:—

I.—There shall be created postage stamps of 1 centime, for the prepayment of newspapers and printed matter as specified in Art. 6 of the law of December 24th, 1847.

II.—These stamps shall bear our effigy and also the word POSTES, and the indication of their value in letters as well as in figures.

III.—They will be sold at all post-offices in the kingdom. Our Minister of Public Works is charged with the execution of the present decree.

Given at Laeken, March 23rd, 1861.

(Signed) LEOPOLD."

A ministerial decree dated May 14th, 1861, announced that this 1 centime stamp would be issued on June 1st, and at the same time instructions were published as to its proper use. Though intended for the express purpose of prepaying newspapers and printed matter many persons used this value for franking letters. Some of those who did so were actuated by no malicious intent, but others gave the 1 centime the preference with the avowed purpose of giving the postal employes more work to do. When thirty or forty postmarks had to be applied to a single letter the matter got beyond a joke and the department issued a notice explicitly restricting the employment of the 1 centime stamps to the purposes for which they were issued and threatening to tax letters as unpaid where these stamps were used. As a consequence of this restriction used pairs or strips of this value are exceedingly rare.

The plate for the 1 centime consisted of 300 stamps and it was never printed on watermarked paper. Mr. de Bont says no less a quantity than 33,000,000 were printed and according to official statistics nearly that number were used in the years 1861, 1862 and 1863.

JUST COMMON COURTESY.

Whenever we write a letter asking for information we make it a practice to enclose an addressed stamped envelope for reply. It is simply a common everyday courtesy that should not be neglected. Why should we expect anyone to trouble themselves with a request we have made upon them when we do not even pay the postage upon the reply? The ethics of correspondence require that this little detail be given proper consideration.

COUNTERFIT ROUMANIA STAMPS.

Our attention has been called to the fact that complete sets of counterfeit Roumania charity stamps, Scott's 351 to 362, are on the market. We are able to give only this brief word, and suggest that philatelists purchasing this set make certain that they have the right article. We are indebted to the Geo. W. Linn Co. for this information.

EDITORIAL.

Bogus—The Associated Press dispatch in the newspapers telling of the counterfeit two cent stamp of the present issue, "an engraving-the first on record" did not seem to stir the city editors to any frenzied excitement. It is true that the Chicago Daily News called up the editor of the WEEKLY and wanted particulars for a story. He was told of the "Chicago issue" of 1895 but we saw no story. It is all a delusion that editors give their readers what they want; they think that they do. We know that many of the big papers do not use all of the press despatches that are received but the editors who omitted the counterfeit stamp news cannot tell us that they know how to serve the public. The two cent stamp that is licked every day, even by the humble cit.— here is crime, mystery and all that. We place these chuckle-headed editors in the stocks with the obtuse writers who tell of an old letter from a distant country, covered with "strange postmarks" and dodge the obvious, the postage stamps.

Shown—From Mr. Lorin T. Blodget of Princeton University, we have received a note that incidentally has a bearing on the question of repealing the laws prohibiting the illustrating of U. S. stamps by "private individuals." He writes: "Volume 7 of the Senate Documents of the 66th Congress in its second session 1919-20, has an account of the proceedings in the Senate on Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, 1920. They consisted of the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, with appropriate speeches by members of the Senate. It is illustrated with a fac-simile of a copy of the address written out by Lincolm for Edward Everett at the same time, who made a speech at Gettysburg at the same time, and also, with a reproduction of a letter written to Miss Belle F. Keyes of Boston, by Lincoln's son on Dec. 16, 1885, to say that this copy of the address, apparently in Miss Keyes' possession at that time was the only copy in Lincoln's hand-writing that was known to exist. This last illustration includes a view of the envelope used for this letter, which bears a two-cent of 1883, (number 210) reproduced in its full glory and in approximately exact size, lightly canceled and postmarked Chicago, Dec. 16, 1885. The point I make is why should the government do as it chooses in a case of this kind and deny a similar right to the individual? In my opinion, persons who desire to illustrate books or articles, should be permitted to do so, under proper restrictions, of course, to protect the government against counterfeiting." Fair enough.

Whack—Heaven help the poor prophet, as we no longer can. We skirt the treacherous rocks as a rule when stamps are in question; and as a philatelic augur, we do not bore you. Yet, it seems that though we twist and turn so much when making any prophecy even of the self-evident kind as to make the reader wonder what we are driving at, there was a time just before we could vote that we spoke right out, albeit it somewhat squeakily, in meeting. Mr. Eugene Klein writes: "One of my customers sends me the enclosed clipping and copy which I thought might make interesting reading to you at the present time. It might furnish you material for an editorial on dropped prices of new Europeans. Then again, it might not. I did not verify the article in question. If you want to quote it, I suggest that you look it up first." Here is the quotation which we do not bother to verify: "Abstract from the Philatelic Journal of America, Vol. XII, No. 1, July, 1894. Memoranda on Some U. S. Stamps, by Chas. E. Severn. 'A collector recently said that his collection of U. S. stamps was nearly complete with the exception of the higher value newspaper stamps, and he did not relish the idea of buying those because there was a constant possibility of their being placed on public sale for the benefit of stamp collectors.' These words were spoken unwittingly, evidently, for the danger to his purse that the philatelist would apprehend is in no wise real. As matters now stand, it is possible to procure the sixty dollar and other dollar values of the newspaper stamps at considerable reduction from face value; and even were the newspaper stamps placed on sale, it is unlikely that they would be retailed at an amount less than that indicated on the face; the sixty dollar value would be sold at $60.00; and the forty-eight at $48.00, etc. The only values that would be affected radically would be the lower ones." The quotation is headed by the critic, "A Poor Prophet and A Poor Profit. 27 years of Newspaper Stamps and now selling for less then face;" and he sends, too, a recent advertisement of Mr. Klein in the WEEKLY, wherein the high dollar values of the Newspaper set, 1879, are offered much below face value, unused. Still, the story of the descent of the newspaper stamps is not to be so easily dismissed.

Slash—In 1886, the authorities were "confiscating the high values of used newspaper and periodical stamps in the hands of collectors and dealers with a view of ascertaining by whom the 'thefts' were committed. Those fortunate enough to possess these postal treasures are very reticent on the subject." It was Robert S. Hatcher who became a famous Washington correspondent later for the newspaper press who said this. Years later, we said: "When the newspaper sets were sold by the government in 1899 at five dollars a set, it was understood that one of the reasons why the authorities took so unusual a course was based on a desire to visit a form of reprisal on dealers, who held unwarrantedly, the government claimed, specimens of these stamps which were prohibited from public circulation." The authorities lost their suit and were forced to return the stamps that they had seized from a dealer in New York, and consequently, ordered the discontinuance of the use of the newspaper stamps. The remainders were sold for the benefit of stamp collectors who long had covetously regarded these stamps; but the fact that holders of the originals saw their specimens slashingly reduced in value did not cause the government any remorse. Quite the contrary, and chuckling in its sleeve did not suffice the government; it indulged in a raucous horse-laugh. There was method in this sale and a consideration other than financial entered into it. Looking back on the whole newspaper issue episode, it shows that the "govamunt" wanted its inning with Revenge first at bat.

Cruel—We read that the Christchurch (N. Z.) Philatelic Society has decided to discontinue its subscriptions to the different stamp journals that it has been taking on the score that the members do not read them, as a rule. If the poor stamp journal finds no hospice within the portals of the philatelic society, where may it turn for succor? It is true that the stamp periodical does not always sing in well-sustained, modulated voice, but that it is well-meaning in its endeavors is not to be gainsaid. Instead of graceless "Begones" cheers should greet the poor stamp paper. Especially, the young editor who should be boosted is booted and he who should be pegged high on the temple wall is egged off the stage. It overjoys the modest editor who pays for the privilege of working for philately out of his own pocket to hear after he has gone broke that there is nothing to stamp papers, anyway.

U. S. STAMPS FETCH HIGH PRICES.

Some high prices were paid for good specimens of early United States stamps at the J. M. Bartels Company's 100th auction sale last week at 116 Nassau Street.

The sale showed that philatelists are specializing more in collecting American stamps on the old covers. That such often bring many times the catalogue price was shown by the payment of $72.50 for two copies of the 1847 black 10-cent stamp, the first regular Government issue on an envelope sent from Boston to Baltimore. For a single stamp $25 is the standard value. For a strip of three 10-cent stamps of the 1857 issue on an envelope addressed to Germany $66 was paid, the stamps being of the type I variety.

A striking illustration of the desirability of multiple stamps on one envelope was seen in the payment of $21.50 for a strip of three 30-cent stamps, 1857 issue, which, in separate specimens, are valued at $2.25 each. An odd piece with eight 2-cent stamps, 1873, postmarked at Yokohama, sold for $8.50, the individual stamps being worth but a few cents. The high price was due to the unusual use of ordinary United States stamps, canceled at Yokohama.

The highest price at the sale was $101 for a 1-cent, 1851, issue, type 1a, with complete scrolls at the bottom and the line broken at the top. Two strips of four each of the 1 and 2-cent 1902 issue in coils, such as could be bought for a few cents a short time ago, sold for $31, believed to be a record price for this variety.

There were some good copies of foreign issues. A Philippine Island 5-cent stamp, 1854, on the envelope, sold for $50. Two German Samoa stamps overprinted with English values in 1914 soon after Great Britain took possession of that German island, fetched over $60 each.—N. Y. Times.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Y. M. C. A. of Hartford, Conn., has given the use of a room one afternoon each week to a newly organized stamp club for boys. The club will be known as the Hartford Stamp Collectors' Club. F. C. Hansen of that city is taking an active interest in the new organization.

—Wendover Neefus, Hudson, N. Y., has issued a neat pricelist of the stamps of the United States and Colonies. It is a very comprehensive publication and useful to every collector of United States stamps. Mr. Neefus makes the price of 10c on the booklet, but a 10c refund slip is enclosed in each copy sent out, which is good for redemption on a purchase of $1 or over from the list.

—No. 2 of Sales Department News published by J. E. Guest, Sales Superintendent of the American Philatelic Society, has been received. As its name implies, it is designed to be a medium of communication between Mr. Guest and the many patrons of this important branch of service carried on by our national society. Any member of the organization, or any non-member, will be favored upon application to Box 1042, Dallas, Texas.

—Emil J. Rall sends us a clipping from an Ancon, Canal Zone, paper which states that Ernest Ryfkogel has been fined $250 for violating the postal laws. It was shown that he had secured a great many approval selections of postage stamps and failed to make returns upon the same. As is known, he did business under an assumed name, and several complaints have reached our office.

—C. H. Hollister, sales superintendent of the M.P.A., is sending out a folder giving the particulars of the M.P.A. "Three way circuits." Address him at Mukwonago, Wis.

—The Collectors Clnb Philatelist is a new quarterly publication published as its name indicates by the Collectors Club of N. Y. City. The number before us is a very handsome production of 48 pages with a table of contents embracing a wide variety of subjects. The new publication is a distinct contribution to philatelic literature and we congratulate the club upon its enterprise. Its subscription price is $1 per year, single copies 25c.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1619 to 1622 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

COMPETITION

A customer whose collection numbers over 25,000 varieties and contains many stamps worth $25 to several hundred dollars each, and who has received stamps on approval from many other dealers, tells me the selections he receives from the Westfield Philatelic Peach Orchard contain the finest specimens that come to him.

I don't expect to undersell everybody else—or anybody else—that isn't what I'm in business for. I'm merely supplying choice singles, pairs, strips, blocks and covers to those who appreciate fine copies of desirable stamps and are willing to pay what high-grade service is worth.

Few dealers can compete with me in stamps worth from one dollar each upward. If you aren't sure of this, try my service.

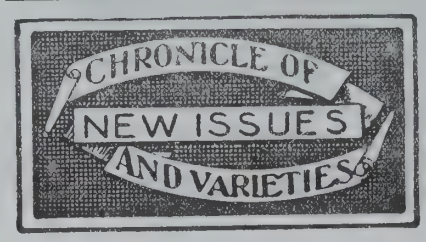
THE STAMP SHOPPE, INC.,
HARRY B. MASON Rooms 300-301 A. M. McFADDEN
President 1413 G STREET, N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C. Sec.-Treas.



Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mention was made in the Chronicle for last week of the fact that the Post Office Department had started to distribute a new variety, namely the 10c stamp in sidewise coils of five hundred subjects each. This stamp was issued quietly without anyone knowing anything about it until the department announced the fact on January 27th. One of our specialists had even visited the Bureau a few days before for plate number information and not an inkling was given of this new coil emission. We now learn that the plates which bear numbers 13625 and 13626 were only recently completed and that all of the stamps are from these two, which are, of course, of the rotary type of 170 subjects. The stamp has not been issued in the endwise coil nor have any plates been made for them.

In our issue of November 19, 1921, we published some information regarding the 1867-1873 grills as given to us by one who has possibly handled more of these stamps than any one else. At the time Mr. Elliott Perry and Dr. William Evans called attention to the fact that some of our statements were not borne out by their studies. As a result your editor collected quite a little material and finds from observation that there is still much to be learned about grills and that some points are not even clear to specialists. It is pretty well agreed, however, that only one roll was used to grill those embossed all over (I refer to the issued stamp and not the essay) and that this roller, which was of the female or biscuit type, was later cut to 13x16. This roller grilled 200 stamps at a time. When it was cut four stamps in the sheet received what might be called a "grill and a half", which measured about 18x15, and it is thought that this variety was originally listed from one of these. Male grills 18x15 exist, but those who have studied the subject deeply have been unable to place them, and it is a question if they are genuine or fakes. Another roller of the male or cross type exists with its projections measuring 12x14 and this was possibly cut to 11x13 and later to 9x13. Still a third roller was used, which produced what is known as the "Z" grill, and this measured 12x14. A fourth roller, or it may have been the first, for we do not know in what order they were made, was used to produce what we know as the essay "grilled all over", and this was later cut to produce the Continental grills. It is stamps from the last mentioned roll that are often found in collections as the real thing. This variety unused is rather plentiful.

Mr. W. A. Beach kindly sends for our inspection a sheet of twenty (5x4) of the black Official Seal, Scott's No. 1769 imperforate vertically.

Mr. Byron Elliott calls our attention to another interesting plate variety in the case of the 2c surface print. The right figure "2" has the top ball smaller, giving the figure the appearance of a different type.

Mr. J. B. Kaiser calls attention to a very odd envelope that he has located wherein two 2c and one 4c envelopes of the 1883 issue showing the Wells Fargo imprint were stuck together and used in combination to pay a 10c rate from Portland, Oregon, to Walla Walla, Washington. The combination is cancelled with the well known Wells Fargo cancellation bearing date of December 2, 1884.

Since our last Chronicle Messrs. R. C. Hoyt and R. H. Mason have called attention to two new provisional envelopes that they have just located.

AZORES.—Stamp Collecting reports that information is at hand that the recently mentioned Parcel Post adhesives, overprinted, have been augmented by the 60c dark blue, 70c brown and 80c bright blue, similarly treated

The Economist Stamp Co. advise that the 90c purple parcel post stamp has been overprinted "Acores" in black. They also submit the following values of the 1915 set of postage due stamps surcharged in black "Acores": 12c green, 20c green, 24c green, 36c green, 50c green, 60c green, 72c green and 1e20c green.

BELGIUM. — Mr. Henry Hooreman sends us copies of the new 10c postage due stamp issued the 17th of January. It is the type of the 1919-20 issue, but the color is green.

CANADA.—F. L. Belanger informs us that in all probability there will be a new 4c stamp. The present drop letter rate in Canada is 2c, first class postage 3c, to Great Britain 4c and foreign countries 10c. We quote from his letter as follows:—"This will mean that we shall have a new 4c stamp in all probability. To date I have the 1c stamped envelope in white paper printed in orange yellow, the 2c stamped envelope in green, and have seen the 3c in a light brown or buff, but am inclined to class this as a shade variety. I have also received the 1c postal in orange yellow. Is it generally known that the 3c stamped envelope comes in more than one die? I have two, one with the outer scallops much deeper than the other, and should be interested to know if other dies exist. A short time ago I saw a 3c maple leaf surcharged the same as the 3c letter cards and would like to hear from anyone whether or not this was actually used."

CAPE VERDE. — Stamp Collecting informs us that the set of Postage Dues issued in September last year has been augmented by three values, viz.:—½c pale green, 1c slate violet and 2c red brown.

green, 25c yellow and brown, 30c red and brown and 50c blue and brown. All are in the 1908-17 type.

MAURITANIA. — The Economist Stamp Co. send the following new colors in the 1913 type: 5c violet brown and red, 10c light green and dark green, 25c green and red, 30c red and orange and 50c dark blue and bright blue.

MEMEL. — The Economist Stamp Co. have submitted for chronicle the 2mk surcharged on the 1fr French stamp, with the added overprint in blue "5,00" in large figures about half the width of the stamp.

MOZAMBIQUE.—The Economist Stamp Co. send for chronicle the following stamps type of Scott's A6: 3c orange, 4c rose, 4½c grey and 30c dark green.

NEW CALEDONIA. — The Economist Stamp Co. send us the following new colors in the 1905-6 type: 5c blue, 10c green, 25c red on straw, 30c red and 50c blue.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Mr. Frank F. Wills advises us that he has heard that there is a new issue ordered for use in this country from the American Bank Note Co. of New York. Mr. Wills also advises that the 4c Caribou stamp has become obsolete.

A. C. Roessler informs us that the Halifax air-mail provisional has been found with inverted surcharge.

NYASALAND. — The Economist Stamp Co. submit to us copies of the 1d and 2d George type stamps printed on the script watermarked paper.

REUNION.—The Economist Stamp Co. call our attention to a change of colors for this colony the following new shades appearing: 5c orange and purple, 10c green, 25c brown and blue, 30c red, 50c blue and grey. They also send copies of 20c which has been overprinted "40" and the 75c surcharged "60", both being in black and two short bars obliterating the former value.

SENEGAL.—The Economist Stamp Co. send us the following new colors of the current type: 5c black and red, 10c light green and dark green, 25c red and black, 30c orange and red, 45c red and blue, 50c bright blue and dark blue and 2frs blue and brown.

ST. HELENA.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of a 1d green, 1½d red and 3d blue all on script watermarked paper. These are the first 1d green and 1½d red stamps that have been issued by the colonies.

SWITZERLAND. — Stamp Collecting reports that the new "Pro Juventute" stamps mentioned some weeks ago are supposed to have been printed at the Federal Mint, Berne, to the extent of three million francs' worth.

SPAIN. — Stamp Collecting prints the following: "We have lately received considerable correspondence from this country franked with quantities of the 15c stamp of 1900-2 in both colors, blue black and violet. It is evident from this that there is a huge supply of the stamps in question on hand, while there is possibly a shortage of the same denomination of the current (1909) series.

UPPER VOLTA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the following stamps of Upper Senegal and Niger surcharged "Haute-Volta" in black: 5c brown, 10c light green and dark green, 25c black and green, 30c orange and red and 50c bright blue and blue.

WALLIS & FUTUNA ISLANDS. — The Economist Stamp Co. advise that the new issues mentioned under New Caledonia of this chronicle have been overprinted "Iles Wallis et Futuna" in two lines in black.

STAMPS OF THE EX-GERMAN COLONIES.

Translated by W. G. WATT, M. D.

(La Philatelie Francaise.)

As a continuation of the article which we published in our last number, we are publishing the following on the subject of re-issues of the stamps of the former German colonies, taken from the International Stamp Review of Tournai, Belgium:—

Many of our readers know that the stamps of the German colonies have been re-issued. For those who have not as yet been warned, we call their special attention to what follows:—

The machine has continued to function at Berlin. The German State, trusting or having confidence in the purse of collectors and dealers, has sold, a few months since, a considerable stock of stamps at their facial value.

Among these it is necessary to distinguish two categories:

(a) The first is that of the emissions of the German stamps of 1889, surcharged "Kamerun", "Togo", "Karolinen", etc.

The way to distinguish these is the following: hold the stamp almost perpendicularly to your eye, the back making an angle of about 80 degrees. If the surcharge seems to be clear, almost brilliant, and very black, your surcharge is nothing but a common re-impression. If the surcharge is dull and gray, your stamp is truly genuine and dates from 1896;

(b) The second category is that of the "ship type". The first emission of these stamps has not been re-issued in very large amounts. It is not possible to frankly state that these re-impressions are able to influence the value of the issue as a whole when new. However, they have halted the rise and favorized the lowering of the price.

The collectors have been deceived by the apparition of the new catalog (Yvert?) of 1922. The German colonies have barely augmented in price 10% in a general way; the unused have rested stably and have undergone a depreciation of 10 to 15%.

The second emission of "boat type" has been made in 1905 with the lozenge watermark. Many of them were not of the higher values.

A fantastic number of them have been re-issued. It is said, in official circles, that the re-impression was "ten times" greater than the original issue.

And now, let us pass in review certain stamps of these countries:

South-West Africa. — The Y. & T. Nos. 29 and 30 (Scott 29, 31). These in used condition are really quite rare; they were in use only four months and the printing was fairly large (500,000) it is said. The unused ones were taken by the allied army of occupation in that colony. There, the soldiers hurriedly sold them to dealers, which explains the price of the unused stamps.

We give a rare obliteration of these two stamps: that of the little settlement of Aus.

East Africa. — We are able to easily say that these are the best of the stamps of the former German colonies. All the series, except the last, have been reissued in only very small numbers and this new issue will not be able to make much change in their prices. The last issue, however, that of 1906-1916 numbered in Yvert from 30 to 39 (Scott 31 to 39, 41), has not much value unused; simply from judging by the quotations it seems that the 60h is the most valuable, but this is not true. It is the 3 rupees which should be searched for and carefully preserved.

Cameroons.—The two first issues have been re-issued in large quantities (six times the original numbers). However, from the point of view of newness, the Cameroons is a pretty good country.

German China.—Oh! the fine counterfeits that we are able to have in our collections! ! The stamps of 1900, cataloged under the numbers 9 to 21, have received a fantastic number of false surcharges (Scott 424-435 & 436). The detection of these is not easy. In effect, the forgers are wary of the unused stamps; they take the common stamps of Germany of the 1900 issue and choose the stamp where the obliteration is not decipherable, and then surcharge it!

The collector, when one presents such a stamp, turns and re-turns the stamp, looking to see if it is not thinned (aminci), sees the ordinary type of German cancellation and pays from 50% to 60% of catalog; because you may well believe it, the forger is careful to offer at a price which is not too low, as that would excite the suspicions of the buyer.

A variety which one regrets to be unable to find in Yvert is this one: There was made on the German stamps of 1900 a surcharge "China" where the point over the letter "i" was replaced by an acute accent. It has been sold in the German offices from the No. 9 to 16. All the German catalogs make the distinction. The stamp so surcharged has besides that, a value ten times more than the original stamp itself.

Mariannes. — Number 5 of Yvert (Scott 15), 25pf orange, exists with inverted surcharge.

German Morocco.—Number 55 (Scott 743) 2P50 on 2mk, with surcharge reversed, exists also with thick surcharge.

German New Guinea. — Number 5 (Scott 5) 25pf orange, with inverted surcharge. I council collectors to avoid the forgeries which are circulating in Germany and Austria.

Obliterations.—Here, then, is the stumbling block of the amateurs in collecting the German colonies.

One is able to distinguish three types:

(a) The ordinary obliteration: it is the ordinary German cancellation. Above, the name of the country; below, the name of the town and, in the middle, a transverse band with the date;

(b) The obliteration of 1906-1914. Above, the name of the town; in the middle, in a band, the entire name of the country; for example, "Deutsch Sudvest-Africa"; then, in two lines lower down, the date;

(c) The obliteration of the parcel post. It is a simple round stamp (or seal) without name or any inscription, having often a cross in the middle; the ink is thick, dirty, much like the cancelling ink used in China. It is a mistake that many collectors make when they refuse these stamps. It is necessary, on the other hand, to look out for the five marks value, which has a superb obliteration, but which is often false. A five marks stamp, before the war, was worth 6 francs 25 ($1.25) and was only used on the parcels coming from the country and therefore was only obliterated by an ordinary canceller.

To finish, I wish to call the attention of collectors to the fact that, "There are no such things as fiscal obliterations from the German colonies".

BOOK REVIEW.

The 12th edition of Bright & Sc descriptive priced catalog of the sta of the "Continent of Europe and Colonies" is at hand from its publish 164 Strand, London, England. P post free, 5sh. This latest edition thoroughly revised and brought up date of going to press. There are o 450 new illustrations and the book r to 504 pages. The edition contains lists of all the new European count excepting war and post-war issues of late so-called enemy countries. The p lishers state in the preface that w these issues are omitted from this alog, they cannot permanently be cluded from a work which purports chronicle all stamps issued either pa or entirely for postal purposes. cannot fail to note the many half-pe stamps and the publishers have fo it wise to use this fraction in con tion with higher priced stamps. The lustrations are well executed and generous supply of cuts will make book very welcome to many Amer collectors.

THE PRECANCELLED STAMP.

By H. S. DICKEY.

The 1c surface print would be a very fine stamp to specialize, as they are already out of general use in many places. I note new issues from Bowling Green, Ky., both normal and up; also 1c St. Louis, Mo., double, Dubuque, Iowa, double, Akron, Ohio, double, Hoboken, N. J., inverted, Parkersburg, W. Va., Bluefield, W. Va.

The same idea applies to 2c surface prints, of which I've found normal varieties of Colorado Springs, Colo., Portland, Me., Omaha, Neb., Waukesha, Wis., Sapulpa, Okla., Nashville, Tenn., Piqua, Ohio, Springfield, Ohio, double, Hoboken, N. J., Bonne Terre, Mo., Racine, Wis., Seattle, Wash., Ithaca, N. Y., Corning, N. Y., Shenandoah, Iowa, Oelwein, Des Moines, Davenport and Sioux City, Iowa, all these being normal. Mount Morris, Ill., in red ink, Springfield, Ohio, double, Chicago, Ill., colored ink, and inverted prints from Louisville, Ky., Kearney, Neb., Girard, Kans., and Shenandoah, Ia.

The 10x11 perforations will undoubtedly prove a great field for specializing, and some will be of unquestioned rarity, new ones being: Moberly, Mo., Westerville, Ohio, Green Bay, Wis., Lawrence, Kans., Hutchinson, Kans., Terre Haute, Ind., Mansfield, Ohio, Rock Island, Ill., Kansas City, Kans., Camden, N. J., Rutherford, N. J., and Niagara Falls, N. Y., inverted, also St. Joseph, Mich., and Long Island City, N. Y., normal.

Among the novelty issues are found New York, N. Y., coils in a new type, and old type in the 1-2-3-4-5c coils. Chicago also has the coils in two types in the 1 and 2c. Then comes Philadelphia, Pa., 1c coil, also Brooklyn, N. Y., in a 2c coil, Cincinnati, Ohio, 1c double, and Detroit, Mich., in a 1c coil.

Among the new rare precancels are 1-5-11c St. Louis new type, inverted.

There are two types of Rutherford, N. J., tiny type and big letter type. Both are scarce.—Precancel Gazette.

STAMPS SEVEN YEARS OVER-SEAS.

By HERMAN W. BOERS.

In the early part of 1914 Fred Heyerman of Detroit was invited to exhibit his collection of inverts at the International Stamp Exhibit, at Cassel, Germany, in July. It contained over 200 copies of U. S. and foreign, many very rare. There were many high class collections exhibited and the competition was very keen, but Mr. Heyerman was awarded a silver medal and diploma.

The collection was gotten together as a result of over twenty years of work and contained such gems as the 15c, 24c, 30c 1869 U. S., 1c, 2c, 4c U. S. 1901, 4 annas India 1850, 1854 Western Australia swan, etc. This collection had previously been awarded three medals at exhibitions held at Chicago and New York.

Soon after the exhibition was over the great World War broke out and the return of the collection to Mr. Heyerman proved a great problem. There was uncertainty of mail delivery and no insurance could be obtained. Mr. Heyerman appealed to friends, who in the meantime went abroad, but met with no success. He never lost faith in the return of his collection and a few weeks ago he was notified that his stamps had arrived in New York after an absence of seven years.

Two years ago he received from the Cassel Exhibition committee the medal awarded him, which was a beautiful piece of work, also a diploma. It is now possible for Detroit collectors to once more feast their eyes on something rather unusual in the way of collections. Detroit philately is to be congratulated upon its good fortune.

STAMPS OF DANTZIG.

By Douglas B. Armstrong.

The Free City of Dantzig, albeit one of the youngest recruits to the ranks of the stamp-issuing countries of the world, has already the not inconsiderable total of 58 standard varieties of distinctive postage stamps to its credit (or otherwise).

Of these the series overprinted on contemporary German types were issued under authority of the International Commission between July and November, 1920, whilst more recently the first definite stamps of the autonomous Government have made their debut.

Pursuant to the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles, an International Commission, headed by Sir Reginald Tower, and supported by a detachment of British troops, took over control of the Baltic seaport on June 1st, 1920, and on the 14th of the following month the ordinary German postage stamps previously in use were withdrawn from circulation, being replaced by a series of eleven denominations overprinted with the single word "Danzig" in Gothic type at the State Printing Works, Berlin. Stamps of the face value 1½ and 3 marks were added to the series on July 20th, and one of 40pfg on September 13th. Shades exist in most values, and a type variety, reading "Danzia," on the 2 marks stamp. The 5pfg is also known with a broken letter "g" in the overprint, reading "Danzio." A double overprint is found on the 2 mark stamp.

The following is a list of colours and values:—

Series I. Berlin Overprint.

5pfg green, grass green, Russian green.
10pfg rose-red, dark rose-red, deep rose-red.
15pfg brown-violet, dark brown-violet, deep brown-violet.
20pfg ultramarine.
30pfg orange and black, toned paper.
40pfg rose-carmine.
50pfg violet and black.
1 Mark, red, pale red, deep red.
1.25Mk green.
1.50Mk brown.
2 Marks dark blue, steel blue, greenish blue, pale deep blue.
2.50Mk rose-lilac, pale lilac, red lilac.
3 Marks violet-black, greyish black.
4 Marks rose and black (December, 1920).
5 Marks black and red.

To meet a shortage of low values, for which there was an unexpected demand, and to provide others necessitated by the conclusion of a Postal Convention with Germany, providing for the introduction of a reciprocal postal tariff, three provisional stamps were created during the month of August by surcharging certain denominations of the Berlin overprinted series, which were surcharged locally with new values in

Meanwhile, owing to pressure of work in connection with the colour changes in the contemporary German postage stamps, the State Printing Works at Berlin declared themselves unable to undertake further overprinting on behalf of the Dantzig Commission. Accordingly the stocks of German postage stamps in the Dantzig post office, which had been withdrawn from circulation, were handed over to the firm of Julius Sauer to be overprinted for local use, and were eventually re-issued on August 15th, with the addition of the word "Danzig" impressed diagonally on the face in flowing script type, with a bar cancelling the inscription "Deutsches Reich". In the case of the six mark values a burelage of fine green lines was applied to the stamps as a mark of distinction prior to the overprinting of the town name. In the complete absence of supplies of the mark denominations, these were extemporised by means of provisional surcharges on pfennig values.

Series III. Local Overprint on "Germania" Types.

Varieties of the 5pfg value exist:—(a) Without bar through Deutsches Reich; (b) with double bar; and (c) "Denzig" for "Danzig". The 15pfg is known with the word "Danzig" omitted.

Three particular postage stamps for use in connection with the Swedish-German air mail service were provided by the Dantzig postal authorities on September 29th, 1920, in the form of the contemporary German 40pfg stamp, bearing the Berlin overprint "Danzig" in Gothic type, additionally overprinted with the device of an aeroplane or winged posthorn and surcharged "40" and "60" pfg and "1 Mark".

On November 15th, 1920, the Free Port of Dantzig was formally granted autonomous Government under a mandate of the League of Nations, and preparations were forthwith put in hand for a series of permanent postage stamps.

Pending the advent of these, however, it was found necessary to create further local and provisional surcharges to meet a deficit in the supply of the 5 and 60pfg stamps, as well as to provide a new 80pfg denomination. To this end the 30pfg stamp of the original Berlin issue was again pressed into the service and surcharged locally with the requisite figures. These stamps were placed on sale early in November, 1920.

Series V. Local and Provisional Surcharges.

The design adopted for the first definite postage stamps of the Free Port represents an ancient "Kogge", or armed merchant ship of the Hanseatic League. This Hanseatic League was a loose federation of the free ports of the North Sea from Amsterdam to Reval, who were banded together for the better protection of their trade. At one time they were the virtual rulers of the North Sea. Their "kogges", stoutly built of oak, were designed both for trade and warfare, with high gunwales and fortified turrets fore and aft; they could only be sunk by gunfire. Broad in the beam, their waists afforded enough shelter for a large number of men and weapons. The high poop and mastheads provided shelter for archers. In 1368, however, they were armed with blunderbusses against the Danes.

The vignette on the stamps shows a pennant floating from one mast, and from the other a small four-quartered flag, bearing the Arms of the League. Incorporated in the design is the date of the Constitution, "15.xi.21", and, in the case of the higher values, a shield emblazoned with the City Arms of Dantzig.

This issue was lithographed by Julius Sauer upon paper with a honeycomb watermark resembling that of the Argentine stamps of 1912, and, when first issued, the sheets were divided by means of a zig-zag roulette, like the Greek adhesives. More recently a comb perforation, gauging 14, has been introduced.

PRECANCEL PARAGRAPHS.

A 50c Artesia, Calif., double print looks like a good item to me.

Morris, Minn., and Brookville, Pa., use the U-8 type on nearly all values.

Two mighty good 3c surface prints are Lander, Wyo., and Smithville, Tex., both in the U-8 type.

San Bruno, Calif., 2c surface print is a slippery one to catch. This town is not listed in the new catalogue, but is out with a type resembling U-1.

Two scarce 13-centers lately acquired are Columbia, Mo., and Johnson City, N. Y.

Harrisburg, Ark., now vies with Harrisburg, Pa., in the precancel world. But the precancels hailing from there are so scarce that few collectors are aware of their existence.

Gary, Ind., the heart of the steel industry, breaks into the game at last. The 1c surface print is all that I have seen so far.—Precancel Gazette.

RELATIVE SCARCITY OF USED BLOCKS OF 19TH CENTURY U. S. STAMPS.

By HUBERT LYMAN CLARK.

During the past thirteen years my attention as a stamp-lover has been given almost exclusively to the pursuit of postally used blocks and I have watched with interest the steadily growing interest in these fascinating items. When I first began my collection, a block of four was treated as equivalent to four single stamps, even tho it was imperforate. The first (and best) block of the Canadian beaver 3d that I ever saw I bought from one of our large stamp companies for $1.25, the stamp at that time cataloguing 35c. The last block I saw came from a London dealer and sold promptly for fifty dollars! No better illustration could be given of the change that a dozen years has brought in our appreciation of used blocks. The equally marked growth in the interest in United States stamps has led to a demand for used blocks of nineteenth century United States that is enormously in excess of the supply, and as many mistaken ideas are common as to the relative scarcity of such blocks it seems worth while to put on record some of the opinions I have drawn from my experience. Most collectors want to know what a used block of such-and-such a stamp is worth, so I venture to suggest what I consider a reasonable price would be for each of the principal United States stamps in a used block of four.

I most earnestly beg my readers, however, to consider that the value of such a block depends on at least four factors.

1.—The catalog value of single copies, both used and unused, in our standard catalog. I know it is quite in style to jeer at those prices as no criterion of real value, but I have no patience with that attitude. As a rule, this catalog value serves as a basis for estimating the relative value of the stamp as compared with other United States stamps. Without it most of us would be completely at sea. My experience as a buyer has led me to believe that the prices in Scott are a better gauge of value than those of Gibbons and infinitely better than those of Yvert-Tellier.

2.—The actual scarcity of blocks does not depend on the rareness or commonness of the single stamps. Some of the stamps which catalog at only one or two cents in single copies are very hard to find in used blocks, while some high value stamps are relatively common. No doubt there are several reasons for this, two of which are obvious. It is simpler to use a single 20c stamp than a block of four 5c, but when the postage is a large sum, multiples of the highest available value, and hence often blocks, must be used. On the other hand, the recipient of a piece of mail with low value stamps on it, even in a block, throws them into the wastebasket, but a block of high value stamps attracts the attention and is pretty sure to be saved. The fact is that only experience and observation will tell what stamps are common in blocks.

3.—Condition has come to be an important factor in the market value of blocks, altho it is not yet quite so unreasonably considered as with single stamps. Personally, I have no patience with the condition crank who considers as serious defects invisible tears, narrow margins and thin spots, which do not affect the appearance of the block. But my opinion is only my own and I can't force it on anyone else. One of the great beauties of stamp collecting is that we may each decide for ourselves what suits us, and no one can question our rights. So, in buying used blocks, collectors do use their own judgment and condition makes a vast difference. Good margins or perfect centering, combined with clear place and date cancellations, moderately applied, very greatly enhance a block's value.

4.—Undoubtedly, however, the greatest factor at the present time in determining the price that a block will bring at auction is the value of a dollar to the would be buyers. There are many collectors to whom the purchase of a block of four seems sheer extravagance—a single stamp answers all their needs, and the extra stamps are waste. At the other extreme are men who can and will pay hundreds of dollars, if necessary, to buy a block, if it appeals to them as very desirable. In between are the large majority of adult collectors who can and do spend moderate sums for the stamps that they really want. Hence it follows that while the number of collectors who will pay a couple of dollars for an attractive block is very large, when the price rises to ten or fifteen dollars, a large proportion of the buyers would rather have the money they can afford to spend, available for single stamps, and drop out of the competition. When the price of a block goes above fifty dollars, the number of would be buyers is pretty small, tho if two of them happen to be bidding at the same auction, their efforts to secure the block may serve the purpose of a dozen would-be buyers! As a result of this difference in number of buyers as the amount involved increases, it follows that blocks cannot be fairly priced at a certain number of times the catalog value. I have known a block to bring over 70 times catalogue value, while a far more desirable block brought less than 4 times catalogue value. But in the first case, the catalogue value of the block was 20c and in the second case it was $20!

With this explanatory introduction, I will now take up each of the chief issues, but I am not a specialist in United States stamps and I shall not attempt to express an opinion on the relative scarcity of the different papers, grilles or printings of what are otherwise identical stamps. I wish to acknowledge the help I have received from my friend, Mr. J. W. Sampson, concerning some of the rarer blocks, as he has handled several that I have never seen, but he is in no way responsible for the ideas here expressed as to the value of the blocks, and I have no doubt would often disagree with me.

1847.—The 5c is by no means an excessive rarity in used blocks of four, and the number extant probably passes a dozen, perhaps twenty. A block in average condition is worth a hundred dollars and will, in the present state of the American market, bring several times that. It would be foolish to attempt to set a limit to what a superb block would bring. The 10c is, so far as I am aware, known in only two used blocks of four. One is pen-cancelled, and the other is not in superb condition, but it sold from the Worthington collection at $480. If a block of the 5c is worth a hundred dollars, a block of the 10c is a bargain at six or seven hundred.

1851.—The imperforate stamps issued in 1851 are rare in used blocks, the 3c being the least so. The 1c is somewhat less frequent than the 3c, the 12c and 10c being still less common, and the 5c, of course, rarest of all. I should put the price for an average block of four of the 3c at ten dollars, for the 1c (type IV) at twenty-five dollars, the 10c at forty, the 12c at fifty and the 5c at two hundred and fifty. But let no one expect to buy at these prices, except he has extraordinary luck! Recent auction quotations on the 1c are $73 and $74, on the 12c, $86, and on the 10c over $200! Everything depends on condition and competition. There is no doubt that the whole issue is a "fad" at the present time.

1857.—The perforated stamps of the 1851 designs are quite as rare in used blocks as are the imperforates, but they do not command nearly such high prices. The 1c is about as common as the 3c, the 12c is much more rare and the 10c is still more uncommon. The 5c is very rare. I have never seen a used block of any of the higher values, but Mr. Sampson tells me of two blocks of the 24c known to him, and a block of the 90c on part cover. A used block of the 30c seems to be the rara avis of this issue. I should value a block of the 3c at from five to ten dollars, according to centering and cancellation, the 1c (type V) at ten to twenty dollars, the 10c at twenty to twenty-five, the 12c at thirty to forty and the 5c at forty to fifty. Of course the type of the 1c and the color of the 5c are factors that might increase the price of the blocks enormously. It is little less than absurd to put prices on the highest values, but evidently the 24c is not so valuable as the other two; suppose we put it at one hundred and fifty dollars and the 90c and 30c at three hundred each!

SYRACUSE CELEBRATES.

By A. A. Levé.

The third annual banquet of the Syracuse, N. Y. Stamp Club was held Friday evening, Feb. 17, at the Chamber of Commerce rooms and was one wonderful night for the members of this lively organization. The forty members present were fed up on stamps as well as the regular article. Red, white and blue napkins were furnished with stamps mounted in one of the corners and stamp gifts from dealers were among the table decorations. The menu card consisted of post cards decorated with designs of stamps in their original covers and the following was the

— MENU —
Soup (a la Hinges)
Pickles (Ribbed) Wafers (Perf.) Olives (Green)
Fish (Watermarked) Sauce (Scarlet)
Roast Lamb (Fine Type) Dressing (a la Greece)
Potatoes (Soft) June Peas (in Feb'y.)
French Bread (White Back) Butter (As Is)
Cabbage (a la Newrope)
Ice Cream (All Types) Cakes (Grilled)
Coffee (Dark Brown) Smokes (12x14)

The special stunts were unique and interesting. Several telegrams were read, two of them as follows.—"I admit that every one of your members should read Mekeel's—W. O. Wylie." "Why doesn't your club submit designs for the next U. S. set?"—P. O. D. Washington.

An exhibition of rare items was held and later an auction sale of 108 lots catalog price from $1 to $10 with no reserve bids. Everyone went home happy at 1 A. M. after voting the affair a big success. The writer, who is the publicity director of the Club, was the master of ceremonies.

The Syracuse Herald contained a lengthy editorial dealing with the anniversary and dwelling especially upon the great value of philately as a hobby and was written by John B. Howe, an old time collector, a friend of John F. Seybold and the executor of his estate.

This is, without a doubt, the handiest and most appropriate tweezer for the stamp collector, as above illustrated.
After picking up the stamp, the tweezer holds it so that it is elevated from one-half to one inch from the surface. Another feature in connection with it is that a stamp can be taken out of benzine or water, and kept from the surface, giving it all the chance to dry properly.
In Other Words, It Might Be Classified as the Only Sanitary Tweezer.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE BAHAMAS.

By DOUGLAS B. ARMSTRONG.

CHAPTER IX.

Edwardian Series.

The Edwardian postage stamps of the Bahamas appeared on December 19th, 1902, having been received four days previously, and were printed from a special key-plate of pleasing and unconventional design, incorporating the profile portrait of King Edward VII by Herr. Emil Fuchs, as shown on the contemporary shamps of Great Britain.

They were surface-printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., the value being inserted in the blank tablet at the foot of the design from a separate "duty-plate" upon ordinary Crown C A paper, and were issued in single panes of 60 stamps, each containing ten rows of 6. The plate number "1" within a solid circle of colour was repeated at each corner of the sheets, which were also numbered consecutively in black in the upper right-hand corner. A series of broken marginal lines were printed in colour round the edges of the panes.

Dec. 19th. 2½d bright blue and dull blue, wmk. C A, perf. 14. (Printing 410,400.)

Dec. 19th. 4d orange, wmk. C A, perf. 14. (Printing 21,240.)

1910. Mar. 3rd. 4d pale yellow, wmk. C A, perf. 14.

1902. Dec. 19th. 6d brown, wmk. C A, perf. 14. (Printing 30,540.)

Dec. 19th. 1s grey-black and carmine, wmk. C A, perf. 14. (Printing 36,540.)

1907. June. 1s grey and carmine, wmk. C A, perf. 14.

1902. Dec. 19th. 5s dull purple and blue, wmk. C A, perf. 14.

Dec. 19th. £1 green and black, wmk. C A, perf. 14. (Printing 9,240.)

CHAPTER X.

Multiple Watermark.

Early in 1906 these stamps began to be issued with the new multiple form of Crown C A watermark, the initial value of the Multiple series being the 1d placed on sale on April 25th, 1906. An additional stamp of the face value of ½d was included in the series with the Multiple Crown C A watermark, of which four values only were issued.

1906. May 3rd. ½d yellow-green, wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14. (Printing 241,800.)

1906. April 25th. 1d carmine-rose, wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14. (Printing 1,206,660.)

The remainders of Bahamas postage stamps bearing the head of the late King Edward VII, were officially withdrawn from circulation on June 1st, 1914.

Multiple Pictorials.—On or about February 7th, 1911, the 1d Bahamas postage stamp in the "Queen's Staircase" design appeared upon paper watermarked Multiple Crown C A, instead of single Crown C C as formerly. The initial consignment with this watermark was actually received in the Colony three months previous to that date, and consisted of 114,600 stamps. A later printing, which came into use about five years later was in a distinct new shade, viz., scarlet and black. The next value of the pictorial series to appear upon Multiple C A watermarked paper was the 2s in November, 1916. A new value, 3d printed in purple on yellow dyed paper with the same watermark was added to this series on May 18th, 1917, on which date also appeared the 5d in new colours, viz., violet and grey. Finally the 3s with Multiple watermark was placed on sale about August, 1917. Early in 1919, the colours of the 3d, pictorial stamp, were modified to brown and black on white paper.

1911. Feb. 7th. 1d carmine and black, wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14.

1916. ? 1d scarlet and grey-black, wmk. C A, perf. 14.

1917. May 18th. 3d purple on yellow, Mult. C A, perf. 14.

1919. Mar. ? 3d brown and black, wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14.

1917. May 18th. 5d violet and grey-black, wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14.

1916. Nov. ? 2s blue and black, wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14.

1917. Aug. ? 3s green and black, wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14.

According to Mr. E. W. Mann the vignette and border plates utilized in printing the above listed stamps on Multiple watermarked paper were as follows:

1d Mult. C A, thick paper, Frame Pl. 1, Vig. Pl. 2.
1d Mult. C A, thick paper, Frame Pl. 2, Vig. Pl. 2.
1d Mult C A.
1d Mult. C A, thinner paper, Frame Pl. 2, Vig. Pl. 4.
3d Mult. C A, bright lemon paper, Frame Pl. 1, Vig. Pl. 2.
3d Mult. C A, thick, dull yellow paper, Frame Pl. 1, Vig. Pl. 4.
3d Mult. C A, brown and black on white, Frame Pl. 1, Vig. Pl. 4.
5d Mult. C A, thick paper, Frame Pl. 1, Vig. Pl. 2.
5d Mult. C A, lilac and black, Frame Pl. 1, Vig. Pl. 2.
2s Mult. C A, thick paper, Frame Pl. 1, Vig. Pl. 2.
3s Mult. C A, thick paper, Frame Pl. 1, Vig. Pl. 2.

NEWFOUNDLAND-HALIFAX AIR MAIL.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

In The Daily News of December 9th, a letter from a Botwood correspondent gives some interesting information as to the delays which have attended this contemplated air flight to Halifax:

"All things were moving along smoothly until the machine made its first test, which resulted in a leakage of about 20 gallons of water in what were supposed to be air-tight floats, due either to the stress of the passage from England, or to carelessness on the part of those responsible for their manufacture. These floats were removed on the 28th November, and re-assembled on the 30th, having been sealed and repaired. In the meantime, the Bay had frozen over, and on the 1st December, the S. S. Cranley cut a channel that the ice might break up and move out. That night, however, a hurricane swept the shore, rafting it alongside the beach to a height in places of 15 feet. The rafted ice extended about a half mile from the shore on which the hangar is located. Since then there has been neither wind nor rain to take it away. It is estimated that there are from 50 to 100 tons of ice between the hangar and the shore that must be removed."

By the 8th December all the ice before the hangar had been removed; the floats had been replaced with skis, and the aviators were simply marking time until the ice should become hard enough to enable them to take off. Under his contract with the Post Office Department, Major Cotton is to receive $1000 if the mail is delivered at Halifax within a certain time limit.

At noon, Saturday, the 10th, the Deputy Minister of Customs, H. W. LeMessurier, received a message from Botwood reading:—

"Aeroplane with mails left Botwood for Halifax at 10.40 this morning. Takeoff was excellent, and weather exceptionally favorable for swift flight."

But—an hour later a message came from the telegraph operator at Deer Lake (95 miles from Botwood), advising that the aviators had been compelled to descend at Deer Lake Beach, about a mile from Deer Lake, after being 2 hours in the air.

The story of the flight as told by Capt. Bennett, who is associated with Major Cotton in this flight, in a letter to his father, J. R. Bennett, formerly Colonial Secretary, is as follows:

"We were ready yesterday morning (December 10th) at about 5 a. m. and as it was quite calm, decided to have a shot at Halifax.

We left Botwood at 10.40 a. m. and took a fairly long run to get off, owing to the load we had on board. The clouds were only 2000 ft., so we climbed above them and followed the railway until we reached the Topsails. Here a big storm was raging and we could see nothing, so steered by compass until we hit the railway again at Grand Lake.

The engine by this time was giving considerable trouble. However, we did not come down to rectify it but carried on, and passed over Deer Lake station, but only caught occasional glimpses of it through the clouds. Noting a thin strip of ice at the head of the lake (an airman's mind instinctively is picking out possible landing places in case of engine failure), we carried on to the end of the lake and then came up against a black wall of seething clouds towering about 3000 ft. above us. It was a wonderful sight, but hardly the time to show us beauty.

We endeavored to get round, as we could not get above them with the engine running so badly, and got right over Grand Lake, a lovely sight, with banks dropping sheer to the lake, whose waters were a perfect opal black.

The engine was now beginning to cut out altogether at times, so we turned and steered back by compass for the piece of ice noted at Deer Lake.

Most of the last hour and twenty minutes had been passed above the clouds, with but an occasional glimpse of the ground, making it very difficult, because to put one's head out to look over the side meant a frozen blast of air, which was almost unbearable. We landed all right, thanks to the skids, and ran across a ditch and up over logs to the edge of the forest. In fact, we ran high and dry, as we feared the ice might not hold our weight.

Trying to locate our troubles, we found a frozen radiator, which we thawed out with a patent petrol heater we carried for cooking. Number five cylinder has a nasty clank in it, and as we require some parts from Botwood, we sent for two mechanics, who will be here tomorrow morning (the 12th)".

By the 15th the engine trouble had been corrected. But in starting up the engine that day, Major Cotton had both arms caught in the propeller and badly bruised, necessitating his return to St. John's by rail, for medical attention. Under the circumstances, it was decided that Capt. Bennett should fly the machine back to Botwood, and prepare another machine for a fresh start.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

On January 3rd, 1860, just prior to the manufacture of the 300 subject plates a lengthy set of rules was promulgated for the guidance of those entrusted with the manufacture of Belgian postage stamps from which we make the following extracts:—

"Art. 1.—The Bureau which has charge of the manufacture of postage stamps, established at the building of the General Administration of Railroads, Posts and Telegraphs is placed under the control of the Bureau of Supply.

Art. 2.—The plates for the printing of stamps are to bear an engraved inscription, indicating the manufacture and year of their being placed in use.

Art. 4.—As soon as they are rendered useless for service, the plates are to be scratched with a graver in order to prevent their again being used for the printing of stamps.

The sheets intended for the printing of stamps are to bear at the right, in the upper corner, the printed inscription "Timbres Poste", followed by the indication of the series and the numerical order of the sheet.

The sheets printed in 1860 are to form the series "A", and all following series are to be indicated in alphabetical order.

Art. 10—Immediately after the printing, the Supervisor will apply at the bottom of each printed sheet, at the left, a hand stamp bearing the inscription "Atelier de Timbres Poste (Contrôle)".

Art. 35.—On the day of printing the rejected impressions are to be placed in a chemical solution, in order to render improper use impossible."

We learn from Article 2 of the above that on the plates themselves was engraved the year date of their manufacture. Unfortunately stamps of this issue with any sheet margin at all attached are particularly hard to find. In fact it seems that before being issued to the post-offices the sheets were carefully trimmed of all superfluous paper, being cut quite close to the outer margins of the outside rows of stamps. But we have evidence that a date was inscribed, for in a small collection made some years ago we had two copies of the 20 centimes of this issue from the bottom row of the sheet with the date 1861 engraved on the margin below, about 4 mm. below the bottom frame lines of the design. Whether the same date appeared in the lower margin of the other plates or whether any other marginal inscription was also engraved we cannot say.

Mr. Bouvez states that in the plates of 200 subjects the space between the stamps in the horizontal rows was invariably 1½ mm., while between the stamps vertically it was 1 mm. On the larger plates of 300 subjects the space varies, both horizontally and vertically, between about ½ mm and 1½ mm. We have found all these varieties of spacing in connection with the unwatermarked stamps and if the different measurements indicate the two sets of plates then this is additional evidence that the 200 plates were used in printing the stamps on unwatermarked paper and serves again to show that the date of actual issue must be prior to 1861.

Gibbons' catalogue lists the 40c with "frame line recut" and the 10c with "plate retouched" but if, as now seems more than probable, the 200 subject plates were used all the recut and other varieties found in connection with the last issue should also be found on unwatermarked paper. What varieties, if any, are peculiar to the 300 subject plates we cannot say, but we have noted many copies of the 10c and 20c, with very narrow spacing, with the outer frames recut and occasionally projecting.

With the exception of the 20c all the varieties of this series provide numerous well-marked shades and although the paper was machine-made it varies in thickness almost to the same extent as the hand-made variety. There are not the same gradations, however, and it is therefore a simple matter to divide the stamps into two sets designated as thick and thin paper. Whether these differences are of any philatelic importance is questionable as the two sorts of papers were not confined to definite printings so far as is known. Occasionally the paper is found with very slight ribbing but we believe this is a peculiarity entirely due to some idiosyncrasy in printing. Scott's catalogue lists the 1 centime on laid paper but it is very certain that the Belgian government never made use of a real "laid" paper for any of its stamps, though in connection with the 1866 issue varieties on an apparently laid paper are known. Moens' book mentions essays or proofs of the three higher values of this issue on laid paper, and states that the paper of some of the issued stamps appears to be laid, but that the appearance is due to defects in the manufacture of the paper. It is also well known that such an appearance is also produced sometimes in the course of printing stamps from steel plates.

We mentioned in connection with the last issue that varieties are to be found in the size of the stamps, these being accounted for by varying shrinkage of the paper. The same varieties are found in connection with the stamps of this issue though they are a little more striking and provide differences in measurement exceeding 1mm. One writer asserts there were two dies for each denomination and Mr. de Bont asserts there were two types for each value and infers these represent the stamps from the 200 and 300 subject plates respectively. Finally Gibbons' catalogue gives these varieties undue and mistaken importance by listing the 10c, 20c and 40c as with ovals measuring 17¼ and 16½ mm. respectively.

These differences were known as long ago as 1868 when a writer in the Stamp Collector's Magazine pointed them out and advocated their collection as different varieties. But we thought their philatelic status, together with those of other stamps printed from steel engraved plates showing similar variations in measurement, had been settled finally some twenty years ago. Mr. W. A. S. Westoby went into the matter very thoroughly and gave the result of his researches in the Monthly Journal for June, 1897. He found these varieties were undoubtedly due to nothing more than shrinkage of the paper in drying, an opinion in which Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co. concurred. He also learned that machine-made paper shrank more than hand-made, and that the shrinking was irregular as it shrank more in one direction than another. This is due to the fact that the paper fibres are stretched more in one direction than another in the course of manufacture, and the tension in the finished paper is removed by dampening. In conclusion Mr. Westoby accounts for the fact that the ovals on later prints do differ in size from those of earlier issues as follows:—

"And now I will endeavor to account for the fact, which I conceded, that the major axis of the oval is for the most part longer in the stamps from 1861 onwards than in those printed prior to that date. The majority of those printed in 1861 were from the new plates, and on machine-made paper. Machine-made paper is not so hard as that made by hand; it is more spongy and imbibes the water more freely. In this state it is printed on, and the tendency of the copper-plate printing process is to lengthen the sheet. In typographic printing, whether it is done in the ordinary book-printing press or in one adapted for surface printing, the pressure is applied vertically. The copper-plate printing press is a roller press, and its action tends to stretch the damp paper on the plate as it passes under the roller, and this dilation of the paper is greater in the soft machine-made paper than in the harder hand-made paper.

I therefore have not the shadow of a doubt upon the question, and attribute the variations in size entirely to the shrinking of the paper. The stamps were all the product of the same dies, and there are no varieties in type such as a philatelist would acknowledge. If a collector likes to possess stamps showing the extreme differences in the appearance of the medallions, that is a different matter, and one upon which I refrain from offering any opinion. Each collector must judge for himself."

EDITORIAL.

Early—The Kansas City Stamp Club is an enterprising organization and it takes time by the fore-lock by nominating three of its leaders for Board of Vice-Presidents of the American Philatelic Society, Messrs. Wilson D. Wood, Allen Logan and Wm. C. Michaels, respectively. All of these gentlemen are known to those who have attended recent conventions of the national organization and it is good to think that the A.P.S. can attract men of the caliber of these to its offices. It is a labor of love to fill the positions in the big national society and the success of the society depends greatly upon the capacity of its officers.

Found—We are pleased to print the following letter from Mr. Henry C. Needham of New York: "Some months ago, you had an editorial in the matter of stamps which Frank Godden, Limited, had sent to Frank Marquis of this city, on approval; and by Mr. Marquis lost at the time he was taken sick in a Third Avenue car. Other stamps were lost at the same time, including a small lot belonging to Mr. Giwelb of Brighton, England, and a large lot of U. S. items belonging to Mr. Marquis. It is with pleasure that I now have to advsie you that most of the stamps so lost, and belonging to Frank Godden, Limited, London, England, have been found and duly forwarded to the owner. At the same time some of the items belonging to Mr. Giwelb were found and have been sent to him. All these stamps were returned to me on February 11th. There has been a steady pursuit of the goods for a period of six months. I am most gratified at the result and trust that a short editorial by you will bring to the attention of dealers and collectors the unusual notice of lost stamps having been found and returned. Mr. Marquis advises me that the fine items owned by him have not been found as yet but that he is hopeful that soon he will make a complete recovery of them." We rejoice that such satisfactory progress has been made in this difficult case and we shall hope that the rule that lost, strayed or stolen property is not recovered be wholly disproved.

Canal—From Mr. Revere Carpenter, we have received an interesting extract from Philip S. Marden's "Sailing South", published by Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston, copyright 1921, that tells "how a postage stamp was instrumental in determining the location of the Panama Canal." We shall summarize the story. In speaking of Panama and its ancient aspects, the writer tells of the remnant of an old church. Only a singularly long and flat brick arch endures as a mute survival of the earthquakes of Panama; it is a testimonial to their "reasonable gentleness". This arch in conjunction with a Nicaraguan postage stamp is said to have determined the site of the Panama Canal. The Nicaraguan postage stamp pictured a volcano in action, which was a graphic refutation of Nicaragua's boast at the time that it enjoyed a comparative immunity from seismic disturbances and a senator is alleged to have made the most of the condemnatory stamp. The specimen proved that there certainly was a volcano in Nicaragua and that moreover a wharf is pictured on the stamp badly wrecked by the self-same volcano's eruption. This is one of the best stamp tales imaginable and it may be confidently advanced as a masterpiece. If the story is true, and we cannot say that it is not, by any means, the writer is justified in saying that "little things are always altering the big things in the course of history". We suppose that the fatal stamp was of the 1900 type.

Warns—It is well that collectors be advised that it is no longer allowed to import unused Canadian postage stamps into Canada. Our post office department has been notified by the Canadian authorities to that effect and the prohibition is effective at once. Certainly, there is no disposition to interfere with philatelic traffic and it may be that the regulation would not be imposed too strictly in the case of legitimate philatelic transactions.

Press—Publicity for stamps is coming in greater degree than ever before. No longer is it possible for us to give all instances attention; and this observation is made gladly. When we contrast the years past when we were alert to make capital out of almost every reference in the outside press to philately, with the present time when notices are at every hand, we hail the change. We must speak of Mr. George M. Emery's feature story in the Public Ledger of Sunday, February 19, 1922, "The World's Greatest Fakes", being an account of the embracive reprint, counterfeit, etc., collection of Mr. Eugene Klein, Philadelphia, the counterfeit detector of the American Philatelic Society. The bang-up article is illustrated and occupies almost a full page. In another article that we noticed recently, the term "super-collector" was used to designate the much advanced and sophisticated philatelist. By the way, we hope that there is a "central bureau" somewhere that keeps all or many of these stamp articles, as it is quite necessary that they be preserved for purposes of record.

BUSINESS CONSOLIDATION.

Our advertising columns contain the information that a consolidation has been effected between the Allen Sears Inc. of Kansas City, Mo., and the Sioux Stamp Co. of Sioux Falls, S. Dak. The name of the new incorporated body will be the Sioux Stamp Co. Inc., and offices will be maintained at Sioux Falls and Kansas City. At both offices there will be carried a full stock of stamps and supplies.

TUBBS SUCCEEDS FOX.

The large quarter page advertisement of C. Lee Tubbs, San Diego, Cal., carries with it the information that he has purchased the entire stock of John L. Fox of the same city, with whom he has been in partnership during the past year.

Mr. Tubbs is well and favorably known in San Diego and will maintain the high standard that has marked the previous conduct of the firm's business. We think it best to quote the following from a letter just at hand from Mr. Fox: It is somewhat personal and will be read with interest:—

"Mr. Tubbs has been an enthusiastic collector for the past ten years. He is well and favorably known in this city among our younger businessmen. For the past six months he has been handling parts of my business as sales manager, so I am confident that he will satisfy all of my many customers from the start.

My recent appointment as Secretary of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce left me no time to continue the business—hence the change. I desire to thank you for your many business courtesies, for the pleasing success which MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS brought to my business through advertising therein, and also many of your advertisers and subscribers for the pleasant business relations which I temporarily terminate with regret. Good luck to you and to them."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—If parties victimized by Mark Hanna, New Kensington, Pa., will write O. W. Crowder, 3124 Abell Ave., Baltimore, Md., they will receive valuable cooperation in the settlement of their claims.

—The Akron (Ohio) Sunday Times of Feb. 12 contained a fine story about the Rubber City Stamp Club. A picture is shown portraying the features of some twenty-six members of the organization. The club meets every Wednesday and D. R. Heath is president and J. E. Crouch secretary-treasurer.

—We have received a pricelist of sets issued by the Leader Stamp Co., 308 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo. It covers both United States and foreign stamps and will be sent to anyone upon request.

—Ernest Poole's last novel, "Beggars' Gold", features a stamp collection around which in a way the story turns. While the details are not numerous, yet it plays a sufficient part to make clear that the author knows something about stamps and appreciates their value both as a recreation and as a business.—J. I. WYER.

—The Stamp Shoppe, Inc., have two interesting items in their sale of March 9. We note a 24c 1869 invert and a 2c Pan-American invert used.

—A pricelist is at hand from E. T. Parker, Bethlehem, Pa. It covers a large number of stamps singly and in addition many sets are also priced. A specimen upon request.

—We are indebted to J. J. Prendergast for a page clipping from the Boston Evening Transcript, which tells the story of "Counterfeit Stamps in Prison for Life with One Man Keeping Guard". The article features the Eugene Klein collection of counterfeit stamps and a fine picture of Mr. Klein seated at his desk is a striking feature of the story. The article is written by Geo. M. Emery, whose publicity work has been frequently commented upon in our columns.

68th AUCTION SALE --- March 21, 22 and 24

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Through the courtesy of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing I am able to bring our list of plate numbers up to February 17, 1922. It will be noted that a few older plates omitted from the previous Bureau list are included.

It will be noted from the above list that four plates have been made for the 10c coil stamps but from the information received recently from the Bureau I am informed that only two of them were used for the early run. Six plates of the 2c stamp of four hundred subjects for the rotary press are included and this means that we will possibly soon have the 2c perforated 10, similar to the present 1c. It will also be seen that a new set of 50c plates of the flat type as well as four 5c coil plates, the first made for a number of months are on the list.

Mr. A. C. Holly sends for inspection a copy of the current 2c circular die, entire, die A, size 5, in a very peculiar shade of red brown. This does not appear to be a changeling and is possibly a combination of the black ink for the return card being mixed with the regular red ink. It has been used by a firm located in Paullina, Iowa.

Messrs. R. H. Mason and E. C. Brown have shown me a few new provisional envelopes not listed heretofore.

Mr. C. B. Allison sends a clipping from the Sioux Falls Press of February 14, 1922, calling attention to the 5c red error which has been found in that Post Office. This is no doubt our former friend from plate number 7942 and the information is somewhat late.

AUSTRIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. send us six values of a new set of stamps recently issued. At the top of each value are the letters "Osterreich". The 75h show the face of a man and the value is at the base; the 1k and 7½k have the word "Kronen" at the base with the figure in the centre; 10k and 50k are similar in design, but larger in size, while the 25k show the front view of a native and is larger than the former values. The first three stamps are of red brown shade, while the 10 and 50k are grey blue and the 25k deep blue. Each stamp bears the name of W. Dachauer in small letters at the base. Mr. F. F. E. Kopecky also submits a copy of the 25k for inspection.

CANADA.—Frank Pollard Brown advises that the color of the current 5c stamp has been changed from blue to purple.

Mr. J. Abram informs us that the 5c blue King George is going to appear in purple. This is official. He expects that the 1c and 2c will be issued in new colors.

We are indebted to Hector M. MacLean for the following items:—

Under date of Nov. 5 the P. O. Department announced the surcharging of the ordinary 2c post-cards for foreign use with "6 cents" in accord with the new rates. All 2c postal union cards were ordered returned.

The following extract is taken from a recent Postal Bulletin:—"A 2c postcard and stamped envelope upon which the postage stamp impression is printed in green will shortly be issued".

Cancelled postage stamps may hereafter be sent to places outside of Canada by parcel post.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 50h, type of Scott's A6, in a yellow green shade. Also the 75h, type A2, with the surcharge "50 Doplatit" in two lines in blue.

GUADELOUPE.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the appearance of the following new colors in the 1905-7 type. 5c blue, 10c green, 25c olive, 30c red, 50c blue.

In These Days of Doubtful Value When Greenbacks No Longer Rustle From every huckleberry bush, the chap who put his money in old U. S. and other classics can sit back and view his collection as a tidy little savings account.

J. O. MOORE, Inc., Rheims, N. Y.

IVORY COAST.—The Economist Stamp Co. send the following new shades in the 1913-17 set: 5c brown and bistre, 10c light green and grey green, 25c black and purple, 30c orange and red and 50c bright blue and dark blue.

JUGO SLAVIA.—Mr. A. H. Luck advises that he has recently received a copy of No. 434, 10 green, ½ used triangular.

LATVIA.—Mr. Karl Koslowski sends us the following information, "I have the opportunity of again sending you the news that additional values of the present Arms type set have appeared. This to comply with the new and higher rates of postage, 50k, 9r and 15r. I am unable to inform you of the new colors of the first and last values, but the 9r is dull orange shade".

MOZAMBIQUE.—The Economist Stamp Co. send us the following new shades in the current type: 60c brown on salmon, 80c brown on blue, 1e rose red and 2e purple on salmon.

NICARAGUA.—Mr. Victor Seitz advises that he has the 15c dark blue and the 4c orange revenue stamps surcharged "R de C Vale Co .01". Mr. Seitz raises the question as to whether these stamps are not used as a stamp tax on foreign letters, as they do not carry the word "Correos" same as of the many other surcharges.

ST. HELENA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 1d green, 1½d red and 3d blue in the current type.

ST. PIERRE & MIQUELON.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the following new colors in the current type: 5c blue and grey, 10c green and olive green, 25c bistre brown and green, 30c red and orange and 50c deep blue and blue.

SAMOA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us a very attractive set of stamps just placed on sale for this colony. The design shows the flag at the left and at the right a native hut. At the top are the words "Samoa Postage and Revenue" in three lines and at the base the words and figures of value. The colors are as follows: ½d yellow green, 1d red, 1½d brown, 2d yellow, 2½d grey blue, 3d brown, 4d purple, 5d ultramarine, 6d rose, 8d brown, 9d olive and 1sh orange red.

UPPER SILESIA.—Mr. Chas. Metz informs us that he has the following varieties for chronicle: No. 226, surcharged "C. G. H. S." vertically; No. 235, inverted surcharge and also double surcharge inverted.

URUGUAY.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit to us a set of three stamps with the likeness of Jose Enrique Rodo which are of the following values and colors: 2c red and grey, 4c orange and grey and 5c blue and grey.

1619-20-21-22.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1619 to 1622 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

The Most Sensational Offer Made in U. S. Stamps for Some Time

Every lot consists of four stamps, the rarest one of which is described; n r ly all others are fine, some of them are slightly defective but of good app r ance. We suggest that these lots be requested for inspection, but in o e to avoid unnecessary correspondence, it would be advisable to ask for more lots than are desired, as on account of the exceptionally low prices, ev lot may not always be available. Those intending to purchase one lot, would do better to request three for inspection, those interested in 5 lots, sh preferably ask for 10 or 15, if interested in 10 lots, for 20 or 30, etc. Anyone unknown to us, should send the customary reference.

HUH?

TO THE EDITOR:

Your issue of Feb. 11th, with its pleasant little notice (the second one, I believe) about the article "Stamp Frauds and Their Detection", in our January number, is brought to my attention by our mutual friend Percy Doane. I'm mighty glad you liked this little piece, but your notice to this effect raises a scientific question that puzzles me greatly.

The fact is, I was under the impression that I had written this article myself. I was under the impression that I had borrowed the pages from Mr. Doane's counterfeit collection, and from his counter the philatelic paraphernalia, employed in illustrating this article; and that our managing editor, our staff photographer, and myself had spent a busy afternoon posing and exposing these items. Even more strange, Mr. Doane himself was under the impression that it was to me he loaned the counterfeit collection for the purpose, and from me that he got it back again. But it seems that we were both mistaken, and that the person who did all this was one Mr. George B. Newton, Jr. If the delusion that it was I were confined to me, I should bear my cross in silent bewilderment; but the fact that Mr. Doane shares the obsession with me prompts me to appeal for light. If the psychological member of your staff will elucidate this extraordinary phenomenon, he will oblige me greatly.

As a matter of fact, the thing does not stop there. I was under the impression that the handsome party whose countenance, rather long and lean and unidirectional in contour, adorns the pictures that appear with this story, was myself. Most of my friends—all of them who have seen the story, in fact—have been of the same opinion. How account for this collective aspect of the hallucination?

Again, I am under the impression that the arrangement of Mr. Doane's counterfeit collection was done by me several years ago, and from time to time since then; and that my knowledge of it thus acquired enabled me to make a reasonably advantageous selection from the thousands of copies which it contains. Am I to infer that this, too, is a mistake, and that the official custodian of this collection all this time has been George B. Newton, Jr.?

Incidentally, will you be good enough to inform me, and perhaps through your columns a considerable number of your puzzled New York readers, just who in the name of the Sacred Horned Cow—the one that appears on the Moldavia stamps which for some unaccountable reason are absent alike from my specialized collection of Roumania and from my collection of early issues — in the name of this interesting animal, I entreat, will you inform us who this guy George B. Newton, Jr., is; and why; and how he gets that way; and just what his bright little idea is, anyhow? I can assure you that he is neither the philatelic member nor any other old kind of a member of the editorial staff of the Scientific American; and that so far as the charter members of the Percy G. Doane Sitting Club are concerned, he is totally unknown to them as well.

ESTABLISHED SINCE 1903 IN LONDON. [1st v.

I forgot to mention that even now, as I look at the Table of Contents of our January issue, (the Table of Contents, on the With-The-Editors page, you know, not the by-line of the story itself), I am of the impression that my name is carried there, in black and white, as the author of Mr. Newton's story. How do you suppose the old paper ever came to make such a bull as this?

Very truly yours,

J. MALCOLM BIRD,
Associate Editor, Scientific American,
Philatelic Member of the Staff,
Charter Member, Percy G. Doane Sitting Club.

(Of course you may; what do you suppose I wrote it for?)

(But for the love of Pete, score one for yourself by spelling my name right; there are two L's, at separate points, in Malcolm, and there is no Y in Bird.)

['Twould be profanation to change a comma of the foregoing communique. It is so good that it caused a smile on our wan countenance. Do not blame Mr. Newton for the mistake; we did it, but how, why and wherefore we wot not. We glory in our guilt, for if we had not erred, Mr. Bird would not handed us thirty dollars' worth of sparkling stuff for nary a pistareen.—EDITOR.]

MORE ABOUT LIBAU, LATVIA.

By KARL KOSLOWSKI.

I note in a recent issue that claims are being presented against George H. Jaeger of Libau. Regarding this I think it would be best for American philatelists to keep away from Libau. This place has been infested by a stamp scourge and quite recently by a flock of counterfeiters. A recent issue of a Lettish newspaper just at hand devotes considerable space to the news that certain counterfeiters have just been apprehended. Fine 1000 mark banknotes have been printed by the wholesale, being so well executed that the Berlin banks could recognize them only by the thickness of the paper. Whereupon loads of faked Latvia stamps made in Germany have flooded the former country.

Several important stamp export firms in Libau dealing in stamps have failed to function. One party is James Wheeler-Hill, Jr., whose application for membership in the A.P.S. was recently rejected.

It would be for the good of philately if George H. Jaeger as a member of the A.P.S. and also of the A.S.D.A. would kindly let the philatelic world have the much desired news of the dark spots in the Latvian stamp manipulations.

HOW "PINK BACK" STAMPS ARE FORMED.

By S. G. RICH, Department of Chemistry, Concord State Normal, Athens, W. Va.

The "pink back" of the 2 cent, 3 cent and Special Delivery stamps of the U. S. is not a variety deliberately produced, nor is it due to any change in the ink ordered for the printing of these stamps. It is not found on every stamp of these denominations printed in "aniline ink". The origin of this variety is, however, perfectly clear to the chemist.

It is probably known to most philatelists that dyes of coal-tar origin are the principal coloring matters of many of the inks now used for printing stamps. Owing to the superior brilliance of hue, and the fact that they are entirely free from grit, these colors have in large measure superseded the mineral pigments used in former days. Moreover, it is possible in many cases in which a more brilliant color is not desired, to secure aniline colors in a finer state of division—in a powder of finer grains—than the corresponding mineral colors. This advantage holds even for many colors artificially made, such as ultramarine. In that case, for example, the synthetic ultramarine is exactly the same substance as the finely ground lapis-lazuli that was used up to within half a century. Today it is probable that very few stamps of ultramarine color are printed with ink actually containing ultramarine; the modern inks contain other pigments, of coal tar origin, blended to give the same tint. Methylene blue, which has high coloring power, is probably a chief constituent of many of these inks.

It is well known to chemists that aniline and cellulose give a product of a pink color, soluble in water. The pink color is formed more readily when the cellulose has been subjected to too long a bleaching action under either chlorine or calcium hypochlorite, forming the substance hydrocellulose. Aniline itself, or aniline oil, as it is called to distinguish it from products of aniline, is extensively used in the rubber industry, with the result that sometimes a small amount of it exists unchanged in the finished product. As this oil is somewhat volatile, it penetrates as vapor into articles in contact with the rubber or close to it, with ease. The pink color produced by the reaction between aniline and cellulose is, for example, found in the canvas linings of some rubber shoes, and occasionally in cotton goods that have been close to tires in freight cars. These goods, as well as linen and paper, are almost pure cellulose.

In the case of textiles, the pink coloring matter will wash out readily, as it is in a position to get full contact with water.

The "pink back" stamps would appear thus to be printed with inks which contain along with the colors derived from aniline, a small amount of unchanged aniline oil. This reacts with the cellulose of the paper, forming the pink compound on its fibers, but of course directly under the ink for the most part. The question will arise why the color does not soak out when the stamps are placed in water. Examination of a number of pink back specimens of the 2 cent shows me that this actually does occur, but that, owing to the position of the pink matter under the ink and the relatively short time the stamps are wet in soaking them off the cover, only a small part of the pink matter dissolves away. Specimens of pink back stamps left a longer time in water show a distinct weakening of the pink color.

It remains to be remarked that the quantity of aniline needed to produce the pink color is very small. In one case, cited in the Scientific American of February, 1922, the aniline left after curing 70 lbs. of rubber—perhaps a tenth of an ounce—affected a large amount of fabric with the pink color.

The pink back stamps are all the product of the period since the making of coal-tar colors in this country began. In the effort to keep their factories going and still meet foreign competition, our manufacturers of dyes have not been able to spend in all cases the money necessary to remove all the uncombined aniline from their products. Hence the pink backs of stamps in whose inks these colors are used.

A New Blank Album

made exactly like the famous "Oriel" but without the fancy trimmings. This new album is canvas bound, has fifty leaves of the finest possible quadrille ruled paper and has the same peg attachment as the Oriel. When we say this book is just as fine an Album as anyone needs, we are going pretty strong but we mean it. Oriels may be imitated, which some people say is "the sincerest form of flattery."

EMCO AGAIN TRIUMPHS

Following close on to our record announcement of two weeks ago we now announce the purchase of the Marshall collection of Toronto. For condition, range of variety and completeness of individual countries this collection is unsurpassed. Among others it contains
U. S. early issues unused and used, proofs, etc., in beautiful condition;
Canada complete except 12 pence. Shades, pairs, blocks, etc., etc.;
Ceylon, practically complete. Wonderful range in all the different Australian States;
Great Britain Specialized;
Superb representation of all British America, especially St. Vincent, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island;
Number of excellent "Old Europes" from every country, in fact its five exceptionally large volumes are brimming over with stamps, superb in every way.

If You Have a Want List

send it to us with a first class reference. Selections by countries sent on approval to all collectors really interested in fine conditioned stamps at reasonable prices (not half catalogue). Our last two purchases have added over $75,000 worth of stamps to our own large stock, making it the most representative stock, without question, in America.

RELATIVE SCARCITY OF USED BLOCKS OF 19TH CENTURY U. S. STAMPS.

By HUBERT LYMAN CLARK.

1861-1868.—In discussing the stamps in use during and after the Civil War, I refer to the commonest variety of each value. The shades and grilles will greatly affect the value of blocks offered at auction. The 3c rose is a fairly common block and a good one is worth about a dollar, while the 3c red is rarer and is worth twice as much. The 3c pink is a real rarity — I know of but one — and ought to be worth over fifty dollars, but owing to the difficulty of feeling sure of the shade, this block would never sell for a price commensurate with its catalog value and rarity. The 10c is probably next to the 3c in commonness, but it is a hard block to find and a good quartette is easily worth ten dollars. The 12c is still more rare and a good block should bring twenty dollars. The 24c is not much more scarce than the 12c and we may call twenty-five dollars a fair starting price. Mr. Sampson considers the 24c more common than the 12c. The 90c is fully as common as either the 12c or the 24c, but owing to its high catalogue value, it will bring a much higher price. It really is not worth over forty dollars, however, unless very fine indeed. The 2c is much less common than the 90c, but of course will not bring a comparable price; a well-centered block with good cancellation is certainly worth fifteen dollars. The 1c is surprisingly rare in blocks of four. I have never seen a block, tho I have heard of several. Such a piece would be worth fifteen dollars and up. Mr. Sampson considers the 1c more common than the 90c. The 5c brown is another rare one, worth twenty dollars and up, according to shade, and the 5c buff, of which I know of one block, on cover, by the way, would certainly be well worth a hundred dollars if it were really fine. The 15c black is surprisingly rare and I think a superb, well centered block of 4 ought to be worth forty dollars. I should rank the 30c as the rarest stamp of the issue in a used block. Mr. Sampson considers it less rare than the 5c, a little more rare than the 2c. At any rate, its scarcity is very surprising in view of the relative commonness of the 30c 1869. I do not think fifty dollars would be too high a price for a good block of the 1861, 30c.

1869.—Probably no perforated issue of United States stamps is so popular as this one and used blocks are in exceptional demand. There is no doubt that the commonest stamp of the series in this form is the 30c. This statement will be a surprise to many, for I have repeatedly had experienced collectors point to my block of four with some remark like, "That must be a rare one," and whenever blocks of this 30c have been offered to me by dealers, they have almost always been accompanied by some annotation as to the rarity. It is certainly a curious fact that whereas blocks of the 30c, 1861, either without or with grille, are very rare, altho the stamp was in use nearly eight years, and blocks of the 30c, 1873, 1879 and 1888 issues are of real rarity, the 30c 1869, in use hardly more than a year, is probably more common in used blocks than any other United States stamp issued before 1880, except the 3c rose of 1861 and later years, and the 1c and 3c issues of 1873 and later. Blocks of 4 are not at all uncommon, as blocks go, blocks of 6, 8 and 9 may hardly be called rarities, and I know of at least one block of twelve. A possible explanation of this situation is that the 90c was never on sale at many offices, and in many places, therefore, when a considerable amount of postage was needed, multiples of the 30c were used, and the stamps themselves being square, square or oblong blocks were used more frequently than strips. Owing to the beauty of the stamp and the considerable amount of money involved, these blocks were rarely if ever thrown away or destroyed, and hence persist to the present day. The 90c of the 1870-71 issue was, however, widely distributed and the multiple use of 30c stamps became greatly restricted.

Next to the 30c the 1c stamp of the 1869 series is the most common, while the 3c is somewhat more rare. The 90c is undoubtedly the next most common block of this issue. I have known of four or five different blocks of four and at least one block of six that have been sold in the past five years, so that this 90c cannot be considered of very great rarity in used blocks. The 24c comes next, and then the 2c, 10c, 12c and 15c. These are all real rarities, however. I have seen only one 10c block and one 12c, and only two 24c. The 2c I have not seen, but I have known of two blocks, and Mr. Sampson would list it between the 90c and 24c. The 6c and 15c in blocks I have never seen, but Mr. Sampson has seen a block of each. When it comes to prices, the 30c, 1c and 3c are the only ones for which we have any criterion of value. The 30c in a block of four brings from $16 to $42 at auction this winter, according to condition, so we may call $25-$30 a fair price for an average block. Anyone who pays over forty dollars, unless the block has a noteworthy cancellation and is in superb condition, is getting "let-in"! If, then, we value the 30c at $25, a block of the 1c is worth about ten dollars and the 3c ought to be worth about 40c. But such a block is so unusual and attractive a piece that it has to be unusually off center and poor not to bring ten times forty cents. A really good block of the 1869 3c is a good bargain at anything less than four dollars. Again recalling twenty-five dollars as the fair price for a 30c block, we must put an average block of 24c stamps, at $150, of the 2c at $15, of the 10c at $75, of the 12c at $75 and the 15c, even in the cheaper form, at at least $100. Probably $75 would be a low figure to set on a block of the 6c; unless very poor, it would probably bring above a hundred dollars at auction this winter. A block of the 12c has just sold in a Boston auction for $104, and while the appearance was very good, it was not superb.

1870-1882.—In dealing with the stamps of this period, I plead guilty to being a poor guide or worse! I confess I can't tell the different papers and printings apart and even the secret marks on some of the values are too secret for me. Hence in my own collection I am guided wholly by design and color, with some attention to shade and to secret marks when they are obvious. I have a block of the 90c carmine; so far as I can see it has no grille. I call it No. 155 because that has the least catalogue value and if ever I am told by an expert that it is No. 166 or No. 191, I shall be that much better off! Whether one accepts my happy-go-lucky system or not, I think there can be no question that the 3c is the commonest block in all of the printings except 1882 (which Mr. Sampson tells me is very rare), and the 1c is next. Neither the 6c nor 10c can be called really rare. The 90c and 15c come next, with the 2c vermilion about as rare. The 5c brown, Garfield, is more common than the 5c blue Taylor, but

K.A.A.

A Dublin paper says:—

"If Ireland is to depart from the precedent of the other Dominions, and have totally new stamps of her own, it is to be hoped, at least, that they will have some artistic merit, and not be, like so many of the new stamps which are being poured forth by Central European and other States, philatelic monstrosities.

"One feature of the competition, which will meet with general approval, is that no representation of a personal nature will be permitted. All the designs, to be submitted to the Postmaster-General, must be symbolical in character, and the inscriptions must be in Gaelic characters. Full information may be obtained from the Secretary, General Post Office, 16 Upper Sackville Street, Dublin.

"Philatelists will eagerly await the new issue. In this connexion, it is interesting to note that the King is an enthusiastic collector of stamps, and he will, in all likelihood, be keenly interested in the new stamps of the Irish Free State."

A Gaelic overprint is being applied to the current postage stamps of Great Britain for use in the territory of the Irish Free State. At the time of going to press, we learn that these overprinted stamps are to be issued this week, and that they will be quickly followed by the permanent issue which is the object of the prize competition referred to above.

The adoption of Gaelic characters for the provisional overprint, as well as for the projected permanent stamps, is a sidelight on the present state of affairs in Ireland, for less than ten per-cent. of the whole population of that country speak or even understand Gaelic.

The translation of the overprint is "Provisional Government of Ireland, 1922." It is, of course, quite possible that an inscription in English may supersede the Gaelic overprint, but readers can be sure of the latest definite news in due course.

We understand that the Irish Postmaster-General is in London and in close consultation with the British Postmaster-General.—Stamp Collecting.

both are very hard to find. The 30c and 12c are very uncommon, and the 2c brown and 7c are very rare indeed. I have never seen the 24c in a used block, but Mr. Sampson tells me he formerly had one. Of course the value of any of these blocks will depend on their accurate classification by the catalogue, as well as on their condition. The prices that I am about to give may be regarded as the minimum price for the printing with lowest catalog value. Thus a block of four of the 3c green, in good used condition, is worth about fifty cents, but this means the 1879 printing. Specialists in U. S. would no doubt consider the printing of 1873 worth twice as much, and that of 1871, three times a half-dollar, while that of 1882 would be worth very much more still. No doubt a block of the same stamp with well marked grille would bring several dollars. A good block of the 1c is worth from fifty cents up; the 6c, a dollar and up, and the 10c about the same. A good 90c block is worth ten dollars and the 15c is a bargain at three dollars. The 2c vermilion is worth a dollar and a half or more, the 5c Garfield, two dollars, and the 5c Taylor, two and a half or three dollars. The 30c is cheap at five dollars, but most blocks I have seen were in poor condition. The 12c is a good buy at twelve or fifteen dollars, and the 2c brown is cheap at three dollars. The last auction price that I have noted for a block of 4 of the 2c brown was $7.10; the block was very fine, obviously postally used, but lightly cancelled; the price, however, was really excessively high. The 7c, a very popular and desirable stamp, is worth twenty dollars in a good used block of four, and at auction such a block would certainly bring more. I should consider a good block of the 24c as a bargain at anything less than fifty dollars. If a block of four of the 30c 1869 is ever worth forty dollars, an equally fine block of the 24c 1871 is certainly worth over a hundred.

R. I. P. S. ANNIVERSARY.

The 37th annual meeting of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society was held in the Wesminster Tea Rooms, Providence, Tuesday evening, February 21. Thirty members and guests were present to enjoy the excellent dinner and entertainment provided by the committee, consisting of Messrs. Chambers, Mason and Chapin.

The officers of the previous year were all re-elected. The president is E. Tudor Gross and the secretary-treasurer, C. D. Skinner, Jr.

C. A. Howes of Boston, was present and gave an interesting account of his early collecting. Wm. C. Stone of Springfield, Mass., was the guest of honor and gave some "Early Reminiscences". It was a most interesting talk. After the speaking, the members present examined two collections of early U. S., one blocks of four and the other the 1869 issue.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER VII.

The Introduction of Perforation.

Although England had adopted perforation in 1854 it was not introduced by the Belgian government until 1863, and even then the authorities were forced to take action largely as the result of threatened private enterprise. Machines capable of perforating a single line were employed by many stationers in the 'sixties and among the firms owning a primitive perforator of this kind was Gouweloos Frères, of the Rue Brogniez, Brussels. This firm offered to sell a machine to the government but knowing the slowness with which officialdom usually moves they at the same time announced their readiness to perforate sheets of stamps for private individuals or firms at the small cost of 5 centimes (1c) per sheet of 300 stamps.

This woke the government up to the necessity of doing something in the matter so a committee was hastily named which, in its turn (following an inevitable law in things of this sort) named a sub-committee. The sub-committee went in a body to the manufacturers for the purpose of examining the proposed machine. One of the engineers eyed it with disdain and at once put his veto on it because, according to him, it was not worthy of the country; he wanted something big and more imposing looking. The machine being only a trifle larger than a sewing machine appeared altogether too insignificant and, besides, the price asked for it was 2400 francs. The remaining members of the sub-committee agreed with the adverse report. But the public had become interested in the matter and seeing the innovation likely to be postponed indefinitely, clamoured for it all the more. Then the government took a prudent step to get out of the difficulty and made a contract with Gouweloos for the perforation of a certain number of sheets of stamps per day with a minimum output of five hundred. It also agreed to acquire the machine if, by its success, the fallibility of the investigating committee should be proved.

Having made the contract the powers that be hastened to acquaint the public of the good news by means of a decree dated March 24th, 1863, viz.:—

"Perforation of the Sheets of Postage Stamps.

To carry out a decision of the Minister of Public Works, the sheets of postage stamps shall, in future, be perforated; in order to permit of the easy separation of stamps from one another. In order to delay as little as possible the convenience thus offered to the public, the post-offices will receive, immediately after receipt of their orders for the month following, perforated sheets which they shall immediately place in distribution, after the exhaustion, however, of the sheets which have already been broken. At the same time the postmasters are to send to the Custodian of Stamps, in order that they may be perforated, all unbroken sheets which they may still have in stock and which will be returned to them with as little delay as possible."

Mr. Bouvez says the perforated stamps were first placed on sale on May 1st, 1863, while other writers say April 11th. We have been unable to trace any official notice stating a definite date but judging by the above quoted announcement the perforated stamps were intended to be placed on sale early in April. The new issue chroniclers of the time seem to have paid scant heed to the innovation and the only item we can find relating to the matter is an obscure paragraph in the Stamp Collectors' Magazine for June 1st, 1863, viz.:—"The Belgians, who would not presume to dream of anticipating the French in any improvement, are about to follow their example by adopting the perforating system." Mr. de Bont writes:—

"Perforated stamps were first issued officially on April 11, 1863, but perforated copies are found bearing an earlier date than this. Certain banks and other large institutions, where a great number of stamps were used every day, had already made arrangements with the firm to perforate stamps for them, which was done for quite a small figure."

The actual date the perforated stamps were circulated under official auspices must, therefore, in the absence of any documentary evidence to the contrary, remain unsettled, for as those perforated privately by Gouweloos came from the same machine there is, of course, no means of telling one from the other.

In his article in the American Journal of Philately Mr. Bouvez makes a statement regarding which we have failed to find the slightest corroboration elsewhere. He writes:—"About six months before the appearance of the preceding decree (the one quoted above) certain post offices, desiring to facilitate their operations of sale, and in imitation of the system already in use elsewhere, provided themselves with rouletting machines, by which they secured in advance the advantages accruing from the perforating of sheets. These machines produced several varieties of rouletting." It is certainly remarkable that if such semi-official rouletting took place that no one but Mr. Bouvez has ever considered it of sufficient importance to remark on it. But not only is this statement made but we are also given a list of no less than fourteen different towns in which these rouletted stamps are alleged to have been sold. We are frankly sceptical as to the existence of any rouletted varieties but we are open to conviction, and if any reader has such things, especially on cover, we would greatly appreciate the opportunity of inspecting them.

Although postmasters were instructed to return all unbroken sheets of imperforate stamps on hand at the time of the publication of the decree dated March 24th, a comparatively small quantity was returned to be perforated. The totals were 1 centime, 170 sheets; 10 centimes, 221 sheets; 20 centimes, 152 sheets; and 40 centimes, only 29 sheets. These figures are given by Mr. Bouvez and were, presumably, obtained from official sources.

These stamps exist with several distinct varieties of perforation due to punches of different gauges having been used. It is generally conceded that the stamps first perforated had a gauge of 12½ and shortly afterwards the stamps appeared with a gauge measuring 12½ by 13½. As the perforating machine only perforated a single line at a time this combination appears difficult to account for. Mr. Castle points out that the 13½ gauge is only found in combination with the 12½ and that in these compounds the 12½ measurement is almost invariably found at top and bottom of the stamps. It is hardly likely Gouweloos took the trouble to change the sets of punches so that one set was used to perforate the horizontal rows and another the vertical one. Indeed it is highly questionable if this firm noted or knew there was the slightest difference in the size of the holes made by the different sets of punches.

FROM THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD OF FEB. 17, 1922.

Illustrations of Foreign Postage and Revenue Stamps.

Mr. Edge. I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of Senate Bill 2703, which was introduced by my colleague [Mr. Frelinghuysen]. I am quite sure the bill will not lead to any opposition whatever.

The Presiding Officer (Mr. Spencer). The Senator from New Jersey asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill named by him. Is there objection?

Mr. Curtis. Let the bill be reported.

Mr. King. Reserving the right to object, I ask that the bill may be reported.

The Presiding Officer. The Secretary will state the bill by title.

The Assistant Secretary. A bill (S. 2703) amending an act to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States.

Mr. Edge. I shall be very glad briefly to explain the object of the bill if I may secure unanimous consent for its present consideration.

Mr. Underwood. Will not the Senator allow the bill to be read at length? We can not understand the object of the measure until it shall have been read.

Mr. Edge. I ask that the bill may be read by the Secretary.

The Assistant Secretary read the bill.

Mr. Edge. Mr. President, undoubtedly, as a majority of Senators well know, my colleague is a very enthusiastic stamp collector This bill simply provides an amendment to the Penal Code in order that defaced dies may be used for the purpose of reproducing stamps for foreign countries. The bill has the approval of the Attorney General's Department and also of the Treasury officials who are in charge of matters relating to the printing of stamps. I trust the bill may receive the approval of the Senate.

Mr. King. I should like to ask the Senator from New Jersey whether the Post Office authorities are willing that this measure shall pass?

Mr. Edge. The Treasury officials have announced to the Committee on the Judiciary that they have no objection whatever to the passage of the act.

The Presiding Officer. Is there objection to the immediate consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on the Judiciary with an amendment to strike out all after the enacting clause, in the following words:

"That sections 161, 172 and 220 of the act entitled 'An act to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States,' approved March 4, 1909, are hereby amended by adding the following: 'Provided, That nothing in said sections shall be construed to forbid or prevent the printing or publishing illustrations of postage or revenue stamps from plates so defaced as to indicate that the illustrations are not adapted or intended for use as stamps, or to prevent or forbid the making of necessary plates therefor for use in philatelic or historical articles, books, journals, or albums, or the circulars of legitimate publishers or dealers in such stamps, books, journals, or albums: And provided further, That no such illustration shall be made in colors, and that no such illustration or plate shall be of a stamp of the United States.'"

And in lieu thereof to insert:

"That nothing in sections 161, 172 and 220 of the act entitled 'An act to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States,' approved March 4, 1909 (35 Stats. L., pp. 1118, 1121 and 1132), shall be construed to forbid or prevent the printing or publishing of illustrations of postage or revenue stamps from plates so defaced as to indicate that the illustrations are not adapted or intended for use as stamps, or to prevent or forbid the making of necessary plates therefor for use in philatelic or historical articles, books, journals, or albums, or the circulars of legitimate publishers or dealers in such stamps, books, journals, or albums; but no such illustration shall be made in colors, and no such illustration or plate shall be of a stamp of the United States.'"

The Presiding Officer. The question is on agreeing to the amendment reported by the committee in the nature of a substitute.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended and the amendment was concurred in,

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time and passed.

"The title was amended so as to read: A bill to allow the printing and publishing of illustrations of foreign postage and revenue stamps from defaced plates."

J. A. BARKER—J. R. BARKER.

A few weeks ago we announced that certain Ohio dealers had been defrauded by one J. A, Barker. Frank M. Mason calls our attention to the operations of one J. R. Barker with address, 4 Widner St., Toronto, Canada. Here is what Mr. Mason writes:—

"I wrote to one of his references and was told that Barker had treated them all right. I sent him some stamps but received no reply and when I saw the Barker notice in the WEEKLY, I wrote to his bank reference and the answer came, 'We know nothing of the party and he has no authority from us to use our name as reference'."

We publish this statement without prejudice believing that we are justified in stating the facts as given us by Mr. Mason.

1623-24-25-26.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1623 to 1626 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

EDITORIAL.

Hail—On the 21st of February, 1922, Messrs. Elmer A. Barry and Wm. Jerrems, Jr., of Kansas City, Mo., representing the Kansas City Stamp Club, aided in the organization of a stamp club at the Boys' Hotel, "which houses over one hundred and twenty homeless boys, ranging in age from twelve to twenty years, who are self-supporting. Twenty-five of these men of the future held a meeting and formed a stamp club in as expeditious and business-like a manner as men members of a stamp club could have done. Perhaps this announcement will not be considered as news of great moment but it has made a decided impression on us. Here we have a practical philatelic philanthropy in a most engaging aspect that is being busy as they are, yet give of their time to brighten the path-way of boys who have no homes. Stamp collecting may have a share in the making of some of these boys as our pursuit develops the mental side of the young without exacting a toll on their vitality. You who like boys and want each one of them to have a chance and who would be willing to do helpful work among them but who cannot spare the time (as many of us say) should know that donations of old used albums of any size or kind, catalogues, stamp literature and duplicates of stamps will be thankfully received by the boys of "The Stamp Club," % The Boys' Hotel, 1601 Admiral Boulevard, Kansas City, Mo. Mem. The Kansas City Stamp Club endorses the boys' club.

Russ—Old Soviet Russia shoots up a sky-rocket by saying through some accredited officer of the government that it intends to make "a philatelic country" out of Soviet Russia. We do not gather from the remarks that the nation is about to embark into the stamp business in competition with the dealers but the inference is that it is the intention to provide for the wants of the stamp collector in a free and fancy way. We trust that Russia will control its passion for liberty in the fullest sense as we have always had a feeling of compassion for the creaking printing-press. While the ink runs well, no low descending sun will set without shining on another issue done. Extry—We stop the presses long enough to say that a caller shows fifty of the one hundred rouble Russia which was just half of the number of the stamps on a letter received in Chicago from the home of the free.

Sale—While we are handling "foreign news" we cannot forbear to speak of the enterprise of the managers of the Ferrari auction sale in using high-priced advertising in some of our daily newspapers to tell of the forthcoming sale of the great accumulation which is being dispersed in Paris. We read: "U. S. postage stamps composing the Ferrari collection will be sold at the Hotel des Ventes in Paris, on 5th, 6th, 7th, April, 1922. Catalogues free on application. * * *." The foregoing words appeared as a reading notice in the Chicago Tribune and we should be interested in knowing how responsive the great general public is to an invitation of the kind.

Asks—From Mr. S. G. Powell, University of Washington, we have received the following communication: "I wonder if it is considered strictly honest to advertise and sell cancelled-to-order stamps as used stamps? I have no quarrel with those who wish to collect cancelled-to-order copies but I do think that we should apply the term 'used' to stamps which have actually been used to prepay postage, and to those only. To my mind a dealer who sells a cancelled-to-order copy as a used one is guilty of down-right dishonesty. This practice, in most cases, is merely a source of annoyance to the older collector; but to the younger collector who cannot discriminate, it is a good deal more than this. I have answered the advertisements of a number of dealers who offer used stamps and in over half the cases I had to return the stamps because they were not 'used' as they had been advertised, for they still retained their original gum. Your journal could accomplish a great deal toward eliminating this evil, by requiring your advertisers to confine their use of the word 'used' to postally used stamps and call the others cancelled or whatever they want to." Here is a suggestion that should start an argument and which would make a good subject for a philatelic debate. The question of "philatelically used" stamps does not enter into the case. Should the cancelled-to-order stamp with its original gum be allowed to masquerade as a "used" stamp?

Rich—A Los Angeles bond issue of $13,000,000 was bought by a Chicago bank, among others, and when the bonds were received at Chicago, a collector in Chicago was among the men who counted the bonds. There were thirty-three packages bearing dozens of the five-dollar current issue, many two dollar, and other stamps. Six of the packages were sent by insured registered mail but twenty-seven packages, after they had been stamped, were refused insurance; and so they were sent under charge of thirteen members of the California State Police. When the bonds were counted, the unused postage stamps that were on the ten million dollar packages, were carefully put aside and over two hundred dollars' worth of two's and five's were saved in order that they might be returned to Los Angeles "for redemption." The collector was given the comparatively few of the stamps on the three parcels by registered mail; and he would have had them all, were it not for the fact that there was a clash on the question of insurance.

Down—Since the first of March, 1922, the domestic rate of two cents an ounce or fraction thereof will apply to letters mailed in the United States destined for Bermuda, as the department somewhat prettily puts it.

BRITISH GUIANA AIR MAIL.

The air mail service, maintained with the assistance of the French Government up to the Marowyne River, which is the boundary between French and Dutch Guiana, has been carried on with considerable difficulty, according to reports received from travelers. It is said that the engines are much affected by the moist climate, and that various depths of rivers renders a landing on their surface very dangerous because of concealed rocks which are often but a few inches below the surface of the water. This latter difficulty is intensified by the fact that the water is very often covered with mist, which prevents careful observation before landing.

The Bermuda and West Atlantic Aviation Company has proposed to the Government of British Guiana to make a demonstration and survey for aerial transportation—an offer probably now accepted. It is proposed to carry mail and parcels.

The postage stamps of the various British West Indies, as well as British Guiana, will likely be overprinted British Intercolonial Air Mail although a special issue for all Islands may be prepared.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE BAHAMAS.

By DOUGLAS B. ARMSTRONG.

CHAPTER XI.

Georgian Series.

As was the case with a number of other Colonies, the distinctive frame design of the preceding issue was retained for the Georgian postage stamps of the Bahamas, the head of the new sovereign alone being substituted. The first value, ½d green, made its debut early in July, 1912, followed by the remainder from 1d to £1 on or about the 30th of that month. They were surface printed as before, by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., in London from the special key-plate appropriated to the stamps of this Colony; the duty only being inserted at a second printing. These stamps were supplied in small sheets of 60 (ten rows of 6) with disconnected marginal lines and plate number "1" in all four corners, whilst in addition a consignment number in black is impressed in the upper right-hand corner. Being inscribed "Postage" only the Bahamas stamps are not available for revenue purposes and do not therefore come under the Crown Agents standard colour scheme. Two very pronounced shades of the 1d value exist. The series was augmented by a 2d value in the latter part of 1918. In that year also a new combined key-plate number "2" was brought into use for printing the Georgian stamps of the Bahamas in sheets of 120, instead of in single panes of 60 as heretofore. The three highest values of the series are on chalk-surfaced paper.

CHAPTER XII.

Commemorative Series 1920.

Under the heading "Bahamas" the semi-official Colonial Journal announced in October, 1919, that:—

"A new issue of 'Peace' stamps is in course of preparation. The duties are ½d, 1d, 2d, 3d and 1s, and the design consists of the King's portrait and the Badge and Motto of the Colony. The stamps are of the large duty size, and will be printed by the copper plate process, each value in one colour."

The "Peace" celebration stamps duly materialised on March 3rd, 1920, in an oblong type engraved and recess printed by De La Rue & Co. in London, shewing to the right of the King's head in a medallion the official badge and motto of the Colony. The motto "Expulsis Piratis-Commercia Restituta" is of peculiar interest by reason of its reference to the unenviable reputation of the Bahamas as a haunt of buccaneers in the days before the British occupation. Streamers inscribed with the word "Peace" issue from either side of the Crown surmounting the Royal portrait.

1920. Mar. 3rd. ½d green, wmk. Mult. C A, thick paper, perf. 14.

1920. Mar. 3rd. 1d carmine, wmk. Mult. C A, thick paper, perf. 14.

1920. Mar. 3rd. 2d slate grey, wmk. Mult. C A, thick paper, perf. 14.

1920. Mar. 3rd. 3d deep brown, wmk. Mult. C A, thick paper, perf. 14.

1920. Mar. 3rd. 1s myrtle green, wmk. Mult. C A, thick paper, perf. 14.

CHAPTER XIII.

Red Cross Postage Stamp.

In connection with a Charity Day organized by the local branch of the British Red Cross Society it was decided to make a special issue of 1d stamps overprinted with a Geneva Cross in red and the date "1.1.17". These stamps were provided gratis by the Postal administration, the entire proceeds of their sale going to the Red Cross. The distinguishing overprint was applied in London by lithography and a minor variety with a prolonged stroke to the "7" in the date occurred on the 42nd stamp in each sheet. Two shades are also found. viz., rose-pink and bright red. Owing to delays occasioned by wartime conditions the supply of these stamps failed to reach Nassau until five months after the date planned for the issue, being finally placed on sale on May 18th, 1917. The stamp selected to receive the Red Cross overprint was the 1d on the "Queen's Staircase" type, of which a special printing was made from vignettes plate 2, in conjunction with border plate "2" upon thinner paper, watermarked Multiple Crown C A.

1917. May 18th. 1d overprinted with Geneva Cross and "1.1.17" in red, wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14.

CHAPTER XIV.

War Charity Issue.

A second war charity stamp prepared for issue on the occasion of the centenary of the establishment of British rule in the Islands, suffered the same fate as its Red Cross prototype, its appearance being delayed from June 3rd, 1918, the date of the centenary, until January of the following year. The special imprint consisting of the words "WAR CHARITY" and date 3/6/18 was applied in London, as before, to 240,000 copies of the 1d pictorial stamp, printed from vignette plates 3 and 4 in conjunction with border plate "2".

1919. Jan. ? 1d overprinted WAR CHARITY 3/6/18 in two lines in red, wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14.

A scarce variety of this stamp exists with double overprint. This occurred on a single half sheet of thirty stamps only.

COMPETITION

A customer whose collection numbers over 25,000 varieties and contains many stamps worth $25 to several hundred dollars each, and who has received stamps on approval from many other dealers, tells me the selections he receives from the Westfield Philatelic Peach Orchard contain the finest specimens that come to him.

I don't expect to undersell everybody else—or anybody else—that isn't what I'm in business for. I'm merely supplying choice singles, pairs, strips, blocks and covers to those who appreciate fine copies of desirable stamps and are willing to pay what high-grade service is worth.

Few dealers can compete with me in stamps worth from one dollar each upward. If you aren't sure of this, try my service.

BRITISH LEVANT
BEYROUTH PROVISIONAL ISSUE

1pi on 2d Green and Red.

A copy of this rare provisional of which a few over two hundred were issued sold in New York at auction during October last at a price of $102.50. I offer a superb copy, mint, full gum equally as fine. This variety has always been rare and being a British Colony, is especially desirable. It is Scott's number 1161 on page 469 of their 1922 catalogue and is not priced. A price realised by the foremost auction dealer of America is surely an indication of its value.

One of the rarest 20th Century British Colonials. Price $55.00.

UNITED STATES.—Several months back, in this column, a short description was given of the wonderful collection of United States stamps gotten together by Mr. Henry C. Gibson of Philadelphia. It is not an exaggeration to say that this collection contained possibly the choicest lot of fine United States stamps ever brought together in two volumes. While it was not as large as the Worthington collection in point of quantity, it surpassed it in point of quality.

This collection changed hands during the early part of February and its choice treasures are now finding new resting places. As a matter of historical record, it may not be amiss to mention some of the choice items. In the case of Postmaster Provisional, it was unsurpassed. It contained the only copy of the blue Alexander known and one of the few copies on buff. It had the only pair of the 5c Baltimore known as well as the finest of the three copies of the 10c in existence. There were several single fives, on cover, of course, as well as most of the Baltimore envelopes. The three sheets of the St. Louis were fully reconstructed, including an irregular block of four as well as a pair on pelure paper. A mint Brattleboro with imprint at bottom, one on cover and also a Milbury. In the way of New Yorks, he had a complete reconstructed sheet made up entirely of vertical and horizontal pairs. There was an irregular block of three, the nearest approach to a block known, as well as three "R. H. M." two being on one cover. There were a couple strips of four on cover, one being used in Boston, if my memory serves me rightly. The superb lot of the issues of 1847 have been retained by Mr. Gibson and these include besides mint blocks of the two values a number of strips on and off cover.

The 1851 issue consisted of the 1c and 3c values in numerous mint strips and blocks, including the rare types, several strips of the 5c, a magnificent mint block of twelve of the 12c with sheet margins, a block of the 10c on cover, pairs of the 24c and 30c as well as the 30c black. Blocks of all of the 1857, including the 24c, 30c and 90c as well as a mint block of the 10c type I showing two stamps recut. A complete set of August issue mint and an extra 5c used, as well as an imperforate pair of the 90c. All of the 1861 like all other issues were represented by mint singles and on these pages were fine blocks of the 3c scarlet, 3c pink and the higher values in similar condition. There was also a block of the 10c August. Most of the 1867 grills were present in blocks and there were singles of the 5c and 30c grilled all over. Most of the 1869 were present in blocks and the inverts were represented by two wonderful copies of each of the 15c and 24c as well as the 30c. Most of the 1870 issues were there in blocks of four or more and every known special print was represented. All of the late issues were present in blocks, including a number of part perfs. One of the two known blocks of four of the 2c Pan-American inverts were on a page with blocks of the 1c and 4c. Mr. Gibson also obtained a block of the 24c Aeroplane invert and a truly wonderful block of the 5c error imperforate, a true rarity indeed. While I have had the pleasure of seeing the collection a number of times, I am sure my memory has overlooked some of the other pieces worthy of mention but these few notes will give an idea of what the Gibson collection contained. I overlooked mentioning that with few exceptions the Departments were all there in blocks and the $10 State was represented by an entire sheet.

In the first issue of the Collectors Club Philatelist, Mr. George B. Sloane presents an article upon the 1901 Pan-American issue of more than passing interest. His chapter on the inverts contained much information brought together in print for the first time. He tells us that possibly 700 copies of the 1c invert were found, the first discovered coming from Bessemer, Alabama, where they were used by a small jeweler. Mr. J. W. Scott made an additional find in a Connecticut town. Of the 2c, which is in the carmine shade, but 55 copies are known, these having been located in the Brooklyn Post Office by a party who had noted a used copy on the mail. Mr. Sloane mentions that someone recalls seeing this error in the scarlet and black shade but its present whereabouts is unknown. We were not so careful about noting shades a number of years back and it is doubtful if such a variety is known. The 4c was supposedly found in the regular stock of the Bureau and turned over to the Third Assistant Postmaster-General. He distributed 106 copies, most of them being overprint "Specimen". A sheet unsurcharged was turned over to the Museum for the government collection and I believe 97 of these were exchanged for other varieties. I say 97 for the museum regulations require that three copies of all varieties on hand be retained. This means that possibly 100-115 of this variety exists without specimen.

Look up last week's list of 1847, 1851 and 1857 prices. "Good" ranges from defective to almost fine. "Fine" means good sound stamps not too heavily cancelled. "Superb" in ordinary stamps means fancy cancellations, or exceptional shades and centering. Cash returned immediately for anything not satisfactory. Next week special lists of 1869-1873.

J. O. MOORE, Inc., Rheims, N. Y.

Mr. George P. Smith has located a new provisional envelope with the Omaha overprint while Mr. E. J. Newcomer has shown us one from Seattle.

of your time cannot be better spent than by carefully checking over each item in this advertisement.

If every collector would study the character of the stamps offered and the unusually low prices quoted, I would be swamped with orders.

My reputation for square dealing and low prices has not been wished on me—it has been earned by two years of conscientious effort to give my customers good stamps at bargain prices.

"Self-Government" from plate 3 script watermark. The old C A surcharged 2½d stamp was obsolete after a few days and is a very hard stamp to secure locally. The surcharged 2sh stamp is still obsolete and only unsurcharged stamps of this value are available. As far as can be seen the 2½d and 2sh stamps with the old C A watermark will be the best in the whole surcharged set. Two days later Mr. Carrabott advises that the G. P. O. has just issued the 2sh, surcharged "Self - Government" with script watermark.

MOROCCO AGENCIES.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of a 4d and 6d King George stamp for use in this territory.

MOZAMBIQUE.—Bright & Son inform us that they have received new colors in the Ceres type. The value and name in each case is in black.

Perf. 14.—3c orange, 7c pale blue, 30c dull green, 30c blue lilac on black and 1 escudo rose red.

Perf. 11½.—4c rose, 4½ drab, 6c pale mauve, 12c brown, 60c brown on pink, 80c purple black on blue and 2 escudos, violet on pink.

RUSSIA.—Mr. Karl Koslowski submits to us a set of six values of a new set of Bolshevik stamps which are of three designs. The values and colors are as follows: 100r orange, 200r brown, 250r grey lilac, 300r green, 500r blue and 1000r rose red. The first two values have what seems to represent the farming life in the centre as does the 300r stamp, while the 250r shows a harp and a book and the last two values portray an anvil and hammer.

Mr. Koslowski also submits to us a copy of an 2250r stamp in red shade and showing a view of a river with transportation thereon. Our correspondent informs us that the three lines of native characters mean "Postage stamp" "Help the Hungary" and "in Povolga". Povolga means the River Volga basin or shores of the Volga now so terribly devastated by the pestilence and hunger.

SEYCHELLES.—Mr. R. Roberts notes the following new issues for this colony: 18c on new yellow paper and also on experimental paper, 25c on both papers as the 18c, 5c pale brown. old watermark. 1r 50c pale lilac on blue, yellowish back, also dark purple on deep blue, both being on old watermark paper. 75c bright emerald green all through.

SIERRA LEONE.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith has shown us the 2sh stamp printed on the script watermarked paper.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that the 2d stamp has been issued coil perforation 14 x imperforate.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—C. D. Skinner, Jr., secretary of the R. I. Philatelic Society, informs us of the death of D. A. Webber, which occurred Feb. 10 at Corey Hill Hospital, Boston. Mr. Webber was a member of the A. P. S., and the R. I. Philatelic Society. He joined the latter Jan. 11, 1907, and served as its president in 1914-15. Mr. Webber was compelled to undergo an operation, from which he did not recover. He was fifty-eight years old. His interest in philately and all that pertained to it was strong and he will be greatly missed in Rhode Island philately.

—A. C. LeDuc informs us that it will be well for dealers to refrain from making approval sendings to Edward F. Donohue, 30½ Park Ave., Auburn, N. Y. He is not in a physical condition such as would warrant the receipt of approvals.

—We are indebted to Wm. M. McFarlan for the information that beginning March 1, the domestic rate of 2c per ounce or fraction thereof will apply to letters mailed in the U. S., destined for Bermuda.

—The United Stamp Co., Marquette Bdg., Chicago, Ill., has just issued their 1922 catalog and price-list. It lists United States postage, departments, postage dues, newspaper stamps, Confederates, revenues, U. S. possessions, West Indies and British North America. It includes a complete list of sets, packets and philatelic supplies. Price 25c. This is a most useful book and will doubtless have a large circulation. Its more than one hundred pages is crowded with a mass of philatelic matter.

—The Mission Stamp Co. announces that the address of the firm will hereafter be San Diego, Cal.

ROUMANIAN COUNTERFEITS.

Recently Iole Dione advertised [illegible] Roumanian sets which turned out [illegible] counterfeits. They were purcl[illegible] from one Lommel in Paris and[illegible] fairly good imitations. Mr. D[illegible] writes that he will refund to all [illegible] chasers and if any of our readers a[illegible] doubt as to the genuineness of st[illegible] purchased they should take it up [illegible] our advertiser at once. The se[illegible] question was the Roumania Charit[illegible] sue, Scott's 351 to 362. We are [illegible] formed that Alfred Rasmu[illegible] wholesale dealer of San Jose, Cal. [illegible] also handled these sets (no doub[illegible] advertently) and both dealer and [illegible] lector should get wise as to the [illegible] tence of these counterfeits. LAST OF THE PIONEER DEALERS.

DEATH OF MR. W. S. LINCOLN.

Philately and Longevity. — It would not be difficult to argue a case for proving that philately is conducive to longevity. Many of the greatest collectors like Dr. Legrand, A. de D. Donatis, Judge Philbrick, Ferrary, Westoby, Viner, Sir Daniel Cooper, Edmund Shorthouse, Oscar Berger - Levrault, lived well beyond the allotted span; and the pioneer dealers, too, have lived long and prospered, as, for example, J. B. Moens, Pierre Mahé, Arthur Maury, Mount Brown, J. W. Scott, Stanley Gibbons. Happily there are still with us half a score of collectors who were born ere the sun of philately rose, and some of them are living links with the early pioneer days of our hobby.

William Lincoln, aetat 78.—But in the passing of William Simpson Lincoln on Tuesday, January 3rd, aged 78, we lose the last living link with the very earliest period of stamp collecting. The veteran dealer, whose surname was as much a household name in philately as that of Gibbons, Errington and Martin, and Whitfield King, was born in London in 1844. He claimed to have been collecting stamps in the early 'fifties, and among other proud claims he made in later life was that he was the earliest of the great stamp dealers and that he was the first to open a stamp shop in London or anywhere else in the world.

Collecting in 1854.—It is difficult to accept all these interesting claims without examination and modification. In recent years Mr. Lincoln told us he still had by him a little book inscribed in schoolboy handwriting:—"Collection of stamps made by W. Lincoln, 1854." There was also a mention of 210 varieties, and a further memorandum: "1855, 310 varieties." In 1856, he recalled, he found for the first time a friend with whom he could exchange stamps. From that beginning he started to deal.

Mr. Lincoln did not explain from what sources he derived the first 210 varieties, or how he added another 100 in the year 1855, and the suggestion that he was dealing soon after 1856 leads one to speculate on whom he had for customers at a time when stamp collecting had not yet made its appearance as an organised pursuit.

One of the Pioneer Philatelists.—One of his customers was the Rev. F. J. Stainforth, of All Hallows, Staining, and Mr. Lincoln said he could fix a date, 1862, of one of his visits to the Rectory. The reverend gentleman would always welcome him.

"If I met with anything which I thought he would like, I took it to him. One day when I had some nice things, I called and showed them to him, and he bought the lot and then told me to help myself to the amount from a large silver inkstand, in which there was plenty of gold and silver money. I took the amount from it, and showed it to him, but he would not take notice, but simply said, 'Am sure you will take the right sum.' The Rev. Stainforth was the dearest man that could be."

First Printed Records of Lincoln. — The precise historian looks for definite documental evidence of the beginnings of our pursuit, and no advertisements of a trade character are known to have appeared in any journal prior to one of H. Barber's in the Boys' Own Magazine for November, 1861. From that date onwards we can trace advertisements of the earliest dealers, Mount Brown, J. J. Woods, Henry R. Victor, H. Stafford Smith, and Edward L. Pemberton, and —for the first time in December, 1862— of "Wm. Lincoln, jr., at W. S. Lincoln & Sons."

He appears to have published a list of stamps for sale in 1863, for it was advertised in the March number of the Boys' Own Magazine in that year, but the first printed price list extant is of the following year:—"Priced Catalogue of Foreign, Colonial, and English Postage Stamps offered for sale by William Lincoln, Jun., (At W. S. Lincoln and Sons), 462, New Oxford Street, W. C., London."

Early Stamp Transactions. — Among his early recollections of other dealers he tells of B. York & Co., an all but forgotten firm of foreign booksellers, who had a shop at 60, City Road, where, although a bookselling business, the windows were almost wholly devoted to a fine display of stamps (including those of the old German States) on original envelopes, as received by the firm. Mr. Lincoln says they were able to obtain German stamps in quantities: Bergedorf, Bremen, Lubeck, Oldenburg, Brunswick, etc. "At that time there were very few German collectors, so I was glad to buy them from them."

Young & Stockall of Liverpool was another of the firms Mr. Lincoln did a good deal of business with.

As Freemason. — Mr., afterwards Judge, Philbrick, was a staunch friend, and in later years as Grand Registrar, he installed Mr. Lincoln as Master of his Lodge of Freemasons.

Some Famous Purchases at "Face."—Among his memorable early purchases, Mr. Lincoln bought large quantities of the 1864 square blue stamps of Schleswig-Holstein at the time of issue. He had so many of them that he put them in his cheap packets. Some of his account books (which date back to 1865) should provide some interesting reminiscences. An entry of March 6th, 1866, shows that he bought 30 thalers' worth of Bremen stamps at face value on that date.

Sir Arthur Rumbold was in the Virgin Islands in 1866 when the first lithographed "Virgins" were issued, and he sent a couple of pounds' worth of each denomination to William Lincoln, who remitted in cash for the amount of the face value.

A Trip to Paris after the Siege.—In 1871 Lincoln made preparations for a visit to Paris after the siege, but luckily for him, passport and other delays prevented him from getting there until after the Commune. He told his experiences in Paris in an article "Random Reminiscences of a Philatelic Veteran" in the Stamp Lover (January, 1913). He managed to buy a good lot of stamps in Paris and brought a big quantity of the then current unused home with him, which he found unsaleable at the time. He could not get the square unpaid stamps in Paris, but managed to get a fair supply of them at Rouen on the way home.

Ionian Islands Stamps as Wall Paper.—In 1872 Lincoln moved from New Oxford Street to a fine shop at 239, High Holborn. "This," he said, "was the first stamp shop in London, or anywhere in the world," a rather broad statement which we think would not pass without challenge. Here in the early days Lincoln covered two unsightly pillars in the shop with sheets of unused Ionian Island stamps, of which he had a great quantity, which he used to sell at 1s the set of three. Later on, some reconstruction being required, the pillars were removed, but by this time the value of the Ionians had risen so that it paid Lincoln handsomely for his wallpaper and he had the stamps carefully removed from the discarded pillars and "blessed the idea which prompted me to put them to that base use".

A Blind Stamp Collector.—Perhaps the most astonishing recollection of the late Mr. Lincoln was that of a blind stamp collector:—

"A curious customer I once had (I expect you will hardly believe me) was a blind man who had a little boy to lead him. He would ask for a certain stamp and enquire when I found it if it were a good copy, sometimes also adding, 'I have one, but it is a bad specimen'. He was a man of good education by the way he spoke and remembered all the stamps in his collection. Of course, he must have had someone to tell him about them, but why he took so much interest I could not understand."

It does seem extraordinary that a blind man should take an active interest in stamp collecting, but Mr. Lincoln's experience in this respect is not unique, and other of the older dealers could recall similar incidents of blind customers.

Lincoln's Articles in the "B.O.P."—Mr. Lincoln catered extensively for the young collector, and did much to encourage the juniors. Soon after the Boys' Own Paper started he was approached by Dr. Macauley, the editor, to write some stamp articles. "I accepted," he says, "and continued these articles for a long time, and they were, perhaps, the first that ever appeared in a magazine." Here, of course, the veteran was far from the first, Dr. J. E. Gray having contributed a series to Young England in 1861, nearly twenty years before the B.O.P. started, and no doubt numerous other series of articles appeared in magazines in the interval. But this does not lessen the value of Lincoln's first articles in the B.O.P., which he subsequently revised and produced in the convenient and popular handbook, "Stamp Collecting Notes," the first edition of which appeared in 1898.

Le Roi est Mort, Vive le Roi.—Lincoln moved from High Holborn to the fine large shop at 2, Holles Street, Oxford street at the beginning of 1895, and this has been his headquarters throughout more than a quarter of a century. Here the business, which includes the large and important circulation of the familiar Lincoln stamp albums, will be carried on by Mr. W. E. Lincoln, the son of the veteran and pioneer dealer. Mr. W. E. Lincoln himself has had a long experience of the stamp trade, having been his father's right-hand man for many years, and having the confidence and esteem, not only of a large army of regular customers, but also the community of the stamp trade.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

JONATHAN BRACE CHITTENDEN.

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

A Pistol and a Postage Stamp

Jonathan Brace Chittenden, a distinguished Harvard graduate and professor of mathematics at the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, who wrote the articles on mathematics and quaternions, and like frivolous topics, in the Encyclopedia Americana, has a collection of postage stamps which he began when he was a little boy. When he was ten years old his father bestowed a dollar each upon Jonathan and his younger brother, to spend "as they pleased." The younger brother, doubtless inheriting the taste from his army father, bought a pistol and cartriges, without exciting more than deprecatory comment from the parental benefactor. The future mathematician spent his dollar on a canceled postage stamp, the 90-cent variety with the Lincoln head, printed in two colors and issued in 1869..

The father went up in the air. He pointed out that 90 cents could not represent a dollar, and that, moreover, the stamp was canceled and therefore worthless. The boy never succeeded in explaining what "scarcity value" meant, or even the intrinsic merit of the most artistic set of stamps our Post Office ever issued, before or since. The pistol has long been dust, with, fortunately, no gravestones to commemorate it, but Professor Chittenden still has that stamp. It is possibly worth more canceled than unused and would be hard to find today for $20. He is not afraid to tell his pupils of the educational value of a good hobby, and in this connection it is noteworthy that one of the best books on the American Post Office, with all sorts of side light on our modern history, is the sumptuous catalog of the finest collection of American postage stamps ever made, curiously enough not that of an American but of a Scotsman, the Earl of Crawford. A postage stamp is more than a mere scrap of paper. It has some most interesting economic and financial lessons to teach, both of scarcity value and of what is called "unearned" increment, which cannot justly be called unearned, (as it usually is in the case of land,) where increasing value was intelligently and courageously foreseen.—From "Barron's".

With the advent of the new quarterly magazine to be published under the auspices of the Collectors Club, N. Y. City, it seems very fitting that we should acquaint our readers with the personality of J. Brace Chittenden, who, with H. L. Lindquist constitutes the publication committee. Mr. Chittenden is also secretary of the Collectors Club and one of the board of governors, and this brief sketch will show that he is a man of many honors.

Prof. Chittenden was born at Milford, Conn., in 1864, having on the paternal side Richard H. Chittenden, Captain of the 1st Wisconsin Cavalry and a graduate of Yale. His mother was Lucy Lee Brace, daughter of Rev. Jonathan Brace of Hartford, Conn.

His primary education was at the Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn. He graduated as a mechanical and also civil engineer from the Worcester Institute in 1888. He received the degree of A. B. at Harvard, class of 1889, founded the Graduate Club of Harvard and edited the University paper at Worcester. In 1890, he received the degree of A. M. from Harvard, the Kirkland traveling Fellowship in 1891 and the Parker Fellowship in 1892. He studied

A Printed U. S. Album

With Movable Leaves

We are now preparing pages that bring this album up to date from 1917 to 1922. Few collectors seem to know that we make a printed album for U. S. stamps, Revenues, etc. It is sold in sections so that you can order just whatever you collect.

A new illustrated prospectus of this album and also of our U. S. Library is being printed. One will be mailed to you if you so request.

This prospectus also illustrates the "Oriel Album" and gives full particulars about its makeup. Better read this before purchasing in haste. Oriels are now $10.00. 50 leaves imported linen paper, tissue backed.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS

New Order enclosed. I "cleaned up" on last packet I received from you (1000 variety) already realizing more than I paid after securing 400 varieties for myself.—B. Buchanan, Liverpool, Ohio.

Well satisfied with 2000 packet. Secured 900 stamps for my collection, selling the rest to my friends. Have already cleared over $5.00.—A. Wahlberg, Oakland, Calif.

Very much pleased with 1000 packet. Order enclosed for a 2000. I was greatly surprised at the quality of the stamps in the packet.—F. C. Elmes, Berwick, Pa.

Use bonds sent as payment for 10,000 variety packet. The packet proved highly satisfactory as a basis for a general collection.—F. M. Bigelow, Chicago, Ill.

Received 1000 packet some days ago and have had a fine time looking them over. Secured 250 new stamps for my collection of 3700, traded 43 for other new varieties and replaced 100 that were better specimens than mine. I never saw any stamps in such good condition, not a poor one in the lot. Order for 2000 packet enclosed.—T. Herrick, City Treasurer, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

H. F. COLMAN

in Koenigsburg in East Prussia and received the degree of Ph. D. for mathematics there in 1893.

Prof. Chittenden was instructor in mathematics at Princeton University, 1894 and 1895, and Columbia University and Barnard Colleges 1895 to 1900. He was admitted as a member of the New York bar in 1902. He was elected professor in mathematics at the Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn, in 1900, and has been at the head of this department for the last twenty-two years.

Our friend in philately is the author of articles on mathematics in the American Encyclopedia, etc. He served as private in the Veteran Corps of Artillery guarding the Aqueduct during the World War. He was chairman of the Citizens' Committee of Brooklyn, to recruit the 14th and 23rd regiments. He was commissioned as First Lieutenant of Infantry and recruited Co. E of the 23rd Regiment three times, and sent the first two companies to the war. He commanded the 3rd in guarding the Aqueduct.

Prof. Chittenden is a member of the Crescent Club of Brooklyn, Harvard Club of New York, Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Society, member of the American Mathematical Society, member of the Royal Philatelic Society of London, of the Sons of the Revolution, the Society of the Colonial Wars, etc.

He began collecting postage stamps in 1874 and has served three terms as president of the Collectors Club. He wrote an article on the stamps of Austria running through two volumes of the Philatelic Gazette. He received awards for study of the stamps of Griqualand and the stamps of Austria in the New York Exhibition, 1911. For the Collectors Club Handbook, No. 1, on the 1874-83 issues of Mexico, his entry received the gold medal.

Prof. Chittenden married Evelyn Louise Betts of New York, in 1900 and they have one daughter.

With this brief commentary upon the activities of Prof. Chittenden, we shall have to leave it to a future article to describe some of the philatelic treasures that he must possess. Have we not some New York or Brooklyn reader who will get close to Prof. Chittenden and glean some information concerning what must be a notable collection?

STAMPS STOLEN.

Robert E. Reed, 10 Mitchell Place, N. Y. City, elsewhere in this issue advertises that his home has been burglarized and all his stamps stolen. They are the accumulation of about ten years and a full description is offered this week. Dealers are especially advised to take note of the particulars given.

STAMPS OF EX-GERMAN COLONIES.

The "Dull and Gray" Test Declared Misleading and Inaccurate.

By EDW. LUDWIG STAMP CO.

We have read with interest Mr. Watts' translation from the French on the stamps of the Ex-German Colonies and the news contained therein may be valuable according to the degree of accuracy in the methods employed by the original writer. There is one statement, however, and that a most important one, so obviously misleading, that we must draw attention to it, namely, the test to identify the original surcharges from those which the article calls the re-impressions.

We have never seen these re-impressions and therefore cannot say what degree of intense blackness the surcharges of such re-impressions have, but we have original registered covers in our possession since 1901 and the surcharges thereon certainly are not "dull and gray" but deep black! In order to be quite clear, let us recapitulate Mr. Watts' translation which says: the only genuine surcharges are those which, on being held almost perpendicularly at an angle———of 80 degrees are "dull and gray." Now our registered cover franked with 16 green 5 pf and 10 rose-carmine 10pf, 1898 issue German offices in China and the surcharges on being held at an angle of 80 degrees or any angle is not by any means "dull and gray" but deep black.

As any doubt of the genuineness of the registered cover is precluded, it having been addressed to our principal on May 24, 1901, by his stamp agent in Tientsin, we must hold the description of the test in the article Mr. Watts has translated to be misleading and inaccurate. The surcharges on the Offices in China is of the same nature and on the same issue as the surcharges of the first issues of the Ex-German Colonies. Moreover, we have used undoubted originals of Offices of the Levant, East and South West Africa, Kamerun, Togo, German New Guinea, none of which answer the "dull and gray" test and yet they are undoubtedly originals in every way, used 1896-1901.

We have not seen the re-impressions on which the original writer based his test, but if his said test makes collectors search for "dull and gray" surcharges on the first issues of the Ex-German Colonies, they will have to look for something we have never seen. Let other collectors or dealers who have these issues, especially on covers, look for "dull and gray" surcharges and if they find any, they will indeed have found something "unique" provided it is genuine. So, whatever the difference is, the "dull and gray" test is misleading and inaccurate.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE BAHAMAS.

By DOUGLAS B. ARMSTRONG.

CHAPTER XV.

Special Delivery Stamps.

Towards the close of the year 1915 a reciprocal arrangement was concluded between the Postmaster of the Bahamas and the Canadian postal Dept. for the exchange of Special Delivery letters, subject to a supplementary fee of 5d or 10 cents. By way of an experiment a small supply of the 10c Canadian Special Delivery stamps were sent to the Post Office at Nassau, in exchange for which ten sheets of the current 5d stamps of the Bahamas locally overprinted SPECIAL DELIVERY was forwarded to the G. P. O. at Ottawa. At first these stamps were not sold over the counter, but were affixed by the postal officials themselves to letters upon which the additional charge had been prepaid in cash, but this restriction was later removed. The overprint was applied at the Government Printing Office, Nassau, in December, 1915, in two lines of black Roman capitals from type set-up to cover a half sheet of 30 stamps (five rows of 6) at each impression. Thus every sheet had to be passed twice through the press. In this way several notable philatelic varieties were evolved in the form of double and inverted overprints, together with an extremely rare error with the overprint omitted entirely, which was found upon one vertical row of 5 stamps only, producing five pairs with and without overprint se tenant.

A second local printing of Special Delivery stamps, amounting to 100 sheets of sixty took place in January, 1917. For the purpose of this printing the type was re-set with the word SPECIAL slightly more to the right in relation to DELIVERY than in the original impression. The overprint was set up in a block of 30 subjects as before.

On June 2nd, 1917, a further supply of 5d stamps overprinted SPECIAL DELIVERY in two lines of sans-serif capitals from a stereotype plate of sixty subjects by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., in London, was placed on sale at Nassau, followed on April 17th, 1918, by the same value in new colours with the imprint in tall thin sans-serif capitals in red.

1916. May 1st. 5d overprinted SPECIAL DELIVERY locally in two lines of Roman capitals, wmk. Crown C C, perf. 14.

1917. July 2nd. 5d overprinted SPECIAL DELIVERY in two lines of small black sans-serif capitals in London. Wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14.

1918. April 17th. 5d purple and grey-black, overprinted SPECIAL DELIVERY in two lines of tall sans-serif capitals in red, in London. Wmk. Mult. C A, perf. 14.

The vignette plates used for these Special Delivery stamps were 1 and 2 for the 5d C C, 2 for the 5d orange and black, Mult. C A and 2 for the 5d lilac and black.

CHAPTER XVI.

Postal Tax Stamps.

Commencing on February 21st, 1918, a special War Tax upon postal matter passing through the Colonial Post Office of the Bahamas was introduced, as under:—

Additional ½d on all postcards within the British Empire.

Additional 1d on all letters within the British Empire.

Additional 3d on Bills of Lading within the British Empire.

Additional 1s on all incoming and outgoing parcels.

Special stamps to meet these charges were provided by overprinting corresponding denominations of the current postage stamp series of the Colony with the inscription "WAR TAX" at the Government Printing Office, Nassau. The type was the same as that employed for the locally overprinted Special Delivery stamp, viz., small Roman capitals and was set up to overprint sixty stamps at each impression, except in the case of the 3d. The overprint is found inverted on the 1d and 3d values and double on all except the 3d, for which a separate setting of type, covering 30 stamps only, was utilized. This stamp exists, however, overprinted "WAR" only, the word "TAX" having failed to print.

The local printing was of a temporary and provisional character pending receipt of a supply of War Tax stamps, which had been requisitioned by cable from London so soon as Taxes had been approved by the Governor of the Bahamas. Meanwhile, sales of the local war tax stamps were restricted in order that the supply might last out. The numbers of the locally overprinted "War Tax" stamps were as follows:

½d green (120,000).
1d deep rose (180,000).
1s black and carmine (1,200).

Unforeseen delay in the arrival of London overprinted stamps necessitated a further local printing in the case of the 1d value, the available supply of which had been exhausted. This time the recess printed pictorial stamp showing a view of the famous "Queen's Staircase" near Nassau, was adapted to War Tax use by means of a similar overprint, and in this form was issued to the public on July 10th, 1918. It was on sale in limited quantities only, and was withdrawn on the 20th of the month, when the London printed "WAR TAX" series was issued. This consisted of the same types and values as the local series, but overprinted in tall thin sans-serif capitals in black or red by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. A third (London) printing was made with the words "WAR TAX" in two lines, and brought into use on July 14th, 1919, remaining current until the repeal of the War Tax in the following year. The remainders of all War Tax stamps remaining on hand were officially destroyed during the Summer of 1920.

RELATIVE SCARCITY OF USED BLOCKS OF 19TH CENTURY U. S. STAMPS.

By HUBERT LYMAN CLARK.

1883.—The 2c is quite common in used blocks, but the 4c is really rare. A block of four of the 2c is hardly worth more than a quarter, but a good block of the 4c is a good bargain at three dollars.

1887.—The 1c is fairly common, the 2c less so, and the 3c vermilion, used during the period when current, is a rarity. But I have seen several blocks of the 3c used since 1900, and of course, these are "philatelically used" and their value depends wholly on whether you want such a block at all! A block of the 1c or 2c is worth from a quarter up and a satisfactory block of the 3c is easily worth two or three dollars.

1888.—There is no doubt that the 90c is the commonest stamp of this issue in used blocks. Blocks of four are common and larger blocks, up to 18 at least, are well known. The other three stamps 4c, 5c and 30c, are much less common and are about equally hard to find. Either the 4c or 5c is worth three dollars in a good block, and the 30c is worth eight or ten. A good block of four of the 90c is not worth over $7.50, but will often bring full catalogue and more at auction, so few collectors realizing how common such blocks are.

1890.—In this issue, used blocks of four are fairly common, only two or three of the values being very elusive in this form. In commonness, the values run 2c carmine, 1c, 90c, 5c, 3c, 4c, 2c lake, 6c, 8c, 10c, 15c and 30c. The last three blocks are really rarities and are very desirable pieces. The 2c carmine is not worth more than ten cents in an average used block, the 1c we may call worth twenty cents, the 90c is worth three or four dollars and no more, the 5c about twenty cents, the 3c the same, the 4c a quarter, the 2c lake a quarter, the 6c about a dollar, and the 8c nearly as much. A perfect block of the 10c is not too dear at a dollar, while the 15c at three-fifty and the 30c at five dollars are not unreasonable. The 90c is offered very frequently in auctions in blocks of four and more and is often described as "rare," but it is in reality one of the easiest of 19th century U. S. stamps to obtain in a good block.

1893. Columbian Issue.—Used blocks of this issue are not hard to find and if one is not particular about the cancellation, all of the high values are obtainable in blocks both off and on cover. As is well known, there was much speculation in this issue when it first appeared, and some buyers believed that the dollars values would ultimately be worth more used than unused. Hence, they had them either cancelled-by-favor or used them, sometimes in blocks, on letters addressed to themselves. Blocks thus laid away for a rise in value are often easy to recognize by the cancellation, which is commonly a single central postmark of concentric circles or a similarly placed, neat date cancellation. Really postally used blocks commonly have a registration cancellation and are generally more or less heavily cancelled.

In rarity of really postally used blocks, I rank this series as follows: 2c, 1c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 8c, 10c, 15c, 30c, 50c, $2, $1, $4, $5, $3. Up to and including the 30c, double catalogue is a fair price for average blocks. The 50c is hardly worth any more than the 30c, and it is doubtful if a block at auction would bring double catalogue. To judge from auction prices, the dollar values are not popular in used blocks and they rarely bring over full catalogue, even when superb. It is not unfair, then, to say that the value of an average block of 4 of the $1 or $2 is about twelve dollars, of the $3 nearly twenty dollars, of the $4 twenty-five dollars and of the $5 not over thirty dollars.

1894 and 1895.—I make no distinction between these two issues, the watermark is often so hard to make out in used stamps. Most of the values are fairly common in used blocks, but a few are very hard indeed to find. In rarity they rank about as follows: 2c, 1c, 3c, 5c, 4c, 8c, 6c, 50c, 10c, $1, $2, $5 and 15c. Oddly enough, I do not recall having ever seen the 15c in a used block. At any rate, I am sure that I have sought in vain for one during the past five years. A fair valuation of the blocks would be, for the 2c, five cents; 1c, five cents; 3c, fifteen cents; 5c, ten cents; 4c, ten cents; 8c, twenty cents; 6c, a quarter; 50c, two dollars; 10c, fifty cents; $1, five dollars; $2, twenty dollars; $5, thirty dollars; 15c, five dollars.

1898.—In this issue the 15c is the rarity and the 10c is uncommon, while the lower values are by no means hard to find. Used blocks of four rank in commonness: 1c, 2c, 5c, 4c, 6c, 10c, 15c, and in value: 2c orange-red, ten cents; 1c, ten cents; 2c rose-carmine, a dollar; 5c, a quarter; 4c, a quarter; 6c, thirty-five cents; 10c, seventy-five cents; 15c, two dollars.

1898. Omaha Issue.—This issue is uncommon in used blocks, especially the higher values. Apparently, speculators having gotten badly "stung" on the Columbian issue, let this issue alone, and if any were philatelically used in blocks, they have never come my way. The 2c is not particularly rare in used blocks, and the 1c is hardly more so, but the 4c, 5c, 8c and 10c are very rarely seen used in multiple, and blocks of the 50c and dollar values are very great rarities; which is the rarest of the three it is hard to say, but probably the two dollar. I should value used blocks of this set as follows: 2c, fifteen cents; 1c, twenty cents; 4c, a dollar; 5c and 8c, a dollar and a half; 10c, a dollar; 50c, fifteen dollars; $1, twenty-five dollars; $2, fifty dollars.

Department Stamps.—Excepting the Treasury and War sets, Department Stamps are very rare in used blocks and are easily worth double catalogue and more (when catalogue value is 25c or less) in that form. I have never seen or heard of a postally used block of the Agriculture, Executive, Justice or State issues; of the Interior, I know of the 90c only; of the Navy, the 30c only, and of the Post-office, the 3c and 90c only. Of the Treasury set, I know of all except the 12c and 15c, and of the War, all except the 2c, 7c and 10c. I am told that the thirty and ninety cent Treasury stamps were often used in sheets and large blocks in non-postal ways, associated with insurance and account-keeping, but certainly very few blocks are now extant.

Newspaper Stamps.—If the Newspaper Stamps of 1865-1885 were ever used in multiple, they have not come on the market in that form, so far as my experience goes. The 1894 and 1895 issues were, however, occasionally used in blocks. I have the 1894 2c and 10c, and the 1895 $20 in blocks of four with a daub cancellation, and the 1895 50c and $2 in blocks of four cancelled at different dates in Augusta, Georgia. Of course, there is an open question whether these stamps can really be called postage stamps, or at least whether they ever did other than account-keeping duty. Certainly they are not popular with collectors, and none of my blocks, which were all purchased at auction, cost me very much money. Full catalog is probably all that cancelled blocks of these Newspaper stamps are worth today.

U. S. SHANGHAI STAMPS FOR SALE.

The Philatelic Agency at Washington Offers "full set for $2.82."

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—Postage stamp collectors who have been seeking to obtain United States postage stamps surcharged "Shanghai, China," may do so upon application to the Philatelic Stamp Agency, division of stamps, of the post-office department, according to announcement made today by Third Assistant Postmaster General Irving W. Glover.

These stamps were placed on sale in response to the enormous demand the department has had from dealers and collectors of postage stamps. They are not valid for postage in the United States, and are sold with the understanding that in no circumstance will they be accepted for postage in this country. Persons desiring these stamps must indorse their appplications, "Desired for philatelic purposes only." They will be sold in full sets for $2.82, or singly.

The Philatelic Stamp Agency, established by Postmaster-General Will H. Hays, has been fully ju tified, a statement from the postoffice department says, in view of the many requests for postage stamps and other stamped paper desired by collectors for philatelic purposes.—Press Clipping.

ONE-CENT STAMP SOLD FOR $540.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4. A one-cent postage stamp of the issue of August, 1861, was sold at auction here yesterday for $540. Less than half a dozen of the stamps, known as the "1-cent August," are in existence, it was said.—Newspaper.

NICARAGUA SPECIALIZED

A recent purchase is the collection formed by the late John Lord, nearly complete in major and minor varieties, shades, etc., and one of the finest specialized collections of this country in existence.

WANT LISTS will be filled in order of their receipt at approximately one-half catalogue.

All surcharges are guaranteed genuine, the collection having been recently expertised by John L. Stroub of New York.

Collectors interested in this country would do well to write at once. Many items in this collection are unobtainable elsewhere.

AUSTRALIAN WATERMARKS.

By L. H. WARDWELL.

Two watermarks not mentioned in Scott's catalog came to light in the examination of a lot of Australian stamps recently. Australian Commonwealth, 1sh blue green (Scott's type A1), shows a watermark consisting of a straight line running vertically through the middle of the stamp. On one side of this line are parts of capital letters which look like the lower parts of WE and a portion of a capital N, making NWE. On the other side of the line there is what appears to be part of the regular watermark crown and A, but not enough to determine which of the three 1 shilling stamps this one is.

Scott's catalog mentions the fact that certain stamps of New South Wales issued in 1906, show portions of some sheets with COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA watermarked in the sheet in addition to the regular watermark, but no mention is made of any such thing in connection with the Commonwealth stamps.

A copy came to light of the 1d red, New South Wales, 1882-88, Scott's No. 61, perforated 12½ x 13, and having a square frame about the watermark crown and NSW. The whole of the frame is not shown on my copy, the stamp cutting if off so much that part of the crown and part of the W are missing; but the angle of the frame is a right angle and the lines of it are parallel with the sides of the stamp.

Two sketches are enclosed to show these peculiar watermarks.

A WELL DESERVED TRIBUTE.

(The article herewith is written by C. Lat. Wilhelm, editor of the "Baltimore American" stamp department. We can heartily commend what Mr. Wilhelm has written and at the same time express our admiration for the work he has done during the years he has been a philatelic contributor to the "Sunday American." It is a form of publicity that should be made use of. Is it speaking too plainly for us to make the observation that the A.P.S. should do something more than merely pass resolutions endorsing publicity of this character?—W. O. W.)

I have been reading with great interest, various plans advanced to put out publicity for philately. They are all interesting, but all have one drawback, they cost money.

But there is one method that costs nothing but the time of some one willing to give it, and that is a stamp column in a Sunday newspaper. I speak of this method particularly because of my own column in the Baltimore American, which is now entering upon its fourth year and I think and hope, has done much for philately in Baltimore and the state.

Now on every newspaper staff there must be one man, or woman, interested in philately, who could run a column such as mine. There must, of course, be found a sympathetic editor, but if the matter is presented properly, the editor will see the advantage to the paper in such a column. I will gladly advise any newspaper man or woman who wants any such little advice as I could give, along this line.

And, in this connection, permit me to pay publicly a tribute to Mr. James G. Nelson, editor of The Sunday American, who, although not a stamp collector, saw at once the value to the paper, from a "department" viewpoint, of such a column and has steadily stood by me, in publishing it. With such men as Mr. Nelson, a stamp column will be a success in any paper.

Scandinavians - Orientals - Colonials - For Every Collector

As March is the collectors' gala month, the time when interest in philately is at its height, it is necessary for us to meet this situation with a class of stamps in full accordance. Our idea of such an ambition is U. S., Br. North America, etc., but our last page advertisement offering these stamps was nothing but a deluge—and with our enormous stock—we were obliged to refund on stamp after stamp. All this at a time when business was supposedly bad. Business in this line will never be bad if you have appealing items to offer, and we are sure our supplementary choices listed below are in that class. Under various headings we offer you stamps of all grades from entire Scandinavia, the missing numbers from China and the Far East, used Colonials for the collector of small means, Old European rarities, and a miscellaneous assortment second to none. Not a bloomer on the entire page—It commands your attention.

Our Approval Service

We want every collector, large or small, to give our service a trial; to prove to you that we have the goods and then some. We have to date only a mail business and our customers are assured of receiving first chance at all good things arriving in very limited quantities. Remember we have agents in practically every land seeking good things for us, and that our motto is to have what you want, when you want it. What class are you interested in?

NO. 1—APPROVAL SHEETS:—
We offer for the beginner and collector with less than 10,000 varieties, two hundred different sheets of single stamps, mounted alphabetically and covering almost every country from Abyssinia to Zululand. All prices are net at an average of one-half Scott's catalogue prices.

NO. 2—APPROVAL BOOKS:—By Countries
Here we offer a complete line of books by countries, covering all lands of importance, just one of a kind, representing what we have in stock, aside from rarities.

NO. 3—WANT LISTS:—
This is our best service, and it is seldom we return a list unfilled to a large extent. We attempt to stock everything good available, and if we haven't what you want it will be hard to find elsewhere. Let us prove to you the completeness of our stock. We do not attempt to carry, however, various issues, mostly surcharged, of Arabia, Armenia, Batum, Ukrainia, etc.

NO. 4—NEW ISSUES:—
We are receiving all British, French and Portuguese Colonials as issued, 90% of all European and Oriental items, with our share of South Americans as well. Send us your limitations and we are ready to please.

NO. 5—SPECIALTIES AND U. S.:—
Our continued consignments from Europe make it possible for us to send card selections, of minor varieties, etc., of both old and new issues.
Only average copies of U. S. are included in approval lots, better things against want list only.

EDITORIAL.

Another—From a correspondent in Pittsburgh, we have received a copy of the bill "H. R. 10616," which was introduced in the House of Representatives on February 27, 1922, by Mr. Campbell of Pennsylvania and "referred to the Committee on the Judiciary and ordered to be printed." This bill amends an Act to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States and is as follows: "Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That sections 161, 172 and 220 of the Act entitled 'An Act to codify, revise and amend the penal laws of the United States,' approved March 4, 1909, are hereby amended by adding the following: 'Provided, That nothing in said sections shall be construed to forbid or prevent the printing or publishing illustrations of postage or revenue stamps under such regulations as may, from time to time, be prescribed by the Postmaster General, or to prevent or forbid the making of necessary plates therefor, for use in philatelic or historical articles, books, journals, or albums, or the circulars of legitimate publishers or dealers in such stamps, books, journals, or albums, if such plates have been made or prepared under regulations prescribed by the Postmaster General: And provided further, That no such illustrations shall be made in colors." This bill presented by Congressman Campbell, is the second bill introduced in the House with the idea of granting relief to philatelists by permitting the use of illustrations of all stamps, both U. S. and foreign, for scientific purposes. This bill takes a direct means to achieve the end that is so greatly desired by students of the stamps of our own country, in particular. Its fate with the Committee on the Judiciary will be anxiously awaited.

Angles—The Ackerman bill which was printed in our issue of February 11, 1922, was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary on November 14, 1921. This bill provided that the illustrations of postage or revenue stamps be "from plates so defaced as to indicate that the illustrations are not adapted or intended for use as stamps" and it was stipulated that stamps of the United States were not included in the scope of the bill. From documents that we have seen, we believe that the sponsors of the Ackerman bill have been actuated by motives that ultimately may crystallize in removing the ban from U. S. Stamp illustrations. It is not to be gainsaid that it would not have been preferable for the A.P.S. committee to have been formally consulted in the proposed legislation. There were many considerations having a bearing on the course of action that required much trimming of sails. The bill has passed the Senate and it is supposed that it will be reported on the Committee on Judiciary for action by the House. As we understand this bill, its provisions mean that it will be necessary for the pictures of foreign stamps to be canceled in some way or other even when the cuts may be in reduced size, The big catalogue, for instance, would have to appear with its reproductions of stamps defaced in some manner. The Campbell bill vests discretionary power in the Postmaster General and under regulations acceptable to him, the use of cuts of all stamps, it is inferred, would be allowed. There is some ground for the belief that the Treasury Department is antagonistic to letting down the bars and that it was, or is, seeking a more drastic interpretation of the present laws. How the proposals now under notice will be worked out is problematical but it may be said that Congress is being made aware of the disposition of a host of philatelists to exert their influence for permission to use for purposes of study and identification pictures of all stamp issues. It is to be deplored that the nature of the proceedings must be such that progress may not be made by publicity for the plans.

Abroad—We have been informed by Mr. H. A. Diamant of St. Louis, who is a leading exponent of the movement that the American Philatelic Society embark on a pretentious advertising campaign for the benefit of philately, that he will leave later in this month for a trip to Europe. Mr. Diamant's mission in great measure is to discover just what methods are used by stamp organizations in Europe to make philately attractive to the general public. The result of his investigations will be of value and interest, assuredly, and we hope to have the privilege of publishing observations that he may send us from abroad. Mr. Diamant intends to take his specialized collection of the stamps of Mexico with him and we are sure that they will be viewed with much appreciation in the European centers. Mr. Diamant will be away for three months or so.

Avoid—The increased demand for curious or striking cancellations on United States stamps has had a concomitant that is natural even if regrettable. Faked cancellations of some of the unusual markings have made their appearance, the temptation of high prices for popular varieties having been yielded to by a person, here and there, who has thrown honesty by the board. The fraudulent cancellations must have "originated in iniquity" even though they may have been handled subsequently by those who were incapable of noting their true character. The expert will not be deceived by these spurious additions and the inexperienced are not inclined to pay fancy prices for the cancellations.

Accepted—The metered-mail permits are becoming a factor in the mails and are finding their way into commoner use. From Mr. Burt B. Hyde, we have received a number of different denominations that he has taken from his correspondence; and we are of the opinion that these permits will be recognized as furnishing an interesting side-line of collecting

* * *

Addition—The newspapers have not been slow to publish pictures of the new Irish provisionals with their surcharge in Gaelic. The first specimen seen was one on an envelope sent from Dublin with its Americanized postmark dated February 17, 1922. The stamps will be in demand and should bring in a bit of money to the Irish nation. The surcharge is an interesting one and should be effective in selling the stamps to collectors. "Your pig has the best part of the cabin." "Faith, and why shouldn't he," said Pat, "when he pays the rint."

Announced—Beginning March 1, 1922, the rate of two cents will apply on letters mailed in the U. S. for Haiti, thus adding another southern neighbor to the number rejoicing under our domestic rate.

THE IRISH PROVISIONALS.

Stamp Collecting is able to publish another announcement, and that is—the Gaelic provisionals were issued yesterday (February 17th). According to our Dublin correspondents, all values of the current King George series have been overprinted with the superscription "Rialtas Sealadach na hEireann, 1922". We quote the Irish Independent:—

"Applicants for stamps for stamp collecting purposes (Mr. J. J. Walsh, P. M. G., explained to our representative), should state that fact when securing supplies. Otherwise, he said—seeing that the financial control of Irish P. O. is still in hands of England and will be until end of financial year—these moneys spent by stamp collectors would be merged in the common English fund and lost to Irish revenue.

Every postmaster in Ireland has received instructions to keep special note of amounts paid for stamp collectors. The stamps are being overprinted in Ireland.

Asked about the new Free State stamps, he said the production of these is receiving careful attention, and the time limit for sending in designs will terminate in a week. A careful investigation into the whole subject of stamp printing, production of dyes, erection of strong rooms, and above all, the production and control of watermarked paper would lead to the belief that for the first few months or possibly the first six months of the Free State, stamps will have to be produced by English firms engaged in similar work for British Government."

From our Dublin Correspondent:—

"Just a few lines about the Irish overprinted stamps which you will see by above are due next Friday (17th). Two firms of printers in Dublin are carrying out the contract, and during the week an armed guard was placed over the stamps until instructions came from Irish P. M. G., who was in London. Large bundles were removed from printers to-day (Saturday, February 11th) under armed guard, and these were all overprinted and are ready for issue.

The overprint was set by the Monotype machine (six overprints at a time until 240 in all were set) then screwed in printers' forme to make complete sheet, proofs then pulled and sent to reader for revision; afterwards, when corrected (as there was one error), the forme was sent to stereo to have plate made of complete sheet, so there is little chance of errors, inverted or double overprints."

Our Special Correspondent in Dublin, Mr. Edward Dolan, informs us that large numbers of designs for the projected Irish postage stamps have already arrived at the Secretary's Office, Dublin G. P. O., from England, Ireland, and all parts of the Continent. Few, he says, are of artistic merit.

The following is the Official Instruction for the guidance of competitors in the £25 Stamp Design Competition:—

DESIGNS FOR NEW POSTAGE STAMPS.

1. Each design should provide for a fair amount of solid printing, so that the colours stand out sufficiently to give distinctiveness between the various rates.

2. Each design should embody some fine line work of such a character that every line can be clearly printed, and thus increase the difficulty of forgery.

3. The sizes of the new stamps of the various denominations will be similar to those at present in use. Enlarged designs should be accompanied by reduced specimens showing the appearance of the design in the normal size of the stamp.

4. All designs must be submitted in black and white, line or wash.

5. The words "SAOR—STAT NA H—EIREANN" should appear in Gaelic characters, and an indication of the denominational value of the stamp should also be provided for.

6. The whole of the work should be capable of being engraved in steel.

7. Specimens of the stamps at present in use may be inspected at the Secretary's Office, General Post Office, O'Connell Street, Dublin.

8. Any design which may be accepted will become the property of the Government of the Irish Free State, and that Government will be at liberty to make use of the design with any firm of contractors who may be selected to produce the stamps.

9 Designs should be forwarded in sealed envelopes addressed to the Secretary, General Post Office, Dublin, to reach that office not later than Saturday, February 25th, 1922. The words "Stamp designs" should be written on the top left-hand corner of the envelope.—Stamp Collecting.

KEMPER-PERRY.

The Chief Inspector, P. O. Dept., Washington, D. C., desires a detailed statement of all facts concerning George Kemper and William Perry of Welch and Kimball, W. Va. Any information that may be at the disposal of dealers should be despatched immediately to Washington. Include envelopes if such is possible. Make your statement as comprehensive as possible and give this matter immediate attention.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1623 to 1626 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

COMPETITION

A customer whose collection numbers over 25,000 varieties and contains many stamps worth $25 to several hundred dollars each, and who has received stamps on approval from many other dealers, tells me the selections he receives from the Westfield Philatelic Peach Orchard contain the finest specimens that come to him.

I don't expect to undersell everybody else—or anybody else—that isn't what I'm in business for. I'm merely supplying choice singles, pairs, strips, blocks and covers to those who appreciate fine copies of desirable stamps and are willing to pay what high-grade service is worth.

Few dealers can compete with me in stamps worth from one dollar each upward. If you aren't sure of this, try my service.

UNITED STATES—SURCHARGED SHANGHAI—CHINA

The United States Government established a Post Office at Shanghai, China, some years back and used our regular stamps until 1919 at which time the current U. S. stamps were overprinted on a basis of the Chinese dollar which normally equals the Mexican which is worth about 50c in U. S. Gold. Later the exchange became such that the Chinese dollar reached such a high point that the stamps were withdrawn from sale. They are listed in Scott's new catalogue on page 32 at $12.05.

I can furnish complete sets, mint, which include the 2c, 4c, 6c, 8c, 10c, 12c, 16c, 18c, 20c, 24c, 30c, 40c, 60c, $1 and $2 at the very interesting price of $3.25

Classic N. S. W. No. 30a

SUPERB USED COPY.

In a lot of old N. S. W. just at hand from my buyer in England I received this 8 pence yellow classic. It is superb in every sense—lightly cancelled, large margins all round, one side showing part of next stamp. I have soaked it and examined it with glass and find no defect—something unusual! If placed in a high-class auction this beautiful copy of this rare stamp would very likely bring its full catalog value of $100. I will take $65 for it, feeling sure that I will make a life-long friend of the collector who is lucky enough to obtain it. Cash Order given preference. Your own check immediately returned if sold. Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—In these notes some weeks back, mention was made of several copies of the 1861 August issue being known with a five concentric circle cancellation and I then went on to state that this particular cancellation had never been seen on the September issue. Several valued correspondents have written to state that they have copies of the 3c September issue with a five concentric circle cancellation. Such a cancellation is well known and I should have qualified my first remarks by designating the marks on the August issue as a very peculiar irregular five ring cancellation. This cancellation was probably applied by the engravers or by the department to cancel the face value on copies that were let out as samples or the like.

The Kelton & Sloane Sale held during the latter part of February, seems to bear out the remarks that fine United States in fine condition are bringing good prices whereas if the stamp is described as having the slightest defect it goes at only a fraction of its catalogue quotation A copy of the Brattleboro Postmaster with a thin spot and two repairs sold for $351 while a repaired St. Louis 5c on greenish brought $47. A defective 10c sold at $43 while a fine 10c "Providence without gum was knocked down at $24.50. A fine 10c, 1847, brought $27.75, a magnificent 1851 1c type 1a lightly cancelled sold for $98 while a 15c 1867 grill went for over catalogue at $14.25. A wonderful mint 15c framed 1869 sold for nearly two and a half times catalogue at $18.25, a 30c mint at $28 and a mint 90c at $52. A very fine 15c invert sold for $430 whereas a 24c not in the best of condition changed hands at $205. A straight edged 4c Columbian error mint sold at $65, while the 1c Pan American invert mint with thin spot brought $65. An off center 4c invert "Specimen" sold at $42.

Carriers seem to be holding their own, an unpriced Baltimore green, No. 1806, selling for $126, while a New York 3c on rosy buff repaired sold at $110.

Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer informs me that he has received a letter from a valued correspondent dated February 27th, informing him that "a new surcharged issue of United States for China is just being made. Some may have gone forward already." We are obtaining official information for our readers which we hope to have for the next Chronicle.

AUSTRIA.—In addition to the stamps mentioned in our issue of Feb. 18th, Mr. Max Fruchter shows us two more values of futurist design. They are 5kr and 12½kr both in olive green shade and the former being somewhat wider in size than the other.

ANGOLA.—Bright & Son informs us that they have received new colors in the Ceres type. The value and name in each case is in black.

Perf. 14.—3c orange, 4c rose, 5c dull blue, 6c pale mauve, 7c pale blue, 15c red lilac, 30c dull green, 80c bright pink and 2 escudos purple.

Perf. 11½.—4½c drab, 12c olive, 40c blue green, 60c deep blue and 1 escudo rose red.

CANADA.—Mr. H. H. Kritzwiser calls attention to the appearance of a new color for the 10c stamp. According to advices it is now of a blue shade and while it has been received at some of the post offices it was expected to be placed on sale at the Regina office about March 1st.

CYPRUS.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us copies of the 30 paras and the 2 piastres printed on the script watermarked paper.

DANZIG. The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us a new set of stamps for this country the centre of which shows a crown with two crosses below. Just outside is a six sided frame and again a frame of the same shape outside of that. At the top is "Freie Stadt" and below "Danzig". The figures of value are in the upper left and lower right corners in the higher values and in all four corners of the lower ones. The colors and values are as follows: 75pf, plum, 80pf green, 1.25m red lilac and red, 2m red, 2.40m brown and red and 4m blue. Also a 9mk stamp of somewhat larger size the same design in an oval between two lions. The figures of value is above and words of description are at the bottom. The colors are red, orange and red lilac.

DUTCH INDIES.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise us of the appearance of the following new colors in the 1912-14 set: 2½c red, 5c green and 10c violet. Also the following provisionals: 17½c, No. 113, surcharged "12½ cent"; also the 22½c, No 115, bearing the same overprint; both of these surcharges being in red; 22½c, No. 115, overprinted "20 cent" in blue; 50c, No. 118, "32½ cent" in blue; 1g, No. 119, "60 cent" in blue; 1g, No. 119, "80 cent" in red. All overprints are in one line and three horizontal lines obliterate the former figures. The same correspondent also advises that the following new values have been added to the 1913-15 postage due set, 7½c, 12½c and 25c all in red.

DENMARK.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 25o, type of Scott's A16, in red.

GAMBIA.—We learn that the 4s and 5s Script CA (referred to on page 455) are from Plate 1.

We also learn that an entirely new issue of Postage and Revenue stamps is being printed. Two designs have been selected, the one for the pence values (the same size as the 2d Jamaica) and a larger "revenue" size for the shilling values. The stamps will bear His Majesty's portrait printed in black, while the border duty portion of the stamps will contain the badge of the Colony—i.e. Elephant and Palm Tree—and will be printed in the customary copperplate colour scheme. All the stamps will be produced by the line-engraved process. The values ordered are as follows: ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 7½d, 10d, 1s 6d, 2s, 2s 6d 3s, 4s, 5s, and 10s.—Stamp Collecting.

GERMANY.—Mr. Paulus W. Weber advises that he has received a 10 mark stamp of green color. The stamp is about 40mm high and 34mm wide, Perf. 11½. In a white circle is a seminude female figure bearing a dish of fruit in her right hand and holding a branch or flowers in her left, coat of arms is before figure. Along the bottom is a white field "Deutsches Reich" in black letters. Value in white. Mr. Weber adds that he has another 10m but of deep carmine rose. It is practically the same design as Scott's Nos. 75, 79.

Mr. Maxwell Krause sends us a set of 10 stamps or labels that bear the names of the former German colonies. In the centre of each is a view of a steamship sailing towards the German flag which is at half mast in the lower corner. There are no values on any of the stamps and Mr. Krause advises that he offers the guess that they are mourning stamps to commemorate the loss of the ten colonies.

Mr. A. H. Luck advises of a new 20m stamp which is of slate color and which he adds is of very poor workmanship. The horse in the design looks as if it had not been fed for a long time and the neck is out of proportion.

GOLD COAST.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the 6d value on script watermarked paper.

MALTA.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit for chronicle the ¼d, ½d, 2½d and 6d current issue stamps printed on script watermarked paper.

ST. HELENA.—A striking new design has been adopted for a new issue of 1d, 6d, 1s, 1s 6d, 2s 6d, 5s, 7s 6d, 10s, 15s, and £1 stamps. These will be of the large "Revenue" size and, as they are required for fiscal as well as postal purposes, they will be inscribed "Postage and Revenue." The portrait of His Majesty will be contained in an oval frame, and on each side of the vignette representations of Arum lilies and New Zealand flax will be shown. The vignette, which will be printed in doubly fugitive black in each value, consists of a ship, etc., taken from the Seal of the Colony. The border duty portion of the stamps will follow the Universal colour scheme for each value.—Stamp Collecting.

SYRIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. inform us that the 15c green, France No. 129, has been surcharged "O. M. F. Syrie 75 centiemes" in four lines in black. Also the 60c, France No. 157, has been overprinted in like manner but with a "3 piastres" value.

A. S. D. A.

The American Stamp Dealers Association is a serious organization devoted to the betterment of commercial philately.
It is above all a boon to the collector because its chief purpose is to ferret out and to wipe out Fraud and Frauds connected with stamp collecting.
It is just as anxious to discover dishonesty in its own ranks as elsewhere.
It shows favors to none.
To continue as a member of the A.S.D.A., a dealer must maintain a clean slate.
Every American collector should recognize the worth of this organization, and every creditable American Dealer Should Become Associated With It.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Canadian Philatelic Association is just getting under way and information may be obtained from W. R. Paton, Box 2384, Winnipeg, Man., Can. It is a very proper thing for Canada to have a national philatelic society.

—"In the March number of The World's Markets, published by R. G. Dun & Co., is an article by Mr. Raymond Brennan, entitled "Improved Postal Facilities". The article is so comprehensive and timely, that I could not resist calling your attention to it, as I believe every collector of stamps will want to add a copy to his library. Mr. Brennan has written the article with a view to assisting the importer and exporter of this country in understanding the numerous postal laws of foreign lands and the tables appearing as part of the make-up of the article are of unusual interest to the average collector. The price of the magazine is 25c and I presume the R. G. Dun & Co., 290 Broadway, New York City, will forward a copy on receipt of the price."—F. D. MARKEE.

—Hon. A. Piatt Andrew, Congressman from the Sixth Mass. District, is endeavoring to have a special stamp issued in connection with the 300th anniversary of the settlement of Gloucester.

—Bill Lorence sends us some pieces of the film used to illustrate the Paris Stamp Mart which is now being featured in the movies throughout the country. Now that philately has broken into the movies there is no reason why it should not obtain as secure a hold as it has upon the press of the country.

—During the month of March, the Springfield (Mass.) Junior Philatelic Society will have a stamp exhibit at the Forest Park Library. The first week will be devoted to air-mail stamps and covers, the second will exhibit U. S. postage and the third British Colonial victory issues. The last week will be given to a general exhibit of stamps and covers from all over the world.

—"I wish to call your attention to an article 'Philately, An Indoor Sport', by John Tombs (w. k. Canadian newspaper man) appearing in Oct., 1921, Journal of the Outdoor Life. In December number of same, a list of stamp papers is given, as they say they received many inquiries. Also they state that as space permits, they will be glad to give names and addresses of exchangers, etc."—SHIRLEY W. READ.

—The stamp collectors of Dallas, Texas, are going to organize a stamp club at the local Y. M. C. A. Two meetings have been held and an organization effected. Meetings will be held Thursday evenings, and any collectors of Dallas and vicinity or visitors are invited to attend.—J. E. GUEST.

—"You might be interested to know that last week while at a movie show, they showed a news reel, one of the items of which was the open air stamp mart in Paris. They also went on to show various of the German and French shops where stamps were on display. One of the most curious was a store advertising butter, cheese and eggs and as a side line, postage stamps for collections."—EDMUND S. WARD.

—Jos. S. Rich, for nineteen years associated with the Scott Stamp and Coin Co. and treasurer of that firm when he retired in 1913, was married on Jan. 26, 1922, to Miss Elizabeth Hayman, at Delmonico's, New York City. Mr. Rich, who was an active collector of U. S. telegraph stamps some years ago, and who still possesses his fine and well-known philatelic library, will be remembered by the older collectors and dealers. Congratulations!

—We have received from Percy M. Mann a postcard that is really unique. It is the regulation card bearing an advertising feature in connection with the Sesqui-Centennial Celebration to be held at Philadelphia in 1926, in commemoration of the Declaration of Independence. The card bears in large type the figures "1776-1926" while diagonally across the face is this inscription, "Philadelphia Cradle of Liberty Exposition 1926". The printing is all in green, the color of the stamp.

ALVIN GOOD, AGENT.

An advertisement elsewhere in this issue announcing the sale of a large part of the Worthington collection by Alvin Good, will be noted with interest. This great collection has had considerable newspaper publicity in recent months but matters have now been fully adjusted. Mr. Good is disposing of some very desirable stamps and many of our readers will, no doubt, be interested in seeing what can be done in meeting their wants.

BURTON PARKER FINED.

NEW HAVEN, March 4.—Burton Parker, son of the late Rev. Dr. Edwin Pond Parker, was fined $500 and costs by Judge Thomas in the federal court yesterday on charges of using the mails to defraud. Parker, who holds a position with a Hartford manufacturing concern, was arrested December 19, 1921, when he went to Farmington to get answers to his mail, was held for the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Frederic J. Corbett in Hartford. Parker was indicted yesterday and later pleaded guilty. His scheme was apparently to get possession of very valuable stamp collections and in furtherance of his plan he had some letterheads of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company of New Haven printed, bearing the name of J. D. Anderson as treasurer. The correct name of the treasurer is R. E. Anderson.

Using the letterheads, Parker wrote to various stamp collectors under the name of J. D. Anderson and directed that stamps be sent on approval to his country home, sometimes in Farmington, sometimes in Cromwell. His exposé came about through his correspondence with H. F. Colman of Washington. Mr. Colman sent one of the "J. D. Anderson" letters back to the Winchester office. While an investigation was on, another of the letters came back to the Winchester plant which had been sent by Parker to Elliott Perry at Plainfield, N. J. It was on this specific case that Parker was arrested by the postal inspectors and a deputy marshal at Farmington.—Press Clipping.

"AN UNQUENCHABLE THIRST."

In the general run of papers an article with this heading would arouse considerable curiosity. It must produce even more of a sensation when found in a stamp paper. In these days there are many thirsty people, not only in Portland and Beverly, but in other metropolitan centers of the country. The "thirst" to which we refer, however, is a perfectly proper one and Mr. J. W. Sampson, 132 Nassau St., N. Y. City, admits that he has an "unquenchable thirst" for information concerning the 7c vermillion of 1871. He especially desires to inspect odd cancellations, covers, etc., that shall help him in the completion of a serial soon to be commenced in our columns. Who of our readers will favor not only Mr. Sampson but the WEEKLY as well by complying with his request?

FOR MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

"MISH."

By EDWIN B. HILL, Ysleta, Texas.

To H. C. B.

It is fervently hoped by the scribe this friend Mish will not read this is of the WEEKLY. Mish is a gentle s but there are limits even to Mi gentleness. Perhaps he may believe is one of them. I, however, am optimistic. But to the tale.

Mish is about twenty-five, tall rugged. He is an American cow- out of Mexico,—former soldier in U A. World War. He has seen hard amongst the peons and the hidalgos, he has been the target for knives bullets in that peaceful land of man which the border newspapers so optim tically call civilized. But not M Driven out of Mexico during one of several revolts, and suffering from r of so-called patriotic bands, but ban in fact, Mish still loves the land soutl the Rio Grande, and longs to retur even as I for Arizona.

I was in the neighboring city of Paso, a month ago, gazing into the w dow of a certain art shop which abou in food for the soul. Mish saw from the opposite side of the street, came over.

"There's a pciture over here on M Avenue that you sure need to own," clared Mish, without further prelimin "Come on!"

We came, and saw, and when I for this ancient town the picture under my arm.

A little bit of colorful blue, with haze of Arizona at the foot of Su stition's cliffs; in the foreground a s aro, with a winding road and cacti greasewood. And the soul of the de in every brushstroke! May the god kind to George Perry, the artist. has made my heart of hearts glad, his sight of Arizona—the road which I have ridden many times oft—all the bits of color which m home to the homesick, are here. much had Mish done for me.

A fortnight ago, I learned that M was in hospital. His friend and fell exile, Frank, informed me that the geons said Mish was not a subject them, but for the physician. Frank d a ruin of a flivver, for which he traded what he termed a perfectly g horse. He was of the pitching, buck brand, and when he was in actio was beautiful to see the masterly of his rider. Mish also had a ho which he assured me he wouldn't a million dollars for, although his c mercial value was not to exceed proverbial thirty cents, and Mex that. Mish did not exaggerate. I l seen the horse in action.

Mish lay in bed, a scowl upon his f "They done wanted to take my clo away from me," he declared, patl cally. I saw the logic of it. I m mention, however, that Mish's clo consisted of the usual adjuncts, ph pair of spurs with rowels as larg saucers, and a pair of the most won ful shaps that were ever evolved ou steer-hide. Next to his very recalcit pony, Mish loved the spurs, and to the spurs the shaps. Before t however, he placed his friends. I luckily in the category of the last-na

Mish was lonesome. He suffered n pain, but that did not trouble him. also smoked numberless cigarettes, wh he declared, relieved his peace of m and sure disrupted the rules of the pital. For this, however, Mish c little, and the nurse was kindly dispo

"Not a thing to do but drink milk eat raw eggs. When I ain't mooin' cacklin'," declared Mish, sadly. "A say! I cain't read anything worth w here, count o' them growin' pains, everybody's so darn kind I hate to away, except now an' then".

I heard the faint honk of an auto bile horn. Mish sat up, a beatific s on his face. "That's him", he whispe Then, to my surprise, Mish eme from the bed, pulled forty feet of t from beneath the bed-clothes, hitche dexterously to the bed-post, and ceeded to drop the other end out of the window, following it swiftly two stories down. I looked out. Frank sat in this ruin of a flivver. He grinned at me. Mish was on the lawn, teetering toward the waiting car. He climbed in, and waved to me as they disappeared around the corner.

The nurse looked in, a smile on her merry Irish face.

"Gone again? It's all right. The doctor said to humor him. He thinks he must stay here and never get out until he is discharged. Poor boy! He suffers much pain, but what he needs is this reaction to make him bear it. He'll be back in twenty minutes."

The nurse and I chatted for a space. Then she slipped from the room. A minute passed, and the head of Mish came into view. His eyes scanned the room. Then he slid over the sill, crept into bed, after hiding out the riata, and announced:

"Sure feel real human now. Think I can stand it couple er three days more without bustin' out, 'cept once more this evening. This do-nothing but cackle an' moo gets into them places where my nerves ought to be."

Mish blew a cloud of smoke, and then talked of Mexico. It was a country he knew and loved. I had an inspiration, and asked of the postal affairs of the country. Mish had a hazy knowledge of this aspect of things, but of men and manners he was well informed. I showed him a few Mexican revolutionaries, which I had just picked up in South El Paso, and he became interested. I promised him a few monographs on the stamps of the troubled republic, and meantime I loaned him my Scott's, the pages of which he turned interestedly.

"These stamps I remember", said Mish, pointing to certain reproductions. "And these", pointing to others. "Especially these. It was when these were issued they tried to get me,—those revolutionaries. Mistook me for another fellow, and one of them threw a knife at me. It went two inches into the door right beside my head. I didn't stop to argue with 'em. No use. Crazy patriot with a six-shooter or a knife—maybe and a knife—is no hombre to talk sense into. So I faded, and after a few more like it I came North".

Old U. S. Postage Stamps

Fortunately I am pretty well fixed for most of the scarce ones, at present I can supply Scott's Nos. 17, 28, 29, 34, 36, 45, 46, 51, 52, 53, 54, 67 (all shades), 70, 72, 75, 95, 99, 100, 101, all the '69 issue, all the Columbian and Trans-Miss. issue and everything of lesser value from 1847 to date.

I have them all in three grades, very fine, good, ordinary; there is a big difference in price between ordinary and very fine, so state which kind you wish to see.

I still have a few of the rare 2c imperf., surface print, Die 1, at $5.00 for a pair, $10.00 for a block. Very fine in every way. Better get this when you can, only a few were saved. Address

Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co. Portland, Me. Beverly, Mass.

Mish studied the pages. Then he settled himself in bed.

"Just look over back o' the bed, there, and dig 'em out".

I complied. "Them" consisted of the most wretched example of oil painting that ever was perpetrated, a quite impossible paper flower in a pot, and the most exquisite bit of coloring on a dainty little jar that I had ever seen out of Mexico.

"Set 'em up!" ordered Mish. I did. Then he grinned delightedly, chuckled, rolled a cigarette, poisoned the air after an inhalation from which he was long in recovering, and declared:

"Horrible,—most horrible! Should a-given 'im life er six years er nacherly shot 'im! Frank did it. Thought he'd give me something to make me forget my pains".

Mish chuckled. Then he asked for the little bit of art.

"This one he got off a poor Mexican who was trying to sell his stuff to the natives. Now, that's the real thing. You find these craftsmen all over Mexico. Frank got this one for you. Me,—I draw the works of art".

Mish laughed again. And then we fell to discussing stamps and Mexico issues. Mish was an apt pupil, and before the afternoon had begun to wane he had absorbed no little knowledge of the Mexican situation from the philatelic standpoint. The catalogue interested him beyond words. We talked stamps between dips into the mysteries of issues and varieties, and finally Mish became so absorbed that he had no word for me except an occasional query.

It was well into the afternoon—evening, as we of the South call it—when the faint honk of a horn caused me to look up. Mish did not take his eyes from the pages of the catalogue. There was a louder honk. Mish moved restlessly. A few moments later and the blatant squawk roused Mish from his studies.

"About two more like that an' he'll go to jail. No use annoying patients in a hospital", declared the imperturbable Mish.

I wanted to laugh. Mish's seriousness held me, and I was content to await developments. They came. There was a prolonged squawk, a silence, and then the swift passage of the ruin.

"Just about then the police got after 'im!" declared Mish.

I rose to go.

"Tell Frank I've got no time for joy-riding", said Mish. "Tell him to come on in next time. Tell 'im I'm now studyin' philately. That sure'll get 'im. He won't know what it means. An' when he finds out, he'll know I've gone plumb out o' my head".

I said farewell, and, as I went out of the door, Mish added: "An' t' git plumb out o' my haid I ain't got far to go!"

This last objurgation, however, left me in doubt as to my own status with the imperturbable Mish.

STAMP COLLECTORS NEED NERVE.

By H. R. JANSEN.

Talk about nerve; it is certainly required by stamp collectors in trying to impress upon the uninitiated the fact that they really want "that nice precancelled 30c stamp" off that package, etc. It is remarkable the great ignorance shown by the vast majority. "What do you want with them?" or "what do you do with them?" is the howl. Little do they know of the genuine sport attached to collecting stamps.

I have a travel job which takes me to many small towns, and the cities, in the central states on the Santa Fe line. The postmasters seem to be the most ignorant of all of the fact that there are some "crazy" people who want to go thru their waste basket in the hopes of a reward philatelically. If there is one honest job of all others I do want, it is to be a postmaster in a small town. The golden opportunities thrown before the average postmaster are reflex of the casting of pearls before swine.

As to my opening sentence; one requires nerve of the iron sort to go into an accessory dealer's place, for instance, and ask if he has had any packages by U. S. mail lately and if so, would he give the inquirer the stamps? I did get up nerve enough to go to the custodian of a state capital and ask permission to "browse" around in the basement where janitor's bale waste paper, and I certainly will go again some day soon I hope, as there was some nice picking, although nothing rare discovered. But I fear the day is past when one can go into some old, old drug store, and discover the 6c, 10c, 50c, 1.00 or $5.00 Proprietary, at least out in this western country.

ASSAU STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

BRITISH HONDURAS, 1891-1902.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

I.

Queen Victoria, "Postage—Postage", 1891-98.

From 1857 and until distinctive stamps were issued by British Honduras, contemporary English stamps were used at Belize. These can only be identified by the postmark,—an ellipse on side, formed of three thick bars of unequal length, above and below A 06, which has two thinner bars at either side.

The design of the first postage stamps issued by the Colony, embodied a diademed head of Queen Victoria within a buckled garter, and comprised three values, 1d, 6d and 1s on unwatermarked paper. They were received at Belize on November 28, 1865, and issued early in the following month.

In March, 1872, a 3d stamp was added to the series, on paper watermarked with Crown and CC, and gradually, the other values appeared on this paper.

Entry into the Universal Postal Union on April 1st, 1879, necessitated a 4d stamp for foreign letters, and this addition appeared in the following July.

Crown and CA paper was used for the 4d issued in July, 1882, and in 1884, the 1d blue on this paper was added. In the course of the next three years, the 1d, 6d and 1s in changed colors, on Crown and CA paper, made their debut.

The decimal system of currency was adopted on January 1, 1888, and until stamps could be secured from London with the value expressed in cents, stocks in the Colony were overprinted locally.

Need arising for 5c, 6c and 15c stamps, this was met by surcharging stamps already overprinted with a value in decimal currency.

In July, 1891, the first five values of a permanent series of postage stamps appeared, viz., 2c, 3c, 6c, 12c and 24c, while in December of that year the 1c was added. In 1895, the foreign letter rate was reduced from 6c to 5c, and 5c and 10c stamps were issued, in the colors of the 6c and 12c, which they replaced. The series was completed in March, 1898, by the addition of the 25c.

All stamps were in the same design, and printed by the typographic process from De La Rue, 1888 type of keyplate, lettered "Postage—Postage."

In 1888 De La Rue introduced a keyplate system of stamp printing, designed primarily to meet the requirements of Colonies requiring stamps in small quantities. Three keyplates were made, the design embodying the head of Queen Victoria, facing the left—one for Postage purposes only, one for Revenue only, and a third for Postage and Revenue combined. Any Colony requiring an issue of stamps had only to purchase a set of overprint plates (embodying the name of the Colony and the tablet of value), which would fit any one or all three of the keyplates. These keyplates De La Rue furnish free of charge for all Colonies desiring to make use of them. The system is especially desirable where small quantities of stamps are required, as it obviates the expense of special dies and plates for each issue or denomination.

The design of the "Postage—Postage" keyplate, which was adopted by British Honduras, consists of a crowned head of Queen Victoria, facing the left, on a horizontally lined ground, enclosed

TESTIMONIALS

New Order enclosed. I "cleaned up" on last packet I received from you (1000 variety) already realizing more than I paid after securing 400 varieties for myself.—B. Buchanan, Liverpool, Ohio.

Well satisfied with 2000 packet. Secured 900 stamps for my collection, selling the rest to my friends. Have already cleared over $5.00.—A. Wahlberg, Oakland, Calif.

Very much pleased with 1000 packet. Order enclosed for a 2000. I was greatly surprised at the quality of the stamps in the packet.—F. C. Elmes, Berwick, Pa.

Use bonds sent as payment for 10,000 variety packet. The packet proved highly satisfactory as a basis for a general collection.—F. M. Bigelow, Chicago, Ill.

Received 1000 packet some days ago and have had a fine time looking them over. Secured 250 new stamps for my collection of 3700, traded 43 for other new varieties and replaced 100 that were better specimens than mine. I never saw any stamps in such good condition, not a poor one in the lot. Order for 2000 packet enclosed.—T. Herrick, City Treasurer, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Don't Hesitate—Your opportunity is now. Remember the packet must satisfy or we refund your money plus your postage in returning same. Could we be more convincing of these packets' sterling qualities? Try one today—acts like a good tonic.

in a circle within a square. Conventional ornamentation fills the spandrels. On either side of the square are vertical tablets containing the word POSTAGE in colored sans serif letters, on a plain ground, reading up and down, at the left and right respectively. At the top is a blank label and at the bottom a hexagonal shaped opening, for reception of the duty, or overprint plate impression, which embodies the Colony's name and tablet of value. At either side of the tablet of value is foliate ornamentation.

The plate number, which is a large uncolored figure "2" on a solid circle of color enclosed by a thin colored circle, appears four times to the sheet, above the 2nd and 5th stamps of the left and right panes, respectively, and under the corresponding stamps in the lower row. Surrounding each pane is a continuous Jubilee marginal line, which with the plate number, is a part of the keyplate, and of course printed in the color of the keyplate impression.

Plate 2 was used for all values, and in addition, the 1c was printed from plate 3, which replaced plate 2 about 1899.

For the 1c, 2c, 3c, 5c, and 6c stamps, the duty plates had the numerals in color on a plain ground, while those for the 10c, 12c, 24c and 25c had them colorless on a horizontally lined ground.

The paper on which the stamps were printed is white wove, watermarked with the device of the Royal Crown over the letters CA, these being arranged in groups of 60 subjects, to correspond with the stamps on the sheet, allowing one complete device to appear on each stamp. Each group of 60 subjects is enclosed by a single line watermarked frame. The margins of the sheets are watermarked CROWN AGENTS FOR —THE COLONIES, the first three words reading up at the left, and the others down, at the right.

The perforation is 14, by a comb machine; i.e., a machine perforating three sides of all stamps of a horizontal or vertical row at one operation.

More than one printing was made of some of the values, and the 12c and 24c especially, appear in pronounced shades.

1891-98. Queen Victoria, "Postage—Postage", watermarked Crown and CA, perf. 14.

II.

Governor Vetoes Proposed Comemorative Series, 1898.

In connection with the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the settlers' victory over the Spaniards, at St. George's Cay, on September 10, 1798, serious consideration was given to the issue of a special series of postage stamps. However, in spite of public feeling, the Governor, Sir David Wilson, refused his sanction. He considered such an issue unnecessary, overlooking the fact that commemorative stamps are a means of advertising, and messengers of information to all corners of the earth. Had this historic event been so commemorated the stamps would have conveyed to those through whose hands they passed, something more than the mere fact (evidenced by the ordinary issues) that British Honduras is a part of the great British Empire.

The Most Detailed Catalogue of United States Postage Stamps in the World is the claim we make for the STANLEY GIBBONS PRICED CATALOGUE OF FOREIGN COUNTRIES (Part 2), for 1922. This catalog will be a special edition for the United States, without illustrations of United States stamps, and will be ready about April 15.

Price $2.40 Post-free

The exceedingly interesting issues of the United States from 1847 to 1882 have been profoundly studied during the past few years by some of the most brilliant philatelists of the day and numerous articles have appeared in the philatelic press of America, but the publishers have hitherto failed to use this material.

As we think it is to the interest of all concerned, both collectors and the trade, we have made an attempt to write a list of these stamps more in accordance with their importance than any priced list that has hitherto appeared.

We have included a great number of types, retouches, plate varieties, shades, and paper varieties, and have priced the bulk of them at what we believe to be their current market value, most prices being based upon our own somewhat considerable stock.

If American collectors appreciate such a catalogue of their own stamps, we shall be glad if they will send us any corrections to this list, and also any suggestions for extending and improving it.

Other countries, such as France, Sicily, etc., etc., have been entirely re-written, the prices have been revised throughout, and hundreds of rarities are now priced for the first time.

We think collectors will find this the best and most accurate priced catalogue that has ever appeared. [34

NEW YORK STAMP SOCIETY.

The New York Stamp Society announce that arrangements have been made with the Collectors Club for the use of their club rooms at 120 West 49th St., New York, for the 1st and 3rd Thursdays of each month. The first meeting of the New Year was held on January 5th, and was attended by eighteen members and one visitor.

The newly elected officers are Pres., Dr. Lionel Hartley; Vice-Pres., Emil Faschow; Treas., Baldwin Schlesinger, Rec. Sec., Joseph Hoffman.

Activities were mapped out for the New Year and the club looks forward with renewed interest in their hobby. Three new applications for membership were posted. A committee was appointed to arrange a dinner on the occasion of the 18th Anniversary of the founding of the Society in April, 1922. Visitors always welcome.—JOSEPH HOFFMAN, Sec. W. 190 St.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

We suggest that the compound gauge is the work of two distinct machines. It is more than possible that after a time the sheets of stamps requiring perforating were so numerous that it was found to expedite matters considerably to have one workman perforate sheets one way on one machine and another to finish them on another machine. This would not only satisfactorily account for the two different gauges but also for the constancy with which the 12½ is the horizontal one and the 13½ that found vertically. Obviously if two machines were used it would be much simpler for all sheets to be run in one direction in one machine especially as there was considerable difference in the length and width of the sheets.

All four values are found perforated 12½ as well as 12½ by 13½ and Gibbons also lists a variant of the latter gauging 12½ by 13. Mr. Castle was of the opinion that these slight variations were, like the assumed varying dimensions of the stamps themselves, due only to the shrinkage of paper, and other writers have expressed the same opinion. This, however, can hardly be correct as the paper must have been quite dry when the sheets were sent to be perforated. In our opinion the 13½ perforation is not a true 13½ but would more accurately be described as 13¾ and that the method in which Gibbons used to describe it—12½ by 13, 13½—is more correct.

Finally all four values were perforated 14½, this new gauge first coming into use in September, 1865, according to Mr. Castle. This perforation was, therefore, in use but a short time, although the stamps were available for postage until July 1st, 1866, when, Mr. Moens tells us, "the reserve with those of the 1849 stamps was burnt."

Mr. Bouvez lists a number of perforations no one else seems to have heard of—evidently derived from a faulty use of that very necessary philatelic appliance known as the perforation gauge. The same writer says "Besides these different perforations, we find among the four values in use a number of errors—stamps partly lacking perforation—as a result of defective working of the machine. It is thus that we have found specimens imperforate or partially perforated, either horizontally or vertically." While such varieties are, of course, possible, we have been unable to find any corroboration of their existence.

All the perforated stamps were printed from the 300 subject plates and as there was no thought of using perforation when the plates were constructed the spaces left between the vertical and horizontal were quite inadequate, especially for the 12½ gauge. Consequently even reasonably well centered stamps are scarce and in the vast majority the perforation impinges on at least one side of the design. As several printings were made, numerous shades are found, those of the 1 centime being particularly pronounced.

As the same plates were used as for the imperforate stamps the same recut frames lines, etc., are to be found and as a good many impressions were taken from these plates from first to last, they began eventually to show decided signs of wear. This is especially the case with the 1 centime some of the late printing showing hardly any trace of the vertical lines in the shading of the portrait medallion or the finer lines of the foliate ornamentation.

In connection with this value, too, we find the most interesting and most prominent of any of the Belgian retouches, and the only one regarding which a positive assertion can be made that the plate was retouched some years after it has been first put to press. Some time during the later life of this stamp the upper left hand corner of the plate was so badly damaged that the designation of value at the bottom failed to print properly and this was crudely repaired by hand. That this retouch owes its origin entirely to an accident to this particular impression and not to wear only is proved by the fact that other equally worn impressions in the same part of the plate, but on which the value still showed clearly, were not retouched at all. This striking retouch has been claimed as a more or less recent discovery but it was known at least as early as 1867 as shown by the following extract from the Stamp Collector's Magazine for January 1st of that year.

"THE OLD 1c BELGIAN STAMP.

Each of the later-printed sheets of this stamp contains one impression—the one in the upper right hand corner—which differs from the rest. Probably the die from which that impression was printed had, through its exposed position, received some injury, or the press bore more heavily on it, whereby some of the letters in CENTIME were battered and rendered illegible. It became necessary to re-touch or re-cut the letters CENT, and the work being roughly performed they are very unshapely, and encroach on the border. The N in UN also appears to have been touched up and spoilt. The new 1c Belgian stamp was thoroughly needed, for the old dies had so deteriorated from the number of impressions taken from them, that the delicate design of the border, so conspicuous in the unperforated specimens, is almost imperceptible in the later sheets, which being, moreover, printed with very light ink presented quite a washed-out appearance."

Mr. Overy Taylor also mentioned this retouch some four years later. As the damage was to the left top corner of the plate it, of course, shows on the upper right hand stamp of the printed sheets. This retouch only exists in connection with the perforated stamps and while Gibbons' lists it only with the 12½ perforation it should certainly exist with the others if, as seems to be generally conceded, this 12½ gauge was the first one employed.

In the other values the design shows less deterioration, but, in all, it is easy to recognize the effect of several years, wear and as new plates had become imperative the government decided on the issue of an entirely new series of stamps.

Our compliments to Mr. Crowder!

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

PORTUGUAL AIR MAIL.

The French company, Transaerienne de Tourisme et Messageries, is making overtures to the Portuguese Government for valuable concessions in Portugal and the islands and also in Portuguese Africa, American Minister Thomas H. Birch states that the company proposes a mail and passenger service for Lisbon, Paris being the starting point. Transportation of Portuguese mail and the relinquishment of air material to Portugal in case of war are some of the inducements offered by the company. The regular colonial postage stamps will be overprinted in Portuguese reading COLONIES AIR MAIL.

THE "POST PAID" MAURITIUS.

By C. A. HOWES.

(Translated by Permission from Messrs. Theodore Champion's "Monthly Bulletin" and will later be reprinted in booklet form.)

Reconstructed Plate of the Two Pence "Post Paid" Mauritius of August, 1848.

We continue with the description of the characteristics which permit the identification of the twelve different stamps which constitute the plate of the Two Pence, as reproduced herewith.

The vignettes of the Two Pence appear at first sight to be less clear and not so bold as those of the One Penny, a fact due solely to the color which is a very bright and pleasing tint as seen upon fresh specimens; but the vermilion color of the One Penny surely makes a better impression upon the eye and the engraving therefore appears to be more carefully done. It is especially in the copies of the Two Pence printed during the later years, when the plate had become worn, that one comes across specimens having only a remote resemblance to the first printings; but for each of the types, fortunately, there are always remaining some letters or some indications which permit of their being identified in spite of their poor appearance.

In the following table we have given some supplementary indications to the principal distinguishing features as, for example, for the star ornaments we mention at the bottom, at the right, that is to say shifted towards the bottom or towards the right hand.

(a) ORNAMENTS (o) and CORNERS (c).

OTHER PROFITEERING SCHEME.

By HUBERT LYMAN CLARK.

we all like to run some one else's ess, I want to invite stamp dealers collectors to listen to me a minute I expose another profiteering ne.

ne weeks ago a block of four of urrent 80c Azores was offered me 2.25. I looked up the catalogue and found it to be $1.10 per stamp, .25 for the block seemed very rea- ble, didn't it? But it happened that ast had a letter from a correspond- n Portugal who said he had gotten cudos for a dollar bill I sent him. an escudo worth 9c, or let's call it r convenience, the face value of an lock is 32c. If we allow the buyer r cent. over face, for his prof- at would make 40c a fair price for lock, but suppose we allow 25 per more for "risk", it seems as tho ught to make the sale a very prof- one for the dealer. How about st of the $2.25?

it week, a dealer, whom I know sent me a block of the current Austria, at 75 cents. I sent it back alled his attention to the fact that ace value of the block is about 13 cents and I couldn't understand his He replies that dealers abroad wholesalers from whom he buys, their prices on Scott's and Yvert- r's catalogues and ignore the rate change. This seems to me extraor- y and I am sure is a condition could not persist a month in any business. I cannot see why any ican dealer, or collector either, d deliberately pay good money for s to a dealer abroad at a rate l times what the same stamps l cost at the post-office. Of course, talking of normal issues of cur- stamps. I think if both American s and collectors everywhere l refuse to be overcharged in this and would consider carefully the value in American money of the s they buy, there would be a d drop in the prices of many cur- stamps.

A LETTER FROM DR. CLARK.

(The article by Hubert Lyman Clark on used blocks has attarcted wide attention and much favorable comment. In a letter just at hand the author touches upon various topics in such an interesting manner that we venture to publish part of the letter. We have not asked permission so to do, but feel that the subjects considered are of general interest. It is a type of the letter which frequently reaches the office, and should be passed on to our circle of readers.—W. O. W.)

I am chagrined to note that in my article on U. S. blocks, under the 1869 issue, I failed to put any price on a block of the 90c. Can you put in an item to this effect:

A used block of the 90c 1869 is worth from $100 up, according to condition. One which was only mediocre brought over $200 at auction recently, while a somewhat better one was offered me at about the same time for $125. If we use "$25 for a block of the 30c" as a criterion, then we may consider $150 as a fair price for the 90c.

Permit me to wax enthusiastic over the editorial "Asks" in the WEEKLY. I agree completely with Mr. Powell on the subject of cancelled-to-order stamps and cancelled remainders (which he doesn't happen to mention). Were I a dealer, I should consider just as dishonorable to sell as a used stamp, one which I knew had never been used, as to sell for unused one which had been cleaned and regummed. Of course, we all know that it is impossible to always tell whether a given stamp has been used or not, but in the great majority of cases, the dealer knows. I wish the WEEKLY would insist on a distinction being made between used and cancelled stamps. Our best auction dealers now make the distinction in their catalogs.

You will be interested to know that while I was greatly disappointed in the number of responses to my big ad., I am amply repaid in cash. I only received about twenty letters, instead of the fifty or more that I expected. But the sales have run up to over $500 so I can't complain. Only one response has come to my "want to buy" appeal. I think that advertising "to buy" is the least satisfactory advertising there is. I have tried both in this country and England and practically no one pays any attention to such an ad. Personally I can't understand it. Were I a dealer, I should pounce on such ads and make every effort to get a permanent customer out of such an advertiser, for obviously a man who will spend money to advertise the fact that he wants to buy, must be willing to spend money for the stamps he wants. Another thing I have noticed is the lack of persistence of American dealers, as a rule, as compared with English. Bright & Son and Geo. C. Ginn & Co. never let up in sending me blocks. They may not send more than two but every month or two, and usually oftener, they send something. The Toledo Stamp Co. is the notable exception among American dealers. For twelve years now, they have kept my wants in mind and every month, or sometimes several times in a month, they send me something. Naturally it makes me feel good towards them. I estimate that about two-thirds of what I spend for blocks (and it has run to over a thousand dollars a year for several years now) goes to England. As I have said the English dealers are more persistent and their prices average distinctly lower.

Two of my latest purchases may interest you:—Great Britain, 1891, £1 Queen's head, a superb block I have sought for long, also an exquisite block of six Nova Scotia 1c No. 9a. I had Eugene Klein validate this last item before I bought it. I feared it was too good to be true. The Queen's head pound was in a London auction and as the catalog only reached me three days before the sale, I had to cable my bid. However, it worked OK and I am correspondingly elated.

NEUROPE AS AN INVESTMENT.

By HAROLD K. FREDERICK.

I recently read an article in defence of New Europe stuff, where the writer said that we had always used as a strong point in favor of "collecting" among school boys, the fact that it taught geography—and that there is more "geography" in New Europe than ever in U. S. or Br. Cols. Well, the outcome of pondering over this was a renewal of my interest in New Europe. And with the renewed interest came first a desire to know just how bad I had been hit by them—that was the cause of my giving them up.

I figured that my present collection could be replaced for about one-fourth of what I put into it and recalled especially a few purchases:—Latvija maps at 50c and 75c each. Jugo Slavia, Nos. 1-16 at $6.75 and Nos. 401-15 at $3.25; Lithunia Nos. 40-49 at $2.00; Fiume, Nos. 27-43 at $5.00 and Nos. 73-84 at $2.50. Well, I added them up—catalog in one column and cost in another. Fortunately I had kept the cost price on practically everything. Here and there I found some very good items—stuff that the Neuropean calamity howlers don't talk about: Cilicia on Turkish varieties costing about $10.00 and now cataloging about $24.00. Cilicia, first O. M. F. set and the following set purchased at about ¼ catalog. Marienwerder Nos. 24-39 complete now cat. $28.15 cost me $14.75. In fact, the plebisite issues held up almost without exception to a catalogue price of around double cost.

Bringing everything to a total I find that the whole lot of New European issues only, about 1,800 varieties, cost me just about 85% of their present Scott's valuation! And we all know that Scott is low on lots of this stuff and I believe that another year or two is going to see some surprising advances on some items.

Those of us who have laid aside their New Europe, disappointed with losses and not taking the gains into account, will do well to get out the old book and add 'em up like I did. The chances are you'll be surprised. Anyway, remember that these stamps are the most interesting historically and geographically of anything philately has ever seen. And prices are on the bottom now.

NEWS GLEANINGS

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—A. W. McIntyre informs us that the stamp club at Saskatoon, Canada, is holding regular meetings this winter. Edmonton has recently organized with a score of members to begin with. Mr. McIntyre sends a specimen of the new 1c card with stamp in orange and it bears the postmark "Remember the—National Fish Day—February 1."

—We are continually being reminded by our patrons that our office is being given as a reference in connection with philatelic operations. May we reiterate what we have often said, that under no circumstances do we ever permit the name of the WEEKLY or our firm name to be used as a reference. If anybody knows one of the proprietors well enough and has the necessary authority to use his name as a reference, well and good. But even so, write the reference.

—Bela Szekula, Lucerne, Switzerland, is another of our correspondents who advises us of the dangerous forgeries of Roumania, Scott's 351-362, made recently in Brussels. Mr. Szekula includes a set of the forgeries for our inspection.

—A. A. Leve sends us a Syracuse, N. Y., meter permit. It is No. 1, and was used by the New York Telephone Co. of that city. Permit No. 14, at hand from New York City, is being used by the American Tel. & Tel. Co.

—L. G. Davis, 91 Eastern Promenade, Portland, Me., would like to secure the WEEKLY for the dates Jan. 15, July 2 and Aug. 27, 1921. Who is the kind-hearted philatelist to respond to the appeal?

—A. E. Hardman calls our attention to correspondence that has taken place between the postmaster of Halifax and himself. He received an envelope postmarked "St. John's, Nfld. Nov. 21, 1921" while on the reverse side there were two postmarks, one under date of Nov. 23 from the same city and the other "Halifax N. S., Feb. 4, 11.30 P.M., 1922". Mr. Hardman was led to inquire concerning the discrepancy in dates as quoted above and wrote to the postmaster at Halifax, from whose letter we quote: "The airmail from St. John's, Newfoundland after making two attempts, failed to materialize, and the Newfoundland government at last forwarded all correspondence by ordinary mail".

SPRING BACK BINDER

WHAT YOU HAVE LONG WAITED FOR.

If you would like a heavy spring back binder large enough to hold the WEEKLY as it appears week by week during the entire year, place your order with us for the binder described elsewhere in this issue. The price will be $1.50, but no money should be sent with order. We will advise you as to the time and manner of remittance.

This binder has been devised by Joseph Hoffman, secretary of the New York Philatelic Society, and is a superb production.

SEVERN-WYLIE-JEWETT CO. BEVERLY, MASS.

—Cleveland has been infested with a plague of boys who have solicited approval selections and stolen stamps from local dealers. Erwin Strasser, Sta. C, Cleveland, O., sends us the particulars. He mentions the names of the boys, Blumenfeld, Blumenfield, Tannenbaum, Finnenbaum, etc., with variations as to the first names. The Cuyahoga Stamp Club also figures in correspondence. Mr. Strasser writes:—"After grilling the boys for several hours I found that they had defrauded many dealers. When I realized what they had done I took the law into my own hands and seized three collections. Please insert an item in the WEEKLY to have interested dealers write me concerning their losses, and if the stamps can be located in these albums they will be returned."

—The Penn Stamp Co., Phila., Pa., has an unsigned order from Muskegon, Michigan. Please send name and address.

—H. P. Atherton submits a specimen of a handsome sticker that has been gotten up by the Springfield Stamp Club to advertise the convention of the American Philatelic Society, August 14-17. It shows a fine view of the municipal buildings in the civic center, and is printed in four colors.

HOW "PINK BACK" STAMPS ARE FORMED.

By D. D. BEROLZHEIMER, Chemical Editor Chemical Engineering Catalog, N. Y.

I dislike very much to disagree with a fellow philatelist, who is also a fellow chemist, as to a chemical explanation of certain philatelic phenomena.

It happens, however, that when the "pink backs" first appeared, I thoroughly investigated the matter and had the cooperation of the leading dyestuff chemist in this country.

Mr. Rich's explanation of the action of "aniline oil" on paper (cellulose) is perfectly correct in all respects, but it does not apply to the "pink backs", because aniline as such, does not enter into any of the dyestuffs used for the inks for printing stamps.

While some of the ink dyestuffs are made from aniline, they are made from intermediate compounds which, in turn, may be made from aniline or from aniline derivatives.

There is no dyestuff on the market today which contains free aniline and there never was.

The action of rubber, containing traces of aniline on canvas or other fabric, while perfectly correct, is no criterion for stamp printing, because "aniline oil" is used directly in the rubber industry.

The true explanation of the "pink backs" on 2c, 3c, 12c and special delivery stamps is found in the fact that printing ink is a mixture (not a solution) of dyestuffs, oil and drier. The correct color cannot be obtained by the use of one dyestuff alone, so that it is necessary to use two or more. It often happens that one of the dyestuffs used is quite soluble in oil and therefore "strikes through" producing a "pink back". The dyestuffs used during the war for printing our stamps were German, not American, and were not aniline dyestuffs, altho they were made from coal-tar derivatives.

Incidentally, I may state that methylene blue is soluble in water and would wash out of a stamp if used in the printing ink, and is rarely, if ever, used. Artificial ultramarine, however, is used to a large extent., as are also coal-tar dyestuffs other than methylene blue.

We were able to absolutely identify the dyestuffs in the 2c, 3c and 12c stamps, all of which were alizarine or toluol derivatives, and not a single line dyestuff was found.

Mr. Rich's statement that the "back" stamps are all products o "period since the making of co colors in this country began," is s what misleading, because we have a dyestuff industry of respectable ever since 1882 or earlier.

Any trouble experienced has not been due to the inferior qualit American dyes, but to the fact tha dyestuff user has tried to economi using a cheaper substitute, often a dye meant for cotton only, to wool or silk. American dyestuff every bit as good as German pro if properly used.

35,000 Collection Being Broken Up

Having purchased a very fine, well balanced, general collection of 19th Century stamps cataloging about $35,000.00, we solicit your want list. While the collection contains eat rarities, several hundred dollars being the limit on any single stamp, it does contain thousands of medium and better grade stamps, that are only to be had when a big tion is broken up. Prices will run on our usual fair average, and are as low as such goods can be bought for anywhere. This collection, together with many other smaller and additions to our large stock, place us in a better position than ever to fill your spaces. We have 90% of everything issued in stock. Collectors passing through Hart- are invited to drop in and see us. This collection is mounted in 7 volumes and collectors who mean business can have any volume priced and sent to them, if they furnish actory proof of their reliability. LISTS—Our lists are free for the asking and offer thousands of desirable stamps.

RENCH COLONIALS

A few offers in these scarce and, in many cases, underpriced stamps. We have one of the best stocks of these stamps anywhere, but too few of most of them to advertise. Send us your want lists. These are gilt edge goods and have a future. Few dealers or collectors can make a good showing in them, and there are no large stocks to draw upon for supplies anywhere. This sign (*) means unused, all others used. Condition best we have, but one should consider that it is almost impossible to get perfectly centered French Colonials in many issues. Big discounts cannot be given on these stamps. If you think they are not good property, look up a catalog five or more years old and compare prices today. Forget the catalog and fill your spaces if you want these stamps. They'll never be cheaper.

"AN UNQUENCHABLE THIRST."

In the general run of papers an article with this heading would arouse considerable curiosity. It must produce even more of a sensation when found in a stamp paper. In these days there are many thirsty people, not only in Portland and Beverly, but in other metropolitan centers of the country. The "thirst" to which we refer, however, is a perfectly proper one and Mr. J. W. Sampson, 132 Nassau St., N. Y. City, admits that he has an "unquenchable thirst" for information concerning the 7c vermillion of 1871. He especially desires to inspect odd cancellations, covers, etc., that shall help him in the completion of a serial soon to be commenced in our columns. Who of our readers will favor not only Mr. Sampson but the WEEKLY as well by complying with his request?

EDITORIAL.

Revenues—There is a good number of varieties of the revenues of the current issue awaiting recognition and with the aid of Mr. J. N. Stromberg, we have prepared a list of the novelties. The 25c documentary has been seen with the Stock Transfer surcharge and moreover the surcharge is a variant of the plain letter overprint as it is in seriff letters. Too, the 40c comes with the new type of surcharge, Stock Transfer. The one and two dollar documentaries with this surcharge horizontally come in both types of overprinting and the dollar green with the surcharge reading downwards has the seriff letter surcharge. The 10c and 20c documentary have adopted the new style of type dress and most surprising of all, the one-cent documentary has appeared with the old Stock Transfer letters. It is evident that the current revenues will bear watching as they are making a strong bid for attention.

Reported—The following letter has come from Dr. H. B. Hinman of Everett, Washington: "I wrote you asking that you publish an article regarding bogus surcharges. I received no answer nor have I seen anything in your paper on the subject. I really think that something should be done. Recently, I received a copy of a Uruguayan surcharged stamp from a dealer who advertised the stamp by the 100. The surcharge was a fake and I returned it asking for a good one but he credited me with the stamp, showing that all he had were bad. This morning I received an exchange circuit from the secretary of a society, with about 25 fraudulent surcharges." It is not to be denied that surcharges on some of the foreign stamps have been made in this country and no experienced collector shuts his eyes to the possibility of fraud in this connection. There may be some difficulty in proving the worthlessness of a surcharge but it is assumed that the stamp dealer will have a degree of knowledge that is sufficient to protect his customers. If he slips in his estimate of the character of a surcharge, it is incumbent upon him to make good. While the "surcharge measurer" cannot be said to have become a popular accessory, yet it is supposed that at least the specialists in a country can say definitely when one of its surcharges is forged.

Relics—Mr. F. W. Reid, Denver, reports as follows: "I have a bound copy of Dr. Gray's Catalogue, third edition, 1865, in which the Canada pence issues, from ½c to 12c, complete, unused, are offered for one pound and ten shillings. Bomba heads in sets were priced a shade over face. Also, I have the second edition, 1863, and the seventh, 1867, of Lallier's Album. The 'Post Office' Mauritius were quite unknown to the authors of these works in which the U. S., 1847, 5c and 10c are given as Nos. 18 and 19, following the 2c 'black jack.' The 90c of 1857 and of 1861, respectively, are listed as with 'Portrait of Jackson.' There are separate listings of New South Wales and 'Sydney', 'Victoria' and 'Melbourne Town,' etc. If you would care to see these items, I'll be glad to send them on but they are not for sale." We thank Mr. Reid for his offer to show us the old publications but as we have the first and fourth editions of Gray's catalogue and examples of early albums as well, including the justly-famous Lallier, we shall not inconvenience him. In looking over the first edition of the Gray catalogue which has the imprimatur, "London, Robert Hardwicke, 192 Piccadilly, 1862," we find the anachronism under the list of works and articles that have been printed up to that time on the subject of stamp collecting, of two Leipsig publications, one an album and the other a hand-book, assigned to the year 1863. However, Gray's catalogue was published in December, 1862, and it is inferred that the two German productions appeared late in 1862, with the year date, 1863. Dr. Gray's "introduction" to his work is something in the nature of a classic and in it, he pleads a justification of the "fashion" of collecting postage stamps by citing the advantages to be derived from the systematic arrangement of the issues of all countries. In re-reading this preface, we are struck with the following paragraph which shows that the parasite of fraud attached itself to the flowering plant of philately almost as soon as it took root: "The desire which some persons have to show stamps that are not in other collections has induced the dealers to produce pretended stamps, which have no real existence; as, for example, a French stamp with the portrait of the Republic inscribed, Essai, 1858, which is after the Empire was established; or Turkish stamps, inscribed 6 Truze and 3 Mara, the Turkish Government not having as yet issued any stamps. Some collectors show Chinese stamps which are only the impression of the seal of the mandarin who sent the letter. In the same manner, and for the same purpose, the colours of some stamps are artificially changed by soaking in water or some chemical fluid, or the stamps are covered over with a wash of colour, or the paper on which they are printed is stained." Certain forgeries are mentioned as having been lithographed, "while the originals are block-printed."

Remote—As we have said on occasions, previously, the first catalogue of stamps ever published was Alfred Potiquet's Catalogue des Timbres-poste, which appeared Dec. 21, 1861, Lacroix and Laplante, publishers. It is needless to say that copies of this work are extremely rare and the history of each copy available today is rather well known. We are given the satisfaction of having a Potiquet catalogue in this country, where it reposes with other pieces of pioneer days in the philatelic library of Mr. Howland Speakman. There are forty-four pages in this list which we regard with no little feeling of reverence as the daddy of a brood unbelievably large, sixty years afterwards.
